- (2) Listings of individuals used in the identification of particular offenders in cases where the FBI has jurisdiction. These listings include various photograph albums and background data concerning persons who have been formerly charged with a particular crime and who may be suspect in similar criminal activities; and photographs of individuals who are unknown but suspected of involvement in a particular criminal activity, for example, bank surveillance photographs;
- (3) Listings of individuals as part of an overall criminal intelligence effort by the FBI. This would include photograph albums, lists of individuals known to be involved in criminal activity, including theft from interstate shipment, interstate transportation of stolen property, and individuals in the upper echelon of organized crime;
- (4) Listings of individuals in connection with the FBI's mandate to carry out Presidential directives on January 8, 1943, July 24, 1950, December 15, 1953, and February 18, 1976, which designated the FBI to carry out investigative work in matters relating to espionage, sabotage, and foreign counterintelligence. These listings may include photograph albums and other listings containing biographic data regarding individuals. This would include lists of identified and suspected foreign intelligence agents and informants;

(5) Special indices duplicative of the central indices used to access the Central Records System have been created from time to time in conjunction with the administration and investigation of major cases. This duplication and segregation facilitates access to documents prepared in connection with major cases.

Some of the information contained in the main files has also been extracted and placed on computer to enable various divisions to retrieve information more rapidly by avoiding the need for a manual search for information maintained in the main files. For example, since investigation of major frauds requires the Agent to collect and organize massive volumes of evidence and other investigative information, the FBI is using computers to do this in a more accurate and expeditious manner. Additionally, Agents occasionally seize evidence in computerized form and FBI computers are used to organize and sort the information in preparation for trial. Also, personnel type information dealing with such matters as attendance and production and accuracy requirements is maintained by some divisions.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Federal Records Act of 1950, The Constitution of the United States, various provisions of U.S. Code, Executive Orders and Presidential directives.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The records contained in this system are utilized by the FBI in support of its mission to conduct investigations within its jurisdiction and for various administrative purposes. Information from these files is disseminated to appropriate Federal, state, local, and foreign agencies where the right and need to have access to this information exists -- For example, to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency. Information is also disseminated to these agencies and to individuals and organizations, where such dissemination is necessary to elicit information from such agencies and individuals. Information from this system is also disseminated during appropriate legal proceedings. For example, witness interviews are made available to defendants pursuant to the Jencks Act during Federal criminal trials. In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its functions indicated a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto. A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a 'routine use' to a Federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license grant or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter. For example, in discharging its obligations under Executive Order 10450, this agency would disseminate record information as a direct result of a name check request submitted by another government agency. A record relating to an actual or potential civil or criminal violation of title 17, United States Code, may be disseminated to a person injured by such violation to assist him/her in the institution or maintenance of a suit brought under such title. Background and descriptive information on Federal fugitives is disseminated to the general public and the news media in an effort to bring about the apprehension of these wanted individuals. News releases are also disseminated to the public and the news media concerning apprehensions of FBI fugitives and other notable accomplishments. Additionally, public source information is distributed on a continuing basis, upon request, to the general public.

and representatives of the media. Upon specific approval of the Director, information may be disseminated from this system to individuals in the private sector in extenuating circumstances in order to protect life or property. Information which relates to foreign counter-intelligence matters may be disseminated to individuals in the private sector with the specific authority of the Attorney General where he deems it necessary in order for the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) to fulfill its statutory responsibilities to investigate espionage in the United States. The FBI has received inquiries from private citizens and Congressional offices in behalf of constituents seeking assistance in locating such individuals as missing children or heirs to estates. Where the need is acute and where it appears FBI files may be the only lead in locating the individual, consideration will be given to furnishing relevant information to the inquiring individual. Information will be provided only in those instances where it can be determined from the information at hand that the individual being sought would want the information to be furnished, e.g. an heir to a large estate. Information with regard to missing children will not be provided where they have reached their majority. The decision to make any dissemination under these circumstances can be made only by the Director, and this authority cannot be delegated.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Files are maintained in hardcopy form, computer tape, and microfilm.

Retrievability: The FBI General Index must be searched to determine what information, if any, the FBI may have in its files. The index cards are on all manner of subject matters, but primarily a name index of individuals. It should be noted the FBI does not index all individuals that furnish information or names developed in an investigation. Only that information that is considered pertinent and relevant and essential for future retrieval, is indexed. In certain major cases most persons contacted are indexed in order to facilitate the proper administrative handling of a large volume of material. The FBI is in the process of automating its 'Central Records System' and, therefore, the retrieval of certain data will be accomplished by utilizing certain computer peripheral equipment such as CRT (Cathode Ray Tube) video screens, and printers. This will basically involve certain personnel information, general index information, and the abstracting system. Automation in no way changes the 'Central Records System'; it only facilitates access more effectively and efficiently.

Safeguards: Records are maintained in a restricted area and are accessed only by FBI employees. All FBI employees receive a complete background investigation prior to being hired. All employees are cautioned about divulging confidential information or any information contained in FBI files. Failure to abide by this provision violates Department of Justice regulations and may violate certain statutes providing maximum severe penalties of a 10,000 dollar fine or 10 years' imprisonment or both. Employees that resign or retire are also cautioned about divulging information acquired in the job.

Retention and disposal: The Bureau, by its investigative mandate, collects and maintains information from a wide variety of sources. The records support the Bureau's investigative and administrative needs and its obligation to act as a clearinghouse under Executive Order 10450 regarding the security of Government employees. An active destruction program includes microfilming of certain files over 10 years old and researching files to determine whether they contain sufficient historical, research, investigative, or intelligence value to warrant their retention. The Code of Federal Regulations, Title 41, and Title 44 of the U.S. Code set forth Records Management procedures to be followed by government agencies in relation to their records. All agencies are required to retain any material made or received during the course of public business which has been preserved or is appropriate for preservation. Accordingly, disposition of record material must be in accordance with established regulations. Subsequent destruction is accomplished through authority granted by National Archives and Records Service, GSA, utilizing either the General Records Schedules or a specific request for record destruction which is approved by the Archivist. Records are also destroyed or returned to source as a result of Court Order. Subsequent to 1/27/75, a Congressional moratorium on all destruction, and a later decision rendered on further retention of security and intelligence material, has substantially reduced the tangible effects of the destruction program.

System manager(s) and address: Director; Federal Bureau of Investigation; Washington, D.C. 20535.

Notification procedure: Same as above.

Record access procedures: A request for access to a record from the system shall be made in writing with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request'. Include in the request your full name, complete address, date of birth, place of birth, notarized signature, and other identifying data you may wish to furnish to assist in making a proper search of our records. Also include the general subject matter of the document or its file number. The requester will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D.C. 20535.

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should also direct their request to the Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D.C. 20535, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: The FBI, by the very nature and requirement to investigate violations of law within its investigative jurisdiction and its responsibility for the internal security of the United States, collects information from a wide variety of sources. Basically it is the result of investigative efforts and information furnished by other Government agencies, law enforcement agencies, and the general public, informants, witnesses, and public source material.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G) and (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (m) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

System name: Electronic Surveillance (Elsur) Indices.

System location: Federal Bureau of Investigation; J. Edgar Hoover Bldg.; 10th and Pennsylvania Ave., N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20535.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals who have been the targets of direct electronic surveillance coverage by the FBI, who have participated in conversations monitored by an FBI electronic installation, or who have owned, leased, or licensed premises on which the FBI has conducted an electronic surveillance.

Categories of records in the system: The Elsur Indices are maintained on 3' x 5' cards, which set forth the name of each person monitored or the proprietor of premises on which an electronic surveillance was conducted by the FBI since January 1, 1960, a source number to identify the electronic surveillance, the date the conversation occurred, the location of the field office which conducted the monitoring, and the address and/or telephone number where the electronic surveillance occurred.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The Elsur Indices were initiated in October, 1966, at the instructions of the Department of Justice, which also established the cutoff date of January 1, 1960. The authority for the maintenance of these records is Title 5, Section 301, USC, which grants the Attorney General the authority to issue rules and regulations prescribing how Department of Justice information can be employed Title 18, USC, Section 2519, also sets forth recordkeeping requirements.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The Elsur Indices are utilized: (1) To respond to judicial inquiries about possible electronic surveillance coverage of witnesses, defendants, or attorneys involved in Federal court proceedings, and (2) To enable the Government to certify whether a person regarding whom court-order authority is being sought for electronic coverage has ever been so covered in the past. The actual users of the indices are always Agents of the FBI.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records are maintained manually on 3' x 5' cards.

Retrievability: They are indexed alphabetically under the two general categories of 'Criminal' and 'Security.'

Safeguards: They are maintained in a guarded room at all times, with a special locking system for off-duty hours when they are not in use.

Retention and disposal: Until advised to the contrary by the Department, the courts, or Congress, these indices will be maintained indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D.C. 20535.

Notification procedure: Same as the above.

Record source categories: See Category of Individual.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G), (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (m) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j). System name: FBI Automated Payroll System

System location: Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Edgar Hoover Bldg., 10th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20535.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: A) Current employees of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI); B) Resigned employees of the FBI are retained in the automated file for the current year for the purposes of clearing all pay actions and providing for any retroactive actions that might be legislated.

Categories of records in the system: System contains full record for each employee reflecting all elements relative to payroll status, plus accounting records and authorization records through which payrolls are issued and by which payrolls are audited. For example, this system contains the employees' Social Security Number, time and attendance data, and place of assignment.

Authority for maintenance of the system: System is established and maintained in accordance with Federal pay requirements, and all legislative enactments, Civil Service Commission regulations, General Accounting Office rulings and decisions, Treasury Department requirements, and Office of Management and Budget regulations relative thereto. Title 5, U.S. Code, Section 301 and Title 44, U.S. Code, Section 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Biweekly issuance of payroll and related matters. Quarterly issuance of State Tax Report and Federal Insurance Contributions Act Report. Resign and End-of-Year Federal Tax Records (W-2's). Bi-weekly, quarterly, fiscal and annual Budget and Accounting Reports. Appropriate information is made available to the Internal Revenue Service and state and city tax bureaus.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information maintained in the system is stored electronically on magnetic tapes and disks for use in a computer environment.

Retrievability: Information is retrieved by Social Security Number. (The authority to solicit an employee's Social Security Number is based on Title 26, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 31.6011(b)-2(b).)

Safeguards: Information contained in the system is relative to the individual employee's payroll status and is considered confidential to that employee and to official business conducted for that employee's pay and accounting purposes. It is safeguarded and protected in accordance with the FBI's Computer Center's regulations that permit access and use by only authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal: Master Payroll and Accounting Records stored electronically are retained for a period of three years, as are Federal Tax files. Auxiliary files pertinent to main payroll functions are retained for periods varying from three pay periods to three years, depending on support files needed for any retroactive or audit purposes. Hard copy records are retained in accordance with instructions contained in General Records Schedule 2, GSA Reg. 3, and GSA Bulletin FPMR B-47 Archives and Records.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Ninth and Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20535.

Notification procedure: Same as the above.

Record access procedures: A request of access to information may be made by an employee through his supervisor or by a former employee by writing to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, 9th and Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20535, Attention Payroll Office.

Contesting record procedures: Contest of any information should be set out in detail and a check of all supportive records will be made to determine the factual data in existence, which is predetermined by source documents and accounting procedures governing pay matters.

Record source categories: Source of information is derived from personnel actions, employee authorizations, and time records which are issued and recorded in accordance with regulations governing Federal pay.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

System name: Personnel Information Network System (PINS).

System location: Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Edgar Hoover Building, 10th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20535.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Federal Bureau of Investigation employees and former employees.

Categories of records in the system: The system contains personnel information which includes information set forth on (1) FBI form 3-634 in lieu of Standard Form 50 - Notification of Personnel Action, (2) SF 176-T-Federal Employee Group Life Insurance Plan, (3) FBI form 12-60 in lieu of SF 1126 - Notification of Pay Change, (4) SF 2801 and CSC 1084 - Application for and additional information in support of retirement, respectively, (5) SF 2809 - Federal Employee Health Benefit Plan and (6) various intra-agency forms and memoranda.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The system is established and maintained pursuant to regulations set forth in the Federal Personnel Manual, Title 5, U.S. Code, Section 301 and Title 44, U.S. Code, Section 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The PINS is used (1) to prepare the Notification of Personnel Action, copies of which are furnished to the Civil Service Commission (2) to locate and charge out personnel files for official use, (3) to generate lists of employees which are used internally by authorized personnel for record keeping, planning, and decision making purposes, and (4) as a source for the dissemination of information (A) to federal, state and local agencies and to private organizations pursuant to service record inquiries and (B) pursuant to credit inquiries (In response to proper credit inquiries from credit bureaus and financial institutions, the FBI will verify employment and furnish salary and length of service).

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information maintained in PINS is stored by disc and magnetic tape.

Retrievability: Information is retrieved (1) on-line through Cathode Ray Tubes by keying the name or Social Security Number of the employee and (2) off-line by tape reading. (It is noted the authority to solicit an employee's Social Security Number is based on Title 26, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 31.6011(b)-2(b).)

Safeguards: Areas housing the system and access terminals are located in secure buildings available to authorized FBI personnel and escorted maintenance and repair personnel only. Access terminals are operational only during normal daytime working hours at which time they are constantly attended.

Retention and disposal: Electronically stored records for employees and former employees are maintained indefinitely in a vault under the control of a vault supervisor. Pursuant to regulations set forth in the Federal Personnel Manual a copy of the Notification of Personnel Action is made a part of the employees' personnel file.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, John Edgar Hoover Building, 10th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20535.

Notification procedure: Same as the above.

Record access procedures: A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request'. Include in the request the name and return address of the requestor. Access requests will be directed to the Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the Director, FBI stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: Sources of information contained in this system are present and former FBI employees and employee personnel files.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

System location: Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Edgar Hoover Bldg., 10th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20535.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

A. Individuals fingerprinted as a result of arrest or incarceration by Federal, state or local law enforcement agencies.

B. Persons fingerprinted as a result of federal employment applications, military service, alien registration and naturalization purposes and individuals desiring to have their fingerprints placed on record with the FBI for personal identification purposes.

Categories of records in the system:

A. Criminal fingerprint cards and related criminal justice information submitted by authorized agencies having criminal justice responsibilities.

B. Civil fingerprint cards submitted by Federal agencies and civil fingerprint cards submitted by persons desiring to have their fingerprints placed on record for personal identification purposes.

C. Identification records sometimes referred to as 'rap sheets' which are compilations of criminal history information pertaining to individuals who have criminal fingerprint cards maintained in the system.

D. An alphabetical name index pertaining to each individual whose fingerprints are maintained in the system. The criminal records and the civil records are maintained in separate files and each file has an alphabetical name index related to the data contained therein.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The system is established, maintained and used under authority granted by 28 U.S.C. 534 and P.L. 92-544 (86 Stat. 1115). The authority is also codified in 28 C.F.R. 0.85(b), and (j).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The FBI operates the Identification Division Records System to perform identification and criminal history record information functions for federal, state, and local criminal justice agencies, and for noncriminal justice agencies, and other entities where authorized by Federal statute, state statute pursuant to Public Law 92-544 (86 Stat. 1115), Presidential executive order, or regulation of the Attorney General of the United States. In addition, identification assistance is provided in disasters and for other humanitarian purposes. Dissemination is also conducted in accordance with Public Law 94-29, known as the Securities Acts Amendments of 1975.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service. A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information in the system is stored manually in file cabinets either in its natural state or on microfilm. In addition, some of the information is stored electronically in converting the manual system to an automated system.

Retrievability: (1) All information in the system is retrievable by technical fingerprint classification index and positive identification is effected only by comparison of the unique characteristics obtained from fingerprint impressions submitted for search against the fingerprint cards maintained within the system.

(2) An auxiliary means of retrieval is through the alphabetical name indexes which contain names of the individuals, their birth data, other physical descriptors and the individuals' technical fingerprint classifications and FBI numbers, if such have been assigned.

(3) The name of an individual and his FBI number may assist in retrieval of information about that individual from within the system. Since July, 1971, all individuals whose fingerprints have been placed in the criminal file have been assigned unique FBI numbers. Prior to July, 1971, all individuals who had two or more fingerprint cards in the criminal file were assigned FBI numbers.

Safeguards: Information in the system is unclassified. Disclosure of information from within the system is made only to authorized recipients upon authentication and verification of the right to access the system by such persons and agencies. The physical security and maintenance of information within the system is provided by FBI rules, regulations and procedures.

Retention and disposal:

(1) The Archivist of the United States has approved the destruction of records maintained in the criminal file when the records indicate individuals have reached 80 years of age and the destruction of records maintained in the civil file when the records indicate individuals have reached 75 years of age.

(2) Fingerprint cards and related arrest data in the system are destroyed seven years following notification of the death of an individual whose record is maintained within the system.

(3) Fingerprint cards submitted by state and local criminal justice agencies are returned upon requests of the submitting agencies. The return of a fingerprint card under this procedure results in the deletion from the system of all arrest information related to that fingerprint card.

(4) Fingerprint cards and related arrest data are removed from the Identification Division Records System upon receipt of Federal court orders for expunctions when accompanied by necessary identifying information. Recognizing lack of jurisdiction of local and state courts over an entity of the Federal Government, the Identification Division Records System, as a matter of comity, returns fingerprint cards and related arrest data to local and state criminal justice agencies upon receipt of orders of expunction directed to such agencies by local and state courts when accompanied by necessary identifying information.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, 10th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20535.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to the System Manager. The Attorney General has exempted the Identification Division Records System from compliance with subsection (d) of the Act.

Record access procedures: The Attorney General has exempted the Identification Division Records System from compliance with subsection (d) of the Act. However, pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 16.30-34, and Rules and Regulations promulgated by the Department of Justice on May 20, 1975 at 40 Fed. Reg. 22114 (Section 20.34) for Criminal Justice Information Systems, an individual is permitted access to his identification record maintained in the Identification Division Records System and procedures are furnished for correcting or challenging alleged deficiencies appearing therein.

Record source categories: See Categories of Individuals.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G), (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (m) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

JUSTICE/FBI - 010

System name: Employee Travel Vouchers and Individual Earning Records.

System location: Federal Bureau of Investigation; J. Edgar Hoover Bldg. 10th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20535. Records pending audit are located at Federal Records Centers.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Former and current employees of the FBI.

Categories of records in the system: Payroll, travel and retirement records of current and former employees of the FBI.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The head of each executive agency, or his delegate, is responsible for establishing and maintaining an adequate payroll system, covering pay, leave and allowances, as a part of the system of accounting and internal control of the Budget and Accounting Procedures Act of 1950, as amended, 31 U.S.C. 66, 66a and 200(a).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: These records are used by Departmental personnel to prepare and document payment to employees of the FBI and to carry out financial matters related to the payroll or accounting functions.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Manual on paper files.

Retrievability: The records can be retrieved by name; and either social security account number or employee identification number.

Safeguards: Accessed by Bureau employees at FBI Headquarters and by Field Office employees at Records Centers. Transmittal document contains Bureau statement concerning security, i.e., who may access or view records. Records are maintained in rooms under the control of employees during working hours and maintained in locked file cabinets in locked rooms at other times. Security guards further restrict access to the building to authorized personnel only.

Retention and disposal: Employee travel vouchers - retained indefinitely. Individual earning records - retained 56 years after date of last entry.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, 9th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20535.

Notification procedure: Written inquiries, including name, date of birth, and social security number, to determine whether this system contains records about an individual may be addressed to Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, 9th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20535.

Record access procedures:

Contesting record procedures: Written inquiries, including name, date of birth and social security number, requesting access or contesting the accuracy of records may be addressed to: Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, 9th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20535.

Record source categories: Travel vouchers turned in by individual employees for official business. Pay records - time and attendance records, pay determined by the agency.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

System name: Employee Health Records.

System location: Federal Bureau of Investigation, Finance and Personnel Division, Health Service, J. Edgar Hoover Bldg., 10th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20535 and the

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Current and former employees of the FBI.

Categories of records in the system: Records of visits to health facilities relating to sickness, injuries or accidents.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The head of each agency is responsible, under 5 U.S.C. 7902, for keeping a record of injuries and accidents to its employees and for reducing accidents and health risks. These records are maintained under the general authority of 5 U.S.C. 301 so that the FBI can be kept aware of the health related matters of its employees and more expeditiously identify them.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: These records are maintained by the FBI to identify matters relating to the health of its present and former employees. Information is available to employees of the FBI whose job function relates to identifying and resolving health matters of former and current personnel of the FBI.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Filing of 3 x 5 index record cards.

Retrievability: These index cards are retrievable by the name of an individual.

Safeguards: These records are maintained by FBI personnel during working hours and in locked file cabinets during non-working hours. Security guards further restrict access to the building to authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal: These 3 x 5 index cards are maintained for the duration of an employee's service with the FBI.

JUSTICE/TAX - 001

System location: U.S. Department of Justice; Tax Division; 10th and Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons referred to in potential or actual criminal tax cases and related matters of concern to the Tax Division under the Internal Revenue laws.

Categories of records in the system: The system consists of an alphabetical index by individual name of all criminal tax cases, and related matters assigned, referred, or of interest to the Tax Division. Records in many instances are duplicated in the criminal section of the Division which has specific jurisdiction over criminal tax cases.

Authority for maintenance of the system: This system is established and maintained pursuant to 28 C.F.R., 0.70 and 0.71.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

A. Classification cards are maintained on each Tax Division criminal case to identify and assign mail to the proper office within the Division; to relate incoming material to an existing case; to establish a file number for a new case upon receipt; and to provide a central index of cases within the Division.

B. Docket cards are records pertaining to the flow of legal work in the Division. They are maintained on each criminal case which is being or was handled by the Division's sections.

C. Case files maintained allow Division attorneys immediate access to information which is essential in carrying out their responsibilities concerning all criminal tax cases.

D. A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use as follows: (1) In any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign agency charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law; (2) In the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual, or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial, or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant; (3) A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to the appropriate Federal, state, local, or foreign court or grand jury in accordance with applicable constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice; (4) A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a Federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing; (5) A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings; (6) A record relating to a case or matter that has been referred to the Tax Division may be disseminated to the referring agency to notify such agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made; (7) A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement; (8) A record may be disseminated to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information contained in this system is stored manually on index cards and in folders.

Retrievability: Information is retrieved manually by the name of the individual from the index card which in turn indicates the case number, and the section unit or attorney assigned to work on the material.

Safeguards: Information contained in this system is safeguarded and protected in accordance with applicable Departmental rules and procedures governing access, production and disclosure of any materials contained in its official files.

Retention and disposal: Currently there are no provisions for the disposal of the cards in this system, however, the records of the closed classes are forwarded to the Federal Record Center, where they are destroyed after 25 years.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Attorney General; Tax Division; U.S. Department of Justice; 10th Street and Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20530.

Notification procedure: An inquiry concerning this system should be directed to the System Manager listed above.

Record access procedures: To the extent that this system of records is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access and contest. A determination as to the applicability of an exemption as to a specific record shall be made at the time a request for access is received. A request for access to a record contained in this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked "Privacy Access Request". Include in the request the name of the individual involved, his birth date and place, or any other identifying number which may be of assistance in locating the record, the name of the case or matter involved, if known, the name of the judicial district involved, if known, and any other information which may be of assistance in locating the record. The requestor will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the System Manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: Internal Revenue Service, Department offices and employees, and other Federal, state, local, and foreign law enforcement and non-law enforcement agencies, private persons, witnesses, and informants.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has proposed exemption of this system from subsection (c)(3), (c)(4), (d)(1), (d)(2), (d)(3), (d)(4), (e)(1), (e)(2), (e)(3), (e)(4)(G), (e)(4)(H), (e)(4)(I), (e)(5), (e)(8), (f) and (g) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

JUSTICE/TAX - 002

System name: Tax Division Central Classification Cards, Index Docket Cards, and Associated Records - Civil Tax Cases.

System location: U.S. Department of Justice, Tax Division, 10th and Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons referred to in potential or actual civil tax cases and related matters of concern to the Tax Division under the Internal Revenue laws.

Categories of records in the system: The system consists of an alphabetical index by individual name of all civil tax cases, and related matters assigned, referred or of interest to the Tax Division. Records in many instances are duplicated in the various Civil Tax Sections of the Division which have specific jurisdiction over civil tax cases.

Authority for maintenance of the system: This system is established and maintained pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 0.70 and 0.71.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

- A. Classification cards are maintained on each Tax Division civil case in order to identify and assign mail to the proper office within the Division; to relate incoming material to an existing case; to establish a file number for a new case upon receipt; and to provide a central index of civil tax cases within the Division.
- B. Docket cards are records pertaining to the flow of legal work in the Division. They are maintained on each civil tax case which is being or was handled by the Division's Sections.
- C. Case files maintained allow Division attorneys immediate access to information which is essential in carrying out their responsibilities concerning all civil tax cases.
- D. A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use as follows: (1) In any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate Federal, state, local, or foreign agency charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violations or charged with enforcing or implementing such law; (2) In the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual, or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant; (3) A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to the appropriate Federal, state, local, or foreign court or grand jury in accordance with applicable constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice; (4) A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a Federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing; (5) A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings; (6) A record relating to a case or matter that has been referred to the Tax Division may be disseminated to the referring agency to notify such agency of the status of the case or matter of any decision or determination that has been made; (7) A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement; (8) A record may be disseminated to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service. A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Authority for maintenance of the system: These systems are established and maintained pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 301 and 44 U.S.C. 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows:

(a) in any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law or legal obligation, criminal, civil, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign agency charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law or civil remedy;

(b) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, criminal, civil, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual, or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant;

(c) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated in an appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign court or grand jury proceeding in accordance with established constitutional, substantive or procedural law or practice;

(d) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing;

(e) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings;

(f) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred by an agency for investigation, prosecution, or enforcement, or that involves a case or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the case or matter;

(g) a record relating to a person held in custody pending or during arraignment, trial, sentence, or extradition proceedings, or after conviction or after extradition proceedings, may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign prison, probation, parole, or pardon authority, or to any other agency or individual concerned with the maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person;

(h) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement;

(i) a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, foreign, or international law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency;

(j) a record may be disseminated to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter;

(k) a record may be disseminated to the public, news media, trade associations, or organized groups, when the purpose of the dissemination is educational or informational, such as descriptions of crime trends or distinctive or unique modus operandi, provided that the record does not contain any information identifiable to a specific individual other than such modus operandi;

(l) a record may be disseminated to a foreign country, through the United States Department of State or directly to the representative of such country, to the extent necessary to assist such country in apprehending and/or returning a fugitive to a jurisdiction which seeks his return;

(m) a record that contains classified national security information and material may be disseminated to persons who are engaged in historical research projects, or who have previously occupied policy making provisions to which they were appointed by the President, in accordance with the provisions codified in 28 C.F.R. 17.60.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: All information, except that specified in this paragraph, is recorded on basic paper/cardboard material, and stored within manila file folders, within metal file cabinets, electric file/card retrievers or safes. Some material is recorded and stored on magnetic tape, card or other data processing type storage matter for reproduction later into conventional formats.

Retrievability: Information is retrieved primarily by name of person, case number, complaint number or court docket number. Information within this system of records may be accessed by various U.S. Attorneys' offices by means of catho-ray tube terminals (CRT's).

Safeguards: Information in the system is stored in file cabinets in the United States Attorney's offices. Some materials are located in locked file drawers and safes, and others in unlocked file drawers. Offices are locked during non-working hours and are secured by either Federal Protective Service, United States Postal Service, or private building guards. Information that is retrievable by CRT's within various U.S. Attorneys' offices requires user identification numbers which are issued to authorized employees of the Department of Justice.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained and disposed of in accordance with Department of Justice retention plans.

System manager(s) and address: System manager for the system in each office is the Administrative Officer/Assistant, for the U.S. Attorney for each district. (See attached Appendix).

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to the System Manager for the judicial district in which the case or matter is pending (See attached Appendix).

Record access procedures: A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request.' Include in the request the name of the individual involved, his birth date and place, or any other identifying number or information which may be of assistance in locating the record and the name of the case or matter involved, if known. The requester will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the System Manager (See attached Appendix).

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager (See attached Appendix) stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: Sources of information contained in this system include, but are not limited to investigative reports of federal, state and local law enforcement agencies; client agencies of the Department of Justice, other non-Department of Justice investigative agencies; forensic reports; statements of witnesses and parties; data, memoranda and reports from the Court and agencies

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The material is stored within manila file folders, within metal file cabinets.

Retrievability: The system is indexed by name, arranged alphabetically.

Safeguards: The correspondence is maintained in a room which is occupied by office personnel during the day and locked at night.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained and disposed of in accordance with Department retention plans.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Executive Office of United States Attorneys; U.S. Department of Justice; 10th & Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20530.

Notification procedure: Same as the above.

Record access procedures: A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request.' Include in the request the name and address as included in the original letter, together with the current address if different, the date of the letter and to whom it was addressed. Requests should be directed to the System Manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures: Any requests for correction should also be directed to the System Manager and should indicate the exact correction required.

Record source categories: Sources of information in this system are the actual letter received, the response and any transmitted information and enclosures.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None

JUSTICE/USA - 003

System name: Citizen Complaint Files.

System location: U.S. Attorney's Office; 3rd & Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20001.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: The individuals on whom records are maintained in this system may be broadly classified in four categories: 1) Those individuals who have been charged with Federal and D.C. Code violations; 2) those individuals who are currently under investigation for violations of Federal and D.C. Code; 3) those individuals about whom complaints have been made on upon whom investigations were conducted, but no prosecution was initiated; and 4) complainants.

Categories of records in the system: A file may consist of a single sheet of paper describing briefly the nature of a complaint and its disposition or it may consist of a more comprehensive file containing the results of a hearing, depending on the complexity or seriousness of the complaint. If the complaint results in criminal charges being preferred, the contents of the file are transferred to the appropriate criminal file system.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301, 28 U.S.C. 547, 23 D.C. Code 101(c).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows:

(1) in any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate agency, federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law;

(2) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign agency, or to an individual, if there is reason to believe that such agency or individual possesses information relating to the investigation, trial, or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant;

(3) records or extracts thereof relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a defendant or his attorney or to the appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign, court or grand jury in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice;

(4) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing;

(5) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings;

(6) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred for investigation may be disseminated to the referring agency to notify such agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made;

(7) a record relating to a person held pending arraignment, trial or sentence, or after conviction, may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign prison, probation, parole, bail or pardon authority, or to any agency or individual concerned with the custody maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person;

(8) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States;

(9) a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency; and

(10) a record may be disseminated to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Citizen complaint files are maintained in one of two ways: either on a single sheet which is a record of the complaint and disposition thereof or in complaints which result in further proceedings, a file folder would be established.

Retrievability: Information is retrieved either by the name of a complainant, the name of a person about whom a complaint is registered or by a complaint number. If further proceedings are conducted with respect to a citizen's complaint and the complaint materializes into a criminal action, the file folder will become part of the criminal files and then is retrievable in the same manner as any criminal file is retrieved.

Safeguards: Information contained in the system is unclassified. It is safeguarded and protected by being maintained in files at the Citizens Complaint Center which is manned at all times when it is open and at other times is locked. More sensitive files that materialize into hearings or required for further action by the Misdemeanor Trial Section of the Superior Court Division are maintained by the Chief of the Misdemeanor Trial Section in his office in Building B of the Superior Court.

Retention and disposal: Files are retained and disposed of in accordance with Title 8, U.S. Attorney's Manual, pages 70-77.

System manager(s) and address: Chief, Misdemeanor Trial Section; U.S. Attorney's Office; Superior Court Division; Building B, 4th & E Streets, N.W.; Washington, D.C.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to the System Manager.

Record access procedures: The major part of these systems are exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for access is received. A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request.' Include in the request the general subject matter of the document or its file number. The requestor will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the System Manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures: The major parts of these systems are exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to contest. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for contest is received. Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: Sources of information contained in this system come primarily from citizens walking into this unit to register complaints. Sources also include but are not limited to investigative reports of federal, state and local law enforcement agencies, forensic reports, statements of witnesses and parties, as well as verbatim transcripts of grand jury proceedings and court proceedings, memoranda and reports from the court and agencies thereof and the work product of Assistant United States Attorneys and legal assistants working on particular cases.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G) and (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (h) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(1) and (2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

(f) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred by an agency for investigation, civil action, or enforcement, or that involves a case or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the case or matter;

(g) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement;

(h) a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, foreign, or international law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency or to assist in general civil matters or cases;

(i) a record may be disseminated to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance as is required, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter;

(j) a record may be disseminated to the public, news media, trade associations, or organized groups, when the purpose of the dissemination is educational or informational, such as descriptions of types or courses of action or distinctive or unique modus operandi, provided that the record does not contain any information identifiable to a specific individual other than such modus operandi;

(k) a record may be disseminated to a foreign country, through the United States Department of State or directly to the representative of such country, to the extent necessary to assist such country in general crime prevention, the pursuit of general civil, regulatory or administrative civil actions or to provide investigative leads to such country, or assist in the location and/or returning of witnesses and other evidence;

(l) a record that contains classified national security information and material may be disseminated to persons who are engaged in historical research projects, or who have previously occupied policy making provisions to which they were appointed by the President, in accordance with the provisions codified in 28 C.F.R. 17.60.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: All information, except that specified in this paragraph, is recorded on basic paper/cardboard material, and stored within manila file folders, within metal file cabinets, electric file/card retrievers or safes. Some material is recorded and stored on magnetic tape, card or other data processing type storage matter for reproduction later into conventional formats.

Retrievability: Information is retrieved primarily by name of person, case number, complaint number or court docket number. Information within this system of records may be accessed by various U.S. Attorneys' offices by means of cathode-ray tube terminals (CRT's).

Safeguards: Information in the system is both confidential and non-confidential and located in file cabinets in the United States Attorney offices. Some materials are located in locked file drawers and safes, and others in unlocked file drawers. Offices are locked during non-working hours and are secured by either Federal Protective Service, United States Postal Service, or private building guards. Information that is retrievable by CRT's within various U.S. Attorneys' offices requires user identification numbers which are issued to authorized employees of the Department of Justice.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained and disposed of in accordance with Department of Justice retention plans.

System manager(s) and address: System Manager for the system in each office is the Administrative Officer/Assistant, for the U.S. Attorney for each district. (See attached Appendix).

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to the System Manager for the judicial district in which the case or matter is pending (See attached Appendix).

Record access procedures: The major part of the information maintained in this system is exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for access is received. A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request.' Include in the request the name of the individual involved, his birth date and place, or any other identifying number or information which may be of assistance in locating the record and the name of the case or matter involved, if known. The requester will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the System Manager (See attached Appendix).

Contesting record procedures: The major part of the information maintained in this system is exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to contest. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for contest is received. Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager (See attached Appendix) stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: Sources of information contained in this system include, but are not limited to investigative reports of federal, state and local law enforcement, civil litigation, regulatory and administrative agencies; client agencies of the Department of Justice; other non-Department of Justice investigative agencies; forensic reports; statements of witnesses and parties; verbatim transcripts of deposition and court proceedings; data, memoranda and reports from the court and agencies thereof; and the work product of Assistant United States Attorneys, Department of Justice attorneys and staff, and legal assistants working on particular cases.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G) and (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (h) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(1) and (2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows:

(a) in any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate Federal, state, local, or foreign agency charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law;

(b) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local, or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual, or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial, or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant;

(c) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated in an appropriate Federal, state, local, or foreign court or grand jury proceeding in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice;

(d) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a Federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing;

(e) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings;

(f) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred by an agency for investigation, prosecution, or enforcement, or that involves a case or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the case or matter;

(g) a record relating to a person held in custody pending or during arraignment, trial, sentence, or extradition proceedings, or after conviction or after extradition proceedings, may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local, or foreign prison, probation, parole, or pardon authority, or to any other agency or individual concerned with the maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person;

(h) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement;

(i) a record may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local, foreign, or international law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency;

(j) a record may be disseminated to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter;

(k) a record may be disseminated to the public, news media, trade associations, or organized groups, when the purpose of the dissemination is educational or informational, such as descriptions of crime trends or distinctive or unique modus operandi, provided that the record does not contain any information identifiable to a specific individual other than such modus operandi;

(l) a record may be disseminated to a foreign country, through the United States Department of State or directly to the representative of such country, to the extent necessary to assist such country in apprehending and/or returning a fugitive to a jurisdiction which seeks his return;

(m) a record that contains classified national security information and material may be disseminated to persons who are engaged in historical research projects, or who have previously occupied policy making provisions to which they were appointed by the President, in accordance with the provisions codified in 28 C.F.R. 17.60.

(n) A record relating to an actual or potential civil or criminal violation of title 17, United States Code, may be disseminated to a person injured by such violation to assist him in the institution or maintenance of a suit brought under such title.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

(n) A record relating to an actual or potential civil or criminal violation of title 17, United States Code, may be disseminated to a person injured by such violation to assist him in the institution or maintenance of a suit brought under such title.

b) Individuals who write to the Attorney General or the Department of Justice or the FOI/PA Unit and whose letter is referred to the Executive Office of United States Attorneys

c) Individuals whose letter has been referred to the Executive Office of United States Attorneys for a response by the FOI/PA Unit or Appeals Unit.

Categories of records in the system: The system includes the original correspondence received as well as any response, referral letters or notes concerning the subject of the request and copies of any enclosures. The system is arranged alphabetically by the last name of the original requestor

Authority for maintenance of the system: These records are kept for administrative convenience pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 301 and 44 U.S.C. 3101 and the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Information from the responses may be provided to the referrer of the original request or the requester. All other uses are internal within the Department.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The material is stored within manila file folders, within metal file cabinets.

Retrievability: The system is indexed by name, arranged alphabetically.

Safeguards: The correspondence is maintained in a room which is occupied by office personnel during the day and locked at night.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained and disposed of in accordance with Department retention plans.

System manager(s) and address: Director; Executive Office of United States Attorneys; U.S. Department of Justice; 10th & Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20530.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to the System Manager listed above.

Record access procedures: A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Freedom of Information' or 'Privacy Access Request.' Include in the request the name and address as included in the original letter, together with the current address if different, the date of the letter and to whom it was addressed. Requests should be directed to the system manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures: Any requests for correction should also be directed to the System Manager and should indicate the exact correction required.

Record source categories: Sources of information in this system are the actual letter received, the response and any transmitted information and enclosures.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: All information, except that specified in this paragraph, is recorded on basic paper/cardboard material, and stored within manila file folders, within metal file cabinets, electric file/card retrievers or safes. Some material is recorded and stored on magnetic tape, card or other data processing type storage matter for reproduction later into conventional formats.

Retrievability: Information is retrieved primarily by name of person, case number, complaint number or court docket number. Information within this system of records may be accessed by various U.S. Attorneys' offices by means of catho-ray tube terminals (CRT's).

Safeguards: Information in the system is both confidential and non-confidential and located in file cabinets in the United States Attorney offices. Some materials are located in locked file drawers and safes, and others in unlocked file drawers. Offices are locked during non-working hours and are secured by either Federal Protective Service, United States Postal Service, or private building guards. Information that is retrievable by CRT's within various U.S. Attorneys' offices requires user identification numbers which are issued to authorized employees of the Department of Justice.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained and disposed of in accordance with Department of Justice retention plans.

System manager(s) and address: System manager for the system in each office is the Administrative Officer/Assistant, for the U.S. Attorney for each district (See attached Appendix).

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to the System Manager for the judicial district in which the case or matter is pending (See attached Appendix).

Record access procedures: The major part of the information maintained in this system is exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for access is received. A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request.' Include in the request the name of the individual involved, his birth date and place, or any other identifying number or information which may be of assistance in locating the record and the name of the case or matter involved, if known. The requestor will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the System Manager (See attached Appendix).

Contesting record procedures: The major part of the information maintained in this system is exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to contest. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for contest is received. Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager (See attached Appendix) stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: Sources of information contained in this system include, but are not limited to investigative reports of federal, state and local law enforcement agencies; client agencies of the Department of Justice; other non-Department of Justice investigative agencies; forensic reports; statements of witnesses and parties; verbatim transcripts of Grand Jury and court proceedings; data, memoranda and reports from the Court and agencies thereof; and the work product of Assistant United States Attorneys, Department of Justice attorneys and staff, and legal assistants working on particular cases.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G) and (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (h) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(1) and (2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

JUSTICE/USA - 011

System name: Prosecutor's Management Information System (PROMIS).

System location: U.S. Attorney's Office, 3rd & Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001

Categories of individuals covered by the system: The individuals on whom records are maintained in PROMIS are as follows: 1) Those individuals who have been charged with criminal violations; 2) those individuals who are currently under investigation for criminal violations; 3) those individuals upon whom criminal investigations were conducted, but no prosecution was initiated; and 4) the names and addresses of all witnesses and arresting police officers.

Categories of records in the system: The data in PROMIS fall into six major categories:

1. Information about the accused or defendant. This includes name, alias, sex, race, date of birth, address, facts about prior arrests and convictions, and employment status. If judged appropriate, additional data could be added, such as information about alcohol or drug abuse. Some of this information is used to rate the gravity of the case in terms of the defendant's criminal history.

2. Information about the crime. The date, time, and place of the crime, the number of persons involved in the crime, and a numerical rating reflecting the gravity of the crime in terms of the amount and degree of personal injury, property damage or loss, and intimidation.

3. Information about the arrest. The date, time, and place of the arrest, the type of arrest, and the identity of the arresting officers.

4. Information about criminal charges. The charges originally placed by the police against the arrestee, the charges actually filed in court against the defendant, the reasons for changes in the charges by the prosecutor, the penal statute for the charge, the FBI Uniform Crime Report Code for the charge, and the Project SEARCH Code for the charge.

5. Information about court events. The dates of every court event in a case from arraignment through motion hearing, continuance hearing, final disposition, and sentencing; the names of the principals involved in each event, including the defense and prosecution attorneys and judge; the outcomes of the events and the reasons therefor.

6. Information about witnesses. The names and addresses of all witnesses, the prosecutor's assessment of whether the witnesses are essential to the case, and any indications of reluctance to testify by the witnesses.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301, 28 U.S.C. 547, 23 D.C. Code 101(c).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows:

(1) In any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate agency, federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law;

(2) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign agency, or to an individual, if there is reason to believe that such agency or individual possesses information relating to the investigation, trial, or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant;

(3) records or extracts thereof relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a defendant or his attorney or to the appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign, court or grand jury in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice;

(4) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing;

(5) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings, or to the Public Defender Service in connection with caseload management or other purposes;

(6) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred for investigation may be disseminated to the referring agency to notify such agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made or to assist in eliciting additional information;

(7) a record relating to a person held pending arraignment, trial or sentence, or after conviction, may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign prison, probation, parole, bail or pardon authority, or to any agency or individual concerned with the custody maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person;

(8) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States;

(9) a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency; and

(10) a record may be disseminated to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

Because PROMIS is an automated information system, this office utilizes it to track the workload of the criminal court process from three separate vantage points. First, the workload is tracked from the vantage point of the crime or criminal incident. This is accomplished by including in PROMIS the complaint number which the police department assigns to a reported crime. With this number, prosecutors can follow the full history of the court actions arising from the crime even though those actions may involve multiple defendants, multiple cases, and multiple trials and dispositions.

Second, PROMIS tracks the court workload from the vantage point of the accused or defendant. This is achieved by incorporating in PROMIS the fingerprint-based number the police department assigns to the individual following his or her arrest. This identification number is used again by the department if the same individual is subsequently arrested. Through this number, prosecuting attorneys accumulate criminal history files on offenders and note incidents of recidivism.

Finally, PROMIS tracks from the vantage point of the court proceedings. This is accomplished by including in PROMIS the docket number the Court assigns to the case pending before it. With this number, prosecutors trace the history of any formal criminal action from arraignment through final disposition and sentencing, and account for the separate fate of each count or charge.

The inclusion of these three numbers is significant. The numbers provide a capability to track the criminal incident, the defendant, or the court actions and provide the basis for the routine communication among the various Federal, state, local, and foreign law enforcement agencies.

In addition, PROMIS generates, on a recurring basis, five categories of reports: misdemeanor calendars, felony calendars, case status reports, workload reports, and special reports. These reports are prepared from information contained in the data base both by persons employed by this office, the Justice Department and persons under contract to the Department for this purpose.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspection conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: These records are stored on magnetic tapes and discs at the District of Columbia Metropolitan Police Department Computer Center. Printouts from the terminals are stored with case jackets. Status, calendars, and statistical reports are stored in the files and offices of supervisory attorneys.

Retrievability: This system has an on-line data retrieval capability with respect to certain information contained in the data base. These subsets of information are retrieved on data display terminals which are located at various work stations throughout the office. Certain of these terminals have a printout capability. All information on these subsets is a matter of public record. The system also has the capability for the production of periodic reports. Both the periodic reports and the on-line displays are utilized in accordance with the above listed routine uses.

Safeguards: The magnetic tapes and discs are maintained in a secure vault at the Metropolitan Police Department Computer Center. In addition to the physical security safeguards, there is a twenty-four hour patrol. The data display terminals are located in semi-public areas of the office (i.e., administrative work stations through which the public must pass on official business). However, only trained operators may retrieve the information, which is of public record. The terminals are not open to the public after working hours.

Retention and disposal: The files are retained and disposed of in accordance with Title 8, U.S. Attorney's Manual, pages 70-77.

System manager(s) and address: Administrative Assistant; United States Attorney; U.S. District Court; 3rd & Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Room 3602-A; Washington, D.C. 20001.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to the System Manager.

Record access procedures: The major part of the information maintained in this system is exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for access is received. A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request.' Include in the request the general subject matter of the document or its file number. The requestor will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the System Manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures: The major part of the information maintained in this system is exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to contest. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for contest is received. Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: About 80 percent of the data contained in PROMIS is obtained at the intake and screening stage as the by-product of the case documentation process. Carbon copies of various forms completed immediately before or during the case screening stage serve as input documents for PROMIS.

As a case moves through the subsequent proceedings, additional information about its status is fed to PROMIS. This is achieved through turnaround documents--forms generated by PROMIS in advance of a court event--on which the results of a given proceeding (e.g., preliminary hearing, sentencing, etc.) are recorded and then entered in PROMIS.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G) and (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (h) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(1) and (2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

JUSTICE/USA - 012

System name: Security Clearance Forms for Grand Jury Reporters.

System location: U.S. Attorney's Office; 3rd & Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20001.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Proposed Grand Jury Reporters.

Categories of records in the system: Request for security clearance of grand jury reporter(s) employed by the reporting firm under contract with the Justice Department, carbon copy of 'PERSONNEL INFORMATION SHEET - Grand Jury Reporting' on which is listed name of proposed grand jury reporter, home address, date and place of birth, and present business affiliation; and clearance or denial of clearance for the proposed reporter from the Department of Justice.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: All uses of this information are internal within the Department of Justice.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Security clearance forms are kept alphabetically in file cabinets in the Administrative Office.

Retrievability: Security clearance forms on grand jury reports are retrievable from an alphabetical filing system.

Safeguards: Security clearance forms are maintained in the Administrative Division in the District Court Building which is manned at all times during working hours and at other times is locked.

Retention and disposal: Security clearance forms are maintained for five years, at which time they must be renewed. Upon receipt of renewed security clearance, old forms are destroyed.

System manager(s) and address: Administrative Officer; U.S. Attorney's Office; U.S. District Court; 3rd & Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20001.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to the System Manager.

Record access procedures: A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request.' Include in the request the general subject matter of the document. The requestor will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the System Manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: The source of the information contained in these files are the reporter's request for security clearance, personnel information sheet and the clearance or denial of clearance.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: The individuals on whom records are maintained may be broadly classified in three categories: 1) Those individuals who have been charged with criminal violations; 2) those individuals who are currently under investigation for criminal violations; and 3) those individuals upon whom criminal investigations were conducted, but no prosecution was initiated.

Categories of records in the system: This system of records, consisting of numbered Criminal File Folders, (USA-S1 and USA-33), contains criminal investigative reports about named individuals submitted to this office by federal, state, local and foreign law enforcement agencies involved with the investigation of suspected violations as well as by complaints made by private parties. Those matters which become cases either by way of indictment or information in addition to the data contained in the investigative reports, also contain copies of indictments, informations, complaints, and all pleadings submitted to the court in connection with the actual prosecution of the case. These files also contain communications between the Court and agencies thereof, and the United States Attorney, and all correspondence relative to the case or matter. The files further contain psychiatric, chemical and other forensic reports, documentary evidence and the work product and internal memoranda of the Assistant United States Attorney in charge of the investigation compiled in preparation for the prosecution of each case. In those cases which have gone through trial and appeal, the file would further reflect transcripts of the trial, all pleadings and correspondence between the attorneys and the Court of Appeals, and copies of briefs submitted in the prosecution of the appeal.

A synopsis record of a matter or case is maintained by means of a criminal docket card (USA-T7), for all actions through sentencing. A synopsis record of a case on appeal is maintained on an Appellate Docket Card (USA-9X-199), (Appellate Proceedings). All of these subsystems comprise an internal cross-reference record keeping system of the criminal business at the office. Through the medium of forms and on-line data input, certain of this information is conveyed to a computer center for inclusion in the Prosecutor's Management Information System (a system which will be reported on separately), from which status and statistical reports are issued and distributed back to this office either in the form of computer printouts or on data display terminals which contain much of the same information as the files in different format.

Because of the number of diverse functions which must be performed with respect to each case; and because of the large volume of cases and because operations are conducted in three separate buildings, there are a number of file folder locator mechanisms and cross references utilized to constantly track a file folder when it is not physically located in file control. These indexes or locators are maintained in the form of "out cards," log books, index card files, etc. They are referenced by name, number, and other identifiers. In themselves, they are not separate systems of records, but indexes or references to the primary system.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows:

(1) In any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate agency, federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law;

(2) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign agency, or to an individual, if there is reason to believe that such agency or individual possesses information relating to the investigation, trial, or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant;

(3) records or extracts thereof relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a defendant or his attorney or to the appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign, court or grand jury in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice;

(4) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing.

(5) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings;

(6) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred for investigation may be disseminated to the referring agency to notify such agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made or to assist in eliciting additional information;

(7) a record relating to a person held pending arraignment, trial or sentence, or after conviction, may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign prison, probation, parole, bail or pardon authority, or to any agency or individual concerned with the custody maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person;

(8) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States;

(9) a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency; and

(10) a record may be disseminated to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The information in the various indexes is maintained on index cards, log books, out cards, etc. The criminal files themselves are maintained in criminal file folders (USA-S1 and USA-33). The synopsis information is maintained on a Criminal Docket Card (USA-T7) and Appellate Proceedings (USA-9X-199).

Retrievability: Information is retrieved primarily by the name of a person, complaint number, court docket number, FBI number, Metropolitan Police Department identification number and District of Columbia Department of Corrections number.

Safeguards: Information contained in the system is both unclassified and classified and is safeguarded and protected by being maintained in filerooms which are manned during all times that they are open and at other times are locked. These rooms are located in the Superior Court for the District of Columbia, Buildings B and G which are guarded by the federal protective service twenty four hours a day with roving patrols during non-working hours. Files which are not in the filerooms but which are checked out to attorneys are maintained in locked offices after working hours.

Retention and disposal: The files are retained and disposed of in accordance with Title 8, U.S. Attorney's Manual, pages 70-77.

System manager(s) and address: Administrative Officer; U.S. Attorney's Office; Superior Court Division; Room 108, Building B; 4th & F Streets, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20001.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to the System Manager.

Record access procedures: The major part of the information maintained in this system is exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for access is received. A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked "Privacy Access Request." Include in the request the general subject matter of the document or its file number. The requester will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the System Manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures: The major part of the information maintained in this system is exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to contest. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for contest is received. Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: Sources of information contained in this system include but are not limited to investigative reports of federal, state and local law enforcement agencies, forensic reports, statements of witnesses and parties, as well as verbatim transcripts of grand jury proceedings and court proceedings, memoranda and reports from the court and agencies thereof and the work product of Assistant United States Attorney and legal assistants working on particular cases.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G) and (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (h) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(1) and (2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

JUSTICE/USA - 015

System name: Pre-Trial Diversion Program Files

System location: Ninety-four United States Attorneys' Offices (See attached Appendix)

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals referred to in potential or actual pre-trial diversion cases.

Categories of records in the system: a) USA Form 184 - Referral letter to Probation Service; b) USA Form 185 - Letter to defendant; c) USA Form 186 - Agreement for Pre-Trial Diversion; d) USA Form 187 - Pre-Trial Diversion Report Form; e) USA Form 188 - Certification of Completion of Program; f) USA Form 189 - Defendant Application Form; g) Telephone Records; h) Miscellaneous Correspondence; and, i) Files Unique to a District.

Authority for maintenance of the system: This system is established and maintained pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 301 and 44 U.S.C. 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows:

(a) in any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate Federal, state, local, or foreign agency charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law;

(b) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local, or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual, or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial, or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant;

(c) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated in an appropriate Federal, state, local, or foreign court or grand jury proceeding in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice; (d) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a Federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing;

(e) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings;

(f) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred by an agency for investigation, prosecution, or enforcement, or that involves a case or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the case or matter;

(g) a record relating to a person held in custody pending or during arraignment, trial, sentence, or extradition proceedings, or after conviction or after extradition proceedings, may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local, or foreign prison, probation, parole, or pardon authority, or to any other agency or individual concerned with the maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person;

(h) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement;

(i) a record may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local, foreign, or international law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency;

(j) a record may be disseminated to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter;

(k) a record may be disseminated to the public, news media, trade associations, or organized groups, when the purpose of the dissemination is educational or informational, such as descriptions of crime trends or distinctive or unique modus operandi, provided that the record does not contain any information identifiable to a specific individual;

(l) a record may be disseminated to a foreign country, through the United States Department of State or directly to the representative of such country, to the extent necessary to assist such country in apprehending and/or returning a fugitive to a jurisdiction which seeks his return;

(m) a record that contains classified national security information and material may be disseminated to persons who are engaged in historical research projects, or who have previously occupied policy making positions to which they were appointed by the President, in accordance with the provisions codified in 28 CFR 17.60.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: All information, except that specified in this paragraph, is recorded on basic paper/cardboard material, and stored within manila file folders, within metal file cabinets, electric file/card retrievers or safes. Some material is recorded and stored on magnetic tape, card or other data processing type storage matter for reproduction later into conventional formats.

Retrievability: Information is retrieved by the name of the person, case number or complaint number.

Safeguards: Information in the system is both confidential and non-confidential and located in file cabinets in the United States

Attorney offices. Some materials are located in locked file drawers and safes, and others in unlocked file drawers. Offices are locked during non-working hours and are secured by either Federal Protective Service, United States Postal Service, or private building guards.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained and disposed of in accordance with Department of Justice retention plans.

System manager(s) and address: System Manager for the system in each office is the Administrative Officer/Assistant, for the U.S. Attorney for each district. (See attached Appendix.)

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to the System Manager for the judicial district in which the diversion application or approval was made. (See attached appendix.)

Record access procedures: The major part of the information maintained in this system is exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1), and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for access is received. A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked "Privacy Access Request." Include in the request the name of the individual involved, his birth date and place, or any other identifying number or information which may be of assistance in locating the record and the name of the case or matter involved, if known. The requester shall also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the System Manager. (See attached Appendix.)

Contesting record procedures: The major part of the information maintained in this system is exempt from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and/or (k)(2). To the extent that this system is not subject to exemption, it is subject to contest. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for contest is received. Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager (see attached Appendix) stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: Sources of information contained in this system include, but are not limited to investigative reports of Federal, state and local law enforcement agencies; client agencies of the Department of Justice; other non-Department of Justice investigative agencies; forensic reports; statements of witnesses and parties; verbatim transcripts of Grand Jury and court proceedings; data, memoranda and reports from the Court and agencies thereof; and the work product of Assistant United States Attorneys, Department of Justice attorneys and staff, and legal assistants working on particular cases.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G) and (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (h) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(1) and (2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

JUSTICE/OMF - 001

System name: Background Investigation Check-off Card (OMF-154).

System location: U.S. Department of Justice; 10th and Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All employees of the Offices, Boards, and Divisions except attorneys and employees in the Offices of the Attorney General and Deputy Attorney General.

Categories of records in the system: The system contains an index card for each employee of the Offices, Boards, and Divisions, except those excluded in Categories of Individuals above, on whom a name and fingerprint or background investigation has been initiated.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The system is established and maintained in order to fulfill the requirements of Executive Order 10450.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The index cards are used to annotate and monitor the progress of the name and fingerprint checks and the full field character investigations of the employees. The completed cards are used to develop a variety of workload and timeframe data concerning the initiation and completion of these investigations to ensure that the requirements of Executive Order 10450 and Department of Justice Order 17321 are being effectively and efficiently met.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information maintained in the system is manually stored in file boxes.

Retrievability: Information is retrieved manually by reference to the name of the employee on whom the investigation is being conducted.

Safeguards: Information contained in the system is unclassified. It is safeguarded and protected in accordance with Personnel Section policies and procedures.

Retention and disposal: The index cards are retained by the Personnel Section Teams for a period of one year after completion of the background investigation. The cards are then forwarded to the Personnel Programs Unit where they are retained for one additional year and are then destroyed.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Operations Support Staff, Office of Management and Finance; U.S. Department of Justice, 10th and Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20530.

Notification procedure: Same as the System Manager.

Record access procedures: Same as the System Manager.

Contesting record procedures: Same as the System Manager.

Record source categories: The sources of information contained in this system are those Personnel Section employees authorized to annotate these cards. Information reported is extracted from personnel documents initiating the various investigations and the resulting reports of completion.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

JUSTICE/OMF - 002

System name: Controlled Substances Act Nonpublic Records.

System location: U.S. Department of Justice, 10th and Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons who have been convicted for the first time of violating Section 404 (a) of the Controlled Substances Act (Public Law 91-513), i.e. persons who have knowingly or intentionally possessed a controlled substance except as authorized by the act.

Categories of records in the system: Arrest records of law enforcement agencies, which include personal data, photographs, fingerprints, copies of court orders, DOJ-330 Request for Non-Public Records and/or DOJ-329 Certificate of Expungement.

Authority for maintenance of the system: This system is established and maintained in accordance with the Controlled Substances Act, Public Law 91-513 Sec. 404, 21 U.S.C. 844.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: These records are retained by the Department of Justice and are available only to a Federal court upon a Federal court order issued to the Attorney General demanding such records for use by said court in determining whether or not a person qualified under Public Law 91-513 Sec. 404 (b), 21 U.S.C. 844 (b).

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: These records are stored in locked file cabinets.

Retrievability: These records are indexed by the name of the offender.

Safeguards: Access to these records is restricted to the Chief, Directives and Records Management Unit and the assistant to the Chief.

Retention and disposal: Although these records will ultimately be destroyed by shredding, the establishment of a disposal schedule is still pending.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Operations Support Staff; Office of Management and Finance; U.S. Department of Justice; 10th & Constitution Avenue N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20530.

Notification procedure: Same as the System Manager.

Record access procedures: Same as the System Manager.

Contesting record procedures: Same as the System Manager.

Record source categories: Law enforcement agencies and courts.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has exempted the system from subsection (d) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

JUSTICE/OMF - 003

C History of Earnings Records: These are machine-readable records containing information on earnings, leave and other pay related activity during a two-year period.

D Automated Retirement Records: These are machine-readable records containing information relevant to the Civil Service Retirement System. These records will be used to automatically generate Individual Retirement Records (SF-2806) upon an employee's separation.

E Revised Social Security Number Records: These are machine-readable records containing the new and old social security number for employees whose current social security number is different from that previously entered into the automated system.

F Employee Pay Records: These are manilla folders containing all source documents, correspondence and other papers in support of an active employee's pay, leave and allowances.

G Active Retirement Records: These are manual records maintained on active employees to facilitate timely compliance with requirements of the Civil Service Retirement System. Upon separation, the original SF-2806 is forwarded to the Civil Service Commission and a copy is filed in the Employee Pay Record (F above). This category of records will eventually be replaced by the automated retirement records (D above).

H Former Employee Pay Records: These records are the Employee Pay Records (F above) for employees that have been separated, transferred or retired. In addition to information contained in the Employee Pay Records, these records include information related to the retirement, separation or transfer.

I Employee Death Records: These records are the Employee Pay Records (F above) for employees that died while on active duty with the Department of Justice. In addition to information contained in the Employee Pay Records, these records include information related to the employee's death and the settlement of pending pay and allowances.

J Returned Check Records: These records are a manual log for recording and controlling checks issued to employees that were returned to the Payroll Services Center because they were undelivered, erroneous or cancelled prior to conversion to cash.

K Time and Attendance Report: These records contain information on an employee's attendance and use of leave in a particular pay period. They are also used to indicate leave adjustments and balances. The standard form number is DOJ-296.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The head of each executive agency is responsible for establishing and maintaining an adequate payroll system, covering pay, leave, and allowances, as a part of the system of accounting and internal control of the Budget and Accounting Procedures Act of 1950, as amended, 31 U.S.C. 66, 66a and 200(a).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Purpose: The purpose of each use of categories of records within the DOJ Payroll System of Records is to enable the administration of the payroll function and related financial matters in accordance with applicable laws and regulations and to comply with the requirements of the Comptroller General.

System Uses:

A Authorize, prepare and document payment to all Department employees covered by the DOJ Payroll System entitled to be paid, with consideration given to all authorized deductions from gross pay.

B Specify and document proper disposition of all authorized deductions from gross pay.

C Prepare adequate and reliable payroll reports needed for (1) management, (2) budget, (3) support of payments, (4) the conduct and accounting of payroll related employee services, (5) control and documentation of payroll system operation, and (6) to meet external reporting requirements.

D Support effective communication on payroll matters between the Department of Justice and its present and former employees.

E Support proper coordination of pay, leave and allowance operations with personnel functions and other related activities.

F Support adequate control over all phases and segments of the payroll system including leave accounting.

G Support appropriate integration of the payroll system with the Departmental accounting systems.

H Records maintained in this system shall include providing a copy of an employee's Department of Treasury Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement to the State, City, or other local jurisdiction which is authorized to tax the employee's compensation. The record will be provided in accordance with a withholding agreement between the State, City, or other local jurisdiction and the Department of Treasury pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 5516, 5517, and 5520 or in the absence thereof, in response to a written request from an appropriate official of the taxing jurisdiction to the System Manager listed below. The request must include a copy of the applicable statute authorizing the taxation of compensation and should indicate whether the authority of the jurisdiction to tax the employee is based on place of residence, place of employment, or both. However, the social security numbers will only be provided to State or local taxing authorities which meet the criteria of section 7(a) (2) (B) of the Privacy Act.

I Provide permanent record of actions taken pertinent to the administration of pay leave and allowances.

J Support legal investigations of suspected fraud.

Categories of Users: Records are accessed by users on a need or right to know basis. A category of user may have potential access under more than one use above.

A Present or former employees serviced by the DOJ Payroll System.

B Payroll Services Center staff.

C Department of Treasury Disbursing Offices.

D Department of Justice budget and accounting offices.

E Department of Justice personnel offices.

F Employee supervisors.

G Employee administrative offices.

H Federal, state and local taxing authorities.

I Federal Employees Health Benefits carriers.

J Employee organization offices participating in dues allotment program.

K Financial organizations participating in savings account allotment program.

L Financial organizations participating in net pay to checking account program.

M State human resource offices administering unemployment compensation programs.

N General Accounting Office and internal audit staffs.

O Federal, state or local law enforcement agencies (in support of legal investigations of suspected fraud).

P Other Federal agencies requiring information as specified in applicable laws or regulations (i.e., Civil Service Commission).

Q Heirs, executors and legal representatives of beneficiaries.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service. A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Various categories of records are stored on different mediums. Categories A, B & E are on magnetic discs. Categories C&D are on magnetic tape. All other records are maintained in paper form.

Retrievability: Categories of records on magnetic media are retrievable by employee social security number which is maintained to comply with Internal Revenue requirements. Records in paper form are retrievable by employee name and Social Security Number.

Safeguards: The principal current safeguard for payroll records is guard force screening of individuals entering buildings within which records are kept. More stringent security practices and procedures are under development.

Retention and disposal: Payroll records retention and disposal are in accordance with General Schedule 2 promulgated by the General Services Administration.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Information Systems Staff, Office of Management and Finance, U.S. Department of Justice, 10th and Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20530.

Notification procedure: A request for notification of the existence of records upon an individual shall be made in writing by the individual or legal designate, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Notification Request'. Include in the request the name of the system of records, the individual's full name and social security number while employed with the Department of Justice, the organization within which employed (if available), and whether the individual is a current or former employee. The requestor shall include a return address for the notification response. If the request is submitted by other than the subject individual, indicate the authority under which the information is sought. The request must be signed by the subject individual and, if applicable, by the legal designate. Address inquiries to the System Manager.

Record access procedures: A request for access to records from this system shall be made in writing by the subject individual or legal designate, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request'. Include in the request the name of the system of records, the legal name and social security number of the data subject, the organization within which the individual was employed (if known), and whether the individual is a current or former employee. The requestor shall also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the System Manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system of records should direct their request to the System Manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reason for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought. If the request is submitted by other than the subject individual, indicate the authority under which the information is sought. The request must be signed by the subject individual and, if applicable, by the legal designate.

Record source categories: Information contained within the DOJ Payroll System of Records is obtained from the following sources:

A Subject Individual: Information collected from the subject individual generally consists of that necessary to administer allotments, deductions or other services requested by the individual.

Record access procedures: Same as Notification.

Contesting record procedures: Same as Notification.

Record source categories: Information in this system of records is voluntarily provided by the individual to whom it applies, or is derived from personnel record information he or she supplied.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

JUSTICE/OMF - 013

System name: Employee Locator File.

System location: U.S. Department of Justice; 10th and Constitution Avenue, N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All employees of the U.S. Department of Justice, with the exception of individuals employed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Categories of records in the system: The system contains information relating to each employee's home and business address, home and business telephone number, information as to next of kin, and personal physician preferred in case of medical emergency.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The system is maintained pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 301, 5 U.S.C. 7901, 26 U.S.C. 6011, 26 U.S.C. 6109, 5 U.S.C. 5516, 5 U.S.C. 5517 and 5 U.S.C. 5520.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The locator system is used to provide address data to federal, state and local tax authorities in accordance with the reporting requirements of their income tax withholding programs. The locator system is also used to contact employees of the Department at their official place of business or their residence regarding matters of an official nature relating to their employment with the Department of Justice. It is also used in medical emergencies to contact an employee's personal physician if he or she has an indicated preference, and to notify next of kin. Use of the file for these purposes is limited to supervisors of the employees concerned or individuals having the permission of a supervisor of the employee concerned.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Service. A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are stored on magnetic tape and magnetic disk.

Retrievability: Records are retrieved by name or any other data item by means of cathode-ray tubes.

JUSTICE/OMF - 018

System name: Occupational Health Physical Fitness Files.

System location: U.S. Department of Justice; 10th and Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Employee/participants in the DOJ Occupational Health Physical Fitness Program.

Categories of records in the system: A separate file is established for each Program participant. Data contained in the file consists of a Medical History Questionnaire, Physician Consent Form, Participant Waiver of Liability Form, Physical Fitness Profile, electrocardiographic tracings, Anthropometric Measurement Record, Exercise Prescription, Conditioning Record, attitudinal questionnaires, any positive test results and related correspondence.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The files are maintained pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 7901.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Data contained in each file will be used to evaluate the physical condition of each participant and serve as a basis for preparation of the exercise prescription. Changes in physiological and attitudinal data taken at several points throughout the period of participation will be examined relative to program effect. Data will be taken from each file and anonymously aggregated in order to examine group norms. Use of this data is limited to the Occupational Health Physical Fitness Program staff and its contractors. Research findings may occasionally be published in professional journals but only in summary form. Positive examination results will be referred to the participant's physician upon the written request of the participant.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

PREFATORY STATEMENT OF GENERAL ROUTINE USES

The following routine uses apply to and are incorporated by reference into, each system of records set forth below:

(1) In the event that records in this system of records indicate a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by statute or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto. Furthermore, presentation of evidence and disclosure to counsel for litigants before any court, magistrate, or administrative tribunal, or in the normal process of discovery attendant to such litigation or procedures shall constitute a routine use of records in this system of records.

(2) Records from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, State or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

(3) Records from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

(4) A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to a member of Congress seeking information concerning the individual, but only when the individual is a constituent of the member and has requested assistance from the member with respect to the subject matter of the record.

Add Schenectady Naval Reactors Office and Grand Junction Office to location and Idaho Operations Office to location and notification procedure; Chicago is removed as a location.

System 18

Add Albuquerque and San Francisco to location; Chicago Operations Office is deleted as a system location.

System 19

Add Schenectady Naval Reactors Office, Idaho Operations Office and Grand Junction Office to system location.

System 20

Change system name to "Files on Operators of Federal Motor Vehicles—ERDA," add Pittsburgh Energy Research Center to system location and notification procedure, change categories of individuals to "ERDA and ERDA contractor personnel." System Manager's address is changed to "Director, Division of Operational and Environmental Safety."

System 23

Remove Idaho Operations Office from system location and notification procedure; add "I" 3rd line to category of records in system.

System 24

System location, add Bartlesville Energy Research Center, Grand Forks Energy Research Center, and Iramie Energy Research Center, System Manager is changed to "Director, Division of Operational and Environmental Safety."

System 25

Add Shippingport Atomic Power Station to system name and to categories of individuals.

System 26

Remove Cincinnati Area Office, Paducah Area Office and Portsmouth Area Office from system locations; Brookhaven Office is changed to Brookhaven Area Office; change division name to "Division of Operational and Environmental Safety."

System 29

Categories of individuals is changed to "Employees performing critical duties as enumerated in AEC Manual Appendix 0560, Part II, (9)."

System 30

System locations added are Mare Island Naval Shipyard, Puget Sound Naval Shipyard and Pearl Harbor Naval Shipyard, Cincinnati, Paducah and Portsmouth Area Offices are removed; Brookhaven Office should read "Brookhaven Area Office," add "Social Security number" to Retrievability; System Manager is changed to "Division of Operational and Environmental Safety."

System 32

Grand Junction Office is added to system location; Storage is changed to "Paper file manually retrieved."

System 33

Add Pittsburgh Naval Reactors Office, Schenectady Naval Reactors Office and Grand Junction Office to system locations.

System 35

Add Schenectady Naval Reactors Office and Pittsburgh Naval Reactors to system location and Idaho Operations Office to system location and notification; Chicago Operations Office is removed from notification.

System 36

Add to system location San Francisco and Idaho Operations Offices; remove Chicago Operations Office from system location and notification.

System 38

Add Idaho Operations Office to system location and notification; Grand Junction Office to system location, and remove Chicago Operations Office from system location and notification.

System 41

Add P.O. Box 1069 to Schenectady Naval Reactors Office; remove Idaho Operations Office from system location and notification.

System 42

Remove Idaho Operations Office from system location and notification.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Resident aliens who visit and participate at Energy Research and Development Administration Offices and Energy Research and Development Administration contractor facilities.

Categories of records in the system:

Federal Agencies Indices checks and Energy Research and Development Administration records regarding Alien visits and participation at Energy Research and Development Administration offices and/or contractor facilities.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Government agencies with military, intelligence, or law enforcement responsibilities—Investigative purposes and to refer, where there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, to the appropriate agency charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper file, retrieved manually

Retrievability: Indexed chronologically, name and visit number

Safeguards: Access limited to employees with need-to-know; stored in security areas under guard and/or alarm protection

Retention and disposal: Records retention and disposal authorities are contained in ERDA, Manual Appendix 0230, "Records Disposition." Records within the ERDA are destroyed by shredding, burning, or burial in a sanitary landfill, as appropriate.

System manager(s) and address:

The Director, Division of Safeguards and Security,
U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration,
Washington, D.C. 20545 has been designated the Agency System Manager for this system. The managers and directors of field locations listed under notification below are designated system managers for their respective portions of this system.

Notification procedure: a. U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, Privacy Act Administration Officer's Mail Addresses:

U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration
Washington, D.C. 20545

U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration
Albuquerque Operations Office
P.O. Box 5400
Albuquerque, New Mexico 87115

U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration
Nevada Operations Office
P.O. Box 14100
Las Vegas, Nevada 89114

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

ERDA contractors—Control access to classified information and areas

Department of Defense Contractors—Authorize access to classified information and areas.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Retrievability: Indexed chronologically and by name.

Safeguards: Access limited to employees with need-to-know; stored in guarded security areas.

Retention and disposal: Records retention and disposal authorities are contained in ERDA, Manual Appendix 0230, "Records Disposition."
Records within the ERDA are destroyed by shredding, burning, or burial in a sanitary landfill, as appropriate.

APPENDIX AA*Additional Routine Uses

The following routine uses apply to and are incorporated by reference into each system of records as stated therein:

1. In the event that a record within this system of records maintained by this agency indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred as a routine use to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

2. A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to a Federal, State, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an Agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit.

3. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

4. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, in response to a court subpoena, to appropriate parties engaged in litigation or in preparation of possible litigation such as potential witnesses for the purpose of securing their testimony when necessary to courts, magistrates or administrative tribunals, to parties and their attorneys for the purpose of proceeding with litigation or settlement of disputes, to individuals seeking information by using established discovery procedures, whether in connection with civil, criminal, or regulatory proceedings.

5. A record maintained by this agency to carry out its functions which relates to civil and criminal proceedings may be disclosed to the news media in accordance with guidelines contained in Department of Justice regulations 28 C.F.R. 50.2.

6. A record maintained by this agency to carry out its functions may be disclosed to foreign governments in accordance with treaty obligations.

7. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular No. A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

8. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to ERDA contractors in performance of their contracts, and their officers and employees who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties subject to the same limitations applicable to ERDA officers and employees under the Privacy Act.

9. Congressional Inquiries—disclosure may be made to congressional office from the record of an individual in response to inquiries from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

FEDERAL ENERGY ADMINISTRATION PRIVACY ACT OF 1974 Systems of Records; Annual Publication

Agency: Federal Energy Administration.

Action: Annual Republication of Systems of Records.

Summary: Pursuant to section 3(e)(4) of the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4), the Federal Energy Administration (FEA) hereby publishes a notice of the existence and character of each of its systems of records as currently maintained by the agency. Such notice was last previously published at 41 Fed. Reg. 40076 (September 16, 1976).

By notice being published simultaneously with this republication, FEA is proposing two new systems of records to be designated as "FEA-22, Correspondence Files" and "FEA-23, Telephone Numbers of FEA Officials." The text of the proposed system notices are included in the list of system descriptions contained herein, and a Report on New Systems describing these systems is being submitted in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(o), Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular No. A-108, and the transmittal memoranda thereto.

In addition, FEA is proposing in the companion notice to amend the routine uses for the records contained in FEA-8, Statements of Financial Interest, FEA-14, Employee Carpool Parking, FEA-18, Mailing Lists for Requestors of Energy Related Information, and FEA-19, Congressional Constituent Inquiries. The texts of the proposed amendments are included in the appropriate system notice contained herein.

Should FEA receive any comments in response to the companion notice which would result in a change in the new or amended system descriptions as published herein, FEA will publish notice of such changes and amend the description of the appropriate system of records.

Included in the Report on New Systems, but not in the companion notice, are such of the amendments to FEA-1, FEA Personnel Records and Management Information System; FEA-8, FEA-18, FEA-19, and FEA-20, Freedom of Information and Privacy Act Requests, as would change the number of types of individuals on whom records are maintained or would expand the type of information maintained. Since these amendments do not involve an alteration of the routine uses of the systems, the Privacy Act does not require notice of them in the Federal Register. FEA has determined that a Report on New Systems is not required for any of the other amendments contained herein.

System manager(s) and address: The Regional Administrators of the appropriate Regional Offices have been added as system managers.

C. FEA-8, Confidential Statements of Employment and Financial Interest

System name: The system name "Statements of Financial Interest" is being substituted in order to accommodate the inclusion in the system of the non-confidential form "State of Known Financial Interest," an information-gathering mechanism developed to satisfy the reporting requirement of section 522 of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act, Pub. L. 94-163.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: In addition to those presently covered, individuals required by 10 CFR 203.26a to file a "Statement of Known Financial Interest" will be included in the system.

Categories of records in the system: In addition to the records presently listed, the system will contain all known financial interests in energy businesses and properties held by individuals covered under 10 CFR 203.26a during the previous calendar year.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 522 of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act, Pub. L. 94-163, is added to the list of authorities.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: In addition to the routine uses listed in Appendix B, the "Statement of Known Financial Interest" is available to any member of the public upon request.

D. FEA-9, Medical Records

System location: Medical records are now partially located in the Health Units associated with the FEA Regional Offices listed in Appendix A to the system descriptions.

System manager(s) and address: The Regional Administrators of the appropriate Regional Offices have been added as system managers.

E. FEA-14, Employee Carpool Parking

System location: The system of records is now partially located in the FEA Regional Offices listed in Appendix A to the system descriptions.

Categories of records in the system: The individual's social security number and employer are no longer retained in the system; however, the state of vehicle registration and number of days per week in the carpool are now requested.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Federal Management Circular 1-74 is deleted and substituted therefore is 41 CFR 101-20.117.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Social security numbers are no longer transmitted to the General Services Administration.

Retrievability: Social security numbers and total number of members of carpool are no longer identifying factors for retrieval of information contained in the system.

System manager(s) and address: For records maintained at the National Office the system manager has been changed to "Chief, Division of General Services" at the address presently listed. The Regional Administrators of the appropriate Regional Offices have been added as system managers.

F. FEA-15, Employee Applications for Motor Vehicle Operators Card

FEA-1

System name: FEA Personnel Records and Management Information System.

Security classification: Unclassified.

System location: For the National Office, the location of the records is Office of Personnel, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20461, and the administrative office of each individual Office, e.g., Office of General Counsel, Office of Regulatory Programs. For the Regional Offices: The appropriate Regional Office, at the address listed in Appendix A.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All current employees and applicants for employment by FEA, and all former employees and applicants for employment by FEA whose records have not yet been closed and disposed of by FEA in accordance with the Federal Records Act.

Categories of records in the system: Official personnel folder, service record, position classification, personnel management data, applicant supply, merit promotion records, civil service certification of eligibles, executive management files, incentive awards, grievances, employee relations, labor relations, ceiling control, working case files and operating field files; SF-256, Self-identification of Medical Disability.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 2102 et seq., Federal Energy Administration Act of 1974; Executive Order 11790; Civil Service Commission Regulations.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Records are used by personnel office staff, and the staff of each Office's Administrative Officer, promotion panel members, internal auditors and Civil Service Commission auditors and investigators. Uses include staffing of vacancies, qualification of personnel for assignment, promotion and training, processing of personnel actions, management information reporting, adjudication of awards, grievances, appeals, labor-management negotiations, verification of employment, ceiling control management; and the routine uses listed in Appendix B.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records, magnetic cards, computer tapes

Retrievability: Name and social security number.

Safeguards: Physical, technical, and administrative security is maintained, with all storage equipment and rooms locked when not in use. Access is restricted to authorized personnel only. All personnel staff and computer operators and programmers are instructed and cautioned with respect to the confidentiality of the records.

G. FEA-16, Intergovernmental Personnel Act (IPA) Contracts

System location: As a result of an internal FEA reorganization, this system is now primarily located in the FEA Office of Congressional and Intergovernmental Affairs. The system is also partially located in the FEA Regional Offices listed in Appendix A to the system descriptions.

System manager(s) and address: At the National Office the system manager is now the Administrative Officer, Office of Congressional and Intergovernmental Affairs. The Regional Administrators of the appropriate Regional Offices also have been added as system managers.

H. FEA-18, Mailing Lists for Requestors of Energy Related Information

System location: National Office machine readable records are now located at Data Technology Industries, 6611 Kenilworth Avenue, Riverdale, Maryland 20840. Mailing lists for press releases are now maintained by FEA, rather than the U.S. Treasury Printing Office.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The information is no longer possessed by or transmitted to the U.S. Treasury, however, it is released to contractors handling bulk and single copy mailings for FEA.

I. FEA-19, Congressional Constituent Inquiries

System location: As a result of an internal FEA reorganization this system is now primarily located in Executive Communications, Office of the Administrator. The system is also partially located in the Regional Offices listed in Appendix A to the system descriptions, and in the office within FEA with responsibility for handling the substantive response to the request.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: In addition to the individuals on whose behalf a request is made, the system covers the members of Congress making such requests.

Categories of records in the system: Also included in the system is the FEA response to the inquiry.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: In addition to the routine uses previously listed, the information in the system is used to reference FEA responses to Congressional inquiries.

Retrievability: Information is retrievable both by constituent name and the name of the member of Congress making a request.

System manager(s) and address: The National Office records are managed by the Special Assistant for Executive Communications. The Regional Administrators of the appropriate Regional Offices also have been added as system managers.

Record source categories: The sources of information in this system include the subject individual, the members of Congress, and the drafter of the FEA response.

J. FEA-20, Freedom of Information Act Requests for Records

System name: To reflect a consolidation of the Freedom of Information and Privacy Act functions within FEA the system designation is now "FEA-20, Freedom of Information and Privacy Act Requests for Records."

Categories of individuals covered by the system: In addition to individuals already covered, persons requesting copies of records from FEA under the Privacy Act of 1974 are now covered by the system.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Added to the previously listed authorities is the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-579).

II. Previously Published Amendments to FEA Systems Notices. In the year since the last publication by FEA of its compilation of the notices of its systems of records, FEA has published one new system notice at 41 Fed. Reg. 13584 (March 11, 1977) describing FEA-21, Electric Rate Utility Demonstration Program, and notice of intention to adopt the system as proposed was published in 41 Fed. Reg. 22588 (May 4, 1977). Also, FEA has noticed at 41 Fed. Reg. 22192 the change in location of FEA-7, Investigative Report Records, from the Office of Security to the Office of the Inspector General and the change in the system manager from the Director, Office of Security, to the Inspector General. These referenced changes to the descriptions of FEA systems of records are incorporated into the system notices contained herein.

Issued at Washington, D.C., September 16, 1977.

For the FEA National Office, the location of the records is Optimum Systems, Inc., 5615 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Maryland 20852. There are no records at any of the FEA regional offices.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All consumers of electricity participating in FEA-sponsored rate demonstration projects.

Categories of records in the system: Consumer identification number, rate code, historical data on past year's energy consumption, hourly current electrical consumption, household information (including age distribution and income), dwelling characteristics, fuel use information, water heating characteristics, and appliance inventory. The records maintained by the FEA and the EPRI will not contain name or other identifying particulars.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 13 of the Federal Energy Administration Act of 1974; Executive Order 11790; section 204 of the Energy Conservation and Production Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The participating utilities will use the records maintained for the following purposes: Measurement of price elasticity under various non-traditional rate forms, correlation of demographic characteristics with demand and usage patterns, analysis of shifts in usage patterns under various rate forms and at different times of day and seasons of the year, and determination of changes in load and capacity factors attributable to experimental rates and/or load management techniques. The records maintained by the participating utilities will also be made available to the participating utilities' parent companies, the sponsoring state and local agencies, the FEA, and the Electric Power Research Institute, so that these parties can do analyses of the data similar to those contemplated by the utilities. As previously noted, the records made available to the participating utilities' parent companies, the FEA and to EPRI will not contain name or other identifying particulars. The sponsoring state and local agencies will also use the records to deal with any complaints brought by participating consumers of electricity.

Storage: Machine readable only.

Retrievability: Machine readable records are retrievable by any data element (except by name or EPRI and National Office FEA records).

Safeguards: The contracts with the utilities stipulate that the utility will exercise all diligence in controlling access to their computer facility and that only authorized members of the project team and other routine users will be allowed to use the data. At the FEA National Office, physical, technical and administrative security is maintained with all storage areas locked when not in use. Admittance when open, is restricted to authorized personnel only. All personnel that handle or process the data are instructed and cautioned as to the confidentiality of the data and its proper disposition. Remote terminal users need special access code.

Retention and disposal: At the participating utilities and the EPRI: three years after the completion of the test on the utility's system. At the FEA National Office: records will be destroyed within two years of completion of the last project.

Retrievability: For Records at the Participating Utilities

System manager(s) and address:

Safeguards: Records are located in lockable drawers in secured rooms with access limited to those whose official duties require access.

Retention and disposal: Records are revised when appropriate, at which point the older records are destroyed.

System manager(s) and address:

Staff Assistant
Office of the Administrator
Federal Energy Administration
12th and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW,
Washington, D.C. 20461.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to determine if a system of records contains information about him should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, Washington, D.C. 20461, in accordance with FEA's Privacy Act Regulations (10 CFR 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975)).

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual for access to a system of records that contains information about him should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, Washington, D.C. 20461, in accordance with FEA's Privacy Act Regulations (10 C.F.R. 206.3, 40 FR 45610 (October 2, 1975)).

Contesting record procedures: Requests by an individual to correct or amend the content of a record containing information about him should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, Washington, D.C. 20461, in accordance with FEA's Privacy Act Regulations (10 CFR 206.7, 40 FR 45613 (October 2, 1975)).

Record source categories: The subject individuals.

System exempted from certain provisions of the Act: None.

APPENDIX B
Routine Uses

1. In the event that a system of records maintained by the FEA to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

2. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to a Federal, State or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an FEA decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

3. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation to an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

4. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, in the course of presenting evidence to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, including disclosures to opposing counsel in the course of settlement negotiations.

5. A record in this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to a member of Congress submitting a request involving the individual when the individual is a constituent of the member and has requested assistance from the member with respect to the subject matter of the record.

6. A record in this system of records which contains medical and/or psychological information may be disclosed, as a routine use, to the physician or mental health professional of any individual submitting a request for access to the record under the Privacy Act of 1974 and FEA's Privacy Act Regulations if, in its sole judgment and good faith, FEA believes that disclosure of the medical and/or psychological information directly to the individual who is the subject of the record could have an adverse effect upon that individual, in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(f)(3) and 10 CFR 206.5(f).

NATIONAL TRANSPORTATION POLICY STUDY COMMISSION
PRIVACY ACT OF 1974
Systems of Records; Annual Publication

On December 10, 1976, there was published in the Federal Register 41 FR 45158 a notice of Systems of Records pursuant to the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, Public Law 93-579 (5 USC 552). The public was given the opportunity to submit not later than January 17, 1977, written comments concerning the proposed system of records. Comments were received by the Office of Management and Budget and were incorporated in the final system.

The proposed system notices are hereby adopted as amended.

Effective date: September 19, 1977.

Signed at Washington, D.C., on September 15, 1977.

JOHN WILD,
Executive Director.

NTPSC—1

System name: Payroll Records—National Transportation Policy Study Commission.

System location: General Services Administration, Region 3 Office, copies held by the Commission. (GSA holds records for the National Transportation Policy Study Commission under contract.)

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Employees of the NTPSC and Commission members.

Categories of records in the system: Varied payroll records, including, among other documents, time and attendance cards; payment vouchers; comprehensive listing of employees; health benefits records, requests for deductions; tax forms, W-2 forms, overtime requests; leave data; retirement records. Records are used by Commission and GSA employees to maintain adequate payroll information for Commission employees, and otherwise by Commission and GSA employees who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 31 U.S.C., generally. Also, Section 154 of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1976 (P.L. 94-280).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: See Appendix. Records also are disclosed to GAO for audits; to the Internal Revenue Service for investigation; and to private attorneys, pursuant to a power of attorney.

A copy of an employee's Department of the Treasury Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, also is disclosed to the State, city or other local jurisdiction which is authorized to tax the employee's compensation. The record will be provided in accordance with a withholding agreement between the State, city or other local jurisdiction and the Department of the Treasury pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 5516, 5517, or 5520, or, in the absence thereof, in response to a written request from an appropriate official of the taxing jurisdiction to Honorable Bud Shuster, Chairman, National Transportation Policy Study Commission, 1750 K St. NW, Rm 800, Washington, D.C. 20006. The request must include a copy of the applicable statute or ordinance authorizing the taxation of compensation and should indicate whether the authority of the jurisdiction to tax the employee is based on place of residence, place of employment, or both.

Pursuant to a withholding agreement between a city and the Department of the Treasury (5 U.S.C. 5520), copies of executed city tax withholding certificates shall be furnished the city in response to written request from an appropriate city official to the Chairman, the Honorable Bud Shuster.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: paper and microfilm.

Retrievability: Social Security Number.

Safeguards: Stored in guarded building; released only to authorized personnel including among others, GSA liaison staff and payroll clerks and Commission administrative staff.

Retention and disposal: Disposition of records shall be in accordance with the HB GSA Records Maintenance and Disposition System (OAD P 1820.2).

System manager(s) and address: Chairman, National Transportation Policy Study Commission, 1750 K Street NW, Suite 800, Washington, D.C. 20006

Notification procedure: Contact General Counsel or refer to Commission access regulations contained in 1 CFR Part 445.

Record access procedures: Contact General Counsel or refer to Commission access regulations contained in 1 CFR Part 445.

Contesting record procedures: Contact General Counsel or refer to Commission access regulations contained in 1 CFR Part 445.

Record source categories: The subject individual; the Commission.

NTPSC—2

System name: General Financial Records—National Transportation Policy Study Commission.

System location: General Services Administration, Central Office; copies held by the Commission. (GSA holds records for the Commission under contract.)

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Employees of the Commission and members of the Commission.

Categories of records in the system: SF-1038, Application and account for advance of funds; Vendor register and vendor payment tape. Information is used by accounting technicians to maintain adequate financial information and by other officers and employees of GSA and the Commission who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 31 U.S.C., generally; also, Section 154 of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1976 (P.L. 94-280).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: See appendix. Records also are released to GAO for audits; to the IRS for investigation; and to private attorneys, pursuant to power of attorney.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper and tape.

Retrievability: Manual and automated by name.

Safeguards: Stored in guarded building; released only to authorized personnel including among others, GSA liaison staff and finance personnel; and Commission administrative staff.

Retention and disposal: Disposition of records shall be in accordance with the HB GSA Records Maintenance and Disposition.

APPENDIX—National Transportation Policy Study Commission

In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit by the requesting agency to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision in the matter.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to an authorized appeal grievance examiner, formal complaints examiner, equal employment opportunity investigator, arbitrator or other duly authorized official engaged in investigation or settlement of a grievance, complaint, or appeal filed by an employee. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to the United States Civil Service Commission in accordance with the agency's responsibility for evaluation and oversight of federal personnel management.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to officers and employees of a federal agency for purposes of audit.

The information contained in this system of records will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular No. A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to a Member of Congress or to a Congressional staff member in response to an inquiry of the Congressional office made at the request of the individual about whom the record is maintained.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to officers and employees of the General Services Administration in connection with administrative services provided to this agency under agreement with GSA.

POSTAL SERVICE PRIVACY ACT OF 1974

Systems of Records; Annual Publication.

Agency: U.S. Postal Service.

Action: Annual report, Advance Notice of major records system description changes, and final notice of minor records system description changes.

Summary: The primary purpose of this document is to publish the annual notice under 5 USC 552a(e)(4) of the systems of records, as defined in the Privacy Act of 1974, Pub. L. No. 93-579, which are maintained by the Postal Service. In the interests of providing complete, current information to the public in an easily accessible format, this document also provides final notice of several records system description changes and advanced notice of several other changes.

Dates: Effective date of Parts (1) and (7): October 11, 1977. Comments on Parts (2), (3), (4), (5), (6) must be received on or before: October 11, 1977.

Addresses: Records Officer, U.S. Postal Service, Washington, D.C. 20260.

For Further Information Contact: Mr. John E. Finlay, (202) 245-4142.

Supplementary Information: The last complete list of Postal Service Systems of Records was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on October 4, 1976 (41 FR 45132). Recent changes to this complete list appeared in the FEDERAL REGISTER on February 24, 1977 (42 FR 10954), April 21, 1977 (42 FR 20806), and June 13, 1977 (42 FR 30259).

In accordance with a provision of the Privacy Act Implementation guidelines issued by the Office of Management and Budget (40 FR 28961:1), the Postal Service has instituted a regular program of review of its record keeping practices. As a result of the second comprehensive review (the results of the first review were reported in the FEDERAL REGISTER at 42 FR 10954 on February 24, 1977), the Postal Service has (1) ascertained that four systems of records are no longer necessary; (2) discovered two previously unannounced systems of records; and (3) determined that the implementation of national Express Mail Service will require the creation of a new system of records. Also, the Postal Service has decided it is necessary (4) to combine into a single consolidated system two records systems previously described separately; and (5) to rewrite the descriptions of two other records systems to make them more accurate. The Postal Service has also determined it is necessary (6) to provide notice of the existence of heretofore unpublished routine uses for several systems of records; and (7) to make minor editorial corrections and revisions in the descriptions of numerous systems of records. Public comment is requested on proposed actions (2), (3), (4), (5), and (6) which are discussed more completely below. Actions (1) and (7) are effective immediately.

Postal Service regulations concerning the privacy of information appear in 39 CFR Part 266. Those Postal Service systems of records which are exempt from certain provisions of the Privacy Act are listed in 39 CFR 266.9(b).

Part 1—Deletions of Four Systems of Records

The Postal Service has determined, after a reassessment of USPS 090.010—Non-Mail Services—Food Coupon Program Records, and USPS 140.010—Postage—Postage Refund Records, that the records contained in those systems are used exclusively for financial accounting and are not maintained or used for the purpose of referring to information about an individual by name or other personal identifier. Therefore, those systems do not fall within the definition of a systems of records as that definition applies to the requirements of the Privacy Act. The Postal Service has also determined that the continued maintenance of USPS 020.020—Communications (Public Relations)—Children's Art Contest, and USPS 100.040—Office Administration—Response to General Services Administration (GSA) Basic Order Agreement (BOA) Solicitations, is no longer necessary and relevant to the accomplishment of a useful purpose of the Postal Service.

Under 5 USC 552a(e) (1) and (4), effective immediately, the four systems of records identified above have been deleted from the list of systems which appeared in 41 FR 45132. Consequently, those systems do not appear in the new list which follows. This document constitutes the final notice of these deletions and changes.

Part 2—Notice of Two Existing Systems

As required by 5 USC 552a(e)(4), this document presents initial statements of the existence and character of two additional systems of records not previously mentioned in a published notice. USPS 120.098 is now being included as the result of a reevaluation of records maintenance practices while USPS 200.010 was originally omitted due to administrative oversight. These systems are designated:

- (a) USPS 120.098—Personnel Records—Office of Workers' Compensation Program (OWCP) Record Copies.
- (b) USPS 200.010—Non-Mail Monetary Claims—Relocation Assistance Claims.

Part 3—Proposed Creation of Additional System

In addition, the Postal Service proposes to implement Express Mail Service on a national basis. The implementation of this service, which has been tested for several years, requires the establishment of a new system of records designated:

USPS 160.030—Special Mail Services—Express Mail Service Insurance Claims for Loss, Delay and Damage.

These records are required so that a customer's claim for loss, delay or damage can be pursued and resolved. As required by 5 USC 552(e)(4), this document also presents an initial description of this system of records.

The Postal Service invites public comment on proposed actions (2) and (3). The descriptions of the new system appear as proposed in the following list of systems.

Part 4—Consolidation of Two Systems

The Postal Service, primarily for ease of reference, has determined it is necessary to consolidate the descriptions of two record systems previously reported separately. The description of USPS 130.030—Philately—Philatelic Automatic Distribution Service (PADS), should be combined with the notice of USPS 130.040—Philately—Philatelic Product Sales and Distribution. The Postal Service also determined that the description should be expanded in order to provide a more complete picture of the scope of information maintained.

Part 5—General Notification of Two System Descriptions

The Postal Service has rewritten the description of two other previously reported record systems solely for the purpose of more closely aligning the descriptions to current organizational structure and functions. The records systems affected are USPS 160.010—Special Mail Services—Registered Mail Inquiry for Delivery and/or Application for Indemnity, and USPS 160.020—Special Mail Services—Request for Payment of Postal Insurance (Claim) Records.

Public comment is invited on the modified descriptions of systems 130.040, 160.010, and 160.020 which appear in the following list.

Part 6—Routine Uses

The Postal Service has determined that a few cases exist in which notice of several long-standing routine uses has not previously been published for public comment. The notice of these routine uses and the systems to which they apply follow:

Transfer of Information to the Civil Service Commission: The Civil Service Commission (CSC) requires the Postal Service to provide information about its employees for the CSC Central Personnel Data File (CPDF).

The CPDF is used primarily for the generation of statistics pertaining to the Federal work force. Details pertaining to the further purposes and uses of the CPDF may be acquired from the Civil Service Commission. Although the following routine use is presently a part of another related Postal Service system of records, it has been determined to also include the use in USPS 050.020, Finance Records—Payroll System, at this time:

"24. To provide data for the automated Central Personnel Data File (CPDF) maintained by the U.S. Civil Service Commission."

Transfer of Inactive Personnel Folders to the General Services Administration: If an employee separates from the Postal Service and does not immediately become employed by the Federal Government, his Official Personnel Folder is transferred to inactive storage. The General Services Administration provides a central storage facility for these inactive personnel folders. This continuing practice is reflected in the following routine use for USPS 120.070, personnel Records—General Personnel Folders (Official Personnel Folders and Records Related Thereto):

"15. Inactive folders are transferred to the GSA National Personnel Records Center for permanent storage."

Disclosure of Employee Medical Information: Two routine uses are being proposed for inclusion in USPS 120.090, Personnel Records—Medical Records.

a. The following routine use reflects the practice of obtaining professional medical assistance from private physicians when a Postal Service medical officer is either unavailable or the employee requests this action. These physicians provide medical services in connection with matters involving employment related health and physical condition. The routine use reads as follows:

"8. Records in this system may be disclosed to a private physician or other medical personnel retained by the Postal Service to provide medical services in connection with an employee's health or physical condition which is related to his or her employment."

b. The Postal Inspection Service provides for physical examinations to inspectors through a contract with an outside medical service organization. This organization performs the examinations and submits the results to the Postal Service for the purpose of determining the individual's fitness for duty. The routine use reads as follows:

"9. May be disclosed to an outside medical service when that organization performs the physical examinations and submits the evaluations to the Postal Service pursuant to a contract with the USPS as part of an established Postal Service health program; for the purpose of determining a postal employee's fitness for duty."

Disclosure of Employee Records: Two routine uses are being proposed for inclusion in USPS 120.190, Personnel Records—Supervisor's Personnel Records.

a. It has been determined that records from this system may properly be released to a labor organization when needed to administer its duties as the representative of postal employees. The proposed routine reads as follows:

"3. Disclosure of records of discipline may be further made to a labor organization pursuant to the National Labor Relations Act upon its request when needed by that organization to perform properly its duties as the collective bargaining representative of postal employees in an appropriate bargaining unit."

b. When the Postal Service completes an adverse action against an employee, a record of that fact is included in the Official Personnel Folder (OPF). Since part of the information included in the OPF is derived from USPS 120.190, it is necessary that this system reflects the possible uses which might occur from such a transfer. The proposed use reads:

"4. Records of discipline may become part of USPS 120.070 and would therefore be subject to disclosure under the routine uses of that system of records."

Transfer of Records to Inactive Storage: In addition to the above routine uses, the following use must be included in the description of several systems because the Postal Service has traditionally sent inactive records to Federal Records Centers for storage before their destruction. The Postal Service published a broad statement of this use in the introductory section of its previous annual systems notices.

010.080

120.150
150.025
160.010
160.020

The applicable routine use follows: "Inactive records may be transferred to a GSA Federal Records Center for storage prior to destruction."

As required by 5 USC 552(e)(11), interested persons are invited to submit written data, views or arguments on any of the above described proposed routine uses.

Part 7—Editorial Corrections and Revisions

The Postal Service has determined that it is necessary to make certain editorial corrections and revisions to various systems of records descriptions. These corrections and revisions do not reflect changes in the systems themselves, but are provided only as changes to the descriptions. These changes do not affect the general character or purpose of any system as described nor do they expand the population of individuals to which the systems apply. The modifications merely provide a more accurate description of the affected systems of records. The following constitutes final notice of the necessary changes:

USPS 010.010—Collection and Delivery Records—Address Change and Mail Forwarding Records.

Retention and disposal: Change to read, "a. Source document retained for one year from effective date and then destroyed by shredding or burning. b. Information on magnetic tapes is retained for one year from effective date. At the end of that period, the tapes are erased."

USPS 030.010—Equal Employment Opportunity—EEO Discrimination Complaint Investigations.

Purpose: Change to read, "Used by EEO officers and the Civil Service Commission to adjudicate complaints of alleged discrimination and to evaluate the effectiveness of the EEO program."

Storage: Change to read, "Records are maintained in paper case files. Status information required by the Civil Service Commission is maintained on ADP records."

Safeguards: Change to read, "Case files are maintained in filing cabinets within locked rooms. ADP records are protected with password security."

Retention and disposal: Change to read, "a. Precomplaint Records—Counselor's notes are destroyed three months after a formal report is submitted to the EEO officer or three months following the final adjustment when made at that level. b. Formal complaint records—All closed cases are removed from the system quarterly. Each closed case is retained as follows: Official file, 4 years; any copies, 1 year; background documents not in case file, 3 years. c. ADP records—Closed case information is removed quarterly and stripped of personal identifiers. It is then moved to an inactive file (not a system of records) for future comparative analyses."

USPS 050.005—Finance Records—Accounts Receivable File Maintenance.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Change to read, "Present and former employees, contractors, vendors and other individuals indebted to the Postal Service."

Retrievability: Change to read, "Records are normally retrieved by invoice number but may be retrieved, when necessary, by name of employee, contractor, vendor, or other indebted individual."

USPS 120.010—Personnel Records—Architect/Engineers Selection Records.

Categories of records in the system: Change to read, "Information profile on individual's past experience and present qualifications in the field of providing architect-engineer service."

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Change to read, "Purpose—To facilitate the review and assessment of the qualifications of architect-engineer firms which have potential for selection and award of a contract to perform architect-engineer services under a designated facility project."

USPS 120.035—Personnel Records—Employee Accident Records.

Record source categories: Change to read, "USPS Accident Reports and OWCP Claim Forms."

Annual Notice of Systems of Records

The following points are relevant to the annual notice of Postal Service systems of records provided in this document:

a. All systems containing contract records, as well as other legal records relating to those contracts, are considered business records by the Postal Service, rather than systems of personal records, as that term is defined in the Privacy Act. Accordingly, these systems are not listed.

b. All Postal Service records described in this list are subject to:

1. The subpoena of a court of competent jurisdiction.
2. Review by Congress or its representatives upon request.

c. The "routine use" portion of each system notice contains, as the first item, the system "purpose." The "purpose" is included to provide clarity and promote understanding of the system by the layman. It may be defined as that activity performed by those officers and employees of the Postal Service who have a need for component records of the system in the performance of their duties. Disclosure accounting is not maintained by the Postal Service for any activity listed as a "purpose."

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Purpose—To provide information related to investigation of criminal matters; employee and contractor background investigations or other Inspection Service activities. Use—A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such records as follows:

1. In any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate Federal, state, local, or foreign agency charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law.

2. In the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial, or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant.

3. A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a Federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing.

4. A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated in an appropriate Federal, state, local or foreign court or grand jury proceeding in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice.

5. A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings.

6. A record relating to a case or matter that has been referred by an agency for investigation, prosecution, or enforcement, or that involves a case or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the case or matter.

7. A record relating to a person held in custody pending or during arraignment, trial, sentence, or extradition proceedings, or after conviction of after extradition proceeding; may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local or foreign prison, probation, parole, or pardon authority, or to any other agency or individual concerned with the maintenance, transportation or release of such a person.

8. A record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement.

9. A record may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local foreign or international law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency.

10. A record may be disseminated to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

11. A record from this system may be disclosed to the public, news media, trade associations, or organized groups to provide information of interest to the public concerning the activities and the accomplishment of the Postal Service or its employees.

12. A record may be disseminated to a foreign country, through the United States Department of State or directly to the representative of such country, to the extent necessary to assist such country in apprehending and/or returning a fugitive to a jurisdiction which seeks his return.

13. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

14. Disclosure may be made from the record of an individual, where pertinent, in any legal proceeding to which the Postal Service is a party before a court or administrative body.

15. Pursuant to the National Labor Relations Act, records from this system may be furnished to a labor organization upon its request when needed by that organization to perform properly its duties as the collective bargaining representative of postal employees in an appropriate bargaining unit.

17. Inactive records may be transferred to a GSA Federal Records Center prior to destruction.

Information contained in this system of records may be disclosed to an authorized investigator appointed by the United States Civil Service Commission, upon his request, when that investigator is properly engaged in the investigation of a formal complaint of discrimination filed against the U.S. Postal Service under 5 CFR 713, and the contents of the requested record are needed by the investigator in the performance of his duty to investigate a discrimination issue involved in the complaint.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information is collected on handwritten documents and located by computerized indexes.

Retrievability: Information is located by the name of the individual.

Safeguards: Investigative records are maintained in locked file cabinets, safes, or secured areas under the scrutiny of Inspection Service personnel who have been subjected to security clearance procedures. Access is further restricted by computer passwords.

OTP File No. 9

System name: Payroll/Personnel System—OTP.

System location: General Services Administration, Region 3 Office; copies held by the Office of Telecommunications Policy. (GSA holds records for the Office of Telecommunications Policy under contract.)

Categories of records maintained in the system: Varied payroll records including, among other documents, time and attendance cards; payment vouchers; comprehensive listing of employees; health benefit records, requests for deductions; tax forms, W-2 forms, overtime requests; leave data; retirement records. Records are used by OTP and GSA employees to maintain adequate payroll information for OTP employees, and otherwise by OTP and GSA employees who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties.

Authority for the system: 31 U.S.C., generally. Also, Executive Order No. 11556, section 11, and Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1970.

Routine use of records: See Appendix. Records also are disclosed to GAO for audits; to the Internal Revenue Service for investigation; and to private attorneys, pursuant to a power of attorney.

A copy of an employee's Department of the Treasury Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, also is disclosed to the State, city, or other local jurisdiction which is authorized to tax the employee's compensation. The record will be provided in accordance with a withholding agreement between the State, city, or other local jurisdiction and the Department of the Treasury pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 5516, 5517, or 5520, or, in the absence thereof, in response to a written request from an appropriate official of the taxing jurisdiction to the Executive Officer, Office of Telecommunications Policy, 1800 G Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20504. The request must include a copy of the applicable statute or ordinance authorizing the taxation of compensation and should indicate whether the authority of the jurisdiction to tax the employee is based on place of residence, place of employment, or both.

Pursuant to a withholding agreement between a city and the Department of the Treasury (5 U.S.C. 5520), copies of executed city withholding certificates shall be furnished the city in response to written request from an appropriate city official to the Executive Officer.

In the absence of a withholding agreement, the Social Security Number will be furnished only to a taxing jurisdiction which has furnished this agency with evidence of its independent authority to compel disclosure of the Social Security Number, in accordance with Section 7 of the Privacy Act, Pub. L. 93-579.

Appendix—Office of Telecommunications Policy

In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision in the matter.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to an authorized appeal grievance examiner, formal complaints examiner, equal employment opportunity investigator, arbitrator or other duly authorized official engaged in investigation or settlement of a grievance, complaint, or appeal filed by an employee. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to the United States Civil Service Commission in accordance with the agency's responsibility for evaluation and oversight of federal personnel management.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to officers and employees of a federal agency for purposes of audit.

The information contained in this system of records will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular No. A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to a Member of Congress or to a Congressional staff member in response to an inquiry of the Congressional office made at the request of the individual about whom the record is maintained.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to officers and employees of the General Services Administration in connection with administrative services provided to this agency under agreement with GSA.

AUTHORITY: 5 U.S.C. 552a; Pub. L. 93-579.

Subpart G—Privacy Act Regulations

§ 1.110 Purpose and scope.

This subpart contains the regulations of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) implementing the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a). It sets forth the basic responsibilities of each agency of USDA with regard to USDA's compliance with the requirements of the Act, and offers guidance to members of the public who wish to exercise any of the rights established by the Act with regard to records maintained by an agency of USDA.

§ 1.111 Definitions.

For purposes of this subpart the terms "individual," "maintain," "record," "system of records," "statistical record," and "routine use" shall have the meanings set forth in 5 U.S.C. 552a(a). The term "agency" shall mean an agency of USDA, unless otherwise indicated.

§ 1.112 Procedures for requests pertaining to individual records in a record system.

(a) Any individual who wishes to be notified if a system of records maintained by an agency contains any record pertaining to him, or to request access to such records, shall submit a written request in accordance with the instructions set forth in the system notice for that system of records. This request shall include:

- (1) The name of the individual making the request;
- (2) The name of the system of records (as set forth in the system notice to which the request relates);
- (3) Any other information specified in the system notice; and
- (4) When the request is one for access, a statement as to whether the requester desires to make a personal inspection of the records; or be supplied with copies by mail.

(b) Any individual whose request under paragraph (a) of this section is denied may appeal that denial to the head of the agency which maintains the system of records to which the request relates.

(c) In the event that an appeal under paragraph (b) of this section is denied, the requester may bring a civil action in federal district court to seek review of the denial.

§ 1.113 Times, places, and requirements for identification of individuals making requests.

(a) If an individual submitting a request for access under § 1.112 has asked that an agency authorize a personal inspection of records pertaining to him, and the agency has granted that request, the requester shall present himself at the time and place specified in the agency's response or arrange another, mutually convenient, time with the appropriate agency official.

(b) Prior to inspection of the records, the requester shall present sufficient identification (e.g., driver's license, employee identification card, social security card, credit cards) to establish that he is the individual to whom the records pertain. If the requester is unable to provide such identification, he shall complete and sign in the presence of an agency official a signed statement asserting his identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another individual under false pretenses is a misdemeanor punishable by fine up to $5,000. No identification shall be required, however, when the records are ones whose disclosure is required by 5 U.S.C. 552.

(c) Any individual who has requested access to records about him via personal inspection, and who wishes to have another person or persons accompany him during this inspection, shall submit a written statement authorizing disclosure of the record in their presence.

(d) Any individual having made a personal inspection of records pertaining to him may request the agency to provide him copies of those records or any portion thereof. Each agency shall grant such requests but may charge fees in accordance with § 1.120.

(e) If an individual submitting a request for access under § 1.112 wishes to be supplied with copies of the records by mail, he shall include with his request sufficient data for the agency to verify his identity. If the sensitivity of the records warrant it, however, the agency to which the request is directed may require the requester to submit a signed, notarized statement indicating that he is the individual to whom the records pertain and stipulating he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another individual under false pretenses is a misdemeanor punishable by fine up to $5,000. No identification shall be required, however, when the records are ones whose disclosure is required by 5 U.S.C. 552. If the agency to which this request is directed determines to grant the requested access, it may charge fees in accordance with § 1.120 before making the necessary copies.

§ 1.114 Disclosure of requested information to individuals.

(a) Any agency which receives a request or appeal under § 1.112 should acknowledge the request or appeal within 10 days of its receipt (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays). Wherever practicable, the acknowledgment should indicate whether or not access will be granted and, if so, when and where. When access is to be granted, the agency should provide the access within 30 days of receipt of the request or appeal (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) unless, for good cause shown, it is unable to do so. If the agency is unable to meet this deadline, it shall inform the requester of this fact, the reasons for its inability to do so, and an estimate of the date on which access will be granted.

(b) Nothing in 5 U.S.C. 552a or this subpart shall be interpreted to require that an individual making a request under § 1.112 be granted access to the physical record itself. The form in which a record is kept (e.g., on magnetic tape), or the content of the record (e.g., a record indexed under the name of the requester may contain records which are not about the requester) may require that the record be edited or translated in some manner. Neither of these procedures may be utilized, however, to withhold information in a record about the requester.

(c) No agency shall deny any request under § 1.112 for information concerning the existence of records about the requester in any system of records it maintains, or deny any request for access to records about the requester in any system of records it maintains, unless that system is exempted from the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) in § 1.123.

(d) If an agency receives a request pursuant to § 1.112(a) for access to records in a system of records it maintains which is so exempted, the system manager shall determine if the exemption is to be asserted. If he determines to deny the request, he shall inform the requester of that determination, the reason for the determination, and the title and address of the agency head to whom the denial can be appealed.

(e) If the head of an agency determines that an appeal pursuant to § 1.112(b) is to be denied, he shall inform the requester of that determination, the reason therefor, and his right under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g) to seek judicial review of the denial in federal district court.

(f) Nothing in 5 U.S.C. 552a or this subpart shall allow an individual access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding.

§ 1.115 Special procedures, medical records.

In the event an agency receives a request pursuant to § 1.112 for access to medical records (including psychological records) whose disclosure it determines would be harmful to the individual to whom they relate, it may refuse to disclose the records directly to the requester but shall transmit them to a doctor designated by that individual.

§ 1.116 Request for correction or amendment to record.

(a) Any individual who wishes to request correction or amendment of any record pertaining to him contained in a system of records maintained by an agency shall submit that request in writing in accordance with the instructions set forth in the system notice for that system of records. This request shall include:

- (1) The name of the individual making the request;
- (2) The name of the system of records (as set forth in the system notice to which the request relates);
- (3) A description of the nature (e.g., modification, addition or deletion) and substance of the correction or amendment requested; and
- (4) Any other information specified in the system notice.

(b) Any individual submitting a request pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section shall include sufficient information in support of that request to allow the agency to which it is addressed to apply the standards set forth in 5 U.S.C. 552(e) (1) and (5).

(c) Any individual whose request under paragraph (a) of this section is denied may appeal that denial to the head of the agency which maintains the system of records to which the request relates.

(d) In the event that an appeal under paragraph (c) of this section is denied, the requester may bring a civil action in federal district court to seek review of the denial.

§ 1.117 Agency review of request for correction or amendment of record.

(a) Any agency which receives a request for amendment or correction under § 1.116 shall acknowledge that request within 10 days of its receipt (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays). It shall also promptly, either:

- (1) Make any correction, deletion or addition with regard to any portion of a record which the requester believes is not accurate, relevant, timely or complete; or
- (2) Inform the requester of its refusal to amend the record in accordance with his request, the reason for the refusal, the procedures whereby he can appeal the refusal to the head of the agency; and the title and business address of that official. If the agency informs the requester of its determination within the 10-day deadline, a separate acknowledgment is not required.

(b) If an agency is unable to comply with either paragraphs (a) (1) or (2) of this section within 30 days of its receipt of a request for correction or amendment (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays), it should inform the requester of that fact, the reasons therefor, and the approximate date on which a determination will be reached.

(c) In conducting its review of a request for correction or amendment, each agency shall be guided by the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(e) (1) and (5).

(d) If an agency determines to grant all or any portion of a request for correction or amendment, it shall:

- (1) Advise the individual of that determination;
- (2) Make the requested correction or amendment; and
- (3) Inform any person or agency outside USDA to whom the record has been disclosed, and where an accounting of that disclosure is maintained in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(c), of the occurrence and substance of the correction or amendments.

(e) If an agency determines not to grant all or any portion of a request for correction or amendment, it shall:

- (1) Comply with paragraph (d) of this section with regard to any correction or amendment which is made;
- (2) Advise the requester of its determination and the reasons therefor;
- (3) Inform the requester that he may appeal this determination to the head of the agency which maintains the system of records; and
- (4) Describe the procedures for making such an appeal, including the title and business address of the official to whom the appeal is to be addressed.

(f) In the event that an agency receives a notice of correction or amendment to information in a record contained in a system of records which it maintains, it shall comply with paragraphs (d) (2) and (3) of this section in the same manner as if it had made the correction or amendment itself.

§ 1.118 Appeal of initial adverse agency determination on correction or amendment.

(a) Any individual whose request for correction or amendment under § 1.116 is denied, and who wishes to appeal that denial, shall address such appeal to the head of the agency which maintains the system of records to which the request relates, in accordance with the procedures set forth in the agency's initial denial of the request.

(b) The head of each agency shall make a final determination with regard to an appeal submitted under paragraph (a) of this section not later than 30 days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) from the date on which the individual requests a review, unless, for a good cause shown, the head of the agency extends this 30-day period and so notifies the requester, together with an estimate of the date on which a final determination will be made. Such extension should be utilized only in exceptional circumstances and should not normally exceed 30 days. The delegation of authority set forth in this paragraph may not be redelegated.

(c) In conducting his review of an appeal submitted under paragraph (a) of this section, the head of an agency shall be guided by the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a(e) (1) and (5).

(d) If the head of an agency determines to grant all or any portion of an appeal submitted under paragraph (a) of this section, he shall inform the requester and the agency shall comply with the procedures set forth in § 1.117 (d) (2) and (3).

(e) If the head of an agency determines in accordance with paragraph (c) of this section not to grant all or any portion of an appeal submitted under paragraph (a) of this section, he shall inform the requester:

(1) Of this determination and the reasons therefor;

(2) Of the requester's right to file a concise statement of his reasons for disagreeing with the agency's decision;

(3) Of the procedures for filing such a statement of disagreement;

(4) That such statements of disagreements will be made available to anyone to whom the record is subsequently disclosed, together with (if the agency deems it appropriate) a brief statement by the agency summarizing its reasons for refusing to amend the record;

(5) That prior recipients of the disputed record will be provided with a copy of the statement of disagreement, together with (if the agency deems it appropriate) a brief statement of the agency's reasons for refusing to amend the record, to the extent that an accounting of disclosures is maintained under 5 U.S.C. 552a(c); and

(6) Of the requester's right to seek judicial review of the agency's determination in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(g). The agency shall insure that any statements of disagreement submitted by a requester are handled in accordance with paragraphs (e) (4) and (5) of this section.

§ 1.119 Disclosure of record to person other than the individual to whom it pertains.

No agency shall disclose any record which is contained in a system of records it maintains, by any means of communication to any person, or to another agency outside USDA, except pursuant to a written request by, or with the prior written consent of, the individual to whom the record pertains, unless the disclosure is authorized by one or more provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(b).

§ 1.120 Fees.

Any agency which provides copies of records pursuant to a request under this subpart may charge fees for the direct costs of producing such copies in accordance with Appendix A to Subpart A of this Part. No agency, however, shall charge any fee for searches necessary to locate records. Nor shall an agency charge any fees for copies or searches, when the requester sought to make a personal inspection but was provided copies instead at the discretion of the agency.

§ 1.121 Penalties.

The criminal penalties which have been established for violations of the Privacy Act of 1974 are set forth in 5 U.S.C. 552a(d). These penalties are applicable to any officer or employee of an agency who commits any of the enumerated acts. These penalties also apply to contractors and employees of such contractors who enter into contracts with an agency of USDA on or after September 27, 1975, and who are considered to be employees of the agency within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. 552a(m).

§ 1.122 General exemptions. [Reserved]

§ 1.123 Specific exemptions.

Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k), the systems of records (or portions thereof) maintained by agencies of USDA identified below are exempted from the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4), (G), (H) and (I), and (J). The reasons for exempting each system are set out in the notice for that system published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Appendix A—Internal Directives

SECTION 1 General Requirements. Each agency that maintains a system of records subject to 5 U.S.C. 552a and the regulations of this Subpart shall:

(a) Maintain in its records only such information about an individual as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required to be accomplished by statute or by executive order of the President.

(b) Collect information to the greatest extent practicable directly from the subject individual when the information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits, and privileges under Federal programs.

(c) Inform each individual whom it asks to supply information, on the form which it uses to collect the information, or on a separate form that can be retained by the individual.

(1) The authority (whether granted by statute, or by executive order of the President) which authorizes the solicitation of the information and whether disclosure of such information is mandatory or voluntary.

(2) The principal purpose or purposes for which the information is intended to be used.

(3) The routine uses which may be made of the information, as published pursuant to paragraph (d)(4) of this section; and

(4) The effects on him, if any, of not providing all or any part of the requested information.

(d) Subject to the provisions of section 2 of this Appendix, prepare for publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER at least annually a notice of the existence and character of each system it maintains, which notice shall include:

(1) The name and location(s) of the system;

(2) The categories of individuals on whom records are maintained in the system;

(3) The categories of records maintained in the system;

(4) Each routine use of the records contained in the system, including the categories of uses and the purpose of such use;

(5) The policies and practices of the agency regarding storage, retrievability, access controls, retention, and disposal of the records;

(6) The title and business address of the agency official who is responsible for the system of records;

(7) The agency procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request if the system of records contains a record pertaining to him;

(8) The agency procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request how he can gain access to any record pertaining to him contained in the system of records, and how he can contest its content; and

(9) The categories of sources of records in the system;

(e) Maintain all records which are used by the agency in making any determination about any individual with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in the determination;

(f) Prior to disseminating any record about an individual to any person other than an agency, unless the dissemination is made pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(2) make reasonable efforts to assure that such records are accurate, complete, timely, and relevant for agency purposes;

(g) Maintain no record describing how any individual exercises rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless expressly authorized by statute or by the individual about whom the record is maintained, or unless pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity;

(h) Make reasonable efforts to serve notice on an individual when any record on such individual is made available to any person under compulsory legal process when such process becomes a matter of public record;

(i) Establish rules of conduct for persons involved in the design, development, operation, or maintenance of any system of records, or in maintaining any record, and instruct each such person with respect to such rules and the requirements of this section, including any other rules and procedures adopted pursuant to this section and the penalties for noncompliance;

(j) Establish appropriate administrative, technical, and physical safeguards to insure the security and confidentiality of records and to protect against any anticipated threats or hazards to their security or integrity which could result in substantial harm, embarrassment, inconvenience, or unfairness to any individual on whom information is maintained.

SEC. 2 Amendment of routine uses for an existing system of records, or establishment of a new system of records.

(a) Any agency which intends to add a routine use, or amend an existing one, in a system of records it maintains, shall, in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1), insure that 30 days advance notice of such action is given by publication in the Federal Register and an opportunity provided for interested persons to submit written data, views or arguments to the agency.

(b) Any agency which intends to establish a new system of records, or to alter any existing system of records, shall insure that adequate advance notice is provided to Congress and the Office of Management and Budget to permit an evaluation of the probable or potential effect of such action on the privacy and other personal or property rights of individuals or the disclosure of information relating to such individuals, and its effect on the preservation of the constitutional principles of federalism and separation of powers. Such notice is required for any new system of records and for any alteration in an existing one which will:

(1) Increase the number of types of individuals on whom records are maintained;

(2) Expand the type or amount of information maintained;

(3) Increase the number or categories of agencies or other persons who may have access to those records;

(4) Alter the manner in which the records are organized so as to change the nature or scope of these records (e.g., the combining of two or more existing systems);

(5) Modify the way the system operates at its location(s) in such a manner as to alter the procedures which individuals can exercise their rights under this Subpart; or

(6) Change the equipment configuration on which the system is operated so as to create the potential for greater access (e.g., adding a telecommunications capability).

SEC. 3 Accounting of Certain Disclosures. Each agency, with respect to each system of records under its control, shall:

(a) Except for disclosures made under 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(1) and (2), keep an accurate account of:

(1) The date, nature, and purpose of each disclosure of a record to any person or agency outside the Department; and

(2) The name and address of the person or agency to whom the disclosure is made;

(b) Retain the accounting made under paragraph (a) of this section for the longer of a period of five years, after the date of the disclosure for which the accounting is made, or the life of the record disclosed;

(c) Except for disclosures made under 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(7), make the accounting above available to the individual named in the record at his request.

SEC. 4 Government Contracts. When an agency within the Department provides by a contract for the operation by or on behalf of the agency of a system of records to accomplish an agency function, the agency shall, consistent with its authority, cause the requirements of this subpart to be applied to such system. For purposes of 5 U.S.C. 552a(a)(1) any such contractor or any employee of such contractor, if such contract is agreed to on or after September 27, 1975, shall be considered to be an employee of an agency and therefore subject to the criminal penalties set forth in that section.

SEC. 5 Mailing Lists. No agency within the Department shall sell or rent any individual's name and address unless such action is specifically authorized by law. This section shall not be construed to require, or to authorize, the withholding of names and addresses whose disclosure is required by 5 U.S.C. 552.

SEC. 6 Social security account numbers. (a) No agency shall deny, or permit any State or local government with whom it is involved in a cooperative venture to deny, to any individual any right, benefit, or privilege provided by law because of such individual's refusal to disclose his social security account number.

(b) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this Section shall not apply with respect to:

(1) Any disclosure required by Federal statute; or

(2) Any disclosure to any agency relating to a system of records it maintained prior to January 1, 1975, if such disclosure was required under statute or regulation adopted prior to that date, to verify the identity of an individual.

(c) Any agency in the Department which requests an individual to disclose his social security account number shall inform that individual whether the disclosure is mandatory or voluntary, by what statutory or other authority the number is solicited, and what uses will be made of it. The agency shall also insure that this information is provided by a State or local government with whom it is involved in a cooperative agreement.

SEC. 7 Annual report. Each agency in the Department shall submit to the Office of the General Counsel prior to March 30 of each year (beginning March 30, 1976) a report containing the following information related to implementation of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(a) A summary of major accomplishments;

(b) A summary of major plans for activities in the upcoming year;

(c) A list of the systems which were exempted during the year from any of the operative provisions of this Subpart pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k), whether or not the exemption was effected during that year, the number of instances with respect to each system exempted in which the exemption was invoked to deny access, and the reasons for invoking the exemption;

(d) A brief summary of changes to the total inventory of personal data system subject to this Subpart including reasons for major changes; and

(e) A general description of operational experiences including estimates of the number of individuals (in relation to the total number of records in the system):

(1) Requesting information on the existence of records pertaining to them;

(2) Refusing to provide information;

(3) Requesting access to their records;

(4) Appealing initial refusals to amend records; and

(5) Seeking redress through the courts.

SEC. 8 Effect of 5 U.S.C. 552. No agency in the Department shall rely on any exemption in 5 U.S.C. 552 to withhold from an individual any record which is otherwise accessible to such individual under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a and this Subpart.

(5 U.S.C. 301, 552a).

§ 103.20 Purpose and scope.

(a) Sections 103.20 through 103.36 comprise the regulations of the Service implementing the Privacy Act of 1974, P.L. 93-597. The regulations apply to all records contained in systems of records maintained by the Service which are identifiable by individual name or identifier and which are retrieved by individual name or identifier, except those personnel records governed by Civil Service Commission regulations. The regulations set forth the procedures by which individuals may seek access to records pertaining to themselves and request correction of those records. The regulations also set forth the requirements applicable to Service employees maintaining, collecting, using or disseminating such records.

(b) The Associate Commissioner, Management, shall provide that the provisions of §§ 103.20 through 103.36 of this chapter and 28 CFR 16.40 through 16.56, and any revisions thereof, shall be brought to the attention of and made available to:

(1) Each employee at the time of issuance of the aforesaid regulations and any amendment thereto; and

(2) Each new employee at the time of employment.

(c) The Associate Commissioner, Management, shall be responsible for insuring that employees of the Service are trained in the obligations imposed by the Privacy Act of 1974 and by these regulations.

§ 103.21 Access by individuals to records maintained about them.

(a) Access to available records. An individual seeking access to records about himself in a system of records, which have not been exempted from access pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974, shall present his request in person or in writing to the manager of the particular system of records to which he seeks access. Systems managers are identified in the "Notice of Systems of Records" published by the National Archives and Records Service, General Services Administration. Access to records in multiple systems of records shall be addressed to the Office of the Associate Commissioner, Management, which shall assist the requester in identifying his request more precisely and shall be responsible for forwarding the request to the appropriate system managers. The use of Form G-657, Privacy Act Information Request, is recommended for rapid identification and to insure expeditious handling.

(b) Verification of identity. The following standards are applicable to any individual who requests records concerning himself, unless other provisions for identity verification are specified in the published notice pertaining to the particular system of records.

(1) An individual seeking access to records about himself in person shall establish his identity by the presentation of a single document bearing a photograph (such as a passport, alien registration receipt card or identification badge) or by the presentation of two items of identification which do not bear a photograph but do bear both a name and address (such as a driver's license, or credit card).

(2) An individual seeking access to records about himself by mail shall establish his identity by a signature, address, date of birth, place of birth, alien or employee identification number, if any, and one other identifier such as a photocopy of an identifying document.

(3) An individual seeking access to records about himself by mail or in person who cannot provide the necessary documentation of identification may provide a notarized statement swearing or affirming to his identity and to the fact that he understands the penalties for false statements pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 1001. Form G-652, "Affidavit of Identity," may be obtained on request from the office of the system manager of a system of records at a system location listed in the "Notice of Systems of Records" published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(c) Verification of guardianship. The parent or guardian of a child or of a person judicially determined to be incompetent and seeking to act on behalf of such child or incompetent, shall, in addition to establishing his own identity, establish the identity of the child or other person he represents as required in paragraph (b) of this section, and establish his own parentage of guardianship of the subject of the record by furnishing either a copy of a birth certificate showing parentage or a court order establishing the guardianship.

(d) Accompanying persons. An individual seeking to review records pertaining to himself may be accompanied by another individual of his own choosing. Both the individual seeking access and the individual accompanying him shall be required to sign the required form indicating that the Service is authorized to discuss the contents of the subject record in the presence of both individuals.

(e) Specification of records sought. Requests for access to records, either in person or by mail, shall describe the nature of the records sought, the approximate dates covered by the record, the system in which it is thought to be included as described in the "Notice of Systems of Records" published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, and the identity of the individual or office of the Service having custody of the system of records. In addition, the published "Notice of Systems of Records" for individual systems may include further requirements of specification, where necessary, to retrieve the individual record from the system.

§ 103.22 Records exempt in whole or in part.

(a) When an individual requests records about himself which have been exempted from individual access pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j) or (k)(3) or (k)(4) or which have been compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding either in a court or before an administrative tribunal, the Service will neither confirm nor deny the existence of the record but shall advise the individual only that there is no record which is available to him pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974.

(b) Individual requests for access to records which have been exempted from access pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k) shall be processed as follows:

(1) Requests for information classified by the Service pursuant to Executive Order 11652 require the Service to review the information to determine whether it continues to warrant classification under the criteria of sections 1 and 5(B), (C), (D), and (E) of the Executive Order. Information which no longer warrants classification under these criteria shall be declassified and made available to the individual, if not otherwise exempt. If the information continues to warrant classification, the individual shall be advised that the information sought is classified; that it has been reviewed and continues to warrant classification; and that it has been exempted from access pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1). Information which has been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j) and which is also classified shall be reviewed as required by this paragraph but the response to the individual shall be in the form prescribed by paragraph (a) of this section.

(2) Requests for information which has been exempted from disclosure pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) shall be responded to in the manner provided in paragraph (a) of this section unless a review of the information indicates that the information has been used or is being used to deny the individual any right, privilege or benefit for which he is eligible or to which he would otherwise be entitled under Federal law. In that event, the individual shall be advised of the existence of the record and shall be provided the information except to the extent it would identify a confidential source. If and only if information identifying a confidential source can be deleted or the pertinent parts of the record summarized in a manner which protects the identity of the confidential source, the document with deletions made or the summary shall be furnished to the requester.

(3) Information compiled as part of an employee background investigation which has been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5) shall be made available to an individual upon request except to the extent that it identifies a confidential source. If and only if information identifying a confidential source can be deleted or the pertinent parts of the record summarized in a manner which protects the identity of the confidential source, the document with deletions made or the summary shall be furnished to the requester.

(4) Testing or examination material which has been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(6) shall not be made available to an individual if disclosure would compromise the objectivity or fairness of the testing or examination process but shall be made available if no such compromise possibility exists.

(5) The Service records which are exempted and the reasons for the exemptions are enumerated in 28 CFR 16.99.

§ 103.23 Special access procedures.

(a) Records of other agencies. When information sought from a system of records of the Service includes information:

(1) That has been classified pursuant to Executive Order 11652, the request shall be referred to the appropriate classifying authority pursuant to 28 CFR 17.61 and the individual requesting the record shall be so advised unless the record is also exempt from disclosure pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k);

(2) That has been furnished by another component of the Department of Justice, the request shall be referred to the component originating the information for a decision as to access or correction;

(3) That has been furnished by another agency, the Service shall consult the other agency before granting access or making a correction and may refer the request to the other agency if referral will provide more expeditious access or correction, but the requester shall be notified of the referral.

(b) Medical records. When an individual requests medical records concerning himself, which are not otherwise exempt from disclosure, the system manager shall, if deemed necessary, advise the individual that records will be provided only to a physician designated in writing by the individual. Upon receipt of the designation, the system manager will permit the physician to review the records or to receive copies of the records by mail, upon proper verification of identity. The determination of which records should be made available directly to the individual and which records should not be disclosed because of possible harm to the individual shall be made by the physician.

§ 103.24 Requests for accounting of record disclosure.

At the time of his request for access or correction or at any other time, an individual may request an accounting of disclosures made of his record outside the Department of Justice. Requests for accounting shall be directed to the appropriate system manager listed in the "Notice of Systems of Records". Any available accounting, whether kept in accordance with the requirements of the Privacy Act or under procedures established prior to September 27, 1975, shall be made available to the individual except that an accounting need not be made available if it relates to: (a) A disclosure with respect to which no accounting need be kept (see § 103.30(c) of this part); (b) A disclosure made to a law enforcement agency pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(7); (c) An accounting which has been exempted from disclosure pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k).

§ 103.25 Notice of access decisions; time limits.

(a) Responsibility for notice. The system manager of the system from which information is sought or his delegate has responsibility for determining whether access to records is available under the Privacy Act and for notifying the individual of that determination in accordance with these regulations. If access is denied because of an exemption, the responsible person shall notify the individual that he may appeal that determination to the Deputy Attorney General within thirty working days of the receipt of the determination.

(b) Time limits for access determinations. The time limits provided by 28 CFR 16.45 shall be applicable to requests for access to information pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974.

§ 103.26 Fees for copies of records.

The fees charged by the Service under the Privacy Act shall be those specified in 28 CFR 16.46. Remittances shall be made in accordance with § 103.7(a).

§ 103.27 Appeals from denials of access.

An individual who has been denied access by the Service to the records concerning him may appeal that decision in the manner prescribed in 28 CFR 16.47.

§ 103.28 Requests for correction of records.

(a) How made. Unless a record is exempted from correction, an individual may request amendment or correction of a record concerning him by addressing his request to the system manager of the system in which the record is maintained either in person or by mail, his identity to be established as provided in § 103.21 of this part. The request must indicate the particular record involved, the nature of the correction sought, and the justification for the correction or amendment. Requests made by mail should be addressed to the system manager at the address specified in the "Notice of Systems of Records" published by the General Services Administration and shall be clearly marked on the request and on the envelope "Privacy Correction Request." Where the individual cannot determine the precise system manager or believes that the same record appears in more than one system, he may address his request to the office of the Associate Commissioner, Management, Immigration and Naturalization Service, 425 I Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20536, which shall assist him in identifying the system or systems in which the record is located.

(b) Initial determination. Within 10 working days of the receipt of the request, the appropriate Service official shall advise the individual that his request has been received. If the record is to be amended or corrected, the system manager may so advise the individual but if correction is refused, in whole or in part, it must be done by the head of the component in which the record is located, or his designee. If a correction is to be made, the individual shall be advised of his right to obtain a copy of the corrected record upon payment of the standard fee, established in 28 CFR 16.46. If a correction or amendment is refused, in whole or in part, the individual shall be so advised, shall be given reasons for the refusal, and shall be advised of his right to appeal to the Deputy Attorney General in accordance with the procedures set forth in 28 CFR 16.48.

(c) Appeals. A refusal, in whole or in part, to amend or correct a record may be appealed as provided in 28 CFR 16.48.

(d) Appeal determinations. 28 CFR 16.48 provides for appeal determinations.

(e) Statements of disagreement. Statements of disagreement may be furnished by the individual in the manner prescribed in 28 CFR 16.48.

(f) Notices of correction or disagreement. When a record has been corrected, the system manager shall, within thirty working days thereof, advise all prior recipients of the record whose identity can be determined pursuant to the accounting required by the Privacy Act or any other accounting previously made, or the correction. Any dissemination of a record after the filing of a statement of disagreement shall be accompanied by a copy of that statement. Any statement of the Service giving reasons for refusing to correct shall be included in the file.

§ 103.29 Records not subject to correction.

The following records are not subject to correction or amendment by individuals:

(a) Transcripts or written statements made under oath;

(b) Transcripts of Grand Jury Proceedings, judicial or quasi-judicial proceedings which form the official record of those proceedings;

(c) Pre-sentence reports comprising the property of the courts but maintained in Service files; and

(d) Records duly exempted from correction by notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 103.30 Accounting for disclosures.

(a) An accounting of each disclosure of information for which accounting is required (see § 103.24 of this part) shall be attached to the relating record. A copy of Form G-657, "Privacy Act Information Request," Form G-658, "Record of Information Disclosure (Privacy Act)," or other disclosure document shall be used for this accounting. The system manager shall advise individuals, promptly upon request as described in § 103.24, of the persons or agencies outside the Department of Justice to which records concerning them have been disclosed.

(b) Accounting records, at a minimum, shall include the identification of the particular record disclosed, the name and address of the person or agency to which disclosed, and the date of the disclosure. Accounting records shall be maintained for at least 5 years, or until the record is destroyed or transferred to the Archives, whichever is later.

(c) Accounting is not required to be kept for disclosure made within the Department of Justice or disclosure made pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act.

§ 103.31 Notices of subpoenas and emergency disclosures.

(a) Subpoenas. When records concerning an individual are subpoenaed by a Grand Jury, court, or an quasi-judicial agency, the official served with the subpoena shall be responsible for assuring that notice of its issuance is provided to the individual. Notice shall be provided within 10 days of the service of the subpoena or, in the case of a Grand Jury subpoena, within 10 days of its becoming a matter of public record. Notice shall be mailed to the last known address of the individual and shall contain the following information: the date the subpoena is returnable, the court in which it is returnable, the name and number of the case or proceeding, and the nature of the information sought. Notice of the issuance of subpoenas is not required if the system of records has been exempted from the notice requirement pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j), by a Notice of Exemption published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(b) Emergency disclosures. If information concerning an individual has been disclosed to any person under compelling circumstances affecting health or safety, the individual shall be notified at his last known address within 10 working days of the disclosure. Notification shall include the following information: the nature of the information disclosed, the person or agency to whom it was disclosed, the date of the disclosure, and the compelling circumstances justifying the disclosure. Notification shall be given by the officer who made or authorized the disclosure.

§ 103.32 Information forms.

(a) Review of forms. The Service shall be responsible for the review of forms it uses to collect information from and about individuals.

(b) Scope of review. The Service Forms Control Unit shall review each form to assure that it complies with the requirements of 28 CFR 16.52.

§ 103.33 Contracting Record Systems.

Any contract by the Service for the operation of a record system shall be in compliance with 28 CFR 16.53.

§ 103.34 Security of Records Systems.

The security of records systems shall be in accordance with 28 CFR 16.54.

§ 103.35 Use and collection of Social Security numbers.

The use and collection of Social Security numbers shall be in accordance with 28 CFR 16.55.

§ 103.36 Employee standards of conduct with regard to privacy.

Service employees standards of conduct with regard to privacy shall be in compliance with 28 CFR 16.56.

(Sec. 103, 66 Stat. 173; 8 U.S.C. 1103)

Subpart D—Protection of Privacy of Individual Records

§ 16.40 Purpose and scope.

(a) This subpart contains the regulations of the Department of Justice implementing the Privacy Act of 1974, Pub. L. 93-579. The regulations apply to all records contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice which are retrieved by individual name or identifier, except that for personnel records, where there is a conflict between these regulations and those of the Commission, Civil Service Commission regulations shall prevail. The regulations set forth the procedures by which individuals may seek access to records pertaining to themselves in these systems of records and request correction of them. The regulations also set forth the requirements applicable to Department of Justice employees maintaining, collecting, using or disseminating such records. These regulations are applicable to each Office, Division, Board, Bureau, Service and Administration of the Department (hereafter referred to as a "component").

(b) The Assistant Attorney General for Administration shall provide that the provisions of this subpart and any revisions thereof shall be brought to the attention of and made available to:

(1) Each employee at the time of issuance of this subpart and any amendment thereto; and

(2) Each new employee at the time of employment.

(c) The Assistant Attorney General for Administration shall be responsible for insuring that employees of the Department of Justice are trained in the obligations imposed by the Privacy Act of 1974 and by these regulations, but each component of the Department is authorized to undertake training for its own employees.

§ 16.41 Access by individuals to records maintained about them.

(a) Access to available records. An individual seeking access to records about himself in a system of records, which have not been exempted from access pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974, may present his request in person or in writing to the manager of the particular system of records to which he seeks access or to such other person as may be specified. System managers and others to whom requests may be presented are identified in the "Notice of Records Systems" published by the National Archives and Records Service, General Services Administration. Access to Department of Justice records maintained in National Archives and Records Service Centers may be obtained in accordance with the regulations issued by the General Services Administration. Access to records in multiple systems of records should be addressed to each component maintaining one of the systems. If a requester seeks guidance in defining his request, he may write to the Information Systems Staff, Office of Management and Finance, Department of Justice, 10th and Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20530.

(b) Verification of identity. The following standards are applicable to any individual who requests records concerning himself, unless other provisions for identity verification are specified in the published notice pertaining to the particular system of records.

(1) An individual seeking access to records about himself in person may establish his identity by the presentation of a single document bearing a photograph (such as a passport or identification badge) or by the presentation of two items of identification which do not bear a photograph but do bear both a name and address (such as a driver's license, or credit card).

(2) An individual seeking access to records about himself by mail shall establish his identity by a signature, address, date of birth, place of birth, employee identification number if any, and one other identifier such as a photocopy of an identifying document.

(3) An individual seeking access to records about himself by mail or in person who cannot provide the necessary documentation of identification may provide a notarized statement, swearing or affirming to his identity and to the fact that he understands the penalties for false statements pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 1001. Forms for such notarized statements may be obtained on request from the Information Systems Staff, Office of Management and Finance, U.S. Department of Justice, Washington, D.C. 20530.

(c) Verification of guardianship. The parent or guardian of a minor or a person judicially determined to be incompetent and seeking to act on behalf of such minor or incompetent shall, in addition to establishing his own identity, establish the identity of the minor or other person he represents as required in paragraph (b) of this section and establish his own parentage or guardianship of the subject of the record by furnishing either a copy of a birth certificate showing parentage or a court order establishing the guardianship.

(d) Accompanying persons. An individual seeking to review records about himself may be accompanied by another individual of his own choosing. Both the individual seeking access and the individual accompanying him shall be required to sign the required form indicating that the Department of Justice is authorized to discuss the contents of the subject record in the presence of both individuals.

(e) Specification of records sought. Requests for access to records, either in person or by mail shall describe the nature of the records sought, the approximate dates covered by the record, the system or systems in which it is thought to be included as described in the "Notices of Records Systems" published by the General Services Administration, and the identity of the system manager or component of the Department having custody of the system of records. In addition, the published "Notice of Systems Records" for individual systems may include further requirements of specification where necessary to retrieve the individual record from the system.

§ 16.42 Records exempt in whole or in part.

(a) When an individual requests records about himself which have been exempted from individual access pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k)(3) or (k)(4) or which have been compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding either in a court or before an administrative tribunal, the Department of Justice will neither confirm nor deny the existence of the record but shall advise the individual only that there is no record which is available to him pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974.

(b) Individual requests for access to records which have been exempted from access pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k) shall be processed as follows:

(1) Requests for information classified by the Department of Justice pursuant to Executive Order 11652 require the responsible component of the Department to review the information to determine whether it continues to warrant classification under the criteria of sections 1 and 5 (B), (C), (D), and (E) of the Executive Order. Information which no longer warrants classification under these criteria shall be declassified and made available to the individual if not otherwise exempt. If the information continues to warrant classification, the individual shall be advised that the information sought is classified, that it has been reviewed and continues to warrant classification, and that it has been exempted from access pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1). Information which has been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j) and which is also classified shall be reviewed as required by this paragraph but the response to the individual shall be in the form prescribed by paragraph (a) of this section.

(2) Requests for information which has been exempted from disclosure pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) shall be responded to in the manner provided in paragraph (a) of this section unless a review of the information indicates that the information has been used or is being used to deny the individual any right, privilege or benefit for which he is eligible or to which he would otherwise be entitled under federal law. In that event, the individual shall be advised of the existence of the record and shall be provided the information except to the extent it would identify a confidential source. If and only if information identifying a confidential source can be deleted or the pertinent parts of the record summarized in a manner which protects the identity of the confidential source, the document with deletions made or the summary shall be furnished to the requester.

(3) Information compiled as part of an employee background investigation which has been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5) shall be made available to an individual upon request except to the extent that it identifies a confidential source. If and only if information identifying a confidential source can be deleted or the pertinent parts of the record summarized in a manner which protects the identity of the confidential source, the document with deletions made or the summary shall be furnished to the requester.

(4) Testing or examination material which has been exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(6) shall not be made available to an individual if disclosure would compromise the objectivity or fairness of the testing or examination process but shall be made available if no such compromise possibility exists.

§ 16.43 Special access procedures.

(a) Records of other agencies. When information sought from a system of records in the Department of Justice includes information:

(1) That has been classified pursuant to Executive Order 11652, the request shall be referred to the appropriate classifying authority pursuant to 28 CFR 17.61 and the individual requesting the record shall be so advised unless the record is also exempt from disclosure pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k);

(2) That has been furnished by another component of the Department, the request shall be referred to the component originating the information for a decision as to access or correction;

(3) That has been furnished by another agency, the Department shall consult the other agency before granting access or making a correction and may refer the request to the other agency if referral will provide more expeditious access or correction, but the requester shall be notified of the referral.

(b) Medical Records. When an individual requests medical records concerning himself, which are not otherwise exempt from disclosure, the system manager shall, if deemed necessary, advise the individual that records will be provided only to a physician designated in writing by the individual. Upon receipt of the designation, the system manager will permit the physician to review the records or to receive copies of the records by mail, upon proper verification of identity. The determination of which records should be made available directly to the individual and which records should not be disclosed because of possible harm to the individual shall be made by the physician.

§ 16.44 Requests for accounting of record disclosures.

At the time of his request for access or correction or at any other time, an individual may request an accounting of disclosures made of his record outside the Department of Justice. Requests for accounting shall be directed to the system manager or other person specified in the "Notices of Records Systems." Any available accounting, whether kept in accordance with the requirements of the Privacy Act or under procedures established prior to September 27, 1975 shall be made available to the individual except that an accounting need not be made available if it relates to: (a) records with respect to which no accounting need be kept (see § 16.50(c) infra); (b) a disclosure made to a law enforcement agency pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (b)(7); (c) an accounting which has been exempted from disclosure pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k).

§ 16.45 Notice of access decisions; time limits.

(a) Responsibility for notice. The head of the component maintaining the system from which information is sought or his delegate has responsibility for determining whether access to records is available under the Privacy Act and for notifying the individual of that determination in accordance with these regulations. If access is denied because of an exemption, the responsible person shall notify the individual that he may appeal that determination to the Deputy Attorney General within thirty working days of the receipt of the determination.

(b) Time limits for access determinations. The following time limits shall be applicable to requests for access to information pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974:

(1) Any request concerning a single system of records all of which are maintained at the same location and none of which requires consultation with another component or agency shall be responded to within 20 working days unless the records requested exceed the equivalent of 100 pages.

(2) Any request concerning a single system of records some of which require consultation with another component or agency shall be responded to within 25 working days unless the records requested exceed the equivalent of 100 pages.

(3) Any request involving several systems of records or one or more systems maintained at different locations shall be responded to within 40 working days.

(4) Any request involving the equivalent of 100 pages or more, whether maintained in one system or several systems, shall be responded to within 40 working days.

(5) If a request under paragraphs (b) (2), (3) or (4) of this section presents unusual difficulties in determining whether the records involved are exempt from disclosure, the Deputy Attorney General, upon written request of the responsible person, may extend the time period established by these regulations for an additional 15 working days.

§ 16.46 Fees for copies of records.

(a) When charged. Fees pursuant to 31 U.S.C. 483a and 5 U.S.C. 552a(f)(5) shall be charged according to the schedules contained in paragraph (b) of this section for actual copies of records provided to individuals unless the responsible person determining access, in his discretion, waives the fee for good cause (such as the inability of the individual to pay) or a separate fee schedule is established for an exempt system. Fees shall not be charged where they would amount, in the aggregate, to less than $3.

(b) Fees charged. Fees may only be assessed for actual copies of materials furnished pursuant to the Privacy Act in accordance with the following schedule:

(1) For copies of documents (maximum of 10 copies will be supplied), $0.10 per page;

(2) For computer material charges:

(i) 1-part paper per 1,000 pp.	$11.00
(ii) 2-part paper per 1,000 pp.	22.80
(iii) 3-part paper per 1,000 pp.	36.17
(iv) 4-part paper per 1,000 pp.	48.32
(v) 5-part paper per 1,000 pp.	63.97
(vi) Stock Hollerith cards per 1,000.	1.98
(vii) Magnetic tape per reel.	10.75
(viii) Disk pack, each.	775.00

(3) For tape recordings and other audio records:

(i) 45-min cassette.	$0.58
(ii) 60-min cassette.	.60
(iii) 90-min cassette.	.77

(4) For materials other than the common ones described in paragraphs (b) (1), (2) and (3) of this section, the direct costs of such materials to the government may be charged, but only if the requester has been notified of such cost before it is incurred.

(c) Notice of anticipated charges. Where it is anticipated that access fees chargeable under this section will amount to more than $25, and the requester has not indicated in advance his willingness to pay fees as high as are anticipated, the requester shall be notified of the amount of the anticipated fees before copies are made. The notification shall offer the requester the opportunity to confer with Department personnel with the object of reformulating the request so as to meet his needs at lower cost.

(d) Form of payment. Payment should be made by check or money order payable to the Department of Justice. No employee of the Department of Justice is authorized to accept payment of fees in cash.

(e) Advance deposit. Where the anticipated fee chargeable under this section exceeds $25, an advance deposit of part or all of the anticipated fee may be required.

§ 16.47 Appeals from denials of access.

An individual who has been denied access to records concerning him may appeal that decision to the Deputy Attorney General by filing a written appeal within 30 working days of the receipt of the denial. If the denial of access was made by a responsible person in the Office of the Deputy Attorney General, the appeal shall be to the Attorney General. The appeal shall be marked on its face and on the face of the envelope "Privacy Appeal—Denial of Access," and shall be addressed to the Office of the Deputy Attorney General, U.S. Department of Justice, Washington, D.C. 20530, or, if an appeal from a denial by the Deputy Attorney General, to the Assistant Attorney General, Office of Legal Counsel, at the same address. Appeals shall be determined in thirty working days unless the appropriate official, by notice to the individual, extends that period for an additional thirty working days because of the volume of records requested, the scattered location of records, the need to consult other agencies, or the difficulty of the legal issues involved, or other administrative difficulty.

§ 16.48 Requests for correction of records.

(a) How Made. Unless a record is exempted from correction, an individual may request amendment or correction of a record concerning him by addressing his request to the person responsible for the system in which the record is maintained either in person or by mail. The request must indicate the particular record involved, the nature of the correction sought, and the justification for the correction or amendment. Requests made by mail should be addressed to the person specified in the Notice of Systems of Records published by the General Services Administration and shall be clearly marked on the request and on the envelope "Privacy Correction Request." Where the individual believes that the same record appears in more than one system, he should address his request to each person responsible for a system of records which may contain the record he seeks to correct.

(b) Initial determination. Within 10 working days of the receipt of the request, the appropriate Department official shall advise the individual that his request has been received. If the record is to be amended or corrected, the system manager may so advise the individual but if correction is refused, in whole or in part, it must be done by the head of the component in which the record is located or his delegate. If a correction is to be made, the individual shall be advised of his right to obtain a copy of the corrected record upon request. If a correction or amendment is refused, in whole or in part, the individual shall be so advised, shall be given reasons for the refusal, and shall be advised of his right to appeal the refusal to the Deputy Attorney General in accordance with the procedures set forth in this section.

(c) Appeals. A refusal, in whole or in part, to amend or correct a record may be appealed to the Deputy Attorney General within 30 days of the receipt of notice of the refusal. If the refusal to correct was made by the Office of the Deputy Attorney General, the appeal shall be to the Attorney General. Appeals shall be in writing, shall set forth the specific item of information sought to be corrected, and the individual's documentation justifying the correction. Appeals shall be addressed to the Office of the Deputy Attorney General, U.S. Department of Justice, Washington, D.C. 20530 or, if an appeal from a denial by the Deputy Attorney General, to the Assistant Attorney General, Office of Legal Counsel, at the same address. They shall be clearly marked on the appeal and on the envelope, "Privacy Correction Appeal." The appeal shall be decided within 30 working days unless the appropriate official shall extend the time for an additional 30 working days because of the need to obtain additional information, the volume of records involved, or the complexity of the issue, or other administrative difficulty. The requester shall be advised in advance of any such extension and shall be given the reasons therefor.

(d) Appeal determinations. If the Deputy Attorney General or Attorney General determines that an amendment or correction is not warranted on the facts, he shall advise the individual of his refusal to authorize correction or amendment of the record, in whole or in part, and shall advise the individual of his right to provide for the record a "Statement of Disagreement." The individual shall be advised also of his right to judicial review pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974.

(e) Statements of disagreement. Statements of Disagreement may be furnished by the individual within 30 working days of the date of receipt of the notice of refusal of the Deputy Attorney General or Attorney General to authorize correction. They shall be addressed to the Office of the Deputy Attorney General, U.S. Department of Justice, Washington, D.C. 20530. Statements may not exceed one typed page per fact disputed. Statements exceeding this limit will be returned to the requester for condensation. Upon receipt of a statement of disagreement in accordance with this section, the Deputy Attorney General shall take steps to insure that the statement is included in the system or systems of records in which the disputed item is maintained and that the original record is so marked as to indicate that there is a statement of disagreement and where, within the system of records, that statement may be found.

(f) Notices of correction or disagreement. When a record has been corrected the system manager shall, within thirty working days thereof, advise all prior recipients of the record whose identity can be determined pursuant to the accounting required by the Privacy Act or any other accounting previously made, of the correction. Any dissemination of a record after the filing of a statement of disagreement shall be accompanied by a copy of that statement. Any statement of the agency giving reasons for refusing to correct shall be included in the file.

§ 16.49 Records not subject to correction.

The following records are not subject to correction or amendment by individuals:

- (a) Transcripts or written statements made under oath;
- (b) Transcripts of Grand Jury Proceedings, judicial or quasi-judicial proceedings which form the official record of those proceedings;
- (c) Pre-sentence reports comprising the property of the courts but maintained in agency files; and
- (d) Records duly exempted from correction by notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 16.50 Accounting for disclosures.

(a) As soon as possible, but not later than September 27, 1975, each system manager, with the approval of the head of his component, shall establish a system of accounting for all disclosures of records, either orally or in writing, made outside the Department of Justice. Accounting procedures may be established in the least expensive and most convenient form that will permit the system manager to advise individuals, promptly upon request, of the persons or agencies to which records concerning them have been disclosed.

(b) Accounting records, at a minimum, shall include the identification of the particular record disclosed, the name and address of the person or agency to which disclosed, and the date of the disclosure. Accounting records shall be maintained until the record is destroyed or transferred to the Archives.

(c) Accounting is not required to be kept for disclosures made within the Department of Justice or disclosures made pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act.

§ 16.51 Notices of subpoenas and emergency disclosures.

(a) Subpoenas. When records concerning an individual are subpoenaed by a Grand Jury, Court, or quasi-judicial agency, the official served with the subpoena shall be responsible for assuring that notice of its issuance is provided to the individual. Notice shall be provided within 10 days of the service of the subpoena or, in the case of a Grand Jury subpoena, within 10 days of its becoming a matter of public record. Notice shall be mailed to the last known address of the individual and shall contain the following information: the date the subpoena is returnable, the court in which it is returnable, the name and number of the case or proceeding, and the nature of the information sought. Notice of the issuance of subpoenas is not required if the system of records has been exempted from the notice requirement, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j), by a Notice of Exemption published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(b) Emergency disclosures. If information concerning an individual has been disclosed to any person under compelling circumstances affecting health or safety the individual shall be notified at his last known address within 10 working days of the disclosure. Notification shall include the following information: the nature of the information disclosed, the person or agency to whom it was disclosed, the date of the disclosure, and the compelling circumstances justifying the disclosure. Notification shall be given by the officer who made or authorized the disclosure.

§ 16.52 Information forms.

(a) Review of forms. Except for forms developed and used by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Immigration and Naturalization Service, the Bureau of Prisons, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the U.S. Marshals Service for the collection of information from individuals, the Office of Management and Finance shall be responsible for reviewing all forms developed and used by the Department of Justice to collect information from individuals. The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Immigration and Naturalization Service, the Bureau of Prisons, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the U.S. Marshals Service shall each be responsible for the review of forms it uses to collect information from individuals.

(b) Scope of review. The responsible offices shall review each form for the purpose of eliminating any requirement for information that is not relevant and necessary to carry out an agency function and to accomplish the following objectives:

- (1) To insure that no information concerning religion, political beliefs or activities, association memberships (other than those required for a professional license), or the exercise of other First Amendment rights is required to be disclosed unless such requirement of disclosure is expressly authorized by statute or is pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity;
- (2) To insure that the form or accompanying statement makes clear to the individual which information he is required by law to disclose and the authority for that requirement and which information is voluntary;
- (3) To insure that the form or accompanying statement states clearly the principal purpose or purposes for which the information is being collected, and summarizes concisely the routine uses that will be made of the information;

(4) To insure that the form or accompanying statement clearly indicates to the individual the effect in terms of rights, benefits or privileges of not providing all or part of the requested information; and

(5) To insure that any form requesting disclosure of a Social Security Number, or an accompanying statement, clearly advises the individual of the statute or regulation requiring disclosure of the number or clearly advises the individual that disclosure is voluntary and that no consequence will flow from his refusal to disclose it, and the uses that will be made of the number whether disclosed mandatorily or voluntarily.

(c) Revision of forms. Any form which does not meet the objectives specified in the Privacy Act and in this section, shall be revised to conform thereto. If revision, printing and distribution cannot be accomplished prior to September 27, 1975, a separate statement shall be prepared to accompany each form advising the individual that the form is not in compliance with the Privacy Act and specifying the portions thereof which are not in compliance. The statement shall include all the information necessary to accomplish the objectives specified in the Privacy Act and this section.

§ 16.53 Contracting records systems.

(a) No component of the Department shall contract for the operation of a record system by or on behalf of the agency without the express approval of the Attorney General.

(b) Any contract which is approved shall contain the standard contract requirements promulgated by the General Services Administration to insure compliance with the requirements imposed by the Privacy Act of 1974. The contracting agency shall have responsibility for insuring that the contractor complies with the contract requirements relating to privacy.

§ 16.54 Security of records systems.

(a) The Assistant Attorney General for administration shall have responsibility for developing Department regulations governing the security of systems of records. Regulations relating to the security of automated systems shall be consistent with the guidelines developed by the National Bureau of Standards.

(b) Each system manager, with the approval of the head of his component, shall establish administrative and physical controls, consistent with Department regulations, to insure the protection of records systems from unauthorized access or disclosure and from physical damage or destruction. The controls instituted shall be proportional to the degree of sensitivity of the records but at a minimum must insure that the records, are enclosed in a manner to protect them from public view, that the area in which the records are stored is supervised during all business hours to prevent unauthorized personnel from entering the area or obtaining access to the records, and that the records are reasonably inaccessible to unauthorized persons outside of business hours.

(c) Each system manager, with the approval of the head of his component shall adopt access restrictions to insure that only those individuals within the agency who have a need to have access to the records for the performance of their duties have access to them. Procedures shall also be adopted to prevent accidental access to or dissemination of records.

§ 16.55 Use and collection of Social Security numbers.

(a) Each system manager of a system of records which utilizes the Social Security number as a method of identification without statutory authorization, or authorization by regulation adopted prior to January 1, 1975, shall take steps to revise the system to avoid future collection and use of the Social Security number.

(b) The head of each component of the Department shall take such measures as are necessary to insure that employees authorized to collect information from individuals are advised that individuals may not be required to furnish Social Security numbers without statutory or regulatory authorization and that individuals who are requested to provide Social Security numbers voluntarily must be advised that furnishing the number is not required and that no penalty or denial of benefits will flow from the refusal to provide it.

§ 16.56 Employee standards of conduct with regard to privacy.

(a) The head of each component of the Department shall be responsible for assuring that employees subject to his supervision are advised of the provisions of the Privacy Act, including the criminal penalties and civil liabilities provided therein, and that such employees are made aware of their responsibilities to protect the security of personal information, to assure its accuracy, relevance, timeliness and completeness, to avoid unauthorized disclosure either orally or in writing, and to insure that no system of records retrieved by individual identifier, no matter how small or specialized, is maintained without public notice.

(b) Except to the extent permitted pursuant to the Privacy Act, employees of the Department of Justice shall:

- (1) Collect no information of a personal nature from individuals unless authorized to collect it to achieve a function or carry out a responsibility of the Department;

(2) Collect from individuals only that information which is necessary to Department functions or responsibilities;

(3) Collect information, wherever practicable, directly from the individual to whom it relates;

(4) Inform individuals from whom information is collected of the authority for collection, the purposes thereof, the uses that will be made of the information, and the effects, both legal and practical, of not furnishing the information;

(5) Neither collect, maintain, use or disseminate information concerning an individual's religious or political beliefs or activities or his membership in associations or organizations, unless (i) the individual has volunteered such information for his own benefit; (ii) the information is expressly authorized by statute to be collected, maintained, used or disseminated; or (iii) the activities involved are pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized investigation, adjudication or correctional activity;

(6) Advise their supervisors of the existence or contemplated development of any record system which retrieves information about individuals by individual identifier;

(7) Wherever required by the Act, maintain an accounting, in the prescribed form, of all dissemination of personal information outside the Department, whether made orally or in writing;

(8) Disseminate no information concerning individuals outside the Department except when authorized by 5 U.S.C. 552a, including pursuant to a routine use published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(9) Maintain and process information concerning individuals with care in order to insure that no inadvertent disclosure of the information is made either within or without the Department; and

(10) Call to the attention of the proper Department authorities any information in a system maintained by the Department which is not authorized to be maintained under the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, including information on First Amendment activities and information that is inaccurate, irrelevant or so incomplete as to risk unfairness to the individual concerned.

(c) Heads of components within the Department shall, at least annually, review the record systems subject to their supervision to insure compliance with the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974.

§ 16.57 Relationship of Privacy Act and the Freedom of Information Act.

(a) Issuance of this section and actions considered or taken pursuant hereto are not to be deemed a waiver of the Government's position that the materials in question are subject to all of the exemptions contained in the Privacy Act. By providing for exemptions in the Act, Congress conferred upon each agency the option, at the discretion of the agency, to grant or deny access to exempt materials unless prohibited from doing so by any other provision of law. Releases of records under this section, beyond those mandated by the Privacy Act, are at the sole discretion of the Deputy Attorney General and of those persons to whom authority hereunder may be delegated. Authority to effect such discretionary releases of records and to deny requests for those records as an initial matter is hereby delegated to the appropriate system managers as per the Notices of Systems of Records published in 40 FEDERAL REGISTER 167, pages 38703-38801 (August 27, 1975).

(b) Any request by an individual for information pertaining to himself shall be processed solely pursuant to this Subpart D. To the extent that the individual seeks access to records from systems of records which have been exempted from the provisions of the Privacy Act, the individual shall receive, in addition to access, to those records he is entitled to receive under the Privacy Act and as a matter of discretion as set forth in paragraph (a), access to all records within the scope of his request to which he would have been entitled under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, but for the enactment of the Privacy Act and the exemption of the pertinent systems of records pursuant thereto. Only fees set forth in § 16.46 may be charged a requester as to any records to which access is granted pursuant to the provisions of this subsection.

(c) When an individual requests access to records pertaining to criminal, national security or civil investigative activities of the Federal Bureau of Investigation which are contained in systems of records exempted under provisions of the Privacy Act such requests shall be processed as follows:

(1) Where the investigative activities involved have been reported to F.B.I. Headquarters, records maintained in the F.B.I.'s Central files will be processed; and,

(2) Where the investigative activities involved have not been reported to F.B.I. Headquarters, records maintained in files of the Field Office identified by the requester will be processed.

Subpart E—Exemption of Record Systems Under the Privacy Act

§ 16.70 [Reserved]

§ 16.71 Exemption of the Office of the Deputy Attorney General Systems

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1) and (e)(1):

Appointed Assistant United States Attorneys Personnel System (JUSTICE/DAG-001).

(2) Assistant United States Attorneys Applicant Records System (JUSTICE/DAG-002).

Presidential Appointee Candidate Records System (JUSTICE/DAG-009).

(4) Presidential Appointee Records System (JUSTICE/DAG-010).

(5) Special Candidates for Presidential Appointments Records System (JUSTICE/DAG-011).

(6) United States Judges Records System (JUSTICE/DAG-014).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in those systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(5).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (d)(1) because many persons are contacted who, with out an assurance of anonymity, refuse to provide information concerning a candidate for a judgeship or assistant U.S. Attorney position. Permitting access to the information supplied by persons after a promise of confidentiality has been given, could reveal the identity of the source of the information and constitute a breach of the promised confidentiality on the part of the Department of Justice. Such breaches ultimately would restrict the free flow of information vital to a determination of a candidate's qualifications and suitability.

(2) From subsection (e)(1) because in the collection of information for investigation and evaluative purposes, it is impossible to determine in advance what exact information may be of assistance in determining the qualifications and suitability of a candidate. Information which may appear irrelevant, when combined with other apparently irrelevant information, can on occasion, provide a composite picture of a candidate for a position which assists in determining whether that candidate should be nominated for appointment.

§ 16.72-16.75 [Reserved]

§ 16.76 Exemption of Office of Management and Finance Systems

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(d): Controlled Substances Act Nonpublic Records (JUSTICE/OMF-002).

This exemption applies only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 552a (j).

(b) Exemption from subsection (d) is justified for the following reasons:

(1) Pub. L. 91-513 (Controlled Substances Act), Sec. 404(b) states that the nonpublic record "shall be retained by the Department of Justice solely for the purpose of use by the courts in determining whether or not, in subsequent proceedings, such person qualifies under this subsection." It is therefore maintained that it is the intent of Congress that these nonpublic records, by definition, receive no further exposure.

(c) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(d):

(1) Security Clearance Information System (SCIS) (JUSTICE/OMF-008)—Limited access.

This exemption applies only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 552a (j) and (k).

(d) Exemption from subsection (d) is justified for the following reason:

(1) Access to records in the system would reveal the identity(ies) of the source(s) of information collected in the course of a background investigation. Such knowledge might be harmful to the source who provided the information as well as violate the explicit or implicit promise of confidentiality made to the source during the investigation.

(e) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the Office of Management and Finance will grant access to nonexempt material in SCIS records which are maintained by the Security and Administrative Services Staff. Disclosure will be governed by the Department's Privacy Regulations, but will be limited to the extent that the identity of confidential sources will not be compromised; subjects of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation will not be alerted to the investigation; the physical safety of witnesses, informants and law enforcement personnel will not be endangered; the privacy of third parties will not be violated; and that the disclosure would not otherwise impede effective law enforcement. Whenever possible, information of the above nature will be deleted from the requested documents and the balance made available. The controlling principle behind this limited access is to allow disclosures except those indicated above. The decisions to release information from this system will be made on a case-by-case basis.

(f) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(d):

(1) Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Records System (JUSTICE/OMF-019).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2).

(g) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because that portion of the Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Records System that consists of investigatory materials compiled for law enforcement purposes is being exempted from access and contest; the provision for disclosure of accounting is not applicable.

(2) From subsection (d) because of the need to safeguard the identity of confidential informants and avoid interference with ongoing investigations or law enforcement activities by preventing premature disclosure of information relating to those efforts.

§ 16.77 [Reserved]

§ 16.78 Exemption of Watergate Special Prosecution Force Systems—Limited access.

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e)(5), (f) and (g):

(1) Watergate Special Prosecution Force Investigative and Prosecutory File (JUSTICE/WSPF-001).

(2) Watergate Special Prosecution Force Automated Investigative File (JUSTICE/WSPF-002).

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

From subsection (c)(3) because the release of the accounting of disclosures made under subsection (b) of the Act, including those disclosures permitted under the routine uses published for these systems of records would permit the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil or regulatory violation to determine whether he is the subject of an investigation or to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of that investigation, material compiled during the investigation, and the identity of witnesses and informants. Disclosure of the accounting would therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement. In addition, disclosure of the accounting would amount to notice to the individual of the existence of a record; such notice requirement under subsection (f)(1) is specifically exempted for these systems of records.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) because an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act. This section is inapplicable to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsection (d).

(3) From subsection (d) because access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil, or regulatory violation of the existence of that investigation, of the nature and scope of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, of the identity of witnesses and informants, or would provide information that could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because they could prevent the successful completion of the investigation, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony.

(4) From subsection (e)(1) because the notices for these systems of records published in the Federal Register set forth the basic statutory or related authority for maintenance of these systems. However, in the course of criminal or other law enforcement investigations, cases, and matters the Watergate Special Prosecution Force will occasionally obtain information concerning actual or potential violations of law that are not strictly within its statutory or other authority, or may compile information in the course of an investigation which may not be relevant to a specific prosecution. In the interests of effective law enforcement, it is necessary to retain such information in these systems of records since it can aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity and can provide valuable leads for federal and other law enforcement agencies.

(5) From subsection (e)(2) because in a criminal or other law enforcement investigation or prosecution, the requirement that the information be collected to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement because the subject of the investigation or prosecution would be placed on notice as to the existence of the investigation and would therefore be able to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

(6) From subsection (e)(3) because the requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential investigation or reveal the identity of witnesses or confidential informants.

(7) From subsection (e)(4) (G) and (H) because an exception is being claimed for subsections (d) and (f) of the Act. These subsections are inapplicable to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsections (d) and (f).

From subsection (e)(4)(I) because the categories of sources of the records in these systems have been published in the Federal Register in broad generic terms in the belief that this is all that subsection (e)(4)(I) of the Act requires. In the event, however, that this subsection should be interpreted to require more detail as to the identity of sources of the records in these systems, exemption from this provision is necessary in order to protect the confidentiality of the sources of criminal and other law enforcement information. Such exemption is further necessary to protect the privacy and physical safety of witnesses and informants.

(9) From subsection (e)(5) because in the collection of information for criminal or other law enforcement purposes it is impossible to determine in advance what information is accurate, relevant, timely and complete. With the passage of time, seemingly irrelevant or untimely information may acquire new significance as further investigation brings new details to light and the accuracy of such information can often only be determined in a court of law. The restrictions of subsection (e)(5) would restrict the ability of trained investigators, intelligence analysts, and government attorneys to exercise their judgment in reporting on information and investigations and impede the development of criminal or other intelligence necessary for effective law enforcement.

(10) From subsection (f) because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of an investigation or prosecution pending or future. In addition, mere notice of the fact of an investigation could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may become the subject of an investigation and could enable the subjects to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony. Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act, the rules required pursuant to this subsection are inapplicable.

(11) From subsection (g) because an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) and (f).

(c) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the Watergate Special Prosecution Force will grant access to nonexempt material in records which are maintained by the Watergate Special Prosecution Force. Disclosure will be governed by the Department's Privacy Regulations, but will be limited to the extent that the identity of confidential sources will not be compromised; subjects of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil or regulatory violation will not be alerted to the investigation; the physical safety of witnesses, informants and law enforcement personnel will not be endangered; the privacy of third parties will not be violated; and that the disclosure would not otherwise impede effective law enforcement. Whenever possible, information of the above nature will be deleted from the requested documents and the balance made available. The controlling principle behind this limited access is to allow disclosures except those indicated above. The decisions to release information from these systems of records will be made on a case-by-case basis.

§ 16.79 Exemption of Pardon Attorney System.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(d):

(1) Executive Clemency Files (JUSTICE/OPA-001).

This exemption applies only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(b) Exemption from subsection (d) is justified for the following reasons:

(1) Executive clemency files contain investigatory and evaluative reports relating to applicants for Executive clemency. Release of such information to the subject would jeopardize the integrity of the investigative process, invade the right of candid and confidential communications among officials concerned with recommending clemency decisions to the President, and disclose the identity of persons who furnished information to the Government under an express or implied promise that their identities would be held in confidence.

(2) The purpose of the creation and maintenance of these files is to enable the Pardon Attorney to prepare for the President's ultimate decisions on matters which are within the President's exclusive jurisdiction by virtue of Article II, section 2, clause 1 of the Constitution, which commits pardons to the exclusive discretion of the President.

§ 16.80 [Reserved]

§ 16.81 Exemption of United States Attorneys Systems—Limited access.

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g) and (h):

(1) Citizen Complaint Files (JUSTICE/USA-003).

(2) Civil Case Files (JUSTICE/USA-005).

(3) Consumer Complaints (JUSTICE/USA-006).

(4) Criminal Case Files (JUSTICE/USA-007).

(5) Kline—District of Columbia and Maryland Stock and Land Interrelationship Filing System (JUSTICE/USA-010).

(6) Major Crimes Division Investigation Files (JUSTICE/USA-011).

(7) Prosecutor's Management Information System (PROMIS) (JUSTICE/USA-012).

(8) U.S. Attorney, District of Columbia Superior Court Division, Criminal Files (JUSTICE/USA-014).

(9) Pre-trial Diversion Program Files (JUSTICE/USA-015).

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures pursuant to the routine uses published for these systems would permit the subject of a criminal investigation and/or civil case or matter under investigation, litigation, regulatory or administrative review or action, to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of the investigation, case or matter and present a serious impediment to law enforcement or civil legal activities.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d), this subsection will not be applicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of criminal investigation and/or civil investigation, matter or case of the existence of that investigation, provide the subject of the investigation with information that might enable him to avoid detection, apprehension or legal obligations, and present a serious impediment to law enforcement and other civil remedies.

(4) From subsection (e)(1) because in the course of criminal investigations and/or civil investigations, cases or matters, the United States Attorneys often obtain information concerning the violation of laws or civil obligations other than those relating to an active case or matter. In the interests of effective law enforcement and civil litigation, it is necessary that the United States Attorneys retain this information since it can aid in establishing patterns of activity and provide valuable leads for other agencies and future cases that may be brought within the United States Attorneys' offices.

(5) From subsection (e)(2) because in a criminal investigation the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent possible from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement in that the subject of the investigation would be placed on notice of the existence of the investigation and would therefore be able to avoid detection, apprehension or legal obligations and duties.

(6) From subsection (e)(3) because the requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential investigation, reveal the identity of confidential sources of information and endanger the life and physical safety of confidential informants.

(7) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) because these systems of records are exempt from individual access pursuant to subsections (j) and (k) of the Privacy Act of 1974.

(8) From subsection (e)(5) because in the collection of information for law enforcement purposes it is impossible to determine in advance what information is accurate, relevant, timely, and complete. With the passage of time, seemingly irrelevant or untimely information may acquire new significance as further investigation brings new details to light and the accuracy of such information can only be determined in a court of law. The restrictions of subsection (e)(5) would restrict the ability of trained investigators and intelligence analysts to exercise their judgment in reporting on investigations and impede the development of intelligence necessary for effective law enforcement.

(9) From subsection (e)(8) because the individual notice requirements of subsection (e)(8) could present a serious impediment to law enforcement as this could interfere with the United States Attorneys' ability to issue subpoenas and could reveal investigative techniques and procedures.

(10) From subsection (f) because these systems of records have been exempted from the access provisions of subsection (d).

(11) From subsections (g) and (h) because these systems of records are compiled for law enforcement purposes and have been exempted from the access provisions of subsections (d) and (f).

(c) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the Executive Office for United States Attorneys will grant access to nonexempt material in records which are maintained by the United States Attorneys. Disclosure will be governed by the Department's Privacy Regulations, but will be limited to the extent that the identity of confidential sources will not be compromised; subjects of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil or regulatory violation will not be alerted to the investigation; the physical safety of witnesses, informants and law enforcement personnel will not be endangered; the privacy of third parties will not be violated; and that the disclosure would not otherwise impede effective law enforcement. Whenever possible, information of the above nature will be deleted from the requested documents and the balance

§ 16.84 Exemption of Board of Immigration Appeals System.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) (2), (3) and (4):

(1) Decisions of the Board of Immigration Appeals (JUSTICE/BIA-001).

This exemption applies only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsections (d) (2), (3) and (4) because the decisions reflected constitute official records of opinions rendered in quasi-judicial proceedings. Administrative due process could not be achieved by the ex parte "correction" of such opinions by the subject of the opinion.

Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Records (JUSTICE/USA-009).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that the records contained in this system have been obtained from other systems of records maintained by the U.S. Attorneys Offices for which exemptions from one or more of the foregoing provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 have been promulgated. The exemption claimed for this system of records applies only to records obtained from such other U.S. Attorneys Offices systems and only to the same extent as the records contained in such other systems have been exempted.

§ 16.85 Exemption of Board of Parole System—Limited access.

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e) (4) (G) and (H), (e) (8), (f) and (g):

(1) Docket Scheduling and Control System (JUSTICE/BPR-001).

(2) Inmate and Supervision Files System (JUSTICE/BPR-003).

(3) Labor and Pension Case, Legal File, and General Correspondence System (JUSTICE/BPR-004).

(4) Statistical, Educational and Developmental System (JUSTICE/BPR-006).

(5) Workload Record, Decision Result, and Annual Report System (JUSTICE/BPR-007).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because revealing disclosure of accountings to inmates and persons on supervision could compromise legitimate law enforcement activities and Board of Parole responsibilities.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) because the exemption from subsection (d) will make notification of disputes inapplicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because this is essential to protect internal processes by which Board personnel are able to formulate decisions and policies with regard to federal prisoners and persons under supervision, to prevent disclosures of information to federal inmates or persons on supervision that would jeopardize legitimate correctional interests of security, custody, supervision, or rehabilitation, to permit receipt of relevant information from other federal agencies, state and local law enforcement agencies, and federal and state probation and judicial offices, to allow private citizens to express freely their opinions for or against parole, to allow relevant criminal history type information of co-defendants to be kept in files, to allow medical, psychiatric and sociological material to be available to professional staff, and to allow a candid process of fact selection, opinion formulation, evaluation and recommendation to be continued by professional staff. The legal files contain case development material and, in addition to other reasons, should be exempt under the attorney-client privilege. Each labor or pension applicant has had served upon him the material in his file which he did not prepare and may see his own file at any time.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because primary collection of information directly from federal inmates or persons on supervision about criminal sentence, criminal records, institutional performance, readiness for release from custody, or need to be returned to custody is highly impractical and inappropriate.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) because application of this provision to the operations and collection of information by the Board, which is primarily from sources other than the individual, is inappropriate.

(6) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) because exemption from the access provisions of (d) makes publication of agency procedures under (d) inapplicable.

(7) From subsection (e)(8) because the nature of the Board's activities renders notice of compliance with compulsory legal process impractical.

(8) From subsection (f) because exemption from the provisions of subsection (d) will render compliance with provisions of this subsection inapplicable.

(9) From subsection (g) because exemption from the provisions of subsection (d) will render the provisions on suits to enforce (d) inapplicable.

(c) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the Board of Parole will initiate a procedure whereby present or former federal inmates in custody or persons under supervision may review copies of material in files relating to them which are maintained by the Board of Parole. Disclosure of the contents will be effected by providing copies of documents to requesters through the mails. Disclosure will be limited to the extent that investigative data, letters or memoranda containing facts selected from the whole fact picture, and items of opinion, conclusion and recommendation, items from exempt sources such as the courts, medical and psychiatric data harmful to continuation of therapy, data which would jeopardize privacy rights of others, and information furnished with a legitimate expectation of confidentiality will not be made available. The controlling principle behind the limited access is to allow disclosures except those which would impair the integrity of the Board's decision or policy making processes, the confidentiality of its sources, the effectiveness of the Department of Justice's investigative processes, and the privacy of third parties; or jeopardize the legitimate correctional interests of release from custody, supervision, control and rehabilitation and the decision and policy making processes connected therewith; the documentation of which is exemptable from the Privacy Act. The limitations on disclosure may be changed generally or in regard to certain documentation due to pending or future decisions and directions of the Department of Justice.

§§ 16.86-16.87 [Reserved]

§ 16.88 Exemption of Antitrust Division Systems.

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f):

(1) Computerized Document Retrieval System—"United States v. International Business Machines" ("CDRS-IBM") (JUSTICE/ATR-002).

(2) Computerized Document Retrieval System—"Tire cases" ("CDRS-Tire Cases") (JUSTICE/ATR-003).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k). It is noted however, that the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a are not applicable to these systems by virtue of 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(5).

(b) Exemption from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) Exemption from subsection (c)(3) is justified because these systems are maintained only in aid of on-going antitrust enforcement proceedings (e.g., pretrial/trial). Documents retrieved by using information ("keywords") stored electronically in these systems are, and will be required in the ordinary course of conducting all proceedings in "United States v. The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company," Civil No. C-73-835 (N.D. Ohio), "United States v. The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company," Civil No. C-73-836 (N.D. Ohio), and "United States v. International Business Machines," Civil No. 69-Civ.-200 (S.D. N.Y.). Consequently, in the course of such protracted and complex antitrust proceedings, the presentation, production or other routine and necessary disclosure of documents retrieved from these systems will be required to be made before the courts and as otherwise required by order of court or pursuant to binding rules of procedure.

(2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) does not apply to these systems by virtue of 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(5). In addition, exemptions from subsections (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f), all related to matters concerned with individual access to information in systems of records, are justified under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k) because access to the documents retrievable from these systems and compiled for law enforcement purposes could result in the invasion of the privacy of private persons named or otherwise identified in such documents as well as the unjustified disclosure of commercial and financial information of a confidential nature obtained from various firms connected with or involved in the referenced proceedings.

(3) Exemption from subsection (e)(1) is justified because the collection of documents prior to and during the judicial proceedings necessarily involves the assemblage, indexing and storage in these types of systems of information relative to individuals who are not ultimately required to appear or otherwise connected with actual litigation.

(c) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f):

(1) Antitrust Caseload Evaluation System (ACES)—Monthly Report. (Justice/ATR-009)

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2). It is noted however that the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a are not applicable to these systems by virtue of 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(5).

(d) Exemption from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) Exemption from subsection (c)(3) is justified because these systems are maintained in aid of ongoing antitrust enforcement investigations and proceedings. The release of the accounting of disclosures made under subsection (b) of the Act would permit the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal or civil violation to determine whether he is the subject of an investigation. Disclosure of the accounting would therefore present a serious impediment to antitrust law enforcement efforts.

(2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) does not apply to these systems by virtue of 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(5). In addition, exemptions from subsections (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f), all related to matters concerned with individual access to information in systems of records are justified under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) because access to the information retrievable from this system and compiled for law enforcement purposes could result in the premature disclosure of the identity of the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal or civil violation and information concerning the nature of that investigation. This information could enable the subject to avoid detection of apprehension. This would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement since the subject could hinder or prevent the successful completion of the investigation.

§ 16.89 [Reserved]

§ 16.90 Exemption of Civil Rights Division Systems.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(d):

(1) Files on Employment Civil Rights Matters Referred by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (JUSTICE/CRT-007).

This exemption applies to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (d) because this system contains investigatory material compiled by the Equal Opportunity Commission pursuant to its authority under 42 U.S.C. 2000e-8. 42 U.S.C. 2000e-8(e) and 44 U.S.C. 3508 make it unlawful to make public in any manner whatsoever any information obtained by the Commission pursuant to the authority.

(c) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3) and (d):

(1) Records Obtained by Office of Special Litigation Concerning Residents of Certain State Institutions (JUSTICE/CRT-005).

(2) Files of Federal Programs Section, Civil Rights Division (JUSTICE/CRT-006).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552(k).

(d) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosure pursuant to the routine uses published for this system may enable the subject of an investigation to gain valuable information concerning the nature and scope of the investigation and seriously hamper law enforcement efforts.

(2) From subsection (d) because freely permitting access to records in this system would compromise ongoing investigations and reveal investigatory techniques. In addition, these records may be subject to protective orders entered by federal courts to protect their confidentiality. Many of the records contained in these systems are copies of documents which are the property of state agencies and were obtained under express or implied promises to strictly protect their confidentiality.

(e) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d) and (g):

(1) Central Civil Rights Division Index File and Associated Records (JUSTICE/CRT-001).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j) and (k).

(f) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsections (c)(3) and (d) for the reasons listed in 16.90(d)(1) and (2) above.

(2) From subsection (g) because exemption from the provision of subsection (d) will render the provisions on suits to enforce (d) inapplicable.

(g) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, the following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), and (d) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Central Criminal Division, Index File and Associated Records System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-001)—Limited Access.

(2) General Crimes Section, Criminal Division, Central Index File and Associated Records System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-004)—Limited Access.

These exemptions apply only to the extent that the records contained in this system have been obtained from other systems of records maintained by the Civil Rights Division for which exemptions from one or more of the foregoing provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 have been promulgated. The exemptions claimed for this system of records apply only to records obtained from such other Civil Rights Division systems and only to the same extent as the records contained in such other systems have been exempted.

(h) The system of records listed under paragraph (g) of this section is exempted for the following reasons:

(1) In the course of processing requests for records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) or for access or correction of records pursuant to the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a), it is frequently necessary to search for records in systems of records for which exemptions have been claimed pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k). When records are located in said systems, it is frequently necessary to prepare copies for the purpose of consulting with agency personnel or with other agencies, either with regard to determining whether or to what extent the records should be disclosed, or access provided, or correction made or denied, or for review in the event of administrative appeal or judicial review.

(2) If records otherwise exempt pursuant to published rules should lose their exempt character when taken from such exempt systems for the purpose of compliance with the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act in reviewing such records and making determination with regard to disclosure, access, and correction, the purpose of the Privacy Act in providing such exemptions, and of the Department of Justice in claiming such exemptions would be defeated and nullified. The proper, efficient, and timely processing of citizens' requests pursuant to said Acts would be hindered and impeded.

§ 16.91 Exemption of Criminal Division Systems—Limited access, as indicated.

(a) The following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, the following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(1) and (k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H), and (I), and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Central Criminal Division, Index File and Associated Records System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-001)—Limited Access.

(2) General Crimes Section, Criminal Division, Central Index File and Associated Records System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-004)—Limited Access.

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in those systems are subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and (k)(2).

(b) The systems of records listed under paragraphs b(1) and (b)(2) of this section are exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1), (c)(3). The release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for these systems of records, would permit the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil, or regulatory violation to determine whether he is the subject of investigation, or to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of that investigation, and the information obtained, or the identity of witnesses and informants and would therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement. In addition, disclosure of the accounting would amount to notice to the individual of the existence of a record; such notice requirement under subsection (f)(1) is specifically exempted for these systems of records.

(2), (c)(4). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this subsection is inapplicable to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsection (d).

(3), (d). Access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil, or regulatory violation of the existence of that investigation, or the nature and scope of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, of the identity of witnesses and informants, or would provide information that could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because they could prevent the successful completion of the investigation, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony.

(4), (e)(1). The notices of these systems of records published in the Federal Register set forth the basic statutory or related authority for maintenance of this system. However, in the course of criminal or other law enforcement investigations, cases, and matters, the Criminal Division or its components will occasionally obtain information concerning actual or potential violations of law that are not strictly within its statutory or other authority or may compile information in the course of an investigation which may not be relevant to a specific prosecution. In the interests of effective law enforcement, it is necessary to retain such information in these systems of records since it can aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity and can provide valuable leads for federal and other law enforcement agencies.

(5), (e)(2). In a criminal investigation or prosecution, the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement because the subject of the investigation or prosecution would be placed on notice as to the existence of the investigation and would therefore be able to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

(6), (e)(3). The requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential investigation or reveal the identity of witnesses or confidential informants.

(7), (e)(4) (G) and (H). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (f) (Agency Rules) and (d) (Access to Records) of the Act these subsections are inapplicable to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsections (f) and (d).

(8), (e)(4)(I). The categories of sources of the records in these systems have been published in the FEDERAL REGISTER in broad generic terms in the belief that this is all that subsection (e)(4)(I) of the Act requires. In the event, however, that this subsection should be interpreted to require more detail as to the identity of sources of the records in these systems, exemption from this provision is necessary in order to protect the confidentiality of the sources of criminal and other law enforcement information. Such exemption is further necessary to protect the privacy and physical safety of witnesses and informants.

(9), (e)(5). In the collection of information for criminal law enforcement purposes it is impossible to determine in advance what information is accurate, relevant, timely, and complete. With the passage of time, seemingly irrelevant or untimely information may acquire new significance as further investigation brings new details to light and the accuracy of such information can often only be determined in a court of law. The restrictions of subsection (e)(5) would re-restrictions of subsection (e)(5) would restrict the ability of trained investigators, intelligence analysts, and government attorneys in exercising their judgment in reporting on information and investigations and impede the development of criminal or other intelligence necessary for effective law enforcement.

(10). (e)(8). The individual notice requirements of subsection (e)(8) could present a serious impediment to law enforcement as this could interfere with the ability to issue warrants or subpoenas and could reveal investigative techniques, procedures, or evidence.

(11). (f). Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records pertaining to him dealing with an actual or potential criminal, civil or regulatory investigation or prosecution must be exempted because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of an investigation or prosecution pending or future. In addition, mere notice of the fact of an investigation could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may become the subject of an investigation and could enable the subjects to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules require pursuant to subsection (f) (2) through (5) are inapplicable to these systems of records to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsection (d).

(12). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable, and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections, to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsections (d) and (f).

(13). In addition, exemption is claimed for these systems of records from compliance with the following provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a) pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1): subsections (e)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) and (f) to the extent that the records contained in these systems are specifically authorized to be kept secret in the interests of national defense and foreign policy.

(c) The following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsection (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Criminal Division Witness Security Program, File System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-002).

(2) Narcotic and Dangerous Drug Witness Security, Program File System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-009).

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in these systems are subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(d) The systems of records listed under paragraphs (c)(1) and (c)(2) of this section are exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(3) The release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for these systems of records, would permit the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation, which may include those protected under the Witness Security Program, to determine whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation, to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of that investigation and the information obtained, or the identity of witnesses and informants and the nature of their reports, and would therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement. In addition, disclosure of the accounting would amount to notice to the individual of the existence of a record; such notice requirement under subsection (f)(1) is specifically exempted for these systems of records. Moreover, disclosure of the disclosure accounting to an individual protected under the Witness Security Program could jeopardize the effectiveness and security of the Program by revealing the methods and techniques utilized in relocating witnesses and could therefore jeopardize the ability to obtain, and to protect the confidentiality of, information compiled for purposes of a criminal investigation.

(2). (c)(4) Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable.

(3). (d) Access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation, which may include those protected under the Witness Security Program, of the existence of that investigation, of the nature and scope of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, of the identity of witnesses and informants, or would provide information that could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because they could prevent the successful completion of the investigation, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony. In addition, access to the records in these systems to an individual protected under the Witness Security Program could jeopardize the effectiveness and security of the Program by revealing the methods and techniques utilized in relocating witnesses and could therefore jeopardize the ability to obtain, and to protect the confidentiality of, information compiled for purposes of a criminal investigation.

(4). Exemption is claimed from subsection (e)(1) for the reasons stated in subsection (b)(4) of this section.

(5). (e)(2) In the course of preparing a Witness Security Program for an individual much of the information is collected from the subject. However, the requirement that the information be collected to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to criminal law enforcement because the individual himself may be the subject of a criminal investigation or have been a participant in, or observer of, criminal activity. As a result, it is necessary to seek information from other sources. In addition, the failure to verify the information provided from the individual when necessary and to seek other information could jeopardize the confidentiality of the Witness Security Program and lead to the obtaining and maintenance of incorrect and uninvestigated information on criminal matters.

(6). (e)(3) The requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise or reveal the identity of witnesses and informants protected under the Witness Security Program.

(7). (e)(4) (G) and (H). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (f) (Agency Rules) and (d) (Access to Records) of the Act these subsections are inapplicable.

(8). (e)(4)(I). The categories of sources of the records in these systems have been published in the Federal Register in broad generic terms in the belief that this is all that subsection (e)(4)(I) of the Act requires. In the event, however, that this subsection should be interpreted to require more detail as to the identity of sources of the records in the system, exemption from this provision is necessary in order to protect the confidentiality of the sources of criminal law enforcement information and of witnesses and informants protected under the Witness Security Program.

(9). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e)(5) and (e)(8) for the reasons stated in subsection (b)(9) and (b)(10) of this section.

(10). Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records contained in these systems pertaining to him would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation, which may include those protected under the Witness Security Program, of the existence of that investigation, of the nature and scope of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, of the identity of witnesses and informants, or would provide information that could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because they could prevent the successful conduct and/or completion of an investigation pending or future, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony. In addition, notices as to the existence of records contained in these systems to an individual protected under the Witness Security Program could jeopardize the effectiveness and security of the Program by revealing the methods and techniques utilized in relocating witnesses and could therefore jeopardize the ability to obtain, and to protect the confidentiality of information compiled for purposes of a criminal investigation.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f)(2) through (5) are inapplicable.

(11). (g) Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections.

(e) The following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (f), and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Organized Crime and Racketeering Section File Check Out System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-011).

(2) Organized Crime and Racketeering Section Intelligence and Special

Services Unit, Information Request System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-014).

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in those systems are subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(f) The systems of records listed under paragraphs (e)(1) and (e)(2) of this section are exempted for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(3). The release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for these systems of records, would permit the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation to determine whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation and would therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement. The records in these systems contain the names of the subjects of the files in question and the system is accessible by name of the person checking out the file and by name of the subject of the file. In addition, disclosure of the accounting would amount to notice to the individual of the existence of a record; such notice requirement under subsection (f)(1) is specifically exempted for these systems of records.

(2). (c)(4). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable.

(3). (d). Access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation of the existence of that investigation. This would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because it could prevent the successful completion of the investigation, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony.

(4). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(7) and (b)(8) of this section.

(5). (f). These systems may be accessed by the name of the person who is the subject of the file and who may also be the subject of a criminal investigation. Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records pertaining to him, which may deal with an actual or potential criminal investigation or prosecution, must be exempted because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of the investigation or prosecution pending or future. In addition mere notice of the fact of an investigation could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may become the subject of an investigation and could enable the subjects to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f) (2) through (5) are inapplicable.

(6). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) of the Act this section is inapplicable and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections.

(g) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c)(4), (d), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a.

Files of Names Checked to Determine If Those Individuals Have Been the Subject of an Electronic Surveillance System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-003).

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(h) The system of records listed under paragraph (g) of this section is exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(4). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable to the extent that this system of records is exempted from subsection (d).

(2). (d). The records contained in this system of records generally consist of information filed with the court in response to the request and made available to the requestor. To the extent that these records have been so filed, no exemption is sought from the provisions of this subsection. Occasionally, the records contain pertinent logs of intercepted communications and other investigative reports not filed with the court. These records must be exempted because access to such records could inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation of the existence of that investigation and of the nature of the information and evidence obtained by the government. This would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because it could prevent the successful completion of the investigation, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony.

(3). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(7) and (b)(8) of this section.

(4). (f). The records contained in this system of records generally consist of information filed with the court and made available to the requestor. To the extent that these records have been so filed, no exemption is sought from the provisions of this subsection. Occasionally, the records contain pertinent logs of intercepted communications and other investigative reports not filed with the court. These records must be exempted from a requirement of notification as to their existence because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of a criminal investigation or prosecution pending or future. In addition, mere notice of the existence of such logs or investigative reports could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may become the subject of an investigation and could enable the subjects to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence or to fabricate testimony.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f) (2) through (5) are inapplicable to the extent that this system of records is exempted from subsection (d).

(6). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable, and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections, to the extent that this system of records is exempted from subsection (d) and (f).

(i) The following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e) (4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Information File on Individuals and Commercial Entities Known or Suspected of Being Involved in Fraudulent Activities System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-006).

(2) The Stocks and Bonds Intelligence Control Card File System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-021).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems are subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

The systems of records listed in paragraphs (i)(1) and (i)(2) of this section are exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(3). The release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for these systems of records, would permit the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation to determine whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation, to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of that investigation, and the information obtained, or the identity of witnesses and informants, and would therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement. In addition, disclosure of the accounting would amount to notice to the individual of the existence of a record; and notice requirement under subsection (f)(1) is specifically exempted for this system of records.

(2). (c)(4). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable to the extent that this systems of records is exempted from subsection (d).

(3). (d). Access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation of the existence of that investigation, of the nature and scope of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, of the identity of witnesses and informants or would provide information that could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because they could prevent the successful completion of the investigation, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony.

(4). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e)(5) and (e)(8) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(4), (b)(5), (b)(6), (b)(7), (b)(8), (b)(9) and (b)(10) of this section.

(5). (f). Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records pertaining to him dealing with an actual or potential criminal investigation or prosecution must be exempted because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of an investigation or prosecution pending or future. In addition, mere notice of the fact of an investigation could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may become the subject of an investigation and could enable the subjects to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f)(2) through (5) are inapplicable to these systems of records.

(6). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections.

(k) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) of section 5 U.S.C. 552a:

Organized Crime and Racketeering Information System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-010).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(l) The system of records listed in paragraph (k) of this section is exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). Exemption is claimed from subsections (c)(3), (c)(4) and (d) for the reasons stated in subsections (j)(1), (j)(2) and (j)(3) of this section.

(2). (e)(1). The notice for this system of records published in the Federal Register sets forth the basic statutory or related authority for maintenance of this system. However, in the course of organized crime investigations information will occasionally be obtained concerning actual or potential violations of law that are not strictly within statutory or other authority, or information may be compiled in the course of an investigation which may not be relevant to a specific prosecution. In the interests of effective law enforcement, it is necessary to retain such information in this system of records since it can aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity and can provide valuable leads for federal and other law enforcement agencies.

(3). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e) (2) and (3), (e) (4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(5), (b)(6), (b)(7), (b)(8), (b)(9) and (b)(10) of this section.

(4). Exemption is claimed from sections (f) and (g) for the reasons stated in subsections (j)(5) and (j)(6) of this section.

(m) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, the following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1) from subsections (c) (3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, Criminal Division, General Index File and Associated Records System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-012).

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) (2) and (k) (1).

(n) The system of records listed under paragraph (m) of this section is exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). Exemption is claimed from subsections (c) (3) and (4) and (d) for the reasons stated in subsections (j)(1), (j)(2) and (j)(3) of this section.

(2). (e)(1). The notice for this system of records published in the Federal Register sets forth the basic statutory or related authority or maintenance of this system. However, in the course of criminal investigations, cases, and matters, the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section will occasionally obtain information concerning actual or potential violations of law that are not strictly within its statutory or other authority, or may compile information in the course of an investigation which may not be relevant to a specific prosecution. In the interests of effective law enforcement, it is necessary to retain such information in this system of records since it can aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity and can provide valuable leads for federal and other law enforcement agencies.

(3). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(5), (b)(6), (b)(7), (b)(8), (b)(9), (b)(10), (b)(11) and (b)(12) of this section.

(4). In addition, exemption is claimed for this system of records from compliance with the following provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a) pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1): subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) and (f) to the extent that the records contained in this system are specifically authorized to be kept secret in the interests of national defense and foreign policy.

(o) The following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e)(8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Requests to the Attorney General For Approval of Applications to Federal Judges for Electronic Interceptions System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-019).

(2) Requests to the Attorney General For Approval of Applications to Federal Judges For Electronic Interceptions in Narcotics and Dangerous Drug Cases System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-020).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems are subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(p) The systems of records listed in paragraph (o)(1) and (o)(2) of this section are exempted for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(3). The release of disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for these systems of records, would permit the subject of an electronic interception to obtain valuable information concerning the interception, including information as to whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation, by means other than those provided for by statute. Such information could interfere with the successful conduct and/or completion of a criminal investigation, and would therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement. In addition, disclosure of the accounting would amount to notice to the individual of the existence of a record; such notice requirement under subsection (f)(1) is specifically exempted for these systems of records.

(2). (c)(4). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable.

(3). (d). Access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of an electronic interception of the existence of such surveillance including information as to whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation by means other than those provided for by statute. This could interfere with the successful conduct and/or completion of a criminal investigation and therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(4). (e)(2). In the context of an electronic interception, the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement because the subject of the investigation or prosecution would be placed on notice as to the existence of the investigation and this would therefore destroy the efficacy of the interception.

(5). (e)(3). The requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential electronic interception or reveal the identity of witnesses or confidential informants.

(6). (e)(4) (G) and (H). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (f) (Agency Rules) and (d) (Access to Records) of the Act these subsections are inapplicable.

(7). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e)(4)(I) and (e)(8) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(8) and (b)(10) of this section.

(8). (f). Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records pertaining to him dealing with an electronic interception other than pursuant to statute must be exempted because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of an investigation pending or future. In addition, mere notice of the fact of an electronic interception could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may become the subject of an investigation and could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

(9). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable, and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections, to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsection (d) and (f).

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f)(2) through (5) are inapplicable to these systems of records to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsection (d).

(9). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable, and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections, to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsection (d) and (f).

(q) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H), and (I), (e)(8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition the following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(1) and (k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

Witness Immunity Records System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-022).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(1) and (k)(2).

(r) The system of records listed under paragraph (q) of this section is exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(3) Release of the accounting of disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for this system of records, (a) as to a witness for whom immunity has been proposed, would inform the individual of the existence of the proposed immunity prematurely, thus creating a serious impediment to effective law enforcement in that the witness could flee, destroy evidence, or fabricate testimony; and (b) as to a witness to whom immunity has been granted, or for whom it has been denied, would reveal the nature and scope of the activities, if any, of the witness known to the government, which would also create a serious impediment to effective law enforcement.

(2). (c)(4) Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable to the extent that this system of records is exempted from subsection (d).

(3). (d) Access to the records contained in this system (a) as to a witness for whom immunity has been proposed, would inform the individual of the existence of the proposed immunity prematurely, thus presenting a serious impediment to effective law enforcement in that the witness could flee, destroy evidence, or fabricate testimony; and (b) as to a witness to whom immunity has been granted, or for whom it has been denied, would reveal the nature and scope of the activities, if any, of the witness known to the government, which would also create a serious impediment to effective law enforcement.

(4). (e)(2) In a witness immunity request matter, the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(5). (e)(3) Release of the accounting of disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for this system of records, (a) as to a witness for whom immunity has been proposed, would inform the individual of the existence of the proposed immunity prematurely, thus creating a serious impediment to effective law enforcement in that the witness could flee, destroy evidence, or fabricate testimony; and (b) as to a witness to whom immunity has been granted, or for whom it has been denied, would reveal the nature and scope of the activities, if any, of the witness known to the government, which would also create a serious impediment to effective law enforcement.

ment because the subject of the immunity request and often the subject of the underlying investigation or prosecution would be placed on notice as to the existence of the investigation and would therefore be able to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

(5). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e)(3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), and (e)(8) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(6), (b)(7), (b)(8) and (b)(10) of this section.

(6). (f). Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records pertaining to him (a) as to a witness for whom immunity has been proposed, would inform the individual of the existence of the proposed immunity prematurely, thus presenting a serious impediment to effective law enforcement in that the witness could flee, destroy evidence, or fabricate testimony; and (b) as to a witness to whom immunity has been granted, or for whom it has been denied, would reveal the nature and scope of the activity, if any, of the witness known to the government, which would also create a serious impediment to effective law enforcement.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f)(2) through (5) are inapplicable to this system of records to the extent that this system of records is exempted from subsection (d).

(7). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable, and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections, to the extent that this system of records is exempted for subsections (d) and (f).

(8). In addition, exemption is claimed for this system of records from compliance with the following provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a) pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1): subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) and (f) to the extent that the records contained in this system are specifically authorized to be kept secret in the interests of national defense and foreign policy.

(s) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f), and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, the following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(1) and (k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Records (JUSTICE/CRM-024).

(2) These exemptions apply only to the extent that the records contained in this system have been obtained from other systems of records maintained by the Criminal Division for which exemptions from one or more of the foregoing provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 have been promulgated. The exemption claimed for this system of records applies only to records obtained from such other Criminal Division systems and only to the same extent as the records contained in such other systems have been exempted.

(t) The system of records listed under paragraph (s) of this section is exempted for the following reasons:

(1) In the course of processing requests for records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) or for access or correction of records pursuant to the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a), it is frequently necessary to search for records in systems of records for which exemptions have been claimed pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k). When records are located in said systems, it is frequently necessary to prepare copies for the purpose of consulting with agency personnel or with other agencies, either with regard to determining whether or to what extent the records should be disclosed or access provided, or correction made or denied, or for review in the event of administrative appeal or judicial review.

(2) If records otherwise exempt pursuant to published rules should lose their exempt character when taken from such exempt systems for the purpose of compliance with the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act in reviewing such records and making determination with regard to disclosure, access, and correction, the purpose of the Privacy Act in providing such exemptions, and of the Department of Justice in claiming such exemptions would be defeated and nullified. The proper, efficient, and timely processing of citizens' requests pursuant to said Acts would be hindered and impeded.

§ 16.92 Exemption of Land and Natural Resources Division Systems—Limited access, as indicated.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3) and (d):

(1) Docket Card System (JUSTICE/LDN-003).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons.

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because that portion of the Docket Card System relating to enforcement of criminal provisions of the Refuse Act of 1899 (33 U.S.C. 407), Section 10 of the River and Harbor Act of 1899 (33 U.S.C. 403), Section 5 of the Outer Continental Shelf Act (43 U.S.C. 1151 et seq.), the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 1857 et seq.) and the Noise Control Act of 1972 (42 U.S.C. 4901), is being exempted from access and contest; the provision for disclosure of accounting is not applicable.

(2) From subsection (d) because of the need to safeguard the identity of confidential informants and to facilitate the enforcement of the criminal provisions of the above statutes.

(c) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3) and (d):

(1) Freedom of Information Privacy Act Records System. (Justice LFN-005).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2).

(d) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because that portion of the Freedom of Information Privacy Act Records System that consists of investigatory materials compiled for law enforcement purposes is being exempt from access and contest; the provision for disclosure of accounting is not applicable.

(2) From subsection (d) because of the need to safeguard the identity of confidential informants and avoid interference with ongoing investigations or law enforcement activities by preventing premature disclosure of information relating to those efforts.

§ 16.93 Exemption of Tax Division System—Limited access.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (2) and (3):

(1) Tax Division Central Classification Cards, Index Docket Cards and Associated Records (JUSTICE/TAX-001).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

From subsection (d) because access to the records contained in this system would inform the subject of an investigation of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, and of the identity of witnesses and informants. The knowledge gained from such access to these records would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because it could be used to prevent the successful prosecution of the case, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony.

(2) From subsection (e)(2) because in a criminal or other law enforcement investigation or prosecution, the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual would alert the subject as the nature or existence of the investigation and thereby present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement.

(3) From subsection (e)(3) because the requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form specifying the requirements of (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential investigation or reveal the identity of witnesses or confidential informants.

(c) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the Tax Division will grant access to non-exempt material in records which are maintained by the Tax Division. Disclosure will be governed by the Department's Privacy Regulations, but will be limited to the extent that the identity of confidential sources will not be compromised; subjects of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal civil or regulatory violation will not be alerted to the investigation; the physical safety of witnesses, informants and law enforcement personnel will not be endangered; the privacy of third parties will not be violated; and that the disclosure would not otherwise impede effective law enforcement. Whenever possible, information of the above nature, will be deleted from the requested documents and the balance made available. The controlling principle behind this limited access is to disclosures except those indicated above. The decisions to release information from this system will be made on a case-by-case basis.

§ 16.96 Exemption of Federal Bureau of Investigation Systems—Limited access.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2), and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (m):

(1) Central Records System (JUSTICE/FBI-002).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of accounting disclosures would place the subject of an investigation on notice that he is under investigation and provide him with significant information concerning the nature of the investigation, thus resulting in a serious impediment to law enforcement or background investigations which may involve law enforcement aspects or the compromising material.

(2) From subsections (c)(4), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (f) and (g) because these provisions concern individual access to records and such access might compromise ongoing investigations, reveal investigatory techniques and confidential informants, and invade the privacy of private citizens who provide information in connection with a particular investigation. In addition exemption from subsections (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H) is necessary to protect the security of information classified in the interest of national defense and foreign policy.

(3) From subsection (e)(1) because information may be received in the course of a criminal, civil, or background investigation which may involve a violation of law under the jurisdiction of another government agency but it is necessary to maintain this information in order to provide leads for appropriate law enforcement and to establish patterns of activity which may relate to the jurisdiction of both the FBI and other agencies. In addition, classified information may be received which relates to the constitutional powers of the President or the jurisdiction of some other agency. Such information is not susceptible to segregation.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because collecting information from the subject of criminal or national security investigations would thwart the investigation by placing the subject of the investigation on notice.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) because supplying an individual with a form containing the information specified would result in a substantial invasion of privacy of the subject of the investigation would compromise the existence of a confidential investigation, and would inhibit private cooperating with the FBI.

(6) From (e)(8) because the notice requirements of this provision could present a serious impediment to law enforcement by revealing investigative techniques, procedures, and the existence of confidential investigations.

(7) From subsection (m) because if the system were ever operated by a contractor it would still be necessary to continue exemption from these same provisions.

(c) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4), (G) and (H), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g) and (m):

(1) Electronic Surveillance (Elsur) Indices (JUSTICE/FBI-006).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(d) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of accounting disclosures would place the subject of an investigation on notice that he is under investigation and provide him with significant information concerning the nature of the investigation resulting in a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(2) From subsections (c)(4), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (g) because these provisions concern an individual's access to records which concern him and such access to records in this system would compromise ongoing investigations, reveal investigatory techniques and confidential informants, and invade the privacy of private citizens who provide information in connection with a particular investigation.

(3) From subsection (e)(1) because these indices must be maintained in order to provide the information as described in the "routine uses" of this particular system.

(4) From subsections (e) (2) and (3) because compliance is not feasible given the subject matter of the indices.

(5) From subsection (e)(5) because this provision is not applicable to the indices in view of the "routine uses" of the indices. For example, it is impossible to predict when it will be necessary to utilize information in the system and, accordingly it is not possible to determine when the records are timely.

(6) From subsection (e)(8) because the notice requirement could present a serious impediment to law enforcement by revealing investigative techniques, procedures and the existence of confidential investigations.

(7) From subsection (M) for the reasons stated in subsection (b)(7) of this section.

(e) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g) and (m):

(1) Identification Division Records System (JUSTICE/FBI-009).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(f) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) for the reasons stated in subsection (d)(1) of this section.

(2) From subsections (c)(4), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (f) and (g) because these provisions concern an individual's access to records which concern him. Such access is directed at allowing the subject of a record to correct inaccuracies in it. Although an alternate system of access has been provided in 28 CFR 16.30 to 34 and 28 CFR 20.34, the vast majority of records in this system concern local arrests which it would be inappropriate for the FBI to undertake to correct.

(3) From subsection (e)(1) because it is impossible to state with any degree of certainty, that all information on these records is relevant to accomplish a purpose of the FBI, even though acquisition of the records from state and local law enforcement agencies is based on a statutory requirement. In view of the number of records in the system it is impossible to review them for relevancy.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because the records in the system are necessarily furnished by criminal justice agencies due to their very nature.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) because compliance is not feasible due to the nature of the records.

(6) From subsection (e)(5) because the vast majority of these records come from local criminal justice agencies and it is administratively impossible to ensure that the records comply with this provision. Submitting agencies are, however, urged on a continuing basis to ensure that their records are accurate and include all dispositions.

(7) From subsection (e)(8) because the FBI has no logical manner to ascertain whether process has been made public and compliance with this provision would, in any case, provide an impediment to law enforcement by interfering with the ability to issue warrants or subpoenas and by revealing investigative techniques, procedures or evidence.

(8) From subsection (m) for the reasons stated in subsection (b)(7) of this section.

(g) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(8), (f), (g) and (m):

(1) National Crime Information Center (NCIC) (JUSTICE/FBI-001).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(h) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) for the reasons stated in subsection (d)(1) of this section.

(2) From subsections (c)(4), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (g) for the reasons stated in subsection (d)(2) of this section. When records are properly subject to access by the individual, an alternate means of access is provided in subsection (i) of this section.

(3) From subsection (e)(1) because information contained in this system is primarily from state and local records, and it is for the official use of agencies outside the Federal Government in accordance with 28 U.S.C. 534.

(4) From subsections (e) (2) and (3) because it is not feasible to comply with these provisions given the nature of this system.

(5) From subsection (e)(8) for the reasons stated in subsection (d)(6) of this section.

(6) From subsection (m) for the reasons stated in subsection (b)(7) of this section.

(i) Access to computerized criminal history records in the National Crime Information Center is available to the individual who is the subject of the record pursuant to procedures and requirements specified in the Notice of Systems of Records compiled by the National Archives and Records Service and published under the designation:

National Crime Information Center (NOIC) (JUSTICE/FBI-001).

Information on access is also published in the Appendix to Part 20 of the Code of Federal Regulations in relation to 28 CFR 20.34.

§ 16.97 Exemption of Bureau of Prisons Systems—Limited access.

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4)(H), (e)(8), (f) and (g):

(1) Custodial and Security Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-001).

(2) Industrial Inmate Employment Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-003).

(3) Inmate Administrative Remedy Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-004).

(4) Inmate Central Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-005).

(5) Inmate Commissary Accounts Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-006).

(6) Inmate Physical and Mental Health Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-007).

(7) Inmate Safety and Accident Compensation Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-008).

(8) Federal Tax Claims Act Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-009).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because inmates will not be permitted to gain access or to contest contents of these record systems under the provisions of subsection (d) of 5 U.S.C. 552a. Revealing disclosure accountings can compromise legitimate law enforcement activities and Bureau of Prisons responsibilities.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) because exemption from provisions of subsection (d) will make notification of formal disputes inapplicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because exemption from this subsection is essential to protect internal processes by which Bureau personnel are able to formulate decisions and policies with regard to federal prisoners, to prevent disclosure of information to federal inmates that would jeopardize legitimate correctional interests of security, custody, or rehabilitation, and to permit receipt of relevant information from other federal agencies, state and local law enforcement agencies, and federal and state probation and judicial offices.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because primary collection of information directly from federal inmates about criminal sentences or criminal records is highly impractical and inappropriate.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) because in view of the Bureau of Prisons' responsibilities, application of this provision to its operations and collection of information is inappropriate.

(6) From subsection (e)(4)(H) because exemption from provisions of subsection (d) will make publication of agency procedures under this subsection inapplicable.

(7) From subsection (e)(8) because the nature of Bureau of Prisons law enforcement activities renders notice of compliance with compulsory legal process impractical.

(8) From subsection (f) because exemption from provisions of subsection (d) will render compliance with provisions of this subsection inapplicable.

(9) From subsection (g) because exemption from provisions of subsection (d) will render provisions of this subsection inapplicable.

(c) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-579) the Bureau of Prisons will initiate a procedure whereby federal inmates in custody may gain access and review their individual prison files maintained at the institution of incarceration. Access to these files will be limited only to the extent that the disclosure of records to the inmate would jeopardize internal decision-making or policy determinations essential to the effective operation of the Bureau of Prisons; to the extent that disclosure of the records to the inmate would jeopardize privacy rights of others, or a legitimate correctional interest of security, custody, or rehabilitation; and to the extent information is furnished with a legitimate expectation of confidentiality. The Bureau of Prisons will continue to provide access to former inmates under existing regulations as is consistent with the interests listed above. Under present Bureau of Prisons regulations, inmates in federal institutions may file administrative complaints on any subject under the control of the Bureau. This would include complaints pertaining to information contained in these systems of records."

§ 16.98 Exemption of Drug Enforcement Administration Systems.

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f):

(1) Automated Records and Consumed Orders System/Diversion Analysis and Detection System (ARCOS/DADS) (JUSTICE/DEA-004).

(2) Controlled Substances Act Registration Records (JUSTICE/DEA-006).

(3) Registration Status/Investigation Records (JUSTICE/DEA-016).

(4) Drug Theft Reporting System (JUSTICE/DEA-023).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the revealing of the disclosure accounting pursuant to the routine uses published for these systems would enable the subject of an investigation to gain valuable information concerning the nature and scope of the investigation and seriously hamper the regulatory functions of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

(2) From subsection (d) because access to records contained in these systems might provide the subject of an investigation information that could enable him to avoid compliance with the Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970 (Pub. L. 91-513).

(3) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) because these systems or records are exempt from individual access pursuant to subsection (k) of the Act.

(4) From subsection (f) because these systems are exempt from the access provisions of subsection (d).

(c) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g) and (h):

(1) Addict/Abusers System (JUSTICE/DEA-001).

(2) Air Intelligence Program (JUSTICE/DEA-002).

(3) Automated Intelligence Records (Pathfinder I) (JUSTICE/DEA-003).

(4) DEA/FAA Trans-border Flight Plan Reporting System (JUSTICE/DEA-007).

(5) Defendant Data System (JUSTICE/DEA-008).

(6) Domestic Intelligence Data Base (JUSTICE/DEA-009).

(7) International Intelligence Data Base (JUSTICE/DEA-011).

(8) Investigative Reporting and Filing System (JUSTICE/DEA-012).

(9) Office of Internal Security Records (JUSTICE/DEA-014).

(10) Operations Files (JUSTICE/DEA-015).

(11) Security Files (JUSTICE/DEA-017).

(12) Source Registry Narcotics (SRN/1) (JUSTICE/DEA-018).

(13) System to Retrieve Information from Drug Evidence (STRIDE) (JUSTICE/DEA-019).

(14) Drug Enforcement Administration Semi-Automated Narcotic Trafficker Profiles (KISS) (JUSTICE/DEA-025).

(15) Drug Enforcement Administration Specialized Automated Intelligence Files (JUSTICE/DEA-026).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemptions pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k).

(d) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosure pursuant to the routine uses published for these systems would permit the subject of a criminal investigation to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of that investigation and present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) because an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d), this subsection will not be applicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because access to records contained in these systems would alert a subject to the existence of an investigation and thereby provide information to the subject which might enable him to avoid detection or apprehension, and present serious impediment to law enforcement.

(4) From subsection (e)(1) because in the course of criminal investigations, the Drug Enforcement Administration often detects violation of non-drug related laws. In the interests of effective law enforcement, it is necessary that DEA retain all information obtained in criminal investigations because it can aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity and assist other law enforcement agencies that are charged with enforcing other segments of criminal law.

(5) From subsection (e)(2) because information collected to the greatest extent possible from the subject individual of a criminal investigation would provide the subject with valuable information which might preclude detection or apprehension of the subject individual.

(6) From subsection (e)(3) because the requirement that individuals supplying information be provided a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential investigation, reveal the identity of confidential sources of information and endanger the life or physical safety of confidential informants.

(7) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) because these systems of records are exempt from individual access pursuant to subsection (j) of the Privacy Act of 1974.

(8) From subsection (e)(5) because in the collection of information for law enforcement purposes it is impossible to determine in advance what information is accurate, relevant, timely and complete. With the passage of time, seemingly irrelevant or untimely information may acquire new significance as further investigation brings new details to light and the accuracy of such information can only be determined in a court of law. The restrictions imposed by subsection (e)(5) would restrict the ability of trained investigators and intelligence analysts to exercise their judgment in reporting on investigations and impede the development of criminal intelligence necessary for effective law enforcement.

(9) From subsection (e)(8) because the individual notice requirements could present a serious impediment to law enforcement by interfering with the Drug Enforcement Administration's ability to issue administrative techniques and procedures.

(10) From subsection (f) because these systems have been exempted from the access provisions of subsection (d).

(11) From subsections (g) and (h) because these systems are compiled for law enforcement purposes and have been exempted from the access provisions of subsections (d) and (f).

(e) The following systems of records are from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1) and (e)(1).

(1) Grants of Confidentiality Files (GCF) (JUSTICE/DEA-022).

(2) DEA Applicant Investigations (JUSTICE/DEA-024).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5).

(f) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsections (d)(1) because many persons are contacted who, without an assurance of anonymity, refuse to provide information concerning an applicant for a grant of confidentiality with DEA. Permitting access to the information supplied by persons after a promise of confidentiality has been given could reveal the identity of the source of the information and constitute a breach of the promised confidentiality on the part of the Drug Enforcement Administration. Such breaches ultimately would restrict the free flow of information vital to a determination of an applicant's qualifications for a grant.

(2) From (e)(1) because in the collection of information for investigative and evaluative purposes, it is impossible to determine in advance what exact information may be of assistance in determining the qualifications and suitability of a candidate. Information which may appear irrelevant, when combined with other apparently irrelevant information can on occasion provide a composite picture of an applicant which assists in determining whether a grant of confidentiality is warranted.

(g) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f), and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, the following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(1) and (k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Records (Justice/DEA-010).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that the records contained in this system have been obtained from other systems of records maintained by the Drug Enforcement Administration for which exemptions from one or more of the foregoing provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 have been promulgated. The exemption claimed for this system of records applies only to records obtained from such other Drug Enforcement Administration systems and only to the same extent as the records contained in such other systems have been exempted.

(h) The system of records listed under paragraph (G) of this section is exempted for the following reasons:

(1) In the course of processing requests for records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) or for access or correction of records pursuant to the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a), it is frequently necessary to search for records in systems or records for which exemptions have been claimed pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k). When records are located in said systems, it is frequently necessary to prepare copies for the purpose of consulting with agency personnel or with other agencies, either with regard to determining whether or to what extent the records should be disclosed, or access provided, or correction made or denied, or for review in the event of administrative appeal or judicial review.

(2) If records otherwise exempt pursuant to published rules should lose their exempt character when taken from such exempt systems for the purpose of compliance with the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act in reviewing such records and making determination with regard to disclosure, access, and the Department of Justice in claiming correction, the purpose of the Privacy Act in providing such exemptions, and such exemptions would be defeated and nullified. The proper, efficient, and timely processing of citizens' requests pursuant to said Acts would be hindered and impeded.

§ 16.99 Exemption of Immigration and Naturalization Service System—Limited access.

(a) The following subsystems of the Immigration and Naturalization Service Index System are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g), and (h):

(1) Agency Information Control Record Index.

(2) Alien Enemy Index.

(3) Centralized Index.

(4) Congressional Mail Unit Index.

(5) Air Detail Office Index.

(6) Anti-smuggling Index (general).

(7) Anti-smuggling Information Centers Systems for Canadian and Mexican Borders.

(8) Border Patrol Sectors General Index System.

(9) Contact Index.

(10) Criminal, Immoral, Narcotic, Racketeer and Subversive Indexes.

(11) Enforcement Correspondence Control Index System.

(12) Document Vendors and Alterers Index.

(13) Informant Index.

(14) Suspect Third Party Index.

(15) Examination Correspondence Control Index.

(16) Extension Training Enrollee Index.

(17) Intelligence Index.

(18) Naturalization and Citizenship Indexes.

(19) Personnel Investigations Unit Indexes.

(20) Service Look-Out Subsystem.

(21) White House and Attorney General Correspondence Control Index.

(22) Fraudulent Document Center Index.

(23) Emergency Reassignment Index.

(24) Alien Documentation, Identification, and Telecommunication (ADIT) System.

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in these subsystems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosure pursuant to the routine uses published for these subsystems would permit the subject of a criminal or civil investigation to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of that investigation and present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d), this subsection will not be applicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because access to the records contained in these subsystems would inform the subject of a criminal or civil investigation of the existence of that investigation, provide the subject of the investigation with information that might enable him to avoid detection or apprehension, and present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(4) From subsection (e)(1) because in the course of criminal or civil investigations, the Immigration and Naturalization Service often obtains information concerning the violation of laws other than those relating to violations over which INS has investigative jurisdiction. In the interests of effective law enforcement, it is necessary that INS retain this information since it can aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity and provide valuable leads for those law enforcement agencies that are charged with enforcing other segments of the criminal law.

(5) From subsection (e)(2) because in a criminal or civil investigation, the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent possible from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement in that the subject of the investigation would be placed on notice of the existence of the investigation and would therefore be able to avoid detection or apprehension.

(6) From subsection (e)(3) because the requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential sources of information and endanger the life or physical safety of confidential informants.

(7) From subsection (e)(4) (G) and (H) because these subsystems of records are exempt from individual access pursuant to subsection (j) of the Privacy Act of 1974.

(8) From subsection (e)(4)(I) because the Immigration and Naturalization Service maintains the confidentiality of sources of information in order to protect their privacy and physical safety and to maintain the confidentiality of their cooperation. The publication of categories of sources would constitute a breach of confidentiality on the part of formation essential to effective law enforcement.

(9) From subsection (e)(5) because in the collection of information for law enforcement purposes it is impossible to determine in advance what information is accurate, relevant, timely, and complete. With the passage of time, seemingly irrelevant or untimely information may acquire new significance as further investigation brings new details to light and the accuracy of such information can only be determined in a court of law. The restrictions of subsection (e)(5) would restrict the ability of trained investigators and intelligence analysts to exercise their judgment in reporting on investigations and impede the development of criminal intelligence necessary for effective law enforcement.

(10) From subsection (e)(8) because the individual notice requirements of subsection (e)(8) could present a serious impediment to law enforcement as this could interfere with the Immigration and Naturalization Service's ability to issue administrative subpoenas and could reveal investigative techniques and procedures.

(11) From subsection (f) because these subsystems of records have been exempted from the access provisions of subsection (d).

(12) From subsection (g) because these subsystems of records are compiled for law enforcement purposes and have been exempted from the access provisions of subsections (d) and (f).

(13) From subsection (h) because to permit the parent of any minor, or the legal guardian of an individual who has been legally declared incompetent to obtain access to a record which is exempt to the individual would be a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it would enable the individual by himself or through the aid of others, to avoid detection or apprehension.

(14) In addition, these subsystems of records are exempt from compliance with the following provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a), subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(14) (G), (H) and (I), and (f) to the extent that the records contained in these subsystems are classified pursuant to Executive order.

(c) The Border Patrol Academy Index Subsystem is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d) and (f).

This exemption applies only to the extent that information in this subsystem is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k).

(d) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (d) because exemption is claimed only for those testing and examination materials used to determine an individual's qualifications for retention and promotion in the Immigration and Naturalization Service. This is necessary to protect the integrity of testing materials and to insure fair and uniform examinations.

(2) From subsection (f) because the subsystem of records has been exempted from the access provisions of subsection (d).

§ 16.100 Exemption of Law Enforcement Assistance Administration System—Limited access.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f):

(1) Investigative System JUSTICE/LEAA-003.

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552(k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (d) because access to the investigation records contained in this system would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation of the existence of that investigation, of the nature and scope of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, of the identity of witnesses and informants, or would provide information that could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because they could prevent the successful completion of the investigation.

(2) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) because an exemption is being claimed from subsection (d).

(3) From subsection (f) because notice to an individual pursuant to this subsection as to the existence of records pertaining to him dealing with an actual or potential criminal investigation or prosecution must be exempt because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of an investigation or prosecution, pending or future. Additionally, mere notice of the fact of an investigation could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may come under an investigation and could enable the subjects to avoid detection or apprehension, to destroy evidence, and to fabricate testimony.

(c) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration will grant access to non-exempt material in the Investigative System (JUSTICE/LEAA-003). Disclosure to subjects of records contained in this system will be governed by the Department's Privacy Regulations but will be limited to the extent that subjects of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation will not be alerted to the investigation, the physical safety of witnesses, and law enforcement personnel, the privacy of third parties will not be violated, and that the disclosure would not otherwise present an impediment to effective law enforcement. Whenever possible, information of the above nature will be deleted from the requested documents and the balance made available. Decisions to release information from this system will be made on a case-by-case basis.

16.101 Exemption of U.S. Marshals Service Systems—Limited access, as indicated.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e)(2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(8), and (f) and (g):

(1) Warrant Information System (JUSTICE/USM-007).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of disclosure accounting for disclosure made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under routine uses published for this system of records would permit a person to determine whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation, and to determine whether a warrant has been issued against him, and therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act, this section is inapplicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because access to records would inform a person for whom a federal warrant has been issued of the nature and scope of information obtained as to his activities, of the identity of informants, and afford the person sufficient information to enable the subject to avoid apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to law enforcement in that they would thwart the warrant process and endanger lives of informants etc.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent practical from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement because the subject of the investigation or prosecution would be placed on notice as to the existence of the warrant and would therefore be able to avoid detection or apprehension.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) because the requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential investigation or reveal identity of confidential informants.

(6) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (f) and (d) of the Act, these subsections are inapplicable.

(7) From subsection (e)(8) because the individual notice requirement of this subsection would present a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it would give persons sufficient warning to avoid warrants, subpoena, etc.

(8) From subsection (f) because procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to existence of records pertaining to him dealing with warrants, must be exempted because such notice to individuals would be detrimental to the successful service of a warrant. Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act the rules required pursuant to subsections (f) (2) through (5) are inapplicable to this system of records.

(9) From subsection (g) since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) and (f) this section is inapplicable and is exempted for the reasons set forth for these subsections.

(c) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(8), (f)(2) and (g):

(1) Witness Security System (JUSTICE/USM-008).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(d) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act including those permitted under routine uses published for this system of records would hamper the effective functioning of the Witness Security Program which by its very nature requires strict confidentiality vis-a-vis the records.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) for the reason stated in (b)(2) of this section.

(3) From subsection (d) because the United States Marshals Service Witness Security Program aids efforts of law enforcement officials to prevent, control or reduce crime. Access to records would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement through revelation of confidential sources and through disclosure of operating procedures of the program, and through increased exposure of the program to the public.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because in the Witness Security Program the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent possible from the subject individual would constitute an impediment to the program, which is sometimes dependent on sources other than the subject witness for verification of information pertaining to the witness.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) for the reason stated in (b)(5) of this section.

(6) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) for the reason stated in (b)(6) of this section.

(7) From subsection (e)(8) for the reason stated in (b)(7) of this section.

(8) From subsection (f)(2) since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act the rules required pursuant to subsection (f) (2) through (5) are inapplicable to this system of records.

(9) From subsection (g) for the reason stated in (b)(9) of this section.

(e) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552 (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (f) and (g):

(1) Internal Inspection Information System (JUSTICE/USM-002)—Limited access.

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5).

(f) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act where disclosure of such record would reveal a source who furnished information to the government in confidence.

(2) From subsection (a)(4) for the reason stated in (b)(2) of this section.

(3) From subsection (d) because access to information in this system which was obtained from a confidential source would impede the effective investigation into employee conduct for purposes of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications for Federal employment in that it would inhibit furnishing of information by sources which desire to remain confidential.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) for the reason stated in (b)(4) of this section.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) for the reason stated in (b)(5) of this section.

(6) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) for the reason stated in (b)(6) of this section.

(7) From subsection (f) for the reason stated in (b)(8) of this section.

(8) From subsection (g) for the reason stated in (b)(9) of this section.

(g) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the United States Marshals Service will grant access to nonexempt material in records which are maintained by the Service. Disclosure will be governed by the Department's Privacy Regulations, but will be limited to the extent that the identity of confidential sources will not be compromised; subjects of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil or regulatory violation will not be alerted to the investigation; the physical safety of witnesses, informants and law enforcement personnel will not be endangered; the privacy of third parties will not be violated; and that the disclosure would not otherwise impede effective law enforcement. Whenever possible, information of the above nature will be deleted from the requested documents and the balance made available. The controlling principle behind this limited access is to allow disclosures except those indicated above. The decisions to release information from this system will be made on a case-by-case basis.

Appendix B—Systems of Records Noticed by Other Agencies and Applicable to CSA.

§ 1006.1 Purpose and scope.

(a) The purpose of this part is to establish policies and procedures for implementing the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-579), particularly 5 U.S.C. 552a as added by the Act. The main objectives are to facilitate full exercise of rights conferred on individuals under the Act and to insure the protection of privacy as to individuals on whom CSA maintains records in systems of records under the Act. CSA accepts the responsibility to act promptly and in accordance with the Act upon receipt of any inquiry, request or appeal from a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence into the United States. Further, CSA accepts the obligations to maintain only such information on individuals as is relevant and necessary to the performance of its lawful functions, to maintain that information with such accuracy, relevancy, timeliness and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness in determinations made by CSA about the individual, to obtain information from the individual to the extent practicable, and to take every reasonable step to protect that information from unwarranted disclosure. CSA will maintain no record describing how an individual exercise rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless expressly authorized by statute or by the individual about whom the record is maintained, or unless pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity.

(b) Matters outside the scope of this part include the following:

(1) Requests under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552).

(2) Requests involving information pertaining to an individual which is in a record or file but not within the scope of a system of records notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 1006.2 Definitions.

(a) All terms used in this part which are defined in 5 U.S.C. 552a shall have the same meaning herein.

(b) As used in this part:

(1) The term "Act" means the Privacy Act of 1974, Pub. L. 93-579.

(2) The term "CSA" means the Community Services Administration, formerly Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

(3) The term "Privacy Act Officer" means the official who carries the responsibility for implementing and overseeing the Act in the Community Services Administration, making final determinations on appeals and preparing rules and notices for publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER and reports to Congress, OMB and the President.

(4) The term "Privacy Act Reviewing Officer" means the official designated at a specified CSA geographical location to oversee implementation of the Privacy Act within that designated area, to administer the records management program and related training program within his jurisdiction, to act as liaison between the Privacy Act Officer and System Managers, to assist local System Manager on Privacy Act access and amendment requests.

(5) The term "System Manager" means the official responsible for the operation, maintenance, accuracy, security, and use of a stated system of records and the individual who will receive and act upon requests to access, amend, annotate or copy an individual's record in that system.

(6) The term "inquiry" means either a communication asking for general information regarding the Act and/or CSA regulations thereunder or a communication from an individual asking if CSA maintains any record in a system of records pertaining to him or her.

(7) The term "inquirer" means any individual directing an inquiry, as defined above, to CSA.

(8) The term "request" means any written communication seeking disclosure or correction and/or amendment of a record or a copy of a record under the provisions of the Act.

(9) The term "requester" means any individual submitting a request, as defined above, to CSA.

(10) The term "appeal" means a written communication asking CSA to review and reverse an initial denial of a request for correction or amendment of a record.

(11) The term "working days" means Monday through Friday, excepting Federal holidays.

§ 1006.3 Procedures for requests pertaining to individual records in a record system.

(a) Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(1), any individual has the right to inquire concerning records pertaining to him and to request disclosure thereof without giving any justification for his inquiry or request. An individual may not request disclosure of records not pertaining to him under this Act (see § 1006.12 for penalties). CSA will respond to any inquiry or request concerning records maintained by CSA according to the procedures set out in this part.

(b)(1) An inquiry under the Privacy Act may be made either in person or by mail addressed to the appropriate system manager (see CSA notice of systems of records published in this issue) at 1200 19th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20506, if the record is maintained in CSA Headquarters or to the appropriate system manager in the appropriate Regional Office, if the record is maintained in a Regional Office (see CSA notice of systems of records published in this issue). If the inquirer is unsure where the record is maintained, if he cannot locate the system manager, or if he believes CSA maintains a record pertaining to him, but does not know which system of records might contain it, he may seek assistance in person from any Privacy Act Reviewing Officer listed in Appendix A to this part, or he may write to Privacy Act Officer, Community Services Administration, 1200 19th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20506. The offices of Privacy Act Reviewing Officers and System Managers in CSA Headquarters are open to the public 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on working days; for the Regional Office see "Geographical Guidance for Accessing Systems of Records" published in the CSA Notice of Systems of Records.

(2) An inquiry submitted by mail should be identified prominently both on the envelope and within the text as a "Privacy Act Request."

(c) If an inquiry is for general information regarding the Act and CSA regulations thereunder, no particular information is required. If an inquiry asks that CSA determine whether it maintains a record pertaining to the inquirer, the following information should be submitted:

(1) Name, address, telephone number (optional) and signature of the inquirer;

(2) Name, address and telephone (optional) of the individual to whom the record pertains, if the inquirer is either the parent of a minor or the legal guardian of the individual to whom the record pertains, and a certified or authenticated copy of documents establishing parentage or guardianship;

(3) Whether the individual to whom the record pertains is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence into the United States;

(4) Name of the system of records, as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER;

(5) Location of the system of records, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER;

(6) Such additional information as the inquirer believes might assist CSA in responding to the inquiry and in verifying identity (for example, date of birth, place of birth, names of parents, place of work, dates of employment, position title, etc.);

(d)(1) The effect of failure to provide the information listed in (c)(1)-(6) of this section may be to delay or prevent CSA's answering the inquiry.

(2) CSA reserves the right to require compliance with the procedures appearing at § 1006.4 (b) or (c) where circumstances warrant.

(e) CSA will make every effort to answer each inquiry within 10 working days of its receipt. If this is not possible, CSA will send an acknowledgment to the inquirer, informing him of the status of the inquiry and asking for any further information needed in processing it. Absent unusual circumstances (as described in § 1006.5(b)(2)), all inquiries will be answered within 30 working days of their receipt.

§ 1006.4 Times, places, and requirements for identification of individuals making requests.

(a) Any individual may request access to records pertaining to him or her. The requester should make his request either by mail or in person to the appropriate system manager as provided in § 1006.3(b)(1)—see CSA notice of systems of records published in this issue—and if unable to ascertain the appropriate system manager, to the appropriate Privacy Act Reviewing Officer or to the Privacy Act Officer (see Appendix A).

(b) All requests submitted by mail must:

(1) Be signed by the requester and include his address and (optional) his telephone number.

(2) Be identified prominently both on the envelope and in the letter as "Privacy Act Request."

(3) A statement signed by the requester that "I am aware that I am liable to criminal penalties under the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3) if I request a record under false pretenses."

(c) Each individual making a request in person will be required to:

(1) Sign and date a statement that "I am requesting access to the following record(s) under the Privacy Act, I have read 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3), and I am aware that I am liable to criminal penalties thereunder if I request a record under false pretenses."

(2) Furnish a reasonable amount of personal identification equivalent to that normally required for such commercial transactions as the acceptance of a personal check—i.e., employment identification card, driver's license, credit cards.

(3) In the case of especially sensitive records, CSA may seek independent verification of a requester's identity by such means as telephone calls to his home or business address, personal identification by CSA employees, or other means which may seem appropriate.

(d)(1) The disclosure of the information listed in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section is voluntary, the effects of not providing it may be to prevent or delay the processing of his request and the information furnished will be used only to process his request or to enforce the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3)—see § 1006.12 and paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section.

(2) When requesting the information listed in paragraph (c), the system manager shall inform the requester of the matters stated in paragraph (d)(1) of this section.

(3) If a requester refuses to or is unable to comply with paragraph (b) or (c) of this section, CSA will consider alternative suggestions from the requester for establishing his identity. However, acceptance of such suggestions is at the discretion of CSA and failure to comply with paragraph (b) or (c) of this section may altogether prevent the processing of a request.

(e) An individual acting as the parent of a minor or the legal guardian of the individual to whom a record pertains shall establish his or her personal identity in the same manner prescribed in either § 1006.4 (b) or (c). In addition, such an individual shall establish his or her identity in the representative capacity of parent or legal guardian. In the case of a legal guardian of an individual who has been declared incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, the proof of identity shall be a certified or authenticated copy of the court's order. A parent or legal guardian may act only for a living individual, not for a decedent.

§ 1006.5 Disclosure of requested information to individuals.

(a) Within 10 working days of the receipt of a request by the appropriate system manager, he shall send the requester a written acknowledgment thereof, unless the request has been answered within this period. This acknowledgment shall include the date of his receipt thereof (which may be considerably delayed if a request by mail is not addressed and marked as required by § 1006.4(b) (1) and (2) or if the requester has been unable to identify the appropriate system manager) and shall inform the requester of any further information needed in the processing of the request. Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(3), CSA shall inform the requester whether such information is required to process the request under the Privacy Act or if it would merely facilitate processing the request. CSA shall also inform him that disclosure thereof is voluntary, that there is no penalty for failure to respond, that the effects of not providing the information may be to prevent or delay the processing of his request, and that the information furnished will be used only to process his request or for enforcement of the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3)—see § 1006.12.

(b)(1) CSA will attempt whenever possible to review and answer requests within 10 working days of their receipt by the appropriate system manager. Absent unusual circumstances (as described below), CSA will answer a request within 30 working days of the receipt thereof by the system manager, or within 20 working days of his receipt of the further information requested.

(2) "Unusual circumstances" shall include circumstances where a search for and collection of requested records from inactive storage, field facilities or other establishments is required, cases where a voluminous amount of data is involved, instances where information on other individuals must be separated or expunged from the particular record, and cases where consultation with other agencies having a substantial interest in the determination of the request is necessary.

(c) Grant of access—(1) Notification. An individual shall be granted access to a record pertaining to him or her, except where the provisions of paragraph (h) of this section apply. The Privacy Act Officer shall notify the individual of such determination and provide the following information:

(i) The methods of access, as set forth in paragraph (c)(2) of this section.

(ii) The place at which the record may be inspected.

(iii) The earliest date on which the record may be inspected and the period of time that the records will remain available for inspection. In no event shall the earliest date be later than thirty days from the date of notification.

(iv) The estimated date by which a copy of the record could be mailed and the estimate of fees pursuant to § 1006.11 of this part. In no event shall the estimated date be later than thirty days from the date of notification.

(v) The fact that the individual, if he or she wishes, may be accompanied by another individual during personal access, subject to the procedures set forth in paragraph (g) of this section.

(vi) Any additional requirements needed to grant access to a specific record.

(2) Methods of access. The following methods of access to records by an individual may be available depending on the circumstances of a given situation:

(i) Inspection in person may be had in the office specified by the system manager granting access, during the hours indicated in § 1006.3(b)(1).

(ii) Transfer of records to a Federal facility more convenient to the individual may be arranged, but only if the system manager determines that a suitable facility is available, that the individual's access can be properly supervised at that facility, and that transmittal of the records to that facility will not unduly interfere with operations of CSA or involve unreasonable costs, in terms of both money and manpower.

(iii) Copies may be mailed at the request of the individual, subject to payment of the fees prescribed in section 1006.11 of this part. CSA, at its own initiative, may elect to provide a copy by mail, in which case no fee will be charged.

(d) Access to medical records is governed by the provisions of § 1006.6.

(e) CSA shall supply such other information and assistance at the time of access as to make the record intelligible to the individual.

(f) CSA reserves the right to limit access to copies and abstracts of original records, rather than the original records. This election would be appropriate, for example, when the record is in automated data media such as tape or disc, when the record contains information on other individuals, and when deletion of information is permissible under exemptions (for example, 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2)). In no event shall original records of CSA be made available to the individual except under the immediate supervision of the system manager or his designee. Title 18, United States Code, section 270(a) makes it a crime to conceal, mutilate, obliterate, or destroy any record filed in a public office, or to attempt to do any of the foregoing.

(g) A requester may be accompanied by one other individual of his or her choice. The requester shall submit to the system manager a signed, dated authorization of the presence of the other individual, specifically naming the other individual and describing the record requested. The other individual shall also sign this authorization in the presence of the system manager. A requester shall not be asked to give any reason for deciding to be accompanied by another individual during personal access to a record.

(h) A requester may be denied access to a record pertaining to him or her only upon a determination by a system manager that:

(1) The record is subject to an exemption under § 1006.13 or § 1006.14, including an exemption determined by another agency as discussed in § 1006.13(b);

(2) The record is information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding;

(3) The requester has unreasonably failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(i) The system manager shall notify the requester in writing of denial of access to records and this notice shall include the following information:

(1) The system manager's name and title or position;

(2) The date of the denial;

(3) The reasons for the denial including appropriate citations to the Act and/or these regulations;

(4) The procedures for seeking further administrative review of the denial, including the name and identity of the responsible official.

(j) If a request is partially granted and partially denied, the system manager shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and those within the denial.

§ 1006.6 Special procedures: medical records.

(a) Whenever a requester seeks access to his medical records the system manager will ask the requester for:

(1) The name and address of his physician or psychologist;

(2) Specific, written consent for CSA to consult this physician or psychologist if CSA believes such consultation advisable;

(3) Specific, written consent for CSA to provide these records to this physician or psychologist if CSA believes the requester's access thereto should be effected under the guidance of his physician or psychologist.

(b) The system manager will concurrently forward the requester's medical record to a CSA medical officer for review and a determination whether consultation with and/or transmittal of this record to the requester's physician or psychologist is indicated. If the medical officer finds either or both of these procedures to be indicated, he shall proceed accordingly. In any event, the medical officer shall inform the system manager regarding the recommended conditions for the requester's access to his or her medical records.

(c) If the requester refuses to give any or all of the information sought under section (a)(1) or refuses the consents sought under (a)(2) and (a)(3) and the CSA medical officer has found that disclosure without safeguards would be likely to have an adverse effect on him or her, CSA will refuse the requester access to the records, following the procedures of § 1006.5(i).

(d) When asking for the information and consents listed in section (a) the system manager shall inform the requester that response is purely voluntary, that there is no penalty for refusal to respond, that the effects of not responding or of a partial response may be as stated in section (c), and that the information and consents given will be used only to process the request and will be destroyed when it has been answered.

§ 1006.7 Request for correction or amendment to record.

(a) Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(2) any individual has the right to request a correction or amendment of a record or records pertaining to him, including the deletion of material or the inclusion of additional material therein. An individual may not seek amendment of records not pertaining to him under this Act (see § 1006.12 for penalties). CSA will respond to any request for such records maintained by CSA according to the procedures set out in this part, except that requests for amendment of records originating in another agency will be referred to that agency within ten working days and notice of such referral will be sent to the requester.

(b) All requests for correction or amendment of records must:

(1) Be submitted in writing, be signed by the requester, and include his address and (optional) his telephone number;

(2) Specify the record(s) and system(s) of records involved (e.g. description, title, date and portion of record to be corrected or amended);

(3) Specify the exact changes requested indicating specific deletions, substitutions, and additions (submission of an edited copy of the record(s) showing all changes requested is desirable as it would facilitate consideration of the request and prevent misunderstanding of the changes requested).

(4) State that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act—for requests by mail, the letter should be identified prominently both on the envelope and within the text as a "Privacy Act Request."

(5) Be addressed or presented in person to the appropriate system manager as provided for inquiries in § 1006.3(b)(1) (see CSA notice of systems of records published in this issue for appropriate system manager).

(6) Include a statement of the basis for the requested correction or amendment, with all supporting documents and materials the requester believes relevant; this statement should, at a minimum, identify the standard(s) under the Act which the requester wishes to invoke—i.e. whether the information in the record is unnecessary, irrelevant, inaccurate, or incomplete (see 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(5)).

(c) Special identification requirements:

Normally a request for correction or amendment of a record will have been preceded by a request for disclosure of this record under § 1006.4. If the requester has already identified himself, no proof of his identity other than his signature (see § 1006.7(b)(1)) will normally be required. In the event that CSA is not satisfied as to the requester's identity, the requester may be required to comply with the requirements for identification set forth in § 1006.4(b). In such cases, CSA will notify the requester within 10 days of the identification required and will proceed with the processing of his request, but will not comply with or deny the request until requester furnishes the required identification.

§ 1006.8 Agency review of request for correction or amendment of record.

(a) Within 10 working days from the receipt of a request by the appropriate system manager, he shall send the requester a written acknowledgement of the receipt thereof, unless the request has been answered within this period. This acknowledgement shall follow the format indicated in § 1006.5(a).

(b) (1) CSA will attempt whenever possible to review and answer requests within 10 working days of their receipt by the appropriate system manager. Absent unusual circumstances (as described in § 1006.5(b)(2), CSA will answer a request within 30 days of the receipt thereof by the system manager, or within 20 working days of his receipt of the further information requested.

(2) If owing to unusual circumstances, CSA cannot make a determination within these time limits, the requester will be advised in writing of the reason therefor and the estimated date by which the response will be made.

(c) In its response, CSA will either:

(1) Make the requested correction or amendment and advise the individual in writing of such action, providing either a copy of the corrected or amended record or a statement as to the means whereby the correction or amendment was effected in cases where a copy cannot be provided (for example, erasure of information from a record maintained only in an electronic data bank); or

(2) Inform the individual in writing that his or her request is denied and provide the following information:

(i) The system manager's name and title and position;

(ii) The date of the denial;

(iii) The reasons for the denial including citation to the appropriate sections of the Act and this part; and

(iv) The procedures for appeal of the denial as set forth in § 1006.9 including the name and address of the Privacy Act Officer.

(d) Whenever an individual's record is corrected or amended pursuant to a request by that individual, the system manager shall see to the notification of all persons and agencies to which the corrected or amended position of the record has been disclosed prior to its correction or amendment, if an accounting of such disclosure required by the Act was made. The notification shall require a recipient agency maintaining the record to acknowledge receipt of the notification, to correct or amend the record and to apprise any agency or person to which it had disclosed the record of the substance of the correction or amendment.

(e) The following criteria will be considered by the system manager in reviewing a request for correction or amendment:

(1) The sufficiency of the evidence submitted by the individual;

(2) The factual accuracy of the information;

(3) The relevance and necessity of the information in terms of purpose for which it was collected;

(4) The timeliness and currency of the information in light of the purpose for which it was collected;

(5) The completeness of the information in terms of the purpose for which it was collected;

(6) The degree of possibility that denial of the request could unfairly result in determinations adverse to the individual;

(7) The character of the record sought to be corrected or amended; and

(8) The propriety and feasibility of complying with the specific means of correction or amendment requested by the individual.

(f) CSA will not undertake to gather evidence for the individual; but does reserve the right to verify the evidence which the individual submits.

(g) Correction or amendment of a record requested by an individual will be denied only upon a determination by the system manager that:

(1) The individual has failed to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, the propriety of the correction or amendment in light of the criteria set forth in paragraph (e) of this section;

(2) The record sought to be corrected or amended was compiled in a terminated judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual was a party or participant;

(3) The information in the record sought to be corrected or amended, or the record sought to be amended, is the subject of a pending judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual is a party or participant;

(4) The correction or amendment would violate a duly enacted statute or promulgated regulation; or

(5) The individual unreasonably has failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(h) If a request is partially granted and partially denied, the system manager shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and the records within the denial.

§ 1006.9 Appeal of initial adverse agency determination on correction or amendment or access.

(a) When a request has been denied under §§ 1006.5 or 1006.8, the requester may appeal the denial to the Privacy Act Officer, Office of Administration, Community Services Administration, 1200 19th Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20506. An appeal should be identified both on the envelope and in the text as a Privacy Act Appeal.

(b) An appeal shall include a copy of the original request, the initial denial, and a statement of the reasons why the requester believes the initial denial to be in error. The Privacy Act Officer may seek additional information needed to assure that his final determination is fair and equitable; in such instances, the additional information shall be disclosed to the requester to the greatest extent possible and he shall be allowed an opportunity to comment thereon. No personal appearance or hearing will be allowed.

(c) The Privacy Act Officer shall determine the appeal and mail his determination in writing to the requester within 30 days of his receipt of the appeal, unless the Director of CSA extends this period for an additional 30 working days at the request of the Privacy Act Officer. The Director shall take such an extension only if he deems it necessary for a fair and equitable determination of the appeal and he shall notify the requester of the reasons for any such extension.

(d) If the appeal is determined in favor of the requester, the final determination shall be an order for full or partial release of the documents requested or shall include the specific corrections or amendments to be made and a copy thereof shall be transmitted promptly both to the individual and to the system manager who issued the initial denial. Upon receipt of such final determination, the system manager shall promptly take the actions set forth in § 1006.8(b)(1) and (c).

(e) If the appeal is denied, the final determination shall be transmitted promptly to the individual and shall cite the reasons for the denial. The notice of final determination shall also include the following information:

(1) That the individual has a right to file a concise statement of reasons for disagreeing with the final determination; the statement ordinarily should not exceed one page and CSA reserves the right to reject a statement of excessive length; such a statement shall be filed with the Privacy Act Officer, should identify the date of the final determination, and should be signed by the individual; the Privacy Act Officer shall acknowledge receipt of such statement and inform the individual of the date on which it was received.

(2) That any such disagreement statement filed by the individual will be noted in the disputed record and that a copy of the statement will be provided to persons and agencies to which the record is disclosed subsequent to the date of receipt of such statement.

(3) That CSA may append to any such disagreement statement filed by the individual, a copy of the final determination or summary thereof which also will be provided to persons and agencies to which the disagreement statement is disclosed.

(4) That the requester has a right to judicial review of the final determination under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(A) or (B), as limited by U.S.C. 552a(g)(5).

(f) In making the final determination, the Privacy Act Officer shall employ the criteria set forth in § 1006.8(e) and shall deny an appeal only on the grounds set forth in § 1006.8(g).

(g) If an appeal is partially granted and partially denied, the Privacy Act Officer shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and those within the denial.

(h) Although a copy of the final determination, or a summary thereof, will be treated as part of the individual's record for purposes of disclosure in instances where the individual has filed a disagreement statement, it will not be subject to correction or amendment by the individual.

§ 1006.10 Disclosure of record to person other than the individual to whom it pertains.

(a) CSA may disclose a record pertaining to an individual to a person other than the individual only in the following instances:

(1) Upon written request by the individual, including authorization under §§ 1006.5(g) and 1006.6;

(2) With the prior written consent of the individual;

(3) To a parent or legal guardian under 5 U.S.C. 552a(h);

(4) When required by the Act and not covered explicitly by the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(b); and,

(5) When permitted under 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(1) through (11), which read as follows:

(1) To those officers and employees of the agency which maintains the record who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties;

(2) Required under section 552 of this title;

(3) For a routine use as defined in subsection (a)(7) of this section;

(4) To the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of title 13;

(5) To a recipient who has provided the agency with advance adequate written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable;

(6) To the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value.

(7) To another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law, and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to the agency which maintains the record specifying the particular portion desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought;

(8) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual;

(9) To either House of Congress, or, to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee;

(10) To the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office; or

(11) Pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

(b) The situations referred to in paragraph (a)(4) of this section include the following:

(1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(4) requires dissemination of a corrected or amended record or notation of a disagreement statement by CSA in certain circumstances;

(2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) requires disclosure of records to the individual to whom they pertain, upon request;

(3) 5 U.S.C. 552(g) authorizes civil action by an individual and requires disclosure by CSA to the court;

(4) Section 5(e)(2) of the Act authorizes release of any records or information by CSA to the Privacy Protection Study Commission upon request of the Chairman; and

(5) Section 6 of the Act authorizes the Office of Management and Budget to provide CSA with continuing oversight and assistance in implementation of the Act.

(c) The system manager shall keep an accounting of each disclosure by him of any record contained in a system of records in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (1) and (2). Except for a disclosure made under 5 U.S.C. 552a (b)(7), the system manager shall make such accounting available to any individual, insofar as it pertains to that individual, on request submitted in accordance with § 1006.4 of this part. The system manager shall make reasonable efforts to notify any individual when any record in a system of records is disclosed to any person under compulsory legal process, promptly upon being informed that such process has become a matter of public record. He shall also transmit to the individual's last known address notification of any disclosure pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances under 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(8).

§ 1006.11 Fees.

(a) The only fees charged a requester under the provisions of this part shall be for copying records at his or her request.

(b)(1) The copying fees charged under the Privacy Act shall be:

(i) For duplication of paper documents up to 8" x 14" $.10 per copy page.

(ii) For duplication of microfiche in 4 x 6 inch diazo film copies at 24 x reduction $.10 per fiche.

(iii) For duplication of paper records from microfiche records $.10 per page.

(iv) For computer records. In most instances records maintained in the computer data base are available also in printed form and the standard fee of $.10 per copy page shall apply. However, a record must exist at the time of the request, and it is not required that a record be "created" or compiled from the data base for the purpose of furnishing information not already provided in existing records. A record that is maintained by computer is normally deemed to exist for this purpose only if retrievable in approximately the form desired, without reprogramming.

(2) When no specific fee has been established for a copying service, the Privacy Act Officer is authorized to establish an appropriate fee based on the direct costs of providing the service in question.

(3) Services performed that are not required under the Privacy Act, such as formal certification or authentication of records may be subject to charges under the Federal User Charge Statute (31 U.S.C. 483a) or other applicable statutes, depending on the services performed.

(c)(1) CSA will waive any copying fee totaling less than $5.00 but contemporaneous requests shall be added together to determine the total fee.

(2) The Privacy Act Officer may, at his discretion, waive fees based on a petition for waiver by a requester stating that he or she is indigent and unable to pay said fees.

(3) It is the policy of CSA to provide the requester with one copy of each record corrected or amended pursuant to § 1006.8(c).

(4) As required by the United States Civil Service Commission, CSA will charge no fee for a single copy of a personnel record covered by the Commission's government-wide published notice of systems of records.

(d)(1) If a requester is requesting a copy of a record, the request should state that he will promptly pay all applicable fees. In his request he may either:

(i) Agree to pay all fees up to a specified limit; or

(ii) Indicate that he wishes to be advised of the estimated fees.

(2) If the requester elects alternative (ii) or if the estimated fees exceed the limit he has indicated, the request shall be processed as indicated in § 1006.5, but no copies shall be sent to the requester until he has been informed of the estimated fees and agreed to pay them, except that if their estimated amount is less than $10.00, copies will be sent the requester without such notification unless he has specifically set a limit of less than $10.00. Estimates of fees will be communicated to the requester as soon as possible so as to avoid delay in furnishing copies of records requested. If the requester is unwilling to pay the estimated fees, he may reduce the volume of copies requested so as to reduce the fee to an amount he is willing to pay.

(e) Full or partial payment of fees in advance may be required if the estimated fees are in excess of $50.00, or if the requester is known to have failed to pay any previous fee due to CSA under either 45 CFR or 1005 or 1006.

(f) Remittances shall be in the form of a personal check or bank draft drawn on a bank in the United States or a postal money order. Remittances shall be made payable to the Community Services Administration and mailed to Privacy Act Officer, Community Services Administration, 1200 19th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20506.

§ 1006.12 Penalties.

In 5 U.S.C. 552a(i) the Act established criminal penalties for certain actions in violation thereof. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3) concern the actions of requesters; the section reads thus:

Any person who knowingly and willfully requests or obtains any record concerning an individual from an agency under false pretenses shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5000.

§ 1006.13 General Exemptions.

(a) CSA does not assert any general exemptions under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(b) Individuals may not have access to records maintained by CSA but originating with another agency which has determined by regulation that such information is subject to a general exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j). If such records are within a request for access, CSA will advise the requester of their existence and of the name and address of the source agency which the requester must contact for any further information.

§ 1006.14 Specific Exemptions.

(a) Under the authority granted him by 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2), the Director of CSA hereby exempts the system entitled "Inspection Reports on Grantees, Contractors, and CSA employees" from the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(4)(I) and (f)(4). The reasons for asserting this exemption are to maintain the ability to obtain necessary information, to prevent subjects of investigation from frustrating the progress of the investigation or of subsequent law enforcement activities, to avoid revelation of the identities of persons who have furnished or will furnish information to CSA in confidence, and to ensure the safety of these sources and of personnel engaged in investigations conducted for law enforcement purposes. Any person may still seek access to these records under the Freedom of Information Act; any Privacy Act Request seeking records under this exemption will be processed under the substantive provisions of the Freedom of Information Act.

§ 708.1 Purpose and scope.

(a) This part contains the regulations of ERDA implementing the Privacy Act of 1974, Pub. L. 93-579. The regulations apply to all records maintained by ERDA which are identifiable by individual name or identifier and all systems of such records which are retrieved by name or other identifier. These regulations are also applicable to contractors and their employees to the extent required by 5 U.S.C. 552a(m). The regulations set forth the procedures by which individuals may seek access to records concerning themselves and request correction of those records. The regulations also set forth the requirements applicable to ERDA employees maintaining, collecting, using or disseminating such records.

§ 708.2 Policy.

In compliance with the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a and in accordance with the requirements and procedures of this part, ERDA has a positive and continuing obligation to:

(a) Identify each system of records which ERDA maintains and review the content of the system to assure that only that information is maintained which is necessary and relevant to a function which ERDA is authorized to perform by law or Executive order, and that no information about the political or religious beliefs and activities of individuals is maintained except as provided in the Act.

(b) Collect information to the greatest extent practicable directly from the subject individual when the information which may result in adverse determinations about that individual's rights, benefits, and privileges under Federal programs; and inform individuals whom ERDA asks to supply information about themselves of the purposes for which the information will be used and their rights, benefits, or obligations with respect to supplying that data.

(c) Establish reasonable administrative, technical, and physical safeguards to assure that records are disclosed only to those who are authorized to have access and otherwise to protect against any anticipated threats or hazards to their security or integrity which could result in substantial harm, embarrassment, inconvenience, or unfairness to any individual on whom information is maintained.

(d) Maintain an accounting of all disclosures of information from systems of records except those to personnel within ERDA who have an official need to know or to the public under the Freedom of Information Act, and make that accounting available as provided in the Act.

(e) When using a record or disclosing it to someone other than an agency, assure that it is as accurate, relevant, timely and complete as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual.

(f) Permit individuals to have access to records pertaining to themselves and to have an opportunity to request that such records be amended.

(g) Inform prior recipients when a record is amended pursuant to the request of an individual or when a statement of disagreement has been filed; advise any subsequent recipient that a record is disputed; and provide a copy of the statement of disagreement to both prior and subsequent recipients of the disputed information.

§ 708.3 Definitions.

As used in this part:

(a) The term "agency" means agency as defined in U.S.C. 552a(a). It includes any executive department, military department, Government corporation, Government-controlled corporation or other establishment in the executive branch of the Government including the Executive Office of the President or any independent regulatory agency.

(b) The term "individual" means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence, but does not include proprietorships, businesses and corporations.

(d) The term "record" means any item, collection, or grouping of information about an individual that is maintained by or for ERDA, including, but not limited to, education, financial transactions, medical history, and criminal or employment history and that contains that individual's name, or the identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particulars assigned to that individual, such as a finger or voice print or photograph.

(e) The term "system of records" means a group of any records under ERDA control from which information is retrieved by the name of the individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particulars assigned to the individual.

(f) The term "statistical record" means a record in a system of records maintained for statistical research or reporting purposes only and is not used in whole or in part in making any determination about an identifiable individual, except as provided by 13 U.S.C. section 8.

(g) The term "routine use" means with respect to the disclosure of a record, the use of such record for a purpose which is compatible with the purpose for which it was collected.

(h) The term "ERDA" means the Energy Research and Development Administration established by the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-438).

(i) The terms "ERDA Officer or employee," and "ERDA personnel" mean employees, consultants, and members of advisory boards, committees and panels of ERDA; members of boards designated by the Administrator, Deputy Administrator, or other designees of the Administrator or Deputy Administrator to preside at adjudicatory proceedings; where assigned to duty with ERDA, officers or employees of other Government agencies, including military personnel; and contractors and employees of contractors having access to ERDA records or operating a system of records on behalf of ERDA to accomplish an ERDA function, to whom the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a are deemed to be applicable.

(j) The term "Administrator" means the Administrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration provided for in section 102(a) of the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974.

(k) The term "Deputy Administrator" means the Deputy Administrator provided for in section 102(b) of the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974.

(l) The term "Assistant Administrator" means an Assistant Administrator provided for in section 102(d) of the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974 or such other Assistant Administrators as appointed under section 102(f) of the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974.

(m) The term "System Manager" means the ERDA official who is responsible for an ERDA system of records as designated in the system notice of that system of records published by ERDA in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(n) The term "Privacy Act Administration Officer" (PAAO) is the designated official at ERDA installations (identified in § 708.5 (a) and (b)) to whom an individual shall address any request for information concerning records, for correction of records, or otherwise, in exercising individual rights under the Privacy Act.

(o) The term "Privacy Review Official" means the Deputy Administrator, or any Deputy Assistant Administrator, who hears an appeal of a denial to amend records or a denial to gain access to records.

(p) The term "working days" means all days except Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays.

§ 708.4 Delegation of authority.

(a) The Administrator has designated the Assistant Administrator for Administration to exercise control and supervision over the ERDA compliance with 5 U.S.C. 552a, to carry out on behalf of ERDA the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a with respect to the responsibilities for implementing the Act for ERDA, including:

(1) Designation of personnel at Headquarters to carry out the various functions as necessary to the implementation of the Act.

(2) Publish ERDA rules, public notices of systems of records, rules pertaining to exemptions.

(3) Provide procedures and training to employees as appropriate.

(4) Maintain liaison with heads of field organizations in connection with their responsibilities under the Privacy Act.

(5) Directors of Energy Research Centers and Managers of Operations Offices are designated to administer the provisions of the Act and applicable regulations within their respective jurisdictions; to act as Systems Managers with respect to systems or parts of systems maintained within their jurisdictions; and to name personnel as appropriate to perform the functions of Privacy Act Administration Officer.

§ 708.5 Privacy Act Administration Officers.

(a) There shall be designated at ERDA Headquarters by the Assistant Administrator for Administration a Privacy Act Administration Officer whose address is U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, Headquarters, Washington, D.C. 20545.

(b) There shall be designated by the Director or Manager for each of the following ERDA field organizations a Privacy Act Administration Officer with the following specified mailing addresses:

(1) U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, Albuquerque Operations Office, P.O. Box 5400, Albuquerque, New Mexico 87115.

(2) U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, Bartlesville Energy Research Center, Box 1398, Bartlesville, Oklahoma 74003.

(3) U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, Chicago Operations Office, 9800 South Cass Avenue, Argonne, Illinois 60439.

(12) U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, San Francisco Operations Office, 1333 Broadway, Wells Fargo Building, Oakland, California 94616.

(13) U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, Savannah River Operations Office, P.O. Box A, Aiken, South Carolina 29801.

§ 708.6 Requests for information, access or amendment.

(a) The procedures outlined below apply to the following types of requests under the Privacy Act of 1974 made by individuals concerning records about themselves:

(1) Request to determine if information on the requestor is included in a system of records.

(2) Request for access to a record.

(3) Request for an accounting of disclosures.

(4) Request for amendment of a record.

(b) (1) Request under paragraph (a) of this section must conform to the following:

(i) All requests must be in writing unless waived by the System Manager.

(ii) All requests must be directed to the appropriate Privacy Act Administration Officer or if it is inconvenient or impossible to ascertain the appropriate Privacy Act Administration Officer, requests may be directed to the Privacy Act Administration Officer, ERDA Headquarters, Washington, D.C. 20545.

(iii) The requestor must supply the Privacy Act Administration Officer with information sufficient to process the request.

(2) Minimum information is:

(i) Name and address of individual.

(ii) Identity of the system of records.

(iii) Nature of the request. If a request for amendment, a complete and comprehensive description of the amendment.

(iv) Required identifying information such as location if known, full name, birth date, etc. as specified in the "Notice of System of Records" to assist in identifying the request.

(c) Processing requests:

(1) The Privacy Act Administration Officer will record the date and time of receipt of a request.

(2) Within 10 working days of receipt of a request completed in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section, the Privacy Act Administration Officer will ascertain the responsible System Manager, and will dispatch the request to him.

(3) The Privacy Act Administration Officer will acknowledge the request to the individual within 10 working days of receipt of the request.

(4) If the request is incomplete or incomprehensible, the Privacy Act Administration Officer will request additional information or clarification of the initial request in the acknowledgment, and will offer assistance to the individual as appropriate.

(5) If the request is sufficient for processing, the acknowledgment should identify the System Manager.

(6) Access to ERDA records maintained in National Archives and Record Systems Centers may be obtained in accordance with the regulations issued by the General Services Administration.

§ 708.7 Identification of individuals making requests.

The following minimum standards are applicable to any individual who requests records concerning himself but additional requirements for verification of identity with respect to particularly sensitive records may be required.

(a) An individual seeking access to records about himself in person may establish his identity by the presentation of a single document bearing a photograph (such as a passport or identification badge) or by the presentation of two items of identification which do not bear a photograph but do bear both a name and address (such as a driver's license, or credit card).

(b) An individual seeking access to records about himself by mail shall establish his identity by a signature, address, date of birth, employee identification number, if any, and one other identifier such as a photocopy of a driver's license or other document.

(c) An individual seeking access to records about himself by mail or in person who cannot provide the necessary documentation of identification may provide a notarized statement, swearing or affirming to his identity and to the fact that he understands the penalties for false statements pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 1001.

§ 708.8 Disclosure of requested information to individuals.

(a) The System Manager will record the date and time of his receipt of a request.

(b) Preliminary review of the request should be completed within 10 days and if conditions such as the ones below exist, the individual should be apprised of them as soon as possible. Conditions include:

(1) The system of records exempted in whole or in part from the provision(s) requiring compliance with the request.

(2) Need for further information by the System Manager to process the request, e.g., more data is required to determine the location of the record.

(c) Upon receipt of a request from the Privacy Act Administration Officer, the System Manager shall promptly take the following actions, as appropriate:

(1) Inform the individual whether or not any information on him is included in the system.

(2) Grant or deny access to records.

(3) Grant or deny access to accounting of disclosures.

(4) Amend or decline to amend a record.

(d) If a request is denied, the individual must be informed of the System Manager's determination, including an explanation of the reasons for not granting the request, the procedures for requesting review of the denial, and the name and address of the ERDA official to contact for appeal. Denial of a request may be based in whole or part on an exemption. If material has been deleted from a record furnished to the individual there shall also be furnished a brief explanation of why the material was deleted.

(1) Requests for access to classified information shall be coordinated with a representative of the Division of Classification or the field organization counterpart prior to final action.

(2) Nothing in this part shall allow an individual access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of any civil action or proceeding in either a court or an administrative tribunal.

(e) If the System Manager is unable, for good cause, to complete action on his request within 30 calendar days after his receipt of the request, the individual should be informed in writing within such 30 days as to the reasons for the delay and when completion of the action is anticipated.

(f) When information is sought from a system of records that includes information from another Federal agency, the System Manager receiving the request shall consult with the appropriate agency prior to determining whether the information may be disclosed or not, but the decision as to whether the record shall be disclosed, shall be made by the System Manager maintaining the record.

(g) Granting Access—Special Considerations:

(1) Associates in attendance—When an individual is granted access to his record, he may be accompanied by a person of his choosing. The System Manager may require the individual to furnish a written statement authorizing discussions of the record in the accompanying person's presence.

(2) Copies of the record—Once access is granted, the individual has the right to have a copy made of all or any portion of the record upon payment of fees to the extent provided for in § 708.15.

(3) The parent of a minor or legal guardian, may act on behalf of the individual for purposes under this part. The System Manager shall require the person to provide proper identification establishing guardianship. The parent or guardian of a minor or a person judicially determined to be incompetent shall, in addition to establishing the identity of the minor or other person he represents as required in section 708.7, establish his own parentage or guardianship by furnishing a copy of a birth certificate showing parentage or a court order establishing the guardianship.

§ 708.9 Medical and psychological records.

When an individual requests medical or psychological records concerning himself, the System Manager may advise the individual that these records will be provided only to a physician designated in writing by the individual. Upon receipt of the designation and upon proper verification of identity, the System Manager will permit the physician to review the records or to receive copies of the records for purposes of determining whether any such records should not be disclosed to the individual because of possible harm.

§ 708.10 Disclosure of record to person other than the individual to whom it pertains.

(a) ERDA shall not disclose any record which is contained in a system of records by any means of communication to any person, or to another agency, except pursuant to a written request by, or with the prior written consent of, the individual to whom the record pertains, unless the disclosure of such record falls within one of the disclosure categories enumerated below in section 708.10(a).

(1) through 708.10(a) (11) of this part. Disclosure categories:

(1) Disclosure to ERDA officers or employees who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties.

(2) Disclosure required under the Freedom of Information Act.

(3) Disclosure for a routine use as defined in § 708.3(g) of this part and described in the notice of the system of records as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(4) Disclosure to the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of Title 13 of the U.S. Code.

(5) Disclosure to a recipient who has provided the System Manager of the system of records from which he has requested a record with advance adequate written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable. It is the responsibility of the System Manager of the system of records from which it is desired to disclose a record of an identifiable individual to assure that the identity of the individual cannot be determined or deduced by combining various statistical records. Records may be disclosed by ERDA for statistical research or reporting purposes only after ERDA has received and evaluated a written statement which:

(1) states the purpose for requesting the records; and

(11) certifies that they will only be used as statistical records.

(6) Disclosure to the National Archives of the United States of a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value.

(7) Disclosure to another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law, and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to ERDA specifying the particular portion desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought. Blanket requests for all records pertaining to an individual are not permitted, but a court order may be sought as a basis for disclosure. (See paragraph (a) (11) of this section.) A record may also be disclosed by ERDA to a law enforcement agency at the initiative of ERDA when a violation of law is suspected, provided that such type of disclosure has been established in advance as "routine use."

(8) Disclosure to a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual. The individual to whom the record pertains need not necessarily be the individual whose health or safety is at peril.

(9) Disclosure to either House of Congress, or to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee.

(10) Disclosure to the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office.

(11) Disclosure pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

§ 708.11 Accounting for disclosures.

(a) As soon as possible, but not later than September 27, 1975, each System Manager shall establish a system of accounting for all disclosures of records, either orally or in writing, made to other than ERDA personnel. Accounting procedures may be established in the least expensive and most convenient form that will permit the System Manager to advise individuals, promptly upon request, of the persons or agencies to which records concerning them have been disclosed.

(b) Accounting records, at a minimum, shall include the identification of the particular record disclosed, the name and address of the person or agency to which disclosed, and the date of the disclosure.

(c) Accounting is not required to be kept for disclosure made pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act.

§ 708.12 Appeal of initial adverse ERDA determinations for access or amendment.

(a) If an individual's request, either for access or amendment of records made under procedures set forth in this part, is denied in whole or in part by the System Manager, as provided in section 708.8, the individual shall have the right to appeal such initial determination of denial to the ERDA Privacy Review Official; and the individual shall be notified of the System Manager's determination and the procedure for exercising the right of appeal therefrom.

(b) Appeals shall be filed by the requesting individual within 60 calendar days after receipt of the initial denial by written request mailed to the Privacy Act Administration Officer at ERDA Headquarters. Both the appeal letter and its covering envelope should be marked "Privacy Act Appeal" or otherwise so as to clearly identify that a Privacy Act appeal is being made. The 60 day time limit may be waived by the Privacy Review Official for good cause shown.

(c) Appeals shall be deemed to have been received on the date and time stamped thereon by the Privacy Act Administration Officer, at ERDA Headquarters.

(d) Upon receipt of an appeal, the Privacy Act Administration Officer at ERDA Headquarters, shall promptly so advise the Privacy Review Official and the System Manager responsible for the original denial. The System Manager shall arrange to have the appropriate records, including the initial written denial transmitted to the Privacy Review Official.

(e) Final determination of the Privacy Review Official of an appeal shall be completed within 30 working days from date of receipt of the appeal by the Privacy Act Administration Officer at Headquarters unless the Administrator determines that a fair and equitable review cannot be completed within that time. If additional time is required, the individual will be informed by the Privacy Review Official in writing of the reasons for the delay and of the date on which the review is expected to be completed.

(f) The Privacy Review Official shall consult with counsel prior to making a determination.

(g) If the Privacy Review Official determines that access to or amendment of the record is not warranted on the facts, he shall advise the individual of his refusal to authorize access or amendment, in whole or in part, and he shall advise the individual of his right to provide for the record a "statement of disagreement." The individual shall be advised also of his right to judicial review pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974.

(h) A statement of disagreement may be furnished by the individual within 30 calendar days of the date of his receipt of the notice of refusal of the Privacy Review Official to authorize access or amendment. Such statement of disagreement shall be addressed to Privacy Act Administration Officer, ERDA Headquarters, Washington, D.C. 20545. Upon receipt of a statement of disagreement in accordance with this section the System Manager shall include the statement in the system of records in which the disputed record is maintained, and he shall have the original record marked as to indicate that the record is subject to a statement of disagreement, and where, within the system of records, that statement may be found.

(i) When a record has been corrected or a statement of disagreement has been filed, the System Manager shall, promptly thereafter, advise all prior recipients of the record whose identity can be determined pursuant to the accounting required by the Privacy Act or any other accounting previously made of the correction or of the filing of the statement of disagreement. Any dissemination of a record after the filing of a statement of disagreement shall be accompanied by a copy of that statement and any statement of ERDA giving reasons for refusing to correct included in the file.

(j) Decisions of the Privacy Review Official shall be the final decisions of the Administrator.

§ 708.13 Specific exemptions.

(a) The Administrator may promulgate rules, in accordance with the requirements (including general notice) of sections 553(b) (1), (2), and (3), (c), and (e) of the Administrative Procedure Act to exempt any system of records within ERDA from subsections (c) (3), (d), (e) (1), (e) (4), (G), (H), (I), and (f) of section 3 of the Privacy Act, if the system of records is:

(1) ERDA records that are specifically authorized under criteria established under statute or an Executive Order to be kept secret in the interest of national defense or foreign policy, and are in fact properly classified pursuant to such Executive Order. Restricted Data and Formerly Restricted Data under the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, are included in this exemption.

(2) Investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes. Provided, however, that if any individual is denied any right, privilege, or benefit that he would otherwise be entitled by Federal law, or for which he would otherwise be eligible, as a result of the maintenance of such material, such material shall be provided to such individual, except to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or, prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence.

(3) Required by statute to be maintained and used solely as statistical records.

(4) Investigatory material compiled, solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications for Federal civilian employment, military service, Federal contracts, or access to classified information, but only to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or, prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence.

(5) Testing or examination material used solely to determine individual qualifications for appointment or promotion in the Federal Service the disclosure of which would compromise the objectivity or fairness of the testing or examination process.

(b) Establishing exemptions:

(1) It will be the responsibility of the System Manager of a system of records, all or a portion of which he feels should be exempted from certain of the provisions of the Privacy Act, to inform the Administrator through the Assistant Administrator for Administration of the need for such an exemption giving a description of the system of records, or portion thereof, which is to be exempt; a statement of the provision or provisions of the Privacy Act from which it is desired to exempt the system of records or portion thereof; and the reasons therefor.

(2) Before seeking any exemption for systems of records under § 708.13(a) (1), the System Manager shall consult with the cognizant representative of the Division of Classification, ERDA Headquarters.

(3) When the Administrator determines that a system of records or portion thereof maintained by ERDA should be exempted from certain of the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a, a notice shall be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER which specifies the name of the system of records involved, and the specific provisions of the Privacy Act from which the system of records or portion thereof is to be exempted and the reasons therefor.

(c) Prior to making a determination to deny access to a record in a system of records having an approved exemption for classified material (See § 708.13 (a) (1)), the System Manager shall consult with the Division of Classification, or its field organization counterpart, to verify the current classification status of the information in the requested record.

§ 708.14 Establishment of new or revised systems of records.

(a) In designing or developing a proposed system of records the proposer of such system shall consider if:

(1) The system of records is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required to be accomplished by statute or by an Executive Order of the President.

(2) The information is collected to the greatest extent practicable directly from the subject individual when the information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits and privileges under Federal programs.

(b) The Assistant Administrator for Administration shall report the details of a new or revised system of records to the Office of Management and Budget and Congress to permit an evaluation of the privacy impact of the proposal and the impact on the system before the system can become operational. A copy also must be provided to the Privacy Protection Study Commission.

(c) A system notice shall be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for each new or revised system of records at least 30 calendar days before its effective date.

(d) The System Manager must assure that adequate administrative, technical and physical safeguards have been designed into the system of records to insure the security and confidentiality of the records as required by law.

§ 708.15 Fees.

(a) No charge shall be made for duplication of records when the cost is less than $10.

(b) No fee will be charged when ERDA makes a copy of a record as a necessary part of the process of making the record available for review as distinguished from responding to a request by an individual for a copy of a record.

(c) No charge shall be made to an individual for the time spent searching for requested records, or for time spent in reviewing records to determine if they fall within the requirements of the Act.

(d) When an individual requests copies of his record in cases other than above, the following charges shall apply:

(1) Sizes up to 8½x14 inches made on office copying machines—10 cents per page copy. Larger sizes—10 cents for each 8½x14 inch unit or fraction thereof per page copy.

(2) For copies made on other than office copying machines, the fee charged will be ERDA's direct cost of making the copy (printing, typing, or photocopying and related personnel and equipment costs).

(e) No records shall be made available to a requestor until the charges provided herein are paid in full. Checks, drafts, or other negotiable instruments shall be made payable to the Energy Research and Development Administration.

§ 708.16 Requests under false pretenses.

Title 5 U.S.C. 552a(1)(3) provides that any person who knowingly and willfully requests or obtains any record concerning an individual from an agency under false pretenses shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000.

§ 708.17 Employee standards of conduct with regard to privacy.

(a) Heads of Divisions and Offices, Headquarters, Directors of Energy Research Centers and Managers of Operations Offices shall assure that ERDA personnel subject to their supervision are advised of the provisions of the Privacy Act, including the criminal penalties and civil liabilities provided therein, and that such ERDA personnel are made aware of their responsibilities to protect the security of personal information, to assure its accuracy, relevance, timeliness and completeness, to avoid unauthorized disclosure either orally or in writing, and to insure that no system of records concerning individuals, no matter how small or specialized, is maintained without public notice.

(b) ERDA personnel shall:

(1) Collect no information of a personal nature from individuals unless authorized to collect it to achieve a function or carry out a responsibility of ERDA;

(2) Collect or maintain only that information about individuals which is necessary to ERDA functions or responsibilities;

(3) Collect information, wherever possible, directly from the individual to whom it relates;

(4) Inform individuals from whom information is collected of the authority for collection, the purposes thereof, the uses that will be made of the information, and the effects, both legal and practical, of not furnishing the information;

(5) Neither collect, maintain, use nor disseminate information concerning an individual's religious or political beliefs or activities or his membership in associations or organizations, unless (i) the individual has volunteered such information for his own benefit; (ii) the information is expressly authorized by statute to be collected, maintained, used or disseminated; or (iii) the activities involved are pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized investigation or adjudication activity;

(6) Advise their supervisors of the existence or contemplated development of any system of records which retrieves information about individuals by individual identifier;

(7) Maintain an accounting, in the prescribed form, of all disclosures of information to other than ERDA personnel, whether made orally or in writing;

(8) Disclose no information concerning individuals to other than ERDA personnel except when authorized by 5 U.S.C. 552a or pursuant to a routine use published in the FEDERAL REGISTER;

(9) Maintain and process information concerning individuals with care in order to insure that no inadvertent disclosure of the information is made to other than ERDA personnel; and

(10) Call to the attention of the proper ERDA authorities any information in a system maintained by ERDA which is not authorized to be maintained under the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, including information on First Amendment activities, information that is inaccurate, irrelevant or so incomplete as to risk unfairness to the individual concerned.

(c) Heads of Divisions and Offices, Headquarters, Directors of Energy Research Centers and Managers of Operations Offices shall, at least annually, review the system of records subject to their supervision to insure compliance with the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974.

§ 708.18 Publication of annual notices.

(a) A system notice of the existence and character of an ERDA system of records shall be published annually in the FEDERAL REGISTER in accordance with the format and rules prescribed by the General Services Administration, which notice shall include:

(1) The name and location(s) of the system;

(2) The categories of individuals on whom records are maintained in the system;

(3) The categories of records maintained in the system;

(4) Each routine use of the records contained in the system, including the categories of users and the purpose of such use;

(5) The policies and practices of ERDA regarding storage, retrievability, access controls, retention, and disposal of the records;

(6) The official title and business address of the official who is the System Manager responsible for the system of records; and

(7) The categories of sources of records in the system.

(b) At least 30 calendar days prior to the formal annual publication of information under paragraph (a)(4) (routine use or intended routine use of the information in the system, and shall provide an opportunity for interested persons to submit written data, views, or arguments to ERDA.

(c) In accordance with reporting requirements issued by the Office of Management and Budget, and following the publication of the initial notices of ERDA system of records existing on September 27, 1975, ERDA shall provide to Congress, the Office of Management and Budget, and the Privacy Protection Study Commission advance notice of any proposal to establish or alter any ERDA system of records.

§ 708.19 Requirements for annual report.

Each year, ERDA shall submit a report covering the preceding calendar year to the Office of Management and Budget for referral by the President to the Congress. The report shall include the information requested in instructions of and at the time specified by the Office of Management and Budget.

§ 708.20 Litigation.

In any instance in which ERDA or an ERDA employee is sued in connection with any requirement or responsibility under this part, the matter shall promptly be referred to the General Counsel together with a report on the details.

§ 708.21 Effect of Freedom of Information Act.

ERDA shall not rely on any exemption contained in the Freedom of Information

Act (5 U.S.C. 552(b)) to withhold from the individual to which it pertains, any record which is otherwise accessible to such individual under this part.

§ 708.22 Use and collection of social security numbers.

(a) The System Manager of each system of records which utilizes social security numbers as a method of identification without statutory authorization or authorization by regulation adopted prior to January 1, 1975, shall take steps to revise the system to avoid future collection and use of the social security numbers.

(b) Heads of Divisions and Offices, Directors of Energy Research Centers and Managers of Operations Offices shall take such measures as are necessary to insure that employees authorized to collect information from individuals are advised that individuals may not be required to furnish social security numbers without statutory or regulatory authorization, and that individuals who are requested to provide social security numbers voluntarily must be advised that furnishing the number is not required and that no penalty or denial of benefits will flow from the refusal to provide it.

§ 708.23 Exempted systems of records.

(a) The following ERDA systems of records are exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552a, (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H), (I), and (f). These exemptions apply only to information in these systems which is exempt pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1), (2) and (5):

(1) Alien Visits and Participation—ERDA (ERDA 1).

(2) Clearance Board Cases Administrative Review and Personnel—ERDA (ERDA 5).

(3) Security Correspondence File—ERDA (ERDA 8).

(4) Foreign Travel—ERDA (ERDA 19).
(5) Investigative Files—ERDA (ERDA 21).
(6) Legal Office—Claims, Litigations, Criminal Violation, Patents, and other Legal Files—ERDA (ERDA 23).
(7) Personnel Security Clearance Files—ERDA (ERDA 32).
(8) Personnel Security Clearance Files Index (Automated)—ERDA (ERDA 33).
(9) Special Access Authorization for Categories of Classified Information—ERDA (ERDA 36).

(b) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a, (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H), (I), and (f). These exemptions apply only to information in these systems which is exempt pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5) and (6):

(1) ERDA Personnel Applicant Records—ERDA (ERDA 12).

(2) ERDA Personnel-Supervisor Records—ERDA (ERDA 11).

(3) ERDA Personnel/General Employment Records—ERDA (ERDA 15).

§ 206.1 Purpose and scope.

(a) This part establishes the methods and procedures by which the Federal Energy Administration is implementing the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-579, 5 U.S.C. 552a). This part applies to all records maintained by FEA that contain personal information about an individual, identify that individual by name or identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular and are contained in a system of records from which such information is retrieved by the individual's name or identifying number, symbol or other identifying particular.

(b) Subject to the general and specific exemptions claimed by FEA in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or any exemptions provided by the Privacy Act of 1974 that are claimed by another agency, or unless otherwise provided by such Act and this part, this part prohibits FEA from disclosing any record that is contained in a system of records by any means of communication to any person or to another agency, except pursuant to a written request by or with the prior written consent of the individual to whom the record pertains.

§ 206.2 Definitions.

"Agency" means "agency" as defined in 5 U.S.C. 551(1) and includes any executive department, military department, Government corporation, Government controlled corporation, or other establishment in the executive branch of the Government (including the Executive Office of the President), or any independent regulatory agency.

"Act" means the "Privacy Act of 1974," Pub. L. 93-579, 5 U.S.C. 552a.

"FEA" means the Federal Energy Administration, including the Administrator of FEA or his delegate, and when appropriate, includes persons under contract with FEA for the operation by or on behalf of FEA of a system of records to accomplish an FEA function, and employees of such person.

"Individual" means a living person who is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence. For purposes of this part, the parent of any minor, or the legal guardian of any individual who has been declared to be incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, may act on behalf of the individual.

"Legal public holiday" means New Year's Day, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, and any other day appointed as a national holiday by the President or the Congress of the United States.

"Maintain" includes maintain, collect, use or disseminate.

"Records" means any item, collection, or grouping of information about an individual that is maintained by the FEA in a system of records, or, if appropriate, another agency including, but not limited to, his education, financial transactions, medical history, and criminal or employment history and that contains his name, or the identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual, such as a finger or voice print or a photograph.

"Routine use" means, with respect to the disclosure of a record, the use of such record for a purpose that is compatible with the purpose for which it was collected.

"System of records" means a group of any records under the control of the FEA or, if appropriate, another agency from which information is retrieved by the name of the individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual.

"Statistical record" means a record in a system of records maintained for statistical research or reporting purposes only and not used in whole or in part in making any determination about an identifiable individual except as provided by section 8 of title 13, United States Code.

Throughout this part, the use of a word or term in the singular shall include the plural and the use of the male gender shall include the female gender.

§ 206.3 Procedures for requesting information about or for access to an individual's records in a system of records.

(a) Any individual may request information regarding whether a system of records maintained by the FEA contains any information pertaining to him, and may request access to his record or to any information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records, unless such access has been restricted by a general or specific exemption claimed by FEA, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or by another agency. All such requests shall be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, Washington, D.C. 20461, or to the Privacy Act Officer at the FEA Regional Offices, at the addresses listed in § 206.18. The consideration by FEA of requests submitted by mail will be facilitated if the envelope in which the request is mailed has the words "PRIVACY ACT REQUEST" in capital letters on the front of it.

(b) (1) A request for information about a record or for access to a record or to information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records may be made by mail or in person during FEA's regular business hours.

(2) The regular business hours of the FEA National Office are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Requests made in person should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C., or to the Privacy Act Officer at the FEA Regional Offices, at the addresses listed in § 206.18.

(c) (1) The request, whether by mail or in person, shall be in writing and signed by the individual making the request and include (i) the full name (including the middle name) of the individual seeking the information or record, his home address and telephone number, his business address and telephone number; (ii) a certified or authenticated copy of documents establishing parentage or legal guardianship, if appropriate, and (iii) if the waiver of an exemption, as provided in § 206.15 (a) and (c), is sought in accordance with the procedures stated in such section, a statement of the grounds on which such waiver is sought.

(2) In addition, the request should (i) specify the title and identifying number of the system of records, which appears in the notice of systems published in the FEDERAL REGISTER by the FEA; (ii) provide such additional identifying information, if any, as may be required by the description of the system contained in the notice or as will assist FEA in responding to the request, e.g., location of the record as stated in the FEDERAL REGISTER; and (iii) describe the information sought or the time, place, or form of access, as appropriate.

(d) Any request not addressed and marked as specified in paragraph (a) of this section shall be forwarded immediately to the Privacy Act Officer. A request that is improperly addressed by an individual shall not have been "received" for purposes of measuring time periods in this section until actual receipt by the Privacy Act Officer. In each instance when a request so forwarded is received by the Privacy Act Officer, the individual making the request shall be notified that the request was improperly addressed and the date when the request was received by the Privacy Act Officer.

(e) When access to a record or information pertaining to the individual that is contained in a system of records is requested, the individual either will be notified in writing where and when he may obtain access to the records requested or, if further arrangements are required, will be given the name, address and telephone number of the person at FEA responsible for such arrangements.

(f) Assistance in preparing a request for information about a record or for access to a record or to information pertaining to the individual that is contained in a system of records may be obtained from the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C., 20461.

§ 206.4 Procedures for identifying the individual making the request.

(a) When a request for information about or for access to a record or to information pertaining to an individual that is contained in a system of records has been made pursuant to § 206.3, the FEA shall require reasonable identification of the individual making the request before information will be given or access will be granted, to insure that information is given or records are disclosed only to the proper person.

(b) Subject to paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section, an individual making a request may establish his identity by:

(1) Including with his request if submitted by mail, a photocopy of two identifying documents bearing his name and signature, one of which shall bear his current home or business address; or

(2) Appearing at the FEA National Office or appropriate Regional Office during the regular business hours and presenting either of the following:

(i) One identifying document bearing his photograph and signature, such as a driver's license or passport; or

(ii) Two identifying documents bearing his name and signature, one of which shall bear his current home or business address; or

(3) Providing such other proof of identity as the FEA deems satisfactory in the circumstances of a particular request.

(c) If the Privacy Act Officer or other designated FEA official determines that the information in the record is so sensitive that unauthorized access could cause harm or embarrassment to the individual whose record is involved, or if the individual making the request is unable to produce satisfactory evidence of identity under paragraph (b) of this section, the individual making the request may be required to submit a notarized statement attesting to his identity and that he is familiar with and understands the criminal penalties provided under section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code for making false statements to a Government agency and under section 552a(i)(3) of the Act for obtaining records under false pretenses. Copies of these statutory provisions and forms of such notarized statements may be obtained upon request from the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20461.

(d) Parents of minors and legal guardians. (1) An individual acting as the parent of a minor or the legal guardian of the individual to whom a record pertains shall establish his personal identity in the same manner prescribed in either paragraphs (b) or (c) of this section. (A parent or legal guardian may act only for a living individual, not for a decedent.)

(2) In addition to such identification, such person shall establish his identity in the representative capacity of parent or legal guardian. In the case of the parent of a minor, the proof of identity shall be a certified or authenticated copy of the minor's birth certificate. In the case of a legal guardian of an individual who has been declared incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, the proof of identity shall be a certified or authenticated copy of the order from a court of competent jurisdiction.

(e) An individual shall not be required to state a reason or otherwise justify his request for information about or for access to a record or to information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records.

§ 206.5 Disclosure of requested information to individuals.

(a) Each request for information about or for access to a record or to information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records shall be acted upon promptly. Every effort will be made to respond within ten days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) of the date of receipt. If a response cannot be made within ten days due to unusual circumstances, FEA shall send an acknowledgment during that period providing information on the status of the request and asking for such further information as may be necessary to respond to the request. The term "unusual circumstances" as used in this section shall include circumstances where a search for and collection of requested records from inactive storage, field facilities or other establishments are required, cases where a voluminous amount of data is involved, instances where information on other individuals must be separated or expunged from the particular record, and cases where consultations with other agencies having a substantial interest in the determination of the request is necessary.

(b) (1) Any individual who has requested access to a record or to information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records, other than medical records, in the manner prescribed in § 206.3, and has identified himself as prescribed in § 206.4, shall be permitted to review the record or information and have a copy made of all or any portion thereof in a form comprehensible to him upon payment of the fee, if applicable, for copying services set forth in § 206.17, unless such information or access is denied on the grounds stated in paragraph (e) of this section. Upon the request of an individual, a person of the individual's own choosing may accompany him to review the record at FEA, but the individual shall first furnish to the Privacy Act Officer a written statement authorizing discussion of that individual's record in the accompanying person's presence.

(2) The special procedures pertaining to requests for information about or access to the individual's medical records are stated in paragraph (f) of this section.

(c) Where record of a document containing information about an individual also contains information not pertaining to him, the portion not pertaining to the individual shall not be disclosed, except to the extent the information is available to any person under the Freedom of Information Act. If the record sought cannot be provided for review and copying in a meaningful form, the FEA shall provide to the individual a report of the information pertaining to the individual that is contained in the record which report shall be complete and accurate in all material aspects.

(d) Grant of access—(1) Notification. An individual shall be provided information about or granted access to a record or information pertaining to him that is contained in the system of records, unless the request has been denied in accordance with paragraph (e) of this section. The Privacy Act Officer shall notify the individual of such determination and provide the following information:

(i) Whether there is a record or information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records;

(ii) The methods of access, as set forth in paragraph (d)(2) of this section;

(iii) The place at which the record or information may be inspected;

(iv) The earliest date on which the record or information may be inspected and the period of time that the record or information will remain available for inspection (In no event shall the "earliest date" be later than thirty days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) from the date of notification.);

(v) The estimated date by which a copy of the record could be mailed and the estimate of fees that would be charged to provide other than the first copy of the record, pursuant to § 206.17 (In no event shall the "estimated date" be later than thirty days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) from the date of notification.);

(vi) The fact that the individual, if he wishes, may be accompanied by another person during the in-person review of the record or information, subject to the procedures set forth in paragraph (b) of this section; and

(vii) Any additional requirements that must be satisfied in order to provide information about or to grant access to the requested record or information.

(2) Methods of access. The following methods of access to records or information pertaining to an individual that is contained in a system of records may be available to that individual depending on the circumstances of a particular request:

(i) Inspection in person may be had in the office specified by FEA during the regular business hours;

(ii) Transfer of records to a Federal facility more convenient to the individual may be arranged, but only if FEA determines that a suitable facility is available, that the individual's access can be properly supervised at that facility, and that transmittal of the records or information to that facility will not unduly interfere with operations of the FEA or involve unreasonable costs, in terms of both money and manpower; and

(iii) The requested number of copies may be mailed at the request of the individual, subject to payment of the fees prescribed in § 206.17.

(e) Initial denial of access. (This section does not apply to the denial of a request for waiver of an exemption made in accordance with § 206.15(a) and (c).)

(1) Grounds. A request by an individual for information about or access to a record or information pertaining to that individual that is contained in a system of records may be denied only upon a determination by the Privacy Act Officer that:

(i) The record is subject to an exemption under §§ 206.14 or 206.15, or to an exemption claimed by another agency; or

(ii) The record is information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding; or

(iii) The individual unreasonably has failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(2) Notification. The Privacy Act Officer shall give written notice of the denial of a request for information about or access to records or information pertaining to the individual that is contained in a system of records, which notice shall include the following information:

(i) The Privacy Act Officer's name, and title or position;

(ii) The date of the denial;

(iii) The reasons for the denial, including citation to the appropriate section of the Act and this part; and

(iv) The individual's right to judicial review under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(B), as limited by § 552a(g)(5).

(f) Special procedures for medical records—(1) Statement of physician or mental health professional. When an individual requests access to records or information pertaining to him that include medical and/or psychological information, the FEA, if it deems it necessary under the particular circumstances, may require the individual to submit with the request a signed statement by his physician or a mental health professional indicating that, in his view, disclosure of the requested records or information directly to the individual will not have an adverse effect on the individual.

(2) Designation of physician or mental health professional to receive records. If the FEA believes, in good faith, that disclosure of medical and/or psychological information directly to an individual could have an adverse effect on that individual, the individual may be asked to designate in writing a physician or mental health professional to whom he would like the records to be disclosed, and disclosure that otherwise would be made to the individual will instead be made to the designated physician or mental health professional.

(g) The FEA shall supply such other information and assistance at the time of an individual's review of his record as is necessary to make the record intelligible to the individual.

(h) The FEA reserves the right to limit access to copies and abstracts of original records instead of the original records. This election would be appropriate, for example, when the record is in an automated data media such as tape or disc, when the record contains information on or about individuals, and when deletion of information is permissible under exemptions provided by the Act. In no event shall original records of the FEA be made available to the individual except under the immediate supervision of the Privacy Act Officer or his designee. Title 18, United States Code, section 2701(a) makes it a crime to conceal, mutilate, obliterate, or destroy any record filed in a public office, or to attempt to do any of the foregoing.

(i) Nothing in this section shall:

(1) Require the disclosure of records in systems of records subject to an exemption under §§ 206.14 or 206.15 or to an exemption claimed by another agency;

(2) Allow an individual access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding or a criminal proceeding; or

(3) Require the furnishing of information or records that cannot be retrieved by the name or by some other identifying number, symbol or identifying particular of the individual making the request.

§ 206.6 Disclosure to other agencies, or persons other than the individual to whom the record pertains.

(a) The FEA shall not disclose to any agency or to any person other than the individual who is the subject of the record, by any means of communication, a record pertaining to that individual that is contained in a system of records, except under the following circumstances:

(1) The individual to whom the record pertains has given his written consent to the disclosure or has made a written request for such disclosure;

(2) The disclosure is to officers and employees of the FEA who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties;

(3) The disclosure is required under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552);

(4) The disclosure is for a routine use as defined in § 206.2 and described in the FEDERAL REGISTER notice for that system of records;

(5) The disclosure is made to the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of Title 13 of the United States Code;

(6) The disclosure is made to a recipient who has provided the agency with advance adequate written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable;

(7) The disclosure is made to the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value;

(8) The disclosure is made to another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to the FEA specifying the particular portion desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought;

(9) The disclosure is made to a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual;

(10) The disclosure is made to either House of Congress, or to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee;

(11) The disclosure is made to the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office;

(12) The disclosure is made pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction; or

(13) The disclosure is required by the Act and not covered explicitly by 5 U.S.C. 552a(b).

(b) The situations referred to in paragraph (a)(13) of this section include the following:

(1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(4) requires dissemination of a corrected or amended record or notation of a disagreement statement by the FEA in certain circumstances;

(2) Section 5(e)(2) of the Act authorizes release of any records or information by the FEA to the Privacy Protection Study Commission upon request of the Chairman; and

(3) Section 6 of the Act authorizes the Office of Management and Budget to provide the FEA with continuing oversight and assistance in implementation of the Act, which may necessitate the release of records or information to that office.

(c) (1) For each system of records under its control, except disclosures made with the consent of the individual to whom the record pertains, disclosures to authorized officers and employees of FEA and disclosures required by the Freedom of Information Act, FEA shall keep an accurate accounting of:

(i) The date, nature, and purposes of each disclosure of a record made to any person or to another agency; and

(ii) The name and address of the person or agency to which the disclosure was made;

(2) The accounting shall be retained for at least five years or the life of the record, whichever is longer, after the disclosure for which the accounting is made.

(d) The accounting described in paragraph (c) of this section shall be made available to the individual named in the record upon written request to the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20461, except that the accounting shall not be revealed with respect to disclosures made under paragraph (a)(8) of this section, pertaining to law enforcement activity, and to disclosures involving systems of records for which FEA has claimed an exemption from certain requirements of the Act, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or with respect to which another agency has claimed an exemption.

(e) Whenever an amendment or correction of a record or a notation of dispute concerning the accuracy of records is made by the FEA in accordance with §§ 206.8 and 206.9, FEA shall inform any person or other agency to whom the record was previously disclosed if an accounting of the disclosure was made pursuant to the requirements of paragraph (c) of this section, unless the disclosure was made pursuant to paragraph (a)(8) of this section or the disclosure involved a system of records for which FEA has claimed an exemption from certain requirements of the Act, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or with respect to which another agency has claimed an exemption.

(f) The FEA shall make reasonable efforts to serve notice on an individual when any record containing information about such individual in a FEA system of records is made available to any person under compulsory legal process when such process becomes a matter of public record.

(g) Prior to disclosing any record about an individual to any person other than an agency, unless the disclosure is pursuant to paragraph (a)(3) of this section, FEA shall make reasonable efforts to assure that such records are accurate, complete, timely, and relevant for FEA's purposes.

§ 206.7 Request for correction or amendment of a record.

(a)(1) Any individual may request the correction or amendment of information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records maintained by the FEA (i) if he believes such information is not relevant or not necessary to accomplish a purpose that FEA is required to accomplish by statute or by executive order of the President, or (ii) if the information is to be used by FEA in making any determination about the individual if he believes such information is not as accurate, relevant, timely or complete as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness in any determination about the individual.

(2) A request for amendment or correction may be made by mail or in person and shall be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20461, or to the Privacy Act Officer at the FEA Regional Offices, at the addresses listed in § 206.18. Requests made in person must be submitted during the regular business hours of the FEA National Office or Regional Office, which for the National Office are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. If the request is submitted by mail the envelope in which the request is mailed should have the words "PRIVACY ACT REQUEST AMENDMENT" in capital letters on the front of it.

(b) (1) A request for correction or amendment shall (i) be in writing and signed by the person making the request; (ii) describe the particular record to be corrected or amended with sufficient specificity to permit the record to be located among those maintained by FEA, including, if possible, the title, identifying number, and location of the system of records, as stated in the Notice of Systems of Records published in the FEDERAL REGISTER; and (iii) specify the nature of the correction or amendment sought, including the specific words to be deleted from the record or added to it, as appropriate, and the justification for the requested change, including all available supporting documents and materials that substantiate the statement. The statement of justification for the change should identify the basis for the request, that is, whether the information in the record is unnecessary, inaccurate, irrelevant, untimely or incomplete.

(2) The individual making the request may be required to provide the information specified in § 206.3 and § 206.4 to simplify identification of the record and permit verification of the identity of the person making the request.

(c) (1) Receipt of a request for correction or amendment shall be acknowledged in writing within ten days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays), except that if the individual is, given notice within the ten-day period that his request will or will not be complied with, no acknowledgement is required.

(2) The acknowledgement shall contain an estimate of the time within which action will be taken on the request and, if necessary, shall request such additional information as may be necessary to act on the request. The estimate of time may take into account unusual circumstances that will delay the response. "Unusual circumstances" as used in this section shall include circumstances where a search for and collection of requested records from inactive storage, field facilities or other establishments are required, cases where a voluminous amount of data is involved, instances where information on other individuals must be separated or expunged from the particular record, and cases where consultations with other agencies having a substantial interest in the determination of the request are necessary.

(3) Any request not addressed and mailed as specified in paragraph (a) of this section shall be forwarded immediately to the Privacy Act Officer. A request that is improperly addressed by an individual shall not have been "received" for purposes of measuring time periods in this section until actual receipt by the Privacy Act Officer.

In each instance when a request so forwarded is received by the Privacy Act Officer, the individual making the request shall be notified that the request was improperly addressed and the date when the request was received by the Privacy Act Officer.

(d) Assistance in preparing a request to correct or amend a record may be obtained from the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, D.C. 20461.

§ 206.8 FEA review of request for correction or amendment of record.

(a) Within 30 days after acknowledging receipt of a request (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays), or after receiving such further information as may have been requested by FEA, or after arriving at a decision within the ten days, the Privacy Act Officer shall either:

(1) Make the requested correction or amendment and advise the individual in writing of such action, providing either a copy of the corrected or amended record, or a statement as to the means whereby the correction or amendment was accomplished in cases where a copy cannot be provided (for example, erasure of information from a record maintained only in an electronic data bank); or

(2) Inform the individual in writing that his request is denied and provide the following information:

(i) The Privacy Act Officer's name and title and position;

(ii) The date of the denial;

(iii) The reasons for the denial, including citation to the appropriate sections of the Act and this part; and

(iv) The procedures for appeal of the denial of a request for correction or amendment as set forth in § 206.9, including the name and address of the FEA Office or official with the responsibility for considering appeals.

(3) If the Privacy Act Officer cannot make the determination within thirty days, the individual will be advised in writing of the reason therefor and of the estimated date by which the determination will be made.

(b) Whenever an individual's record is corrected or amended pursuant to a request by that individual, the Privacy Act Officer shall notify all persons and agencies to which the corrected or amended portion of the record had been disclosed prior to its correction or amendment, if an accounting of such disclosure required by the Act was made. The notification shall require a recipient agency maintaining the record to acknowledge receipt of the notification, to correct or amend the record and to apprise any agency or person to which it had disclosed the record of the substance of the correction or amendment.

(c) The following criteria will be considered by the Privacy Act Officer in running a request for correction or amendment.

(1) The sufficiency of the evidence submitted by the individual;

(2) The factual accuracy of the information;

(3) The relevance and necessity of the information in relation to the purpose for which it was collected;

(4) If such information is used in making any determination about the individual, whether the information is as accurate relevant, timely, and complete as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in such determination;

(5) The degree of possibility that denial of the request could unfairly result in determinations adverse to the individual;

(6) The nature of the record sought to be corrected or amended; and

(7) The propriety and feasibility of complying with the specific means of correction or amendment requested by the individual.

(d) The FEA will not undertake to gather evidence for the individual but does reserve the right to verify the evidence that the individual submits.

(e) Correction or amendment of a record requested by an individual shall be denied only upon a determination by the Privacy Act Officer that:

(2) The record sought to be corrected or amended was compiled in a terminated judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual was a party or participant;

(3) The record sought to be corrected or amended is the subject of a pending judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual is a party or participant.

(4) The correction or amendment would violate a duly enacted statute or promulgated regulation; or

(5) The individual unreasonably has failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(f) If a request is partially granted and partially denied, the Privacy Act officer shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and the records within the denial.

§ 206.9 Appeals of denial of requests for correction or amendment of a record.

(a)(1) Any individual may appeal the denial of a request made by him for correction or amendment of a record issued pursuant to § 206.8.

(2) An appeal shall be filed within 30 days after the service of the denial.

When an appeal is filed by mail, the postmark is conclusive as to timeliness. (Service by FEA of the denial of a request may be by personal service or by registered, certified or regular United States Mail. Service upon an individual's duly authorized representative shall constitute service upon the individual.)

(b)(1) The appeal shall be in writing and shall be filed with the Office of Exceptions and Appeals, Federal Energy Administration, Washington, D.C. 20461. The consideration by FEA of appeals submitted by mail will be facilitated if the envelope in which the appeal is mailed has the words "PRIVACY ACT APPEAL" in capital letters on the front of it.

(2) An appeal not addressed and marked as specified in paragraph (b)(1) of this section shall be forwarded immediately to the Office of Exceptions and Appeals. An appeal that is not properly addressed by an individual shall not have been "received" for purposes of measuring the time periods in this section until actual receipt of the appeal by the Office of Exceptions and Appeals. In each instance when an appeal so forwarded is received, the individual filing the appeal shall be notified that the appeal was improperly addressed and the date when the appeal was received by the Office of Exceptions and Appeals.

(c) Content of appeal. (1) The appeal shall include the following: (i) A copy of the original request for correction or amendment; (ii) a copy of the initial denial; and (iii) a statement of the reasons why the initial denial is believed to be in error. The appeal shall be in writing and shall be signed by the individual.

(2) The record requested to be corrected or amended will be supplied to the Office of Exceptions and Appeals by the Privacy Act Officer who issued the initial denial. While such record normally will comprise the entire record on appeal, the Office of Exceptions and Appeals may seek such additional information as is necessary to assure that the final determination is fair and equitable and, in those such instances, the additional information will be disclosed to the individual making the appeal and, consistent with the time periods provided in paragraph (e) of this section, an opportunity will be provided for comment thereon.

(3) The record sought to be corrected or amended is the subject of a pending judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual is a party or participant.

(4) The correction or amendment would violate a duly enacted statute or promulgated regulation; or

(5) The individual unreasonably has failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(f) If a request is partially granted and partially denied, the Privacy Act officer shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and the records within the denial.

(g) No personal appearance or hearing on appeal will be allowed.

(h) The Office of Exceptions and Appeals shall act upon the appeal and issue a final determination in writing no later than thirty days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) from the date on which the appeal is received; provided that the Director of the Office of Exceptions and Appeals may extend the thirty-day period upon a determination that a fair and equitable review cannot be made within that period, but only if the individual is advised in writing of the reason for the extension. The notice of extension shall include the estimated day by which a final determination will be issued, which shall not be later than the sixtieth day (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) after receipt of the appeal unless unusual circumstances, as defined in § 206.7(c)(2), are present.

(f) If the appeal is granted, that determination shall include the specific corrections or amendments to be made and a copy thereof shall be transmitted promptly both to the individual and to the Privacy Act Officer who issued the initial denial. Upon receipt of that determination, the Privacy Act Officer promptly shall take the actions set forth in §§ 206.6(e) and 206.8(b).

(g) If the appeal is denied, the final determination shall be transmitted promptly to the individual and shall state the reasons for the denial. The notice of that determination also shall include the following information:

(1) The right of the individual to file with the Office of Exceptions and Appeals a concise signed statement of reasons for disagreeing with the final determination, receipt of which statement shall be acknowledged by the Office of Exceptions and Appeals;

(2) The fact that any such disagreement statement filed by the individual shall be noted in the disputed record and that a copy of the statement shall be provided by the Privacy Act Officer to persons and agencies to which the record is disclosed subsequent to the date of receipt of such statement;

(3) The fact that the FEA shall append to any such disagreement statement filed by the individual a copy of the final determination or summary thereof that also will be provided to persons and agencies to which the disagreement statement is disclosed; and

(4) The right of the individual to judicial review of the final determination under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(A), as limited by 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(5).

(h) In deciding the appeal, the Office of Exceptions and Appeals shall determine whether the denial of the request was erroneous in fact or in law.

(i) If an appeal is partially granted and partially denied, the Office of Exceptions and Appeals shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and the records within the denial.

(j) Although a copy of the final determination or a summary thereof will be treated as part of the individual's record for purposes of disclosure in instances where the individual has filed a disagreement statement, it will not be subject to correction or amendment by the individual.

§ 206.10 Content of systems of records.

(a) The FEA shall maintain in its records only such information about an individual as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose FEA is required to accomplish by statute or by executive order of the President, unless an exemption to this requirement has been claimed by FEA, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or by another agency.

(b) The FEA shall maintain no record describing how any individual exercises rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless expressly authorized by statute or by the individual about whom the record is maintained or unless pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity.

(c) The FEA shall maintain all records that are used by it in making any determination about any individual with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in such determination.

§ 206.11 Collection of information by FEA about an individual for a system of records.

(a) The FEA shall collect information, to the greatest extent practicable, directly from the subject individual when the information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits and privileges under Federal programs, unless an exemption from the Act to this requirement has been claimed by FEA as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or by another agency.

(b) Unless an exemption from the Act has been claimed by FEA, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or by another agency, FEA shall inform each individual whom it asks to supply information by a statement on the form or other means by which it uses to collect the information, or on a separate form that can be retained by the individual, of the following:

(1) The authority (whether granted by statute or by executive order of the President) that authorizes the solicitation of the information and whether disclosure of such information is mandatory or voluntary;

(2) The principal purpose or purposes for which the information is intended to be used;

(3) The routine uses that may be made of the information, as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER pursuant to the requirements of the Act; and

(4) The effect on him, if any, of not providing all or any part of the requested information.

§ 206.12 Public notice of systems of records.

(a)(1) The FEA shall publish in the FEDERAL REGISTER at least annually a notice of the existence and character of each of its system of records, which notice shall include:

(i) The name and location of the system;

(ii) The categories of individuals on whom records are maintained in the system;

(iii) The categories of records maintained in the system;

(iv) Each routine use of the records contained in the system, including the categories of users and the purpose of such use, subject to paragraph (c) of this section:

(v) The policies and practices of the FEA regarding storage, retrievability, access controls, retention, and disposal of the records;

(vi) The title and business address of the FEA official who is responsible for the system of records;

(vii) The procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request if the system of records contains a record pertaining to him;

(viii) The procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request how he can gain access to any record pertaining to him contained in the system of records, and how he can contest its content; and

(ix) The categories of sources of records in the system.

(2) Notwithstanding the requirements of paragraph (a)(1) of this section, the notice of such systems of records shall not include the information in paragraphs (a)(1)(vii)-(ix) of this section if FEA has claimed a general or specific exemption from the requirements of the Act, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or such exemptions have been claimed by another agency.

(b) Copies of the notices as printed in the FEDERAL REGISTER shall be available in the FEA National Office and in each Regional Office. Locations of the Regional offices are listed in § 206.18. Requests by mail should be sent to Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, Washington, D.C. 20461. The first copy will be furnished free of charge. A charge reflecting the costs of printing and handling may be made for each additional copy.

(c) At least 30 days (including Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) prior to the implementation of any new routine use of a record in a system of records, or at least 30 days prior to publication of the annual notice of such routine uses, as provided in paragraph (a)(1) of this section, FEA shall publish in the FEDERAL REGISTER notice of any new routine use or intended routine use of a record in the system of records, and shall provide an opportunity for interested persons to submit written comments consisting of data, views, or arguments regarding such use to FEA.

§ 206.13 Criminal penalties.

(a) The Act provides, in pertinent part, that: Any person who knowingly and willfully requests or obtains any record concerning an individual from an agency under false pretenses shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000. (5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3))

(b) A person who falsely or fraudulently attempts to obtain records under the Act also may be subject to prosecution under such other criminal statutes as 18 U.S.C. 494, 495, and 1001.

§ 206.14 General exemptions. [Reserved]

§ 206.15 Specific exemptions.

The specific exemptions determined to be necessary and proper with respect to systems of records maintained by the FEA, including the parts of each system to be exempted, the provisions of the Act from which they are exempted, and the justification for the exemption are as follows:

(a)(1) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2). The systems of records exempt are:

(i) FEA-1: FEA Personnel Records and Management Information System (only personnel investigative records concerning current and former FEA employees and applicants for employment by FEA);

(ii) FEA-6: Personnel Security Records (only the memoranda specifically identified as OS forms DPA 24 and 24A); and

(iii) FEA-7: Investigative Report Records (only investigative report records concerning current and former FEA employees and applicants for employment by FEA).

(2) The foregoing are exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) (accounting of disclosures), (d) (access to records), and (e)(1) (type of information maintained). The reasons for asserting the exemption are to prevent subjects of investigation from frustrating the investigatory process, to insure the proper functioning and integrity of law enforcement activities, to prevent disclosure of investigative techniques and to maintain the ability to obtain necessary information.

(3)(i) Notwithstanding the exemption from the Act's requirement that FEA upon request, provide an individual with information about or access to his record or to any information pertaining to him that is contained in the systems of records identified in paragraphs (a)(1) (i), (ii) and (iii) of this section, access to investigatory materials compiled for law enforcement purposes shall be provided to an individual upon his request, made in accordance with § 206.3, if such individual is denied any right, privilege, or benefit that he would otherwise be entitled to by Federal law, or for which he would otherwise be eligible, as a result of the maintenance of such material by the FEA, except to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or, prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence.

(ii) Waiver of exemption. (A) FEA may, upon request filed in accordance with § 206.3, waive the exemption from the requirement to grant access with respect to any record in the systems of records identified in paragraphs (a)(1)(i), (ii) and (iii) of this section, subject to the limitation as to records that would reveal the identity of certain sources as stated in paragraph

(a)(3)(ii)(B) of this section, for good cause shown. The exercise of FEA's discretion with respect to waiver of the exemption shall be final.

(B) FEA may, upon request made in accordance with § 206.3, waive the exemption from the requirement to grant access with respect to records identified in paragraphs (a)(1)(i), (ii) and (iii) of this section containing material or information that would reveal the identity of a source who was given an assurance of confidentiality if such source consents to the release of such material or information to the individual, or if FEA determines that such material or information is not adverse or detrimental to the individual, or for good cause shown. The exercise of FEA's discretion with respect to waiver of the exemption shall be final.

(b)(1) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(4). The system of records exempt is the FEA-10 Minority Group Data File.

(2) The foregoing is exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) (accounting of disclosures), (d) (access to records), and (f) (procedures for access). The system of records is used for statistical research or reporting purposes only and is not used in whole or in part in making any determination about the rights, benefits or entitlements identifiable with the individual, except as provided by section 8 of title 18 of the United States Code.

(c)(1) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5). The systems of records exempt are:

(i) FEA-1: FEA Personnel Records and Management Information System (only personnel investigative records concerning current and former FEA employees and applicants for employment by FEA);

(ii) FEA-6: Personnel Security Records (only the memoranda identified as OS forms DPS 24 and 24A); and

(iii) FEA-7: Investigative Report Record (only investigative report records concerning current and former FEA employees and applicants for employment by FEA).

(2) The foregoing are exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552(c)(3) (accounting of disclosures) (d) (access to records), and (e)(1) (type of information maintained); but only to the extent that the disclosure of the investigatory materials would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or, prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence.

The reasons for asserting the exemption are to maintain the ability to obtain candid and necessary information, to fulfill commitments made to sources to protect the confidentiality of information, to avoid endangering these sources and, ultimately to facilitate proper selection or continuance of the best applicants or persons for a given position or contract.

(3) Waiver of exemption. FEA may, upon request made in accordance with § 206.3, waive the exemption from the requirement to grant access to records identified in paragraphs (c)(1)(i), (ii) and (iii) of this section containing material or information that would reveal the identity of a source who was given an assurance of confidentiality if such source consents to the release of such material or information to the individual, or if FEA determines that such material or information is not adverse or detrimental to the individual, or for good cause shown. The exercise of FEA's discretion with respect to the waiver of the exemption shall be final.

§ 206.16 Fees.

(a) The only fees to be charged to or collected from an individual under the provisions of this part are for copying records at the request of the individual. The fee charged may not exceed the direct cost of making the copy (i.e. printing, typing, or photocopy and related personnel and equipment costs).

(1) No fees shall be charged or collected for the following: search for and retrieval of the records review of the records, copying by the FEA incident to granting access, copying at the initiative of the FEA without a request from the individual, transportation of records and personnel, and first class postage.

(2) It is the policy of the FEA to provide an individual with one copy of each record corrected or amended pursuant to request without charge.

(3) As required by the United States Civil Service Commission in its published regulations implementing the Act, the FEA will charge no fee for a single copy of a personnel record covered by that Commission's Government-wide published notice of systems of records.

(b) The schedule of fees is as follows: (1) $0.10 per each copy of each page, when the aggregate of fees for copying is more than $3.00.

(2) For other forms of copying and other forms of materials (e.g., cassettes, computer materials), the direct cost of the materials, personnel, and equipment, shall be charged, but only with prior specific approval of the person making the request.

(c) The FEA may, upon application by an individual, furnish any records without charge or at a reduced rate, if it determines that such waiver or reduction of fee is in the public interest.

(d) Requests for copies of documents should be addressed to Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, Washington, D.C. 20461, or to the Privacy Act Officer at the FEA Regional Offices, at the addresses listed in § 206.18.

(e) Payment should be made by check or money order payable to the Treasury of the United States.

(f) Advance payment of all or part of the fee may be required at the discretion of the FEA. Unless the individual requesting the copies specifically states that he is willing to pay what ever fees are assessed by FEA for meeting the request or alternatively specifies an amount in excess of $25 that he is willing to pay and which in fact covers the anticipated fees for meeting the request, a request that is expected to involve assessed fees in excess of $25 shall not be deemed to have been received, for purposes of the time periods specified in §§ 206.5(a), 206.7(c)(1) and 206.9(e), until the individual making the request is advised of the anticipated cost, agrees to bear it, and makes any advance deposit required. Such notification shall be made by the Privacy Act Officer promptly upon receipt of the request.

§ 206.17 Exceptions, exemptions and interpretations, rulings and rulemaking.

(a) Applications for exceptions, exemptions or requests for interpretations relating to this part shall be filed in accordance with the procedures provided in Subparts D, E and F, respectively, of Part 205 of this chapter. Rulings shall be issued in accordance with the procedures of Subpart K of Part 205 of this chapter. Rulemakings shall be undertaken in accordance with the procedures provided in Subpart L of Part 205 of this chapter.

(b) As used in this section, the term—

"Exception" means the waiver or modification of the requirements of a regulation, ruling or generally applicable requirement under a specific set of facts.

"Exemption" means the release from the obligation to comply with an entire part, or subpart thereof, of Part 206 of this chapter.

"Interpretation" means a written statement issued by the FEA General Counsel, in response to a written request, that applies the regulations, rulings, and other precedents previously issued by the FEA to the particular facts of a prospective or completed act or transaction.

"Ruling" means an official interpretative statement of general applicability issued by the FEA General Counsel and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER that applies the FEA regulations to a specific set of circumstances.

Title 39—Postal Service CHAPTER I—UNITED STATES POSTAL SERVICE

PART 261—RECORDS AND INFORMATION MANAGEMENT

Sec.
261.1 Purposes and scope.
261.2 Authority.
261.3 Policy.
261.4 Responsibility.
AUTHORITY: 39 U.S.C. 401.

§ 261.1 Purpose and scope.

As a result of the Postal Reorganization Act, 39 U.S.C. 410, the United States Postal Service is no longer subject to the provisions of the Federal Records Act of 1950, or any of its supporting regulations which provide for the conduct of records management in Federal agencies. The objective of Parts 261 through 268 is to provide the basis for a Postal Service-wide records and information management program affecting all organizational components having the custody of any form of information and records.

§ 261.2 Authority.

(a) 39 U.S.C. 401(5) states that the Postal Service has the power to acquire property it deems necessary or convenient in the transaction of its business and to hold, maintain, sell, lease or otherwise dispose of such property.

(b) 39 CFR 224.3(b)(3) assigns to the Management Information Systems Department responsibility for the management of records and to the Postal Service Records Officer located within that Department responsibility for retention, security and privacy of Postal Service records and the power to authorize the disclosure of such records and their disposal by destruction or transfer. Included is the authority to issue records management policy and to delegate to take appropriate action if the policy is not adhered to or if questions of interpretation of procedure arise.

§ 261.3 Policy.

It is the policy of the Postal Service:

(a) To, as appropriate, create, preserve, protect and disclose records which contain adequate and proper documentation of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, operations, procedures, activities and transactions of the Postal Service.

(b) To reduce to an absolute minimum the records holdings of the Postal Service by strict adherence to established records retention schedules.

(c) To transfer records to appropriate storage areas as soon as they become inactive or are no longer of value to the Postal Service.

§ 261.4 Responsibility.

(a) The Records Officer administers the Postal Service Records and Information Management program through a headquarters organizational component and through contacts in each headquarters department, Postal Service Region, district, data processing center and other major Postal Service installations.

(b) Postal Service managers are responsible for administering records and information management policies and for complying with all handbooks, directives, and instructions in support of this policy.

PART 262—RECORDS AND INFORMATION MANAGEMENT DEFINITIONS

Sec.

262.1 Custodian.

262.2 Records.

262.3 Non record material.

262.4 Information.

262.5 Information system (System of records).

262.6 Information system executive.

— AUTHORITY 39 U.S.C. 401, Pub. L. 93-579, 88 Stat. 1896

§ 262.1 (Custodian).

The Postmaster or other head of a facility such as a Postal Data Center, mailbag depository, management sectional center, district office or Regional Headquarters, or a group or department of Headquarters, who maintains USPS records.

§ 262.2 Records.

Any medium, regardless of form or characteristics (paper, film, magnetic surfaces, etc.), that contains information developed or received by the United States Postal Service in connection with the transaction of its business and retained in its custody.

(a) Types of Records.—(1) Official Record—primary copy of any record created or the original received by any Postal Service organizations component in the line of its duties or function.

(2) Duplicate Records—additional copies of the official record.

(3) Historical Records—Postal Service records which may have value beyond their scheduled destruction date or which are required to be permanently retained.

(4) Vital Records—Records which are necessary for the effective operation of the Postal Service or the protection of its interests, its employees, its contractors or the general public.

(b) Categories of Records. (1) Records (Active)—records for which the retention period has not yet expired and which are in regular use.

(2) Records (Inactive)—records for which the retention period has not yet expired and which are not in regular use.

§ 262.3 Non-record material.

Includes blank forms and surplus publications, handbooks, circulars, bulletins, announcements, and other directives, as well as any material not directly associated with the transactions of Postal Service business.

§ 262.4 Information.

A combination of data which has the potential to service a useful purpose.

(a) Types of Information. (1) General Information. that information which is available to the public with out restriction.

(2) Restricted Information—that information which because of federal statute or USPS regulation, cannot be released to the public. (Includes, but is not limited to, personal and national defense information.)

(3) Discretionary Information—that information which is available to the public only on a selective basis.

(4) Critical Information—that information for which integrity must be assured in order for the Postal Service to effectively perform its mission, or to prevent significant financial loss. (This information is contained within Vital Records.)

(5) Sensitive Information—that information which is either restricted, discretionary or critical in nature.

§ 262.5 Information system (system of records).

A methodology which receives, accesses and processes groups of records in an efficient manner for the purpose of producing useable output records.

§ 262.6 Information system executive.

The Postal Service Manager who prescribes the existence of and the policies for an information system.

PART 263—RECORDS RETENTION AND DISPOSITION

Sec.

263.1 Purpose and scope.

263.2 Policy.

263.3 Responsibility.

263.4 Records retention schedules.

263.5 Records disposal.

AUTHORITY: 39 U.S.C. 401

§ 263.1 Purpose and scope.

This part contains the policy and general regulations pertaining to the retention and disposition of records and information throughout all organizational levels and components.

§ 263.2 Policy.

It is the policy of the United States Postal Service to establish and maintain schedules specifying the retention periods required for all official and duplicate record copies. Furthermore, it is the policy that all duplicate record copies and non record material will be disposed of as soon as they have served their purpose.

§ 263.3 Responsibility.

(a) Records Officer. The Records Officer has the responsibility for providing for the establishment of retention schedules and has the authority to approve them. Furthermore, he has the authority to dispose of Postal Service records by transfer or destruction.

(b) Custodians. Custodians are responsible for the retention and prompt disposal of records in their custody and for delegating in writing, persons to perform these duties.

§ 263.4 Records retention schedules.

The following retention schedules will be maintained within the Postal Service

(a) General schedule.

(b) Headquarters schedule.

(c) Regional schedule.

(d) District schedule.

(e) Inspection service schedule.

(f) Postal data centers schedule.

(g) Automatic data processing centers schedule.

(h) Post Office schedule.

(i) Other facility schedules.

§ 263.5 Records disposal.

All disposals of records containing sensitive information, i.e. transfers to records storage centers, destruction, transfers external to the USPS, and maintenance of accounting records regarding such disposal, must be accomplished in accordance with procedures issued by the Records Officer.

PART 264—VITAL RECORDS

Sec.

264.1 Purpose and scope.

264.2 Policy.

264.3 Responsibility.

264.4 Protection of vital records.

AUTHORITY: 39 U.S.C. 401.

§ 264.1 Purpose and scope.

The reconstruction costs of certain necessary information would be financially prohibitive and certain records are so critical to the continuity of operations of the Postal Service that their loss could paralyze operations. Therefore, to protect this information from loss, specific controls are required which affect all organizational components having the custody of information and records defined as being "vital".

§ 264.2 Policy.

It is the policy of the United States Postal Service to maintain duplicate record copies of all records and information considered vital to the continuity of its operations and the protection of its interests and those of its employees, contractors, and the general public. Vital record copies will be maintained at protected locations accessible to management and operating personnel in times of emergency.

§ 264.3 Responsibility.

(a) Records Officer. The Records Officer, in cooperation with the Chief Inspector, is responsible for the establishment of the vital records program, has the authority to categorize records as vital, and to ensure Postal Service-wide compliance with supportive procedures.

(b) Custodians. Custodians have the responsibility to ensure that vital records procedures are followed and that vital record copies are deposited at the designated emergency relocation centers.

§ 264.4 Protection of vital records.

Complete procedures concerning the identification, processing, protection, and transfer of vital records are provided by the Records Officer.

PART 266—PRIVACY OF INFORMATION

Sec.

266.1 Purpose and scope.

266.2 Policy.

266.3 Responsibility.

266.4 Collection and disclosure of personal information.

266.5 Notification

266.6 Procedures for requesting inspection and copying

266.7 Procedures for requesting amendment

266.8 Schedule of fees

266.9 Exemptions.

AUTHORITY: 39 U.S.C. 401, Pub. L. 93-579, 88 Stat. 1896

§ 266.1 Purpose and scope.

This part is intended to protect individual privacy and affects all personal information collection and usage activities of the entire U.S. Postal Service. This includes the information interface of Postal Service employees to other employees, to individuals from the public at large, and to any private organization or governmental agency.

§ 266.2 Policy.

It is the policy of the U.S. Postal Service to insure that any record within its custody that identifies or describes any characteristic or provides historical information about an individual or that affords a basis for inferring personal characteristics, or things done by or to such individual; and the record of any affiliation with an organization or activity, or admission to an institution, is accurate, pertinent, complete, timely, relevant, and reasonably secure from unauthorized access. Additionally, it is the policy to provide the means for individuals to know: (a) Of the existence of all Postal Service personal information systems, (b) the recipients and usage made of such information, (c) what personal information is optional or mandatory to provide to the Postal Service, (d) the procedures for individual review and update of all relevant personal information, (e) the reproduction fees for personal records, and (f) the procedures for individual legal appeal in cases of dissatisfaction.

§ 266.3 Responsibility.

(a) Records Officer. The Records Officer will insure Postal Service-wide compliance to this policy.

(b) Custodian. Custodians are responsible for adherence to this part within their respective units, and in particular for affording individuals their rights to inspect and obtain copies of records concerning them.

(c) Information System Executive. These managers are responsible for reporting the existence of personal records systems, changes to the contents of those systems, and changes of routine use to the Records Officer and also for establishing the relevancy of information within those systems.

§ 266.4 Collection and disclosure of personal information.

(a) The following rules govern the collection of personal information throughout Postal Service operations:

(i) The Postal Service will:

(i) Collect, solicit and maintain only such personal information as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose required by statute or Executive Order.

(ii) Collect information, to the greatest extent practicable, directly from the subject individual when such information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits or privileges.

(iii) Inform any individual requested to disclose personal information whether that disclosure is mandatory or voluntary, by what authority it is solicited, the principal purposes for which it is intended to be used, the routine uses which may be made of it, and any penalties and specific consequences for the individual, which are known to the Postal Service, which will result from nondisclosure.

(2) The Postal Service will not discriminate against any individual who fails to provide personal information unless that information is required or necessary for the conduct of the system or program in which the individual desires to participate.

(3) No information will be collected (or maintained) describing how individuals exercise rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless the Postmaster General specifically determines that such information is relevant and necessary to carry out a statutory purpose of the Postal Service.

(4) The Postal Service will not require disclosure of any individual's Social Security account number or deny a right, privilege or benefit because of the individual's refusal to disclose the number unless disclosure is required by Federal law.

(b) Disclosures. (1) Disclosure: Limitations On. The Postal Service will not disseminate personal information unless reasonable efforts have been made to assure that the information is accurate, complete, timely and relevant and unless:

(i) The individual to whom the record pertains has requested in writing that the information be disseminated, or

(ii) It has obtained the prior written consent of the individual to whom the record pertains, or

(iii) The dissemination is in accordance with subsection (2) hereof.

(2) Dissemination of personal information may be made:

(i) To a person pursuant to a requirement of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552);

(ii) To those officers and employees of the Postal Service who have a need for such information in the performance of their duties;

(iii) For a routine use as contained in the system notices published in the FEDERAL REGISTER;

(iv) To a recipient who has provided advance adequate written assurance that the information will be used solely as a statistical reporting or research record, and to whom the information is transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable;

(v) To the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of Title 13, U.S. Code;

(vi) To the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value;

(vii) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual, if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual.

(viii) To a Federal agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity, if such activity is authorized by law and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to the Postal Service specifying the particular portion of the record desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought.

(ix) To either House of Congress or its committees or subcommittees to the extent of matter within their jurisdiction.

(x) To the Comptroller General or any of his authorized representatives in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office.

(xi) Pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

(3) Names and Addresses of Postal Customers. The disclosure of lists of names or addresses of Postal customers or other persons to the public is prohibited (39 U.S.C. 412) Names or addresses will be disclosed only in those cases permitted by 39 CFR 265.6(d) relating to the Release of Information.

(4) Employee Job References. A credit bureau or commercial firm from which an employee is seeking credit may be given the following information upon request: length of service, job title, and salary.

(5) Employee Job References. Prospective employers of a Postal employee or a former Postal employee may be furnished with the information in § 266.4(b)(4) above, in addition to the date and reason for separation if applicable.

(c) Correction Disclosure. Any person or other agency to which a personal record has been or is to be disclosed shall be informed of any corrections or notations of dispute relating thereto affecting the accuracy, timeliness or relevance of that personal record.

(d) Recording of Disclosure. (1) An accurate accounting of each disclosure will be kept in all instances except those in which disclosure is made to Postal Service employees in the performance of their duties or is required by the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552).

(2) The accounting will be maintained for at least five (5) years or the life of the record, whichever is longer.

(3) The accounting will be made available to the individual named in the record upon inquiry except for disclosures made pursuant to provision 4(b)(2)(viii) above relating to law enforcement activities.

§ 266.5 Notification.

(a) Notification of Systems. The following procedures permit individuals to determine the types of personnel records systems maintained by the Postal Service.

(1) Upon written request, the Postal Service will notify any individual whether a specific system named by him contains a record pertaining to him. See § 266.6 for suggested form of request.

(2) The Postal Service shall publish annually in the FEDERAL REGISTER a notice of existence and character of all personal systems of records. This notice will contain the following information:

(i) Name and location of the system.

(ii) Nature and purposes of the system.

(iii) Categories of individuals on whom personal information is maintained and categories of personal information generally maintained in the system.

(iv) Confidentiality requirements and the extent to which access controls apply to such information.

(v) Postal Service policies and standards regarding the safeguarding and disclosure of information, information storage, duration of retention of information, and elimination of such information from the system.

(vi) Routine uses made by the Postal Service of the personal information contained in the system, including the categories of users and the purpose of the use.

(vii) Title and official address of the custodian.

(viii) Procedures by which an individual can be informed if a system contains personal information pertaining to him gain access to such information, and contest the accuracy, completeness, timeliness, relevance and necessity for retention of the information.

(ix) Categories of sources of such personal information.

(x) System status—either developmental or operational.

(b) Notification of Disclosure. The Postal Service shall make reasonable efforts to serve notice on an individual before any personal information on such individual is made available to any person under compulsory legal process when such process becomes a matter of public record. (Also see § 266.4(b)(1)(ii) and (2)(vii).)

(c) Notification of Amendment. (See § 266.7 (b)(3) relating to amendment of records upon request.)

(d) Notification of New Use. Any newly intended use of personal information maintained by the Postal Service will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER thirty (30) days before such use become operational. Public views may then be submitted to the Records Officer.

(e) Notification of Exemptions. The Postal Service will publish within the FEDERAL REGISTER its intent to exempt any system of records and shall specify the nature and purpose of that system.

§ 266.6 Procedures for requesting inspection and copying.

The purpose of this section is to provide procedures by which an individual may have access to personal information within a comprehensible format.

(a) Submission of Requests for Access. (1) Manner of Submission. Inquiries regarding the contents of records systems or access to personal information should be in writing and directed to the custodian of the official record, if known, or to the Records Officer, United States Postal Service, Washington, DC 20260. Inquiries should be clearly marked, "Privacy Act Request". Any inquiry concerning a specific system of records should provide the Postal Service with the information contained under "Notification" for that system as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. If the information supplied is insufficient to locate or identify the record, the requester will be notified promptly and, if possible, informed of additional information required. If the requester is not a Postal Service employee, he should designate the post office at which he wishes to review or obtain copies of records.

(2) Third Party Inquiries. Anyone desiring to review or copy records pertaining to another person must have the written consent of that person.

(3) Period for Response by Custodian. Upon receipt of an inquiry, the custodian will respond with an acknowledgement of receipt within ten (10) days. If the inquiry requires the custodian to determine whether a particular record exists, the inquirer shall be informed of this determination as a part of the acknowledgement letter.

(b) Compliance with Request for Access. (1) Notification of Time and Place for Inspection. When a requested record has been identified and is to be disclosed, the custodian shall ensure that the record is made available promptly and shall immediately notify the requester where and when the record will be available for inspection or copying. Postal Service records will normally be available for inspection and copying during regular business hours at the postal facilities at which they are maintained. The custodian may, however, designate other reasonable locations and times for inspection and copying of some or all of the records within his custody.

(2) Identification of Requester. The requester must present personal identification sufficient to satisfy the custodian as to his identity prior to record review. Examples of sufficient identification are a valid driver's license, medicare card, and employee identification cards.

(3) Responsibilities of Requester. The requester shall assume the following responsibilities regarding the review of official personal records.

(i) Requester must agree not to leave Postal Services premises with official records unless specifically given a copy for that purpose by the custodian or his representative.

(ii) Requester must sign a statement indicating he has reviewed a specific record(s) or category of record.

(iii) Requester may be accompanied by a person he so chooses to aid in the inspection of information; however, requester must furnish the Postal Service with written authorization for such review in that person's presence.

(4) Special Rules for Medical Records. A medical record shall be disclosed to the requester to whom it pertains unless, in the judgment of the custodian, access to such record could have an adverse effect upon such individual. When the custodian, in consultation with a medical doctor, determines that the disclosure of medical information could have an adverse effect upon the individual to whom it pertains, the custodian will transmit such information to a medical doctor named by the requesting individual.

(5) Limitations on Access. Nothing in this section shall allow an individual access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding. Other limitations on access are those specifically addressed in §§ 266.6(b)(4) above and 266.9 below.

(c) Response When Compliance Is Not Possible. A reply denying a written request to review a record shall be in writing signed by the custodian or other appropriate official and shall be made only if such a record does not exist or does not contain personal information relating to the requester, or is exempt from disclosure. This reply shall include a statement regarding the determining factors of denial, and the right to obtain judicial review in a district court.

§ 266.7 Procedures for requesting amendment.

(a) Submission of Requests for Amendment. Upon review of a personal record pertaining to an individual, that individual may submit a request to amend the record. This request will be submitted in writing to the custodian and will include a statement of the amendment requested and the reasons therefor which normally will relate to such characteristics as relevance, accuracy, timeliness or completeness.

(b) Action to be Taken by the Custodian. Upon receiving an amendment request, the custodian shall promptly:

(1) Acknowledge in writing receipt of the request within ten (10) working days.

(2) Make such inquiry as is necessary to determine whether the amendment is appropriate, and

(3) Correct or eliminate any information that is found to be incomplete, inaccurate, not relevant to a statutory purpose of the Postal Service, or not timely, and notify the requester when this action is complete, or

(4) Not later than thirty (30) working days after receipt of a request to amend, notify the requester of a determination not to amend and of the individual's right to appeal.

(c) Appeal Procedure. (1) If a request to inspect, copy, or amend a record is denied, in whole or in part, or if no determination is made within the period prescribed by this part, the requester may appeal to the U.S. Postal Service Privacy Appeals Officer, U.S. Postal Service, Washington, D.C. 20260.

(2) The requester should submit his appeal in writing within thirty (30) days of the date of denial, or within ninety (90) days of such request if the appeal is from a failure of the custodian to make a determination. The letter of appeal should include, as applicable:

(i) Reasonable identification of the record access to which or the amendment of which was requested.

(ii) A statement of the Postal Service action or failure to act and of the relief sought.

(iii) A copy of the request, of the notification of denial and of any other related correspondence.

(3) Any record found on appeal to be incomplete, inaccurate, not relevant, or not timely, shall within thirty (30) working days of the date of such findings be appropriately amended.

(4) The decision of the U.S. Postal Service Privacy Appeals Officer, constitutes the final decision of the Postal Service on the right of the requester to inspect, copy, change, or update a record. The decision on the appeal shall be in writing and in the event of a denial shall set forth the reasons for such denial and state the individual's right to obtain judicial review in a district court. An indexed file of decisions on appeals shall be maintained by the Records Officer.

(d) Submission of Statement of Disagreement. If the final decision does not satisfy the requester, any statement of reasonable length provided by that individual setting forth a position regarding the disputed information, will be accepted and included in the relevant personal record.

(e) Availability of Assistance in Exercising Rights. The USPS Records Officer is available to provide an individual with assistance in exercising rights pursuant to this part.

§ 266.8 Schedule of fees.

(a) Policy. The purpose of this section is to establish fair and equitable fees to permit reproduction of records to concerned individuals while substantially covering the direct costs incurred by the Postal Service.

(b) Reproduction. (1) For reproducing any paper or micrographic record or publication, the fee is $.10 per page. Computer reports will be provided at $.015 per page. No charge will be made if the total fees authorized by this Part in compliance with a request or series of related requests is less than $1.00.

(2) The Postal Service may at its discretion make coin-operated copy machines available at any location. In that event, the requester will be given the opportunity to make copies at his own expense.

(3) The Postal Service will not normally furnish more than one copy of any record.

(c) Limitations. No fee will be charged to any individual for the process of retrieving, or amending records.

§ 266.9 Exemptions.

(a) Subsections 552a (j) and (k) of Title 5, U.S. Code, empower the Postmaster General to exempt systems of records meeting certain criteria from various other subsections of section 552a. With respect to systems of records so exempted, nothing in this part shall require compliance with provisions hereof implementing any subsections of section 552a from which those systems have been exempted.

(b) Pursuant to, and to the extent permitted by, subsection 552a (j) and (k) of title 5, United States Code, the following systems of records maintained by the Postal Service are exempted from the designated subsections of section 552a of title 5, United States Code:

(1) Postal Inspection Service Investigative Files System from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3) and (4), (d)(1)-(4), (e)(1)-(3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g), and (m).

(2) Postal Inspection Service Mail Cover Program Records from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d)(1)-(4), (e)(1)-(3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(5), (e)(8), (f), (g) and (m).

(3) Postal Service Personnel Investigations Records from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1)-(4) and (e)(1) to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5) as relating to the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government in confidence as a part of an investigation conducted solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications of an individual for employment.

(4) Postal Service Recruiting, Examining and Placement Records from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1)-(4), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f) to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5) as relating to testing or examination material as to the identity of a source who has furnished information to the Government in confidence as a part of an investigation conducted solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility or qualifications of an individual for employment.

(5) Postal Service Research and Test Validating Records from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1)-(4), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f) to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(6) as relating to testing and examination material.

nature will be deleted from the requested documents and the balance made available. The controlling principle behind this limited access is to allow disclosures except those indicated above. The decisions to release information from these systems of records will be made on a case-by-case basis.

§ 16.79 Exemption of Pardon Attorney System.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(d):

(1) Executive Clemency Files (JUSTICE/OPA-001).

This exemption applies only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(b) Exemption from subsection (d) is justified for the following reasons:

(1) Executive clemency files contain investigatory and evaluative reports relating to applicants for Executive clemency. Release of such information to the subject would jeopardize the integrity of the investigative process, invade the right of candid and confidential communications among officials concerned with recommending clemency decisions to the President, and disclose the identity of persons who furnished information to the Government under an express or implied promise that their identities would be held in confidence.

(2) The purpose of the creation and maintenance of these files is to enable the Pardon Attorney to prepare for the President's ultimate decisions on matters which are within the President's exclusive jurisdiction by virtue of Article II, section 2, clause 1 of the Constitution, which commits pardons to the exclusive discretion of the President.

§ 16.80 [Reserved]

§ 16.81 Exemption of United States Attorneys Systems—Limited access.

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g) and (h):

(1) Citizen Complaint Files (JUSTICE/USA-003).

(2) Civil Case Files (JUSTICE/USA-005).

(3) Consumer Complaints (JUSTICE/USA-006).

(4) Criminal Case Files (JUSTICE/USA-007).

(5) Kline—District of Columbia and Maryland Stock and Land Interrelationship Filing System (JUSTICE/USA-010).

(6) Major Crimes Division Investigation Files (JUSTICE/USA-011).

(7) Prosecutor's Management Information System (PROMIS) (JUSTICE/USA-012).

(8) U.S. Attorney, District of Columbia Superior Court Division, Criminal Files (JUSTICE/USA-014).

(9) Pre-trial Diversion Program Files (JUSTICE/USA-015).

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures pursuant to the routine uses published for these systems would permit the subject of a criminal investigation and/or civil case or matter under investigation, litigation, regulatory or administrative review or action, to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of the investigation, case or matter and present a serious impediment to law enforcement or civil legal activities.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d), this subsection will not be applicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of criminal investigation and/or civil investigation, matter or case of the existence of that investigation, provide the subject of the investigation with information that might enable him to avoid detection, apprehension or legal obligations, and present a serious impediment to law enforcement and other civil remedies.

(4) From subsection (e)(1) because in the course of criminal investigations and/or civil investigations, cases or matters, the United States Attorneys often obtain information concerning the violation of laws or civil obligations other than those relating to an active case or matter. In the interests of effective law enforcement and civil litigation, it is necessary that the United States Attorneys retain this information since it can aid in establishing patterns of activity and provide valuable leads for other agencies and future cases that may be brought within the United States Attorneys' offices.

(5) From subsection (e)(2) because in a criminal investigation the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent possible from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement in that the subject of the investigation would be placed on notice of the existence of the investigation and would therefore be able to avoid detection, apprehension or legal obligations and duties.

(6) From subsection (e)(3) because the requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential investigation, reveal the identity of confidential sources of information and endanger the life and physical safety of confidential informants.

(7) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) because these systems of records are exempt from individual access pursuant to subsections (j) and (k) of the Privacy Act of 1974.

(8) From subsection (e)(5) because in the collection of information for law enforcement purposes it is impossible to determine in advance what information is accurate, relevant, timely, and complete. With the passage of time, seemingly irrelevant or untimely information may acquire new significance as further investigation brings new details to light and the accuracy of such information can only be determined in a court of law. The restrictions of subsection (e)(5) would restrict the ability of trained investigators and intelligence analysts to exercise their judgment in reporting on investigations and impede the development of intelligence necessary for effective law enforcement.

(9) From subsection (e)(8) because the individual notice requirements of subsection (e)(8) could present a serious impediment to law enforcement as this could interfere with the United States Attorneys' ability to issue subpoenas and could reveal investigative techniques and procedures.

(10) From subsection (f) because these systems of records have been exempted from the access provisions of subsection (d).

(11) From subsections (g) and (h) because these systems of records are compiled for law enforcement purposes and have been exempted from the access provisions of subsections (d) and (f).

(c) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the Executive Office for United States Attorneys will grant access to nonexempt material in records which are maintained by the United States Attorneys. Disclosure will be governed by the Department's Privacy Regulations, but will be limited to the extent that the identity of confidential sources will not be compromised; subjects of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil or regulatory violation will not be alerted to the investigation; the physical safety of witnesses, informants and law enforcement personnel will not be endangered; the privacy of third parties will not be violated; and that the disclosure would not otherwise impede effective law enforcement. Whenever possible, information of the above nature will be deleted from the requested documents and the balance made available. The controlling principle behind this limited access is to allow disclosures except those indicated above. The decisions to release information from these systems will be made on a case-by-case basis.

(d) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e), (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f), and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, the following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(1) and (k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Records (JUSTICE/USA-009).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that the records contained in this system have been obtained from other systems of records maintained by the U.S. Attorneys Offices for which exemptions from one or more of the foregoing provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 have been promulgated. The exemption claimed for this system of records applies only to records obtained from such other U.S. Attorneys Offices systems and only to the same extent as the records contained in such other systems have been exempted.

(e) The system of records listed under paragraph (d) of this section is exempted for the following reasons:

(1) In the course of processing requests for records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) or for access or correction of records pursuant to the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a), it is frequently necessary to search for records in systems of records for which exemptions have been claimed pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k). When records are located in said systems, it is frequently necessary to prepare copies for the purpose of consulting with agency personnel or with other agencies, either with regard to determining whether or to what extent the records should be disclosed, or access provided, or correction made or denied or for review in the event of administrative appeal or judicial review.

(2) If records otherwise exempt pursuant to published rules should lose their exempt character when taken from such exempt systems for the purpose of compliance with the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act in reviewing such records and making a determination with regard to disclosure, access, and the Department of Justice in claiming correction, the purpose of the Privacy Act in providing such exemptions and such exemptions would be defeated and nullified. The proper, efficient, and timely processing of citizens' requests pursuant to said Acts would be hindered and impeded.

§§ 16.82-16.83 [Reserved]

§ 16.84 Exemption of Board of Immigration Appeals System.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) (2), (3) and (4):

(1) Decisions of the Board of Immigration Appeals (JUSTICE/BIA-001).

This exemption applies only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsections (d) (2), (3) and (4) because the decisions reflected constitute official records of opinions rendered in quasi-judicial proceedings. Administrative due process could not be achieved by the ex parte "correction" of such opinions by the subject of the opinion.

§ 16.85 Exemption of Board of Parole System—Limited access.

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e) (4) (G) and (H), (e) (8), (f) and (g):

(1) Docket Scheduling and Control System (JUSTICE/BPR-001).

(2) Inmate and Supervision Files System (JUSTICE/BPR-003).

(3) Labor and Pension Case, Legal File, and General Correspondence System (JUSTICE/BPR-004).

(4) Statistical, Educational and Developmental System (JUSTICE/BPR-006).

(5) Workload Record, Decision Result, and Annual Report System (JUSTICE/BPR-007).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because revealing disclosure of accountings to inmates and persons on supervision could compromise legitimate law enforcement activities and Board of Parole responsibilities.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) because the exemption from subsection (d) will make notification of disputes inapplicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because this is essential to protect internal processes by which Board personnel are able to formulate decisions and policies with regard to federal prisoners and persons under supervision, to prevent disclosures of information to federal inmates or persons on supervision that would jeopardize legitimate correctional interests of security, custody, supervision, or rehabilitation, to permit receipt of relevant information from other federal agencies, state and local law enforcement agencies, and federal and state probation and judicial offices, to allow private citizens to express freely their opinions for or against parole, to allow relevant criminal history type information of co-defendants to be kept in files, to allow medical, psychiatric and sociological material to be available to professional staff, and to allow a candid process of fact selection, opinion formulation, evaluation and recommendation to be continued by professional staff. The legal files contain case development material and, in addition to other reasons, should be exempt under the attorney-client privilege. Each labor or pension applicant has had served upon him the material in his file which he did not prepare and may see his own file at any time.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because primary collection of information directly from federal inmates or persons on supervision about criminal sentence, criminal records, institutional performance, readiness for release from custody, or need to be returned to custody is highly impractical and inappropriate.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) because application of this provision to the operations and collection of information by the Board, which is primarily from sources other than the individual, is inappropriate.

(6) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) because exemption from the access provisions of (d) makes publication of agency procedures under (d) inapplicable.

(7) From subsection (e)(8) because the nature of the Board's activities renders notice of compliance with compulsory legal process impractical.

(8) From subsection (f) because exemption from the provisions of subsection (d) will render compliance with provisions of this subsection inapplicable.

(9) From subsection (g) because exemption from the provisions of subsection (d) will render the provisions on suits to enforce (d) inapplicable.

(c) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the Board of Parole will initiate a procedure whereby present or former federal inmates in custody or persons under supervision may review copies of material in files relating to them which are maintained by the Board of Parole. Disclosure of the contents will be effected by providing copies of documents to requesters through the mails. Disclosure will be limited to the extent that investigative data, letters or memoranda containing facts selected from the whole fact picture, and items of opinion, conclusion and recommendation, items from exempt sources such as the courts, medical and psychiatric data harmful to continuation of therapy, data which would jeopardize privacy rights of others, and information furnished with a legitimate expectation of confidentiality will not be made available. The controlling principle behind the limited access is to allow disclosures except those which would impair the integrity of the Board's decision or policy making processes, the confidentiality of its sources, the effectiveness of the Department of Justice's investigative processes, and the privacy of third parties; or jeopardize the legitimate correctional interests of release from custody, supervision, control and rehabilitation and the decision and policy making processes connected therewith; the documentation of which is exemptable from the Privacy Act. The limitations on disclosure may be changed generally or in regard to certain documentation due to pending or future decisions and directions of the Department of Justice.

§§ 16.86-16.87 [Reserved]

§ 16.88 Exemption of Antitrust Division Systems.

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f):

(1) Computerized Document Retrieval System—"United States v. International Business Machines" ("CDRS-IBM") (JUSTICE/ATR-002).

(2) Computerized Document Retrieval System—"Tire cases" ("CDRS-Tire Cases") (JUSTICE/ATR-003).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k). It is noted however, that the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a are not applicable to these systems by virtue of 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(5).

(b) Exemption from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) Exemption from subsection (c)(3) is justified because these systems are maintained only in aid of on-going antitrust enforcement proceedings (e.g., pretrial/trial). Documents retrieved by using information ("keywords") stored electronically in these systems are, and will be required in the ordinary course of conducting all proceedings in "United States v. The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company," Civil No. C-73-835 (N.D. Ohio), "United States v. The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company," Civil No. C-73-836 (N.D. Ohio), and "United States v. International Business Machines," Civil No. 69-Civ.-200 (S.D. N.Y.). Consequently, in the course of such protracted and complex antitrust proceedings, the presentation, production or other routine and necessary disclosure of documents retrieved from these systems will be required to be made before the courts and as otherwise required by order of court or pursuant to binding rules of procedure.

(2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) does not apply to these systems by virtue of 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(5). In addition, exemptions from subsections (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f), all related to matters concerned with individual access to information in systems of records, are justified under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k) because access to the documents retrievable from these systems and compiled for law enforcement purposes could result in the invasion of the privacy of private persons named or otherwise identified in such documents as well as the unjustified disclosure of commercial and financial information of a confidential nature obtained from various firms connected with or involved in the referenced proceedings.

(3) Exemption from subsection (e)(1) is justified because the collection of documents prior to and during the judicial proceedings necessarily involves the assemblage, indexing and storage in these types of systems of information relative to individuals who are not ultimately required to appear or otherwise connected with actual litigation.

(c) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f):

(1) Antitrust Caseload Evaluation System (ACES)—Monthly Report. (Justice/ATR-009)

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2). It is noted however that the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a are not applicable to these systems by virtue of 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(5).

(d) Exemption from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) Exemption from subsection (c)(3) is justified because these systems are maintained in aid of ongoing antitrust enforcement investigations and proceedings. The release of the accounting of disclosures made under subsection (b) of the Act would permit the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal or civil violation to determine whether he is the subject of an investigation. Disclosure of the accounting would therefore present a serious impediment to antitrust law enforcement efforts.

(2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) does not apply to these systems by virtue of 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(5). In addition, exemptions from subsections (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f), all related to matters concerned with individual access to information in systems of records are justified under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) because access to the information retrievable from this system and compiled for law enforcement purposes could result in the premature disclosure of the identity of the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal or civil violation and information concerning the nature of that investigation. This information could enable the subject to avoid detection of apprehension. This would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement since the subject could hinder or prevent the successful completion of the investigation.

§ 16.89 [Reserved]

§ 16.90 Exemption of Civil Rights Division Systems.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(d):

(1) Files on Employment Civil Rights Matters Referred by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (JUSTICE/CRT-007).

This exemption applies to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (d) because this system contains investigatory material compiled by the Equal Opportunity Commission pursuant to its authority under 42 U.S.C. 2000e-8, 42 U.S.C. 2000e-8(e) and 44 U.S.C. 3508 make it unlawful to make public in any manner whatsoever any information obtained by the Commission pursuant to the authority.

(c) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3) and (d):

(1) Records Obtained by Office of Special Litigation Concerning Residents of Certain State Institutions (JUSTICE/CRT-005).

(2) Files of Federal Programs Section, Civil Rights Division (JUSTICE/CRT-006).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k).

(d) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosure pursuant to the routine uses published for this system may enable the subject of an investigation to gain valuable information concerning the nature and scope of the investigation and seriously hamper law enforcement efforts.

(2) From subsection (d) because freely permitting access to records in this system would compromise ongoing investigations and reveal investigatory techniques. In addition, these records may be subject to protective orders entered by federal courts to protect their confidentiality. Many of the records contained in these systems are copies of documents which are the property of state/agencies and were obtained under express or implied promises to strictly protect their confidentiality.

(e) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d) and (g):

(1) Central Civil Rights Division Index File and Associated Records (JUSTICE/CRT-001).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j) and (k).

(f) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsections (c)(3) and (d) for the reasons listed in 16.90(d)(1) and (2) above.

(2) From subsection (g) because exemption from the provision of subsection (d) will render the provisions on suits to enforce (d) inapplicable.

(g) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, the following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), and (d) of 5 U.S.C. 552a: Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Records (JUSTICE/CRT-010).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that the records contained in this system have been obtained from other systems of records maintained by the Civil Rights Division for which exemptions from one or more of the foregoing provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 have been promulgated. The exemptions claimed for this system of records apply only to records obtained from such other Civil Rights Division systems and only to the same extent as the records contained in such other systems have been exempted.

(h) The system of records listed under paragraph (g) of this section is exempted for the following reasons:

(1) In the course of processing requests for records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) or for access or correction of records pursuant to the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a), it is frequently necessary to search for records in systems of records for which exemptions have been claimed pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k). When records are located in said systems, it is frequently necessary to prepare copies for the purpose of consulting with agency personnel or with other agencies, either with regard to determining whether or to what extent the records should be disclosed, or access provided, or correction made or denied, or for review in the event of administrative appeal or judicial review.

(2) If records otherwise exempt pursuant to published rules should lose their exempt character when taken from such exempt systems for the purpose of compliance with the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act in reviewing such records and making determination with regard to disclosure, access, and correction, the purpose of the Privacy Act in providing such exemptions, and of the Department of Justice in claiming such exemptions would be defeated and nullified. The proper, efficient, and timely processing of citizens' requests pursuant to said Acts would be hindered and impeded.

§ 16.91 Exemption of Criminal Division Systems—Limited access, as indicated.

(a) The following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, the following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(1) and (k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H), and (I), and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Central Criminal Division, Index File and Associated Records System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-001)—Limited Access.

(2) General Crimes Section, Criminal Division, Central Index File and Associated Records System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-004)—Limited Access.

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in those systems are subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and (k)(2).

(b) The systems of records listed under paragraphs b(1) and b(2) of this section are exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(3). The release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for these systems of records, would permit the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil, or regulatory violation to determine whether he is the subject of investigation, or to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of that investigation, and the information obtained, or the identity of witnesses and informants and would therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement. In addition, disclosure of the accounting would amount to notice to the individual of the existence of a record; such notice requirement under subsection (f)(1) is specifically exempted for these systems of records.

(2). (c)(4). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this subsection is inapplicable to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsection (d).

(3). (d). Access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil, or regulatory violation of the existence of that investigation, or the nature and scope of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, of the identity of witnesses and informants, or would provide information that could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because they could prevent the successful completion of the investigation, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony.

(4). (e)(1). The notices of these systems of records published in the Federal Register set forth the basic statutory or related authority for maintenance of this system. However, in the course of criminal or other law enforcement investigations, cases, and matters, the Criminal Division or its components will occasionally obtain information concerning actual or potential violations of law that are not strictly within its statutory or other authority or may compile information in the course of an investigation which may not be relevant to a specific prosecution. In the interests of effective law enforcement, it is necessary to retain such information in these systems of records since it can aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity and can provide valuable leads for federal and other law enforcement agencies.

(5). (e)(2). In a criminal investigation or prosecution, the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement because the subject of the investigation or prosecution would be placed on notice as to the existence of the investigation and would therefore be able to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

(6). (e)(3). The requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential investigation or reveal the identity of witnesses or confidential informants.

(7). (e)(4) (G) and (H). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (f) (Agency Rules) and (d) (Access to Records) of the Act these subsections are inapplicable to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsections (f) and (d).

(8). (e)(4)(I). The categories of sources of the records in these systems have been published in the FEDERAL REGISTER in broad generic terms in the belief that this is all that subsection (e)(4)(I) of the Act requires. In the event, however, that this subsection should be interpreted to require more detail as to the identity of sources of the records in these systems, exemption from this provision is necessary in order to protect the confidentiality of the sources of criminal and other law enforcement information. Such exemption is further necessary to protect the privacy and physical safety of witnesses and informants.

(9). (e)(5). In the collection of information for criminal law enforcement purposes it is impossible to determine in advance what information is accurate, relevant, timely, and complete. With the passage of time, seemingly irrelevant or untimely information may acquire new significance as further investigation brings new details to light and the accuracy of such information can often only be determined in a court of law. The restrictions of subsection (e)(5) would re-restrictions of subsection (e)(5) would restrict the ability of trained investigators, intelligence analysts, and government attorneys in exercising their judgment in reporting on information and investigations and impede the development of criminal or other intelligence necessary for effective law enforcement.

(10). (e)(8). The individual notice requirements of subsection (e)(8) could present a serious impediment to law enforcement as this could interfere with the ability to issue warrants or subpoenas and could reveal investigative techniques, procedures, or evidence.

(11). (f). Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records pertaining to him dealing with an actual or potential criminal, civil or regulatory investigation or prosecution must be exempted because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of an investigation or prosecution pending or future. In addition, mere notice of the fact of an investigation could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may become the subject of an investigation and could enable the subjects to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules require pursuant to subsection (f) (2) through (5) are inapplicable to these systems of records to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsection (d).

(12). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable, and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections, to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsections (d) and (f).

(13). In addition, exemption is claimed for these systems of records from compliance with the following provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a) pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1): subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) and (f) to the extent that the records contained in these systems are specifically authorized to be kept secret in the interests of national defense and foreign policy.

(c) The following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsection (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Criminal Division Witness Security Program, File System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-002).

(2) Narcotic and Dangerous Drug Witness Security, Program File System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-009).

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in these systems are subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(d) The systems of records listed under paragraphs (c)(1) and (c)(2) of this section are exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(3) The release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for these systems of records, would permit the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation, which may include those protected under the Witness Security Program, to determine whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation, to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of that investigation and the information obtained, or the identity of witnesses and informants and the nature of their reports, and would therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement. In addition, disclosure of the accounting would amount to notice to the individual of the existence of a record; such notice requirement under subsection (f)(1) is specifically exempted for these systems of records. Moreover, disclosure of the disclosure accounting to an individual protected under the Witness Security Program could jeopardize the effectiveness and security of the Program by revealing the methods and techniques utilized in relocating witnesses and could therefore jeopardize the ability to obtain, and to protect the confidentiality of, information compiled for purposes of a criminal investigation.

(2). (c)(4) Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable.

(3). (d) Access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation, which may include those protected under the Witness Security Program, of the existence of that investigation, of the nature and scope of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, of the identity of witnesses and informants, or would provide information that could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because they could prevent the successful completion of the investigation, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony. In addition, access to the records in these systems to an individual protected under the Witness Security Program could jeopardize the effectiveness and security of the Program by revealing the methods and techniques utilized in relocating witnesses and could therefore jeopardize the ability to obtain, and to protect the confidentiality of, information compiled for purposes of a criminal investigation.

(4). Exemption is claimed from subsection (e)(1) for the reasons stated in subsection (b)(4) of this section.

(5). (e)(2) In the course of preparing a Witness Security Program for an individual much of the information is collected from the subject. However, the requirement that the information be collected to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to criminal law enforcement because the individual himself may be the subject of a criminal investigation or have been a participant in, or observer of, criminal activity. As a result, it is necessary to seek information from other sources. In addition, the failure to verify the information provided from the individual when necessary and to seek other information could jeopardize the confidentiality of the Witness Security Program and lead to the obtaining and maintenance of incorrect and uninvestigated information on criminal matters.

(6). (e)(3) The requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise or reveal the identity of witnesses and informants protected under the Witness Security Program.

(7). (e)(4) (G) and (H). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (f) (Agency Rules) and (d) (Access to Records) of the Act these subsections are inapplicable.

(8). (e)(4)(I). The categories of sources of the records in these systems have been published in the Federal Register in broad generic terms in the belief that this is all that subsection (e)(4)(I) of the Act requires. In the event, however, that this subsection should be interpreted to require more detail as to the identity of sources of the records in the system, exemption from this provision is necessary in order to protect the confidentiality of the sources of criminal law enforcement information and of witnesses and informants protected under the Witness Security Program.

(9). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e)(5) and (e)(8) for the reasons stated in subsection (b)(9) and (b)(10) of this section.

(10). Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records contained in these systems pertaining to him would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation, which may include those protected under the Witness Security Program, of the existence of that investigation, of the nature and scope of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, of the identity of witnesses and informants, or would provide information that could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because they could prevent the successful conduct and/or completion of an investigation pending or future, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony. In addition, notices as to the existence of records contained in these systems to an individual protected under the Witness Security Program could jeopardize the effectiveness and security of the Program by revealing the methods and techniques utilized in relocating witnesses and could therefore jeopardize the ability to obtain, and to protect the confidentiality of information compiled for purposes of a criminal investigation.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f)(2) through (5) are inapplicable.

(11). (g) Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections.

(e) The following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (f), and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Organized Crime and Racketeering Section File Check Out System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-011).

(2) Organized Crime and Racketeering Section Intelligence and Special

Services Unit, Information Request System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-014).

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in those systems are subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(f) The systems of records listed under paragraphs (e)(1) and (e)(2) of this section are exempted for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(3). The release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for these systems of records, would permit the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation to determine whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation and would therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement. The records in these systems contain the names of the subjects of the files in question and the system is accessible by name of the person checking out the file and by name of the subject of the file. In addition, disclosure of the accounting would amount to notice to the individual of the existence of a record; such notice requirement under subsection (f)(1) is specifically exempted for these systems of records.

(2). (c)(4). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable.

(3). (d). Access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation of the existence of that investigation. This would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because it could prevent the successful completion of the investigation, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony.

(4). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(7) and (b)(8) of this section.

(5). (f). These systems may be accessed by the name of the person who is the subject of the file and who may also be the subject of a criminal investigation. Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records pertaining to him, which may deal with an actual or potential criminal investigation or prosecution, must be exempted because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of the investigation or prosecution pending or future. In addition, mere notice of the fact of an investigation could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may become the subject of an investigation and could enable the subjects to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f) (2) through (5) are inapplicable.

(6). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) of the Act this section is inapplicable and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections.

(g) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c)(4), (d), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a.

Files of Names Checked to Determine If Those Individuals Have Been the Subject of an Electronic Surveillance System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-003).

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(h) The system of records listed under paragraph (g) of this section is exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(4). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable to the extent that this system of records is exempted from subsection (d).

(2). (d). The records contained in this system of records generally consist of information filed with the court in response to the request and made available to the requestor. To the extent that these records have been so filed, no exemption is sought from the provisions of this subsection. Occasionally, the records contain pertinent logs of intercepted communications and other investigative reports not filed with the court. These records must be exempted because access to such records could inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation of the existence of that investigation and of the nature of the information and evidence obtained by the government. This would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because it could prevent the successful completion of the investigation, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony.

(3). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(7) and (b)(8) of this section.

(4). (f). The records contained in this system of records generally consist of information filed with the court and made available to the requestor. To the extent that these records have been so filed, no exemption is sought from the provisions of this subsection. Occasionally, the records contain pertinent logs of intercepted communications and other investigative reports not filed with the court. These records must be exempted from a requirement of notification as to their existence because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of a criminal investigation or prosecution pending or future. In addition, mere notice of the existence of such logs or investigative reports could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may become the subject of an investigation and could enable the subjects to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence or to fabricate testimony.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f) (2) through (5) are inapplicable to the extent that this system of records is exempted for subsection (d).

(6). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable, and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections, to the extent that this system of records is exempted from subsection (d) and (f).

(i) The following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e) (4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Information File on Individuals and Commercial Entities Known or Suspected of Being Involved in Fraudulent Activities System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-006).

(2) The Stocks and Bonds Intelligence Control Card File System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-021).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems are subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

The systems of records listed in paragraphs (i)(1) and (i)(2) of this section are exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(3). The release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for these systems of records, would permit the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation to determine whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation, to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of that investigation, and the information obtained, or the identity of witnesses and informants, and would therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement. In addition, disclosure of the accounting would amount to notice to the individual of the existence of a record; and notice requirement under subsection (f)(1) is specifically exempted for this system of records.

(2). (c)(4). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable to the extent that this systems of records is exempted from subsection (d).

(3). (d). Access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation of the existence of that investigation, of the nature and scope of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, of the identity of witnesses and informants or would provide information that could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because they could prevent the successful completion of the investigation, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony.

(4). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e)(5) and (e)(8) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(4), (b)(5), (b)(6), (b)(7), (b)(8), (b)(9) and (b)(10) of this section.

(5). (f). Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records pertaining to him dealing with an actual or potential criminal investigation or prosecution must be exempted because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of an investigation or prosecution pending or future. In addition, mere notice of the fact of an investigation could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may become the subject of an investigation and could enable the subjects to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f)(2) through (5) are inapplicable to these systems of records.

(6). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections.

(k) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) of section 5 U.S.C. 552a:

Organized Crime and Racketeering Information System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-010).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(l) The system of records listed in paragraph (k) of this section is exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). Exemption is claimed from subsections (c)(3), (c)(4) and (d) for the reasons stated in subsections (j)(1), (j)(2) and (j)(3) of this section.

(2). (e)(1). The notice for this system of records published in the Federal Register sets forth the basic statutory or related authority for maintenance of this system. However, in the course of organized crime investigations information will occasionally be obtained concerning actual or potential violations of law that are not strictly within statutory or other authority, or information may be compiled in the course of an investigation which may not be relevant to a specific prosecution. In the interests of effective law enforcement, it is necessary to retain such information in this system of records since it can aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity and can provide valuable leads for federal and other law enforcement agencies.

(3). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e) (2) and (3), (e) (4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(5), (b)(6), (b)(7), (b)(8), (b)(9) and (b)(10) of this section.

(4). Exemption is claimed from sections (f) and (g) for the reasons stated in subsections (j)(5) and (j)(6) of this section.

(m) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, the following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1) from subsections (c) (3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, Criminal Division, General Index File and Associated Records System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-012).

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) (2) and (k) (1).

(n) The system of records listed under paragraph (m) of this section is exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). Exemption is claimed from subsections (c) (3) and (4) and (d) for the reasons stated in subsections (j)(1), (j)(2) and (j)(3) of this section.

(2). (e)(1). The notice for this system of records published in the Federal Register sets forth the basic statutory or related authority or maintenance of this system. However, in the course of criminal investigations, cases, and matters, the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section will occasionally obtain information concerning actual or potential violations of law that are not strictly within its statutory or other authority, or may compile information in the course of an investigation which may not be relevant to a specific prosecution. In the interests of effective law enforcement, it is necessary to retain such information in this system of records since it can aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity and can provide valuable leads for federal and other law enforcement agencies.

(3). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f) and (g) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(5), (b)(6), (b)(7), (b)(8), (b)(9), (b)(10), (b)(11) and (b)(12) of this section.

(4). In addition, exemption is claimed for this system of records from compliance with the following provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a) pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1): subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) and (f) to the extent that the records contained in this system are specifically authorized to be kept secret in the interests of national defense and foreign policy.

(o) The following systems of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e)(8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Requests to the Attorney General For Approval of Applications to Federal Judges for Electronic Interceptions System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-019).

(2) Requests to the Attorney General For Approval of Applications to Federal Judges For Electronic Interceptions in Narcotics and Dangerous Drug Cases System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-020).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems are subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(p) The systems of records listed in paragraph (o)(1) and (o)(2) of this section are exempted for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(3). The release of disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for these systems of records, would permit the subject of an electronic interception to obtain valuable information concerning the interception, including information as to whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation, by means other than those provided for by statute. Such information could interfere with the successful conduct and/or completion of a criminal investigation, and would therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement. In addition, disclosure of the accounting would amount to notice to the individual of the existence of a record; such notice requirement under subsection (f)(1) is specifically exempted for these systems of records.

(2). (c)(4). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable.

(3). (d). Access to the records contained in these systems would inform the subject of an electronic interception of the existence of such surveillance including information as to whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation by means other than those provided for by statute. This could interfere with the successful conduct and/or completion of a criminal investigation and therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(4). (e)(2). In the context of an electronic interception, the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement because the subject of the investigation or prosecution would be placed on notice as to the existence of the investigation and this would therefore destroy the efficacy of the interception.

(5). (e)(3). The requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential electronic interception or reveal the identity of witnesses or confidential informants.

(6). (e)(4) (G) and (H). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (f) (Agency Rules) and (d) (Access to Records) of the Act these subsections are inapplicable.

(7). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e)(4)(I) and (e)(8) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(8) and (b)(10) of this section.

(8). (f). Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records pertaining to him dealing with an electronic interception other than pursuant to statute must be exempted because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of an investigation pending or future. In addition, mere notice of the fact of an electronic interception could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may become the subject of an investigation and could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f)(2) through (5) are inapplicable to these systems of records to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsection (d).

(9). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable, and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections, to the extent that these systems of records are exempted from subsection (d) and (f).

(q) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H), and (I), (e)(8), (f) and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition the following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(1) and (k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

Witness Immunity Records System of Records (JUSTICE/CRM-022).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(1) and (k)(2).

(r) The system of records listed under paragraph (q) of this section is exempted, for the reasons set forth, from the following provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1). (c)(3) Release of the accounting of disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under the routine uses published for this system of records, (a) as to a witness for whom immunity has been proposed, would inform the individual of the existence of the proposed immunity prematurely, thus creating a serious impediment to effective law enforcement in that the witness could flee, destroy evidence, or fabricate testimony; and (b) as to a witness to whom immunity has been granted, or for whom it has been denied, would reveal the nature and scope of the activities, if any, of the witness known to the government, which would also create a serious impediment to effective law enforcement.

(2). (c)(4) Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) this section is inapplicable to the extent that this system of records is exempted from subsection (d).

(3). (d) Access to the records contained in this system (a) as to a witness for whom immunity has been proposed, would inform the individual of the existence of the proposed immunity prematurely, thus presenting a serious impediment to effective law enforcement in that the witness could flee, destroy evidence, or fabricate testimony; and (b) as to a witness to whom immunity has been granted, or for whom it has been denied, would reveal the nature and scope of the activities, if any, of the witness known to the government, which would also create a serious impediment to effective law enforcement.

(4). (e)(2) In a witness immunity request matter, the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(5). (e)(3) The requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential electronic interception or reveal the identity of witnesses or confidential informants.

ment, because the subject of the immunity request and often the subject of the underlying investigation or prosecution would be placed on notice as to the existence of the investigation and would therefore be able to avoid detection or apprehension, to influence witnesses improperly, to destroy evidence, or to fabricate testimony.

(5). Exemption is claimed from subsections (e)(3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), and (e)(8) for the reasons stated in subsections (b)(6), (b)(7), (b)(8) and (b)(10) of this section.

(6). (f). Procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to the existence of records pertaining to him (a) as to a witness for whom immunity has been proposed, would inform the individual of the existence of the proposed immunity prematurely, this presenting a serious impediment to effective law enforcement in that the witness could flee, destroy evidence, or fabricate testimony; and (b) as to a witness to whom immunity has been granted, or for whom it has been denied, would reveal the nature and scope of the activity, if any, of the witness known to the government, which would also create a serious impediment to effective law enforcement.

Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act (Access to Records) the rules required pursuant to subsection (f)(2) through (5) are inapplicable to this system of records to the extent that this system of records is exempted from subsection (d).

(7). (g). Since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (d) (Access to Records) and (f) (Agency Rules) this section is inapplicable, and is exempted for the reasons set forth for those subsections, to the extent that this system of records is exempted for subsections (d) and (f).

(8). In addition, exemption is claimed for this system of records from compliance with the following provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a) pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1): subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I) and (f) to the extent that the records contained in this system are specifically authorized to be kept secret in the interests of national defense and foreign policy.

(s) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f), and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, the following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(1) and (k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

(1) Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Records (JUSTICE/CRM-024).

(2) These exemptions apply only to the extent that the records contained in this system have been obtained from other systems of records maintained by the Criminal Division for which exemptions from one or more of the foregoing provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 have been promulgated. The exemption claimed for this system of records applies only to records obtained from such other Criminal Division systems and only to the same extent as the records contained in such other systems have been exempted.

(t) The system of records listed under paragraph (s) of this section is exempted for the following reasons:

(1) In the course of processing requests for records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) or for access or correction of records pursuant to the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a), it is frequently necessary to search for records in systems of records for which exemptions have been claimed pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k). When records are located in said systems, it is frequently necessary to prepare copies for the purpose of consulting with agency personnel or with other agencies, either with regard to determining whether or to what extent the records should be disclosed or access provided, or correction made or denied, or for review in the event of administrative appeal or judicial review.

(2) If records otherwise exempt pursuant to published rules should lose their exempt character when taken from such exempt systems for the purpose of compliance with the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act in reviewing such records and making determination with regard to disclosure, access, and correction, the purpose of the Privacy Act in providing such exemptions, and of the Department of Justice in claiming such exemptions would be defeated and nullified. The proper, efficient, and timely processing of citizens' requests pursuant to said Acts would be hindered and impeded.

§ 16.92 Exemption of Land and Natural Resources Division Systems—Limited access, as indicated.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3) and (d):

(1) Docket Card System (JUSTICE/LDN-003).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons.

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because that portion of the Docket Card System relating to enforcement of criminal provisions of the Refuse Act of 1899 (33 U.S.C. 407), Section 10 of the River and Harbor Act of 1899 (33 U.S.C. 403), Section 5 of the Outer Continental Shelf Act (43 U.S.C. 1151 et seq.), the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 1857 et seq.) and the Noise Control Act of 1972 (42 U.S.C. 4901), is being exempted from access and contest; the provision for disclosure of accounting is not applicable.

(2) From subsection (d) because of the need to safeguard the identity of confidential informants and to facilitate the enforcement of the criminal provisions of the above statutes.

(c) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3) and (d):

(1) Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Records System. (JUSTICE/LDN-005).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2).

(d) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because that portion of the Freedom of Information Privacy Act Records System that consists of investigatory materials compiled for law enforcement purposes is being exempt from access and contest; the provision for disclosure of accounting is not applicable.

(2) From subsection (d) because of the need to safeguard the identity of confidential informants and avoid interference with ongoing investigations or law enforcement activities by preventing premature disclosure of information relating to those efforts.

§ 16.93 Exemption of Tax Division System—Limited access.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d), (e) (2), and (3):

(1) Tax Division Central Classification Cards, Index Docket Cards and Associated Records (JUSTICE/TAX-001).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

From subsection (d) because access to the records contained in this system would inform the subject of an investigation of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, and of the identity of witnesses and informants. The knowledge gained from such access to these records would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because it could be used to prevent the successful prosecution of the case, endanger the physical safety of witnesses or informants, and lead to the improper influencing of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or the fabrication of testimony.

(2) From subsection (e)(2) because in a criminal or other law enforcement investigation or prosecution, the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual would alert the subject as the nature or existence of the investigation and thereby present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement.

(3) From subsection (e)(3) because the requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form specifying the requirements of (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential investigation or reveal the identity of witnesses or confidential informants.

(c) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the Tax Division will grant access to non-exempt material in records which are maintained by the Tax Division. Disclosure will be governed by the Department's Privacy Regulations, but will be limited to the extent that the identity of confidential sources will not be compromised; subjects of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal civil or regulatory violation will not be alerted to the investigation; the physical safety of witnesses, informants and law enforcement personnel will not be endangered; the privacy of third parties will not be violated; and that the disclosure would not otherwise impede effective law enforcement. Whenever possible, information of the above nature will be deleted from the requested documents and the balance made available. The controlling principle behind this limited access is to disclosures except those indicated above. The decisions to release information from this system will be made on a case-by-case basis.

§ 16.96 Exemption of Federal Bureau of Investigation Systems—Limited access.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2), and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (m):

(1) Central Records System (JUSTICE/FBI-002).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of accounting disclosures would place the subject of an investigation on notice that he is under investigation and provide him with significant information concerning the nature of the investigation, thus resulting in a serious impediment to law enforcement or background investigations which may involve law enforcement aspects or the compromising material.

(2) From subsections (c)(4), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (f) and (g) because these provisions concern individual access to records and such access might compromise ongoing investigations, reveal investigatory techniques and confidential informants, and invade the privacy of private citizens who provide information in connection with a particular investigation. In addition, exemption from subsections (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H) is necessary to protect the security of information classified in the interest of national defense and foreign policy.

(3) From subsection (e)(1) because information may be received in the course of a criminal, civil, or background investigation which may involve a violation of law under the jurisdiction of another government agency but it is necessary to maintain this information in order to provide leads for appropriate law enforcement and to establish patterns of activity which may relate to the jurisdiction of both the FBI and other agencies. In addition, classified information may be received which relates to the constitutional powers of the President or the jurisdiction of some other agency. Such information is not susceptible to segregation.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because collecting information from the subject of criminal or national security investigations would thwart the investigation by placing the subject of the investigation on notice.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) because supplying an individual with a form containing the information specified would result in a substantial invasion of privacy of the subject of the investigation would compromise the existence of a confidential investigation, and would inhibit private cooperating with the FBI.

(6) From (e)(8) because the notice requirements of this provision could present a serious impediment to law enforcement by revealing investigative techniques, procedures, and the existence of confidential investigations.

(7) From subsection (m) because if the system were ever operated by a contractor it would still be necessary to continue exemption from these same provisions.

(c) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4), (G) and (H), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g) and (m):

(1) Electronic Surveillance (Elsur) Indices (JUSTICE/FBI-006).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(d) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of accounting disclosures would place the subject of an investigation on notice that he is under investigation and provide him with significant information concerning the nature of the investigation resulting in a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(2) From subsections (c)(4), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (g) because these provisions concern an individual's access to records which concern him and such access to records in this system would compromise ongoing investigations, reveal investigatory techniques and confidential informants, and invade the privacy of private citizens who provide information in connection with a particular investigation.

(3) From subsection (e)(1) because these indices must be maintained in order to provide the information as described in the "routine uses" of this particular system.

(4) From subsections (e) (2) and (3) because compliance is not feasible given the subject matter of the indices.

(5) From subsection (e)(5) because this provision is not applicable to the indices in view of the "routine uses" of the indices. For example, it is impossible to predict when it will be necessary to utilize information in the system and, accordingly it is not possible to determine when the records are timely.

(6) From subsection (e)(8) because the notice requirement could present a serious impediment to law enforcement by revealing investigative techniques, procedures and the existence of confidential investigations.

(7) From subsection (M) for the reasons stated in subsection (b)(7) of this section.

(e) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g) and (m):

(1) Identification Division Records System (JUSTICE/FBI-009).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(f) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) for the reasons stated in subsection (d)(1) of this section.

(2) From subsections (c)(4), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (f) and (g) because these provisions concern an individual's access to records which concern him. Such access is directed at allowing the subject of a record to correct inaccuracies in it. Although an alternate system of access has been provided in 28 CFR 16.30 to 34 and 28 CFR 20.34, the vast majority of records in this system concern local arrests which it would be inappropriate for the FBI to undertake to correct.

(3) From subsection (e)(1) because it is impossible to state with any degree of certainty, that all information on these records is relevant to accomplish a purpose of the FBI, even though acquisition of the records from state and local law enforcement agencies is based on a statutory requirement. In view of the number of records in the system it is impossible to review them for relevancy.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because the records in the system are necessarily furnished by criminal justice agencies due to their very nature.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) because compliance is not feasible due to the nature of the records.

(6) From subsection (e)(5) because the vast majority of these records come from local criminal justice agencies and it is administratively impossible to ensure that the records comply with this provision. Submitting agencies are, however, urged on a continuing basis to ensure that their records are accurate and include all dispositions.

(7) From subsection (e)(8) because the FBI has no logical manner to ascertain whether process has been made public and compliance with this provision would, in any case, provide an impediment to law enforcement by interfering with the ability to issue warrants or subpoenas and by revealing investigative techniques, procedures or evidence.

(8) From subsection (m) for the reasons stated in subsection (b)(7) of this section.

(g) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(8), (f), (g) and (m):

(1) National Crime Information Center (NCIC) (JUSTICE/FBI-001).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(h) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) for the reasons stated in subsection (d)(1) of this section.

(2) From subsections (c)(4), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (g) for the reasons stated in subsection (d)(2) of this section. When records are properly subject to access by the individual, an alternate means of access is provided in subsection (i) of this section.

(3) From subsection (e)(1) because information contained in this system is primarily from state and local records, and it is for the official use of agencies outside the Federal Government in accordance with 28 U.S.C. 534.

(4) From subsections (e) (2) and (3) because it is not feasible to comply with these provisions given the nature of this system.

(5) From subsection (e)(8) for the reasons stated in subsection (d)(6) of this section.

(6) From subsection (m) for the reasons stated in subsection (b)(7) of this section.

(i) Access to computerized criminal history records in the National Crime Information Center is available to the individual who is the subject of the record pursuant to procedures and requirements specified in the Notice of Systems of Records compiled by the National Archives and Records Service and published under the designation:

National Crime Information Center (NOIC) (JUSTICE/FBI-001).

Information on access is also published in the Appendix to Part 20 of the Code of Federal Regulations in relation to 28 CFR 20.34.

§ 16.97 Exemption of Bureau of Prisons Systems—Limited access.

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4)(H), (e)(8), (f) and (g):

(1) Custodial and Security Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-001).

(2) Industrial Inmate Employment Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-003).

(3) Inmate Administrative Remedy Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-004).

(4) Inmate Central Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-005).

(5) Inmate Commissary Accounts Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-006).

(6) Inmate Physical and Mental Health Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-007).

(7) Inmate Safety and Accident Compensation Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-008).

(8) Federal Tax Claims Act Record System (JUSTICE/BOP-009).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because inmates will not be permitted to gain access or to contest contents of these record systems under the provisions of subsection (d) of 5 U.S.C. 552a. Revealing disclosure accountings can compromise legitimate law enforcement activities and Bureau of Prisons responsibilities.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) because exemption from provisions of subsection (d) will make notification of formal disputes inapplicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because exemption from this subsection is essential to protect internal processes by which Bureau personnel are able to formulate decisions and policies with regard to federal prisoners, to prevent disclosure of information to federal inmates that would jeopardize legitimate correctional interests of security, custody, or rehabilitation, and to permit receipt of relevant information from other federal agencies, state and local law enforcement agencies, and federal and state probation and judicial offices.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because primary collection of information directly from federal inmates about criminal sentences or criminal records is highly impractical and inappropriate.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) because in view of the Bureau of Prisons' responsibilities, application of this provision to its operations and collection of information is inappropriate.

(6) From subsection (e)(4)(H) because exemption from provisions of subsection (d) will make publication of agency procedures under this subsection inapplicable.

(7) From subsection (e)(8) because the nature of Bureau of Prisons law enforcement activities renders notice of compliance with compulsory legal process impractical.

(8) From subsection (f) because exemption from provisions of subsection (d) will render compliance with provisions of this subsection inapplicable.

(9) From subsection (g) because exemption from provisions of subsection (d) will render provisions of this subsection inapplicable.

(c) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-579) the Bureau of Prisons will initiate a procedure whereby federal inmates in custody may gain access and review their individual prison files maintained at the institution of incarceration. Access to these files will be limited only to the extent that the disclosure of records to the inmate would jeopardize internal decision-making or policy determinations essential to the effective operation of the Bureau of Prisons; to the extent that disclosure of the records to the inmate would jeopardize privacy rights of others, or a legitimate correctional interest of security, custody, or rehabilitation; and to the extent information is furnished with a legitimate expectation of confidentiality. The Bureau of Prisons will continue to provide access to former inmates under existing regulations as is consistent with the interests listed above. Under present Bureau of Prisons regulations, inmates in federal institutions may file administrative complaints on any subject under the control of the Bureau. This would include complaints pertaining to information contained in these systems of records."

§ 16.98 Exemption of Drug Enforcement Administration Systems.

(a) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f):

(1) Automated Records and Consumed Orders System/Diversion Analysis and Detection System (ARCOS/DADS) (JUSTICE/DEA-004).

(2) Controlled Substances Act Registration Records (JUSTICE/DEA-006).

(3) Registration Status/Investigation Records (JUSTICE/DEA-016).

(4) Drug Theft Reporting System (JUSTICE/DEA-023).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the revealing of the disclosure accounting pursuant to the routine uses published for these systems would enable the subject of an investigation to gain valuable information concerning the nature and scope of the investigation and seriously hamper the regulatory functions of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

(2) From subsection (d) because access to records contained in these systems might provide the subject of an investigation information that could enable him to avoid compliance with the Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970 (Pub. L. 91-513).

(3) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) because these systems or records are exempt from individual access pursuant to subsection (k) of the Act.

(4) From subsection (f) because these systems are exempt from the access provisions of subsection (d).

(c) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g) and (h):

(1) Addict/Abusers System (JUSTICE/DEA-001).

(2) Air Intelligence Program (JUSTICE/DEA-002).

(3) Automated Intelligence Records (Pathfinder I) (JUSTICE/DEA-003).

(4) DEA/FAA Trans-border Flight Plan Reporting System (JUSTICE/DEA-007).

(5) Defendant Data System (JUSTICE/DEA-008).

(6) Domestic Intelligence Data Base (JUSTICE/DEA-009).

(7) International Intelligence Data Base (JUSTICE/DEA-011).

(8) Investigative Reporting and Filing System (JUSTICE/DEA-012).

(9) Office of Internal Security Records (JUSTICE/DEA-014).

(10) Operations Files (JUSTICE/DEA-015).

(11) Security Files (JUSTICE/DEA-017).

(12) Source Registry Narcotics (SRN/1) (JUSTICE/DEA-018).

(13) System to Retrieve Information from Drug Evidence (STRIDE) (JUSTICE/DEA-019).

(14) Drug Enforcement Administration Semi-Automated Narcotic Trafficker Profiles (KISS) (JUSTICE/DEA-025).

(15) Drug Enforcement Administration Specialized Automated Intelligence Files (JUSTICE/DEA-026).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemptions pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k).

(d) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosure pursuant to the routine uses published for these systems would permit the subject of a criminal investigation to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of that investigation and present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) because an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d), this subsection will not be applicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because access to records contained in these systems would alert a subject to the existence of an investigation and thereby provide information to the subject which might enable him to avoid detection or apprehension, and present serious impediment to law enforcement.

(4) From subsection (e)(1) because in the course of criminal investigations, the Drug Enforcement Administration often detects violation of non-drug related laws. In the interests of effective law enforcement, it is necessary that DEA retain all information obtained in criminal investigations because it can aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity and assist other law enforcement agencies that are charged with enforcing other segments of criminal law.

(5) From subsection (e)(2) because information collected to the greatest extent possible from the subject individual of a criminal investigation would provide the subject with valuable information which might preclude detection or apprehension of the subject individual.

(6) From subsection (e)(3) because the requirement that individuals supplying information be provided a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential investigation, reveal the identity of confidential sources of information and endanger the life or physical safety of confidential informants.

(7) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) because these systems of records are exempt from individual access pursuant to subsection (j) of the Privacy Act of 1974.

(8) From subsection (e)(5) because in the collection of information for law enforcement purposes it is impossible to determine in advance what information is accurate, relevant, timely and complete. With the passage of time, seemingly irrelevant or untimely information may acquire new significance as further investigation brings new details to light and the accuracy of such information can only be determined in a court of law. The restrictions imposed by subsection (e)(5) would restrict the ability of trained investigators and intelligence analysts to exercise their judgment in reporting on investigations and impede the development of criminal intelligence necessary for effective law enforcement.

(9) From subsection (e)(8) because the individual notice requirements could present a serious impediment to law enforcement by interfering with the Drug Enforcement Administration's ability to issue administrative techniques and procedures.

(10) From subsection (f) because these systems have been exempted from the access provisions of subsection (d).

(11) From subsections (g) and (h) because these systems are compiled for law enforcement purposes and have been exempted from the access provisions of subsections (d) and (f).

(e) The following systems of records are from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1) and (e)(1).

(1) Grants of Confidentiality Files (GCF) (JUSTICE/DEA-022).

(2) DEA Applicant Investigations (JUSTICE/DEA-024).

tion is accurate, relevant, timely and complete. With the passage of time, seemingly irrelevant or untimely information may acquire new significance as further investigation brings new details to light and the accuracy of such information can only be determined in a court of law. The restrictions imposed by subsection (e)(5) would restrict the ability of trained investigators and intelligence analysts to exercise their judgment in reporting on investigations and impede the development of criminal intelligence necessary for effective law enforcement.

(9) From subsection (e)(8) because the individual notice requirements could present a serious impediment to law enforcement by interfering with the Drug Enforcement Administration's ability to issue administrative techniques and procedures.

(10) From subsection (f) because these systems have been exempted from the access provisions of subsection (d).

(11) From subsections (g) and (h) because these systems are compiled for law enforcement purposes and have been exempted from the access provisions of subsections (d) and (f).

(e) The following systems of records are from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1) and (e)(1).

(1) Grants of Confidentiality Files (GCF) (JUSTICE/DEA-022).

(2) DEA Applicant Investigations (JUSTICE/DEA-024).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in these systems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5).

(f) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsections (d)(1) because many persons are contacted who, without an assurance of anonymity, refuse to provide information concerning an applicant for a grant of confidentiality with DEA. Permitting access to the information supplied by persons after a promise of confidentiality has been given could reveal the identity of the source of the information and constitute a breach of the promised confidentiality on the part of the Drug Enforcement Administration. Such breaches ultimately would restrict the free flow of information vital to a determination of an applicant's qualifications for a grant.

(2) From (e)(1) because in the collection of information for investigative and evaluative purposes, it is impossible to determine in advance what exact information may be of assistance in determining the qualifications and suitability of a candidate. Information which may appear irrelevant, when combined with other apparently irrelevant information can on occasion provide a composite picture of an applicant which assists in determining whether a grant of confidentiality is warranted.

(g) The following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f), and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, the following system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(1) and (k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a:

Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Records (Justice/DEA-010).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that the records contained in this system have been obtained from other systems of records maintained by the Drug Enforcement Administration for which exemptions from one or more of the foregoing provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 have been promulgated. The exemption claimed for this system of records applies only to records obtained from such other Drug Enforcement Administration systems and only to the same extent as the records contained in such other systems have been exempted.

(h) The system of records listed under paragraph (G) of this section is exempted for the following reasons:

(1) In the course of processing requests for records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) or for access or correction of records pursuant to the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a), it is frequently necessary to search for records in systems or records for which exemptions have been claimed pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k). When records are located in said systems, it is frequently necessary to prepare copies for the purpose of consulting with agency personnel or with other agencies, either with regard to determining whether or to what extent the records should be disclosed, or access provided, or correction made or denied, or for review in the event of administrative appeal or judicial review.

(2) If records otherwise exempt pursuant to published rules should lose their exempt character when taken from such exempt systems for the purpose of compliance with the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act in reviewing such records and making determination with regard to disclosure, access, and the Department of Justice in claiming correction, the purpose of the Privacy Act in providing such exemptions, and such exemptions would be defeated and nullified. The proper, efficient, and timely processing of citizens' requests pursuant to said Acts would be hindered and impeded.

§ 16.99 Exemption of Immigration and Naturalization Service System—Limited access.

(a) The following subsystems of the Immigration and Naturalization Service Index System are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H) and (I), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g), and (h):

(1) Agency Information Control Record Index.

(2) Alien Enemy Index.

(3) Centralized Index.

(4) Congressional Mail Unit Index.

(5) Air Detail Office Index.

(6) Anti-smuggling Index (general).

(7) Anti-smuggling Information Centers Systems for Canadian and Mexican Borders.

(8) Border Patrol Sectors General Index System.

(9) Contact Index.

(10) Criminal, Immoral, Narcotic, Racketeer and Subversive Indexes.

(11) Enforcement Correspondence Control Index System.

(12) Document Vendors and Alterers Index.

(13) Informant Index.

(14) Suspect Third Party Index.

(15) Examination Correspondence Control Index.

(16) Extension Training Enrollee Index.

(17) Intelligence Index.

(18) Naturalization and Citizenship Indexes.

(19) Personnel Investigations Unit Indexes.

(20) Service Look-Out Subsystem.

(21) White House and Attorney General Correspondence Control Index.

(22) Fraudulent Document Center Index.

(23) Emergency Reassignment Index.

(24) Alien Documentation, Identification, and Telecommunication (ADIT) System.

These exemptions apply to the extent that information in these subsystems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosure pursuant to the routine uses published for these subsystems would permit the subject of a criminal or civil investigation to obtain valuable information concerning the nature of that investigation and present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d), this subsection will not be applicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because access to the records contained in these subsystems would inform the subject of a criminal or civil investigation of the existence of that investigation.

tion, provide the subject of the investigation with information that might enable him to avoid detection or apprehension, and present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(4) From subsection (e)(1) because in the course of criminal or civil investigations, the Immigration and Naturalization Service often obtains information concerning the violation of laws other than those relating to violations over which INS has investigative jurisdiction. In the interests of effective law enforcement, it is necessary that INS retain this information since it can aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity and provide valuable leads for those law enforcement agencies that are charged with enforcing other segments of the criminal law.

(5) From subsection (e)(2) because in a criminal or civil investigation, the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent possible from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement in that the subject of the investigation would be placed on notice of the existence of the investigation and would therefore be able to avoid detection or apprehension.

(6) From subsection (e)(3) because the requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential source of information and endanger the life or physical safety of confidential informants.

(7) From subsection (e)(4) (G) and (H) because these subsystems of records are exempt from individual access pursuant to subsection (j) of the Privacy Act of 1974.

(8) From subsection (e)(4)(I) because the Immigration and Naturalization Service maintains the confidentiality of sources of information in order to protect their privacy and physical safety and to maintain the confidentiality of their cooperation. The publication of categories of sources would constitute a breach of confidentiality on the part of formation essential to effective law enforcement.

(9) From subsection (e)(5) because in the collection of information for law enforcement purposes it is impossible to determine in advance what information is accurate, relevant, timely, and complete. With the passage of time, seemingly irrelevant or untimely information may acquire new significance as further investigation brings new details to light and the accuracy of such information can only be determined in a court of law. The restrictions of subsection (e)(5) would restrict the ability of trained investigators and intelligence analysts to exercise their judgment in reporting on investigations and impede the development of criminal intelligence necessary for effective law enforcement.

(10) From subsection (e)(8) because the individual notice requirements of subsection (e)(8) could present a serious impediment to law enforcement as this could interfere with the Immigration and Naturalization Service's ability to issue administrative subpoenas and could reveal investigative techniques and procedures.

(11) From subsection (f) because these subsystems of records have been exempted from the access provisions of subsection (d).

(12) From subsection (g) because these subsystems of records are compiled for law enforcement purposes and have been exempted from the access provisions of subsections (d) and (f).

(13) From subsection (h) because to permit the parent of any minor, or the legal guardian of an individual who has been legally declared incompetent to obtain access to a record which is exempt to the individual would be a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it would enable the individual by himself or through the aid of others, to avoid detection or apprehension.

(14) In addition, these subsystems of records are exempt from compliance with the following provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a), subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(14) (G), (H) and (I), and (f) to the extent that the records contained in these subsystems are classified pursuant to Executive order.

(c) The Border Patrol Academy Index Subsystem is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d) and (f).

This exemption applies only to the extent that information in this subsystem is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k).

(d) Exemptions for the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (d) because exemption is claimed only for those testing and examination materials used to determine an individual's qualifications for retention and promotion in the Immigration and Naturalization Service. This is necessary to protect the integrity of testing materials and to insure fair and uniform examinations.

(2) From subsection (f) because the subsystem of records has been exempted from the access provisions of subsection (d).

§16.100 Exemption of Law Enforcement Assistance Administration System—Limited access.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f):

(1) Investigative System JUSTICE/LEAA-003.

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552(k).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (d) because access to the investigation records contained in this system would inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation of the existence of that investigation, of the nature and scope of the information and evidence obtained as to his activities, of the identity of witnesses and informants, or would provide information that could enable the subject to avoid detection or apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement because they could prevent the successful completion of the investigation.

(2) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) because an exemption is being claimed from subsection (d).

(3) From subsection (f) because notice to an individual pursuant to this subsection as to the existence of records pertaining to him dealing with an actual or potential criminal investigation or prosecution must be exempt because such notice to an individual would be detrimental to the successful conduct and/or completion of an investigation or prosecution, pending or future. Additionally, mere notice of the fact of an investigation could inform the subject or others that their activities are under or may come under an investigation and could enable the subjects to avoid detection or apprehension, to destroy evidence, and to fabricate testimony.

(c) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration will grant access to non-exempt material in the Investigative System (JUSTICE/LEAA-003). Disclosure to subjects of records contained in this system will be governed by the Department's Privacy Regulations but will be limited to the extent that subjects of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal violation will not be alerted to the investigation, the physical safety of witnesses, and law enforcement personnel, the privacy of third parties will not be violated, and that the disclosure would not otherwise present an impediment to effective law enforcement. Whenever possible, information of the above nature will be deleted from the requested documents and the balance made available. Decisions to release information from this system will be made on a case-by-case basis.

§16.101 Exemption of U.S. Marshals Service Systems—Limited access, as indicated.

(a) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e)(2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(8), and (f) and (g):

(1) Warrant Information System (JUSTICE/USM-007).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(b) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act, including those permitted under routine uses published for this system of records would permit a person to determine whether he is the subject of a criminal investigation, and to determine whether a warrant has been issued against him, and therefore present a serious impediment to law enforcement.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act, this section is inapplicable.

(3) From subsection (d) because access to records would inform a person for whom a federal warrant has been issued of the nature and scope of information obtained as to his activities, of the identity of informants, and afford the person sufficient information to enable the subject to avoid apprehension. These factors would present a serious impediment to law enforcement in that they would thwart the warrant process and endanger lives of informants etc.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent practical from the subject individual would present a serious impediment to law enforcement because the subject of the investigation or prosecution would be placed on notice as to the existence of the warrant and would therefore be able to avoid detection or apprehension.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) because the requirement that individuals supplying information be provided with a form stating the requirements of subsection (e)(3) would constitute a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it could compromise the existence of a confidential investigation or reveal identity of confidential informants.

(6) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) since an exemption is being claimed for subsections (f) and (d) of the Act, these subsections are inapplicable.

(7) From subsection (e)(8) because the individual notice requirement of this subsection would present a serious impediment to law enforcement in that it would give persons sufficient warning to avoid warrants, subpoena, etc.

(8) From subsection (f) because procedures for notice to an individual pursuant to subsection (f)(1) as to exist-

tence of records pertaining to him dealing with warrants must be exempted because such notice to individuals would be detrimental to the successful service of a warrant. Since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act the rules required pursuant to subsections (f) (2) through (5) are inapplicable to this system of records.

(9) From subsection (g) since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) and (f) this section is inapplicable and is exempted for the reasons set forth for these subsections.

(c) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(8), (f)(2) and (g):

(1) Witness Security System (JUSTICE/USM-008).

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2).

(d) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act including those permitted under routine uses published for this system of records would hamper the effective functioning of the Witness Security Program which by its very nature requires strict confidentiality vis-a-vis the records.

(2) From subsection (c)(4) for the reason stated in (b)(2) of this section.

(3) From subsection (d) because the United States Marshals Service Witness Security Program aids efforts of law enforcement officials to prevent, control or reduce crime. Access to records would present a serious impediment to effective law enforcement through revelation of confidential sources and through disclosure of operating procedures of the program, and through increased exposure of the program to the public.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) because in the Witness Security Program the requirement that information be collected to the greatest extent possible from the subject individual would constitute an impediment to the program, which is sometimes dependent on sources other than the subject witness for verification of information pertaining to the witness.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) for the reason stated in (b)(5) of this section.

(6) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) for the reason stated in (b)(6) of this section.

(7) From subsection (e)(8) for the reason stated in (b)(7) of this section.

(8) From subsection (f)(2) since an exemption is being claimed for subsection (d) of the Act the rules required pursuant to subsection (f) (2) through (5) are inapplicable to this system of records.

(9) From subsection (g) for the reason stated in (b)(9) of this section.

(e) The following system of records is exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552 (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (f) and (g):

(1) Internal Inspection Information System (JUSTICE/USM-002)—Limited access.

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in this system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5).

(f) Exemptions from the particular subsections are justified for the following reasons:

(1) From subsection (c)(3) because the release of the disclosure accounting for disclosures made pursuant to subsection (b) of the Act where disclosure of such record would reveal a source who furnished information to the government in confidence.

(2) From subsection (a)(4) for the reason stated in (b)(2) of this section.

(3) From subsection (d) because access to information in this system which was obtained from a confidential source would impede the effective investigation into employee conduct for purposes of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications for Federal employment in that it would inhibit furnishing of information by sources which desire to remain confidential.

(4) From subsection (e)(2) for the reason stated in (b)(4) of this section.

(5) From subsection (e)(3) for the reason stated in (b)(5) of this section.

(6) From subsections (e)(4) (G) and (H) for the reason stated in (b)(6) of this section.

(7) From subsection (f) for the reason stated in (b)(8) of this section.

(8) From subsection (g) for the reason stated in (b)(9) of this section.

(g) Consistent with the legislative purpose of the Privacy Act of 1974, the United States Marshals Service will grant access to nonexempt material in records which are maintained by the Service. Disclosure will be governed by the Department's Privacy Regulations, but will be limited to the extent that the identity of confidential sources will not be compromised; subjects of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil or regulatory violation will not be alerted to the investigation; the physical safety of witnesses, informants and law enforcement personnel will not be endangered; the privacy of third parties will not be violated; and that the disclosure would not otherwise impede effective law enforcement. Whenever possible, information of the above nature will be deleted from the requested documents and the balance made available. The controlling principle behind this limited access is to allow disclosures except those indicated above. The decisions to release information from this system will be made on a case-by-case basis.

AUTHORITY: 5 U.S.C. 552a.

§ 1006.1 Purpose and scope.

(a) The purpose of this part is to establish policies and procedures for implementing the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-579), particularly 5 U.S.C. 552a as added by the Act. The main objectives are to facilitate full exercise of rights conferred on individuals under the Act and to insure the protection of privacy as to individuals on whom CSA maintains records in systems of records under the Act. CSA accepts the responsibility to act promptly and in accordance with the Act upon receipt of any inquiry, request or appeal from a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence into the United States. Further, CSA accepts the obligations to maintain only such information on individuals as is relevant and necessary to the performance of its lawful functions, to maintain that information with such accuracy, relevancy, timeliness and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness in determinations made by CSA about the individual, to obtain information from the individual to the extent practicable, and to take every reasonable step to protect that information from unwarranted disclosure. CSA will maintain no record describing how an individual exercise rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless expressly authorized by statute or by the individual about whom the record is maintained, or unless pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity.

(b) Matters outside the scope of this part include the following:

(1) Requests under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552).

(2) Requests involving information pertaining to an individual which is in a record or file but not within the scope of a system of records notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 1006.2 Definitions.

(a) All terms used in this part which are defined in 5 U.S.C. 552a shall have the same meaning herein.

(b) As used in this part:

(1) The term "Act" means the Privacy Act of 1974, Pub. L. 93-579.

(2) The term "CSA" means the Community Services Administration, formerly Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

(3) The term "Privacy Act Officer" means the official who carries the responsibility for implementing and overseeing the Act in the Community Services Administration, making final determinations on appeals and preparing rules and notices for publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER and reports to Congress, OMB and the President.

(4) The term "Privacy Act Reviewing Officer" means the official designated at a specified CSA geographical location to oversee implementation of the Privacy Act within that designated area, to administer the records management program and related training program within his jurisdiction, to act as liaison between the Privacy Act Officer and System Managers, to assist local System Manager on Privacy Act access and amendment requests.

(5) The term "System Manager" means the official responsible for the operation, maintenance, accuracy, security, and use of a stated system of records and the individual who will receive and act upon requests to access, amend, annotate or copy an individual's record in that system.

(6) The term "inquiry" means either a communication asking for general information regarding the Act and/or CSA regulations thereunder or a communication from an individual asking if CSA maintains any record in a system of records pertaining to him or her.

(7) The term "inquirer" means any individual directing an inquiry, as defined above, to CSA.

(8) The term "request" means any written communication seeking disclosure or correction and/or amendment of a record or a copy of a record under the provisions of the Act.

(9) The term "requester" means any individual submitting a request, as defined above, to CSA.

(10) The term "appeal" means a written communication asking CSA to review and reverse an initial denial of a request for correction or amendment of a record.

(11) The term "working days" means Monday through Friday, excepting Federal holidays.

§ 1006.3 Procedures for requests pertaining to individual records in a record system.

(a) Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(1), any individual has the right to inquire concerning records pertaining to him and to request disclosure thereof without giving any justification for his inquiry or request. An individual may not request disclosure of records not pertaining to him under this Act (see § 1006.12 for penalties). CSA will respond to any inquiry or request concerning records maintained by CSA according to the procedures set out in this part.

(b)(1) An inquiry under the Privacy Act may be made either in person or by mail addressed to the appropriate system manager (see CSA notice of systems of records published in this issue) at 1200 19th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20506, if the record is maintained in CSA Headquarters or to the appropriate system manager in the appropriate Regional Office, if the record is maintained in a Regional Office (see CSA notice of systems of records published in this issue). If the inquirer is unsure where the record is maintained, if he cannot locate the system manager, or if he believes CSA maintains a record pertaining to him, but does not know which system of records might contain it, he may seek assistance in person from any Privacy Act Reviewing Officer listed in Appendix A to this part, or he may write to Privacy Act Officer, Community Services Administration, 1200 19th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20506. The offices of Privacy Act Reviewing Officers and System Managers in CSA Headquarters are open to the public 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on working days; for the Regional Office see "Geographical Guidance for Accessing Systems of Records" published in the CSA Notice of Systems of Records.

(2) An inquiry submitted by mail should be identified prominently both on the envelope and within the text as a "Privacy Act Request."

(c) If an inquiry is for general information regarding the Act and CSA regulations thereunder, no particular information is required. If an inquiry asks that CSA determine whether it maintains a record pertaining to the inquirer, the following information should be submitted:

(1) Name, address, telephone number (optional) and signature of the inquirer;

(2) Name, address and telephone (optional) of the individual to whom the record pertains, if the inquirer is either the parent of a minor or the legal guardian of the individual to whom the record pertains, and a certified or authenticated copy of documents establishing parentage or guardianship;

(3) Whether the individual to whom the record pertains is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence into the United States;

(4) Name of the system of records, as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER;

(5) Location of the system of records, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER;

(6) Such additional information as the inquirer believes might assist CSA in responding to the inquiry and in verifying identity (for example, date of birth, place of birth, names of parents, place of work, dates of employment, position title, etc.);

(d)(1) The effect of failure to provide the information listed in (c)(1)-(6) of this section may be to delay or prevent CSA's answering the inquiry.

(2) CSA reserves the right to require compliance with the procedures appearing at § 1006.4 (b) or (c) where circumstances warrant.

(e) CSA will make every effort to answer each inquiry within 10 working days of its receipt. If this is not possible, CSA will send an acknowledgment to the inquirer, informing him of the status of the inquiry and asking for any further information needed in processing it. Absent unusual circumstances (as described in § 1006.5(b)(2)), all inquiries will be answered within 30 working days of their receipt.

§ 1006.4 Times, places, and requirements for identification of individuals making requests.

(a) Any individual may request access to records pertaining to him or her. The requester should make his request either by mail or in person to the appropriate system manager as provided in § 1006.3(b)(1)—see CSA notice of systems of records published in this issue—and if unable to ascertain the appropriate system manager, to the appropriate Privacy Act Reviewing Officer or to the Privacy Act Officer (see Appendix A).

(b) All requests submitted by mail must:

(1) Be signed by the requester and include his address and (optional) his telephone number.

(2) Be identified prominently both on the envelope and in the letter as "Privacy Act Request."

(3) A statement signed by the requester that "I am aware that I am liable to criminal penalties under the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3) if I request a record under false pretenses."

(c) Each individual making a request in person will be required to:

(1) Sign and date a statement that "I am requesting access to the following record(s) under the Privacy Act, I have read 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3), and I am aware that I am liable to criminal penalties thereunder if I request a record under false pretenses."

(2) Furnish a reasonable amount of personal identification equivalent to that normally required for such commercial transactions as the acceptance of a personal check—i.e. employment identification card, driver's license, credit cards.

(3) In the case of especially sensitive records, CSA may seek independent verification of a requester's identity by such means as telephone calls to his home or business address, personal identification by CSA employees, or other means which may seem appropriate.

(d)(1) The disclosure of the information listed in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section is voluntary, the effects of not providing it may be to prevent or delay the processing of his request and the information furnished will be used only to process his request or to enforce the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3)—see § 1006.12 and paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section.

(2) When requesting the information listed in paragraph (c), the system manager shall inform the requester of the matters stated in paragraph (d)(1) of this section.

(3) If a requester refuses to or is unable to comply with paragraph (b) or (c) of this section, CSA will consider alternative suggestions from the requester for establishing his identity. However, acceptance of such suggestions is at the discretion of CSA and failure to comply with paragraph (b) or (c) of this section may altogether prevent the processing of a request.

(e) An individual acting as the parent of a minor or the legal guardian of the individual to whom a record pertains shall establish his or her personal identity in the same manner prescribed in either § 1006.4 (b) or (c). In addition, such an individual shall establish his or her identity in the representative capacity of parent or legal guardian. In the case of a legal guardian of an individual who has been declared incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, the proof of identity shall be a certified or authenticated copy of the court's order. A parent or legal guardian may act only for a living individual, not for a decedent.

§ 1006.5 Disclosure of requested information to individuals.

(a) Within 10 working days of the receipt of a request by the appropriate system manager, he shall send the requester a written acknowledgment thereof, unless the request has been answered within this period. This acknowledgment shall include the date of his receipt thereof (which may be considerably delayed if a request by mail is not addressed and marked as required by § 1006.4(b) (1) and (2) or if the requester has been unable to identify the appropriate system manager) and shall inform the requester of any further information needed in the processing of the request. Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(3), CSA shall inform the requester whether such information is required to process the request under the Privacy Act or if it would merely facilitate processing the request. CSA shall also inform him that disclosure thereof is voluntary, that there is no penalty for failure to respond, that the effects of not providing the information may be to prevent or delay the processing of his request, and that the information furnished will be used only to process his request or for enforcement of the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3)—see § 1006.12.

(b)(1) CSA will attempt whenever possible to review and answer requests within 10 working days of their receipt by the appropriate system manager. Absent unusual circumstances (as described below), CSA will answer a request within 30 working days of the receipt thereof by the system manager, or within 20 working days of his receipt of the further information requested.

(2) "Unusual circumstances" shall include circumstances where a search for and collection of requested records from inactive storage, field facilities or other establishments is required, cases where a voluminous amount of data is involved, instances where information on other individuals must be separated or expunged from the particular record, and cases where consultation with other agencies having a substantial interest in the determination of the request is necessary.

(c) Grant of access—(1) Notification. An individual shall be granted access to a record pertaining to him or her, except where the provisions of paragraph (h) of this section apply. The Privacy Act Officer shall notify the individual of such determination and provide the following information:

(i) The methods of access, as set forth in paragraph (c)(2) of this section.

(ii) The place at which the record may be inspected.

(iii) The earliest date on which the record may be inspected and the period of time that the records will remain available for inspection. In no event shall the earliest date be later than thirty days from the date of notification.

(iv) The estimated date by which a copy of the record could be mailed and the estimate of fees pursuant to § 1006.11 of this part. In no event shall the estimated date be later than thirty days from the date of notification.

(v) The fact that the individual, if he or she wishes, may be accompanied by another individual during personal access, subject to the procedures set forth in paragraph (g) of this section.

(vi) Any additional requirements needed to grant access to a specific record.

(2) Methods of access. The following methods of access to records by an individual may be available depending on the circumstances of a given situation:

(i) Inspection in person may be had in the office specified by the system manager granting access, during the hours indicated in § 1006.3(b)(1).

(ii) Transfer of records to a Federal facility more convenient to the individual may be arranged, but only if the system manager determines that a suitable facility is available, that the individual's access can be properly supervised at that facility, and that transmittal of the records to that facility will not unduly interfere with operations of CSA or involve unreasonable costs, in terms of both money and manpower.

(iii) Copies may be mailed at the request of the individual, subject to payment of the fees prescribed in section 1006.11 of this part. CSA, at its own initiative, may elect to provide a copy by mail, in which case no fee will be charged.

(d) Access to medical records is governed by the provisions of § 1006.6.

(e) CSA shall supply such other information and assistance at the time of access as to make the record intelligible to the individual.

(f) CSA reserves the right to limit access to copies and abstracts of original records, rather than the original records. This election would be appropriate, for example, when the record is in automated data media such as tape or disc, when the record contains information on other individuals, and when deletion of information if permissible under exemptions (for example, 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2)). In no event shall original records of CSA be made available to the individual except under the immediate supervision of the system manager or his designee. Title 18, United States Code, section 270(a) makes it a crime to conceal, mutilate, obliterate, or destroy any record filed in a public office, or to attempt to do any of the foregoing.

(g) A requester may be accompanied by one other individual of his or her choice. The requester shall submit to the system manager a signed, dated authorization of the presence of the other individual, specifically naming the other individual and describing the record requested. The other individual shall also sign this authorization in the presence of the system manager. A requester shall not be asked to give any reason for deciding to be accompanied by another individual during personal access to a record.

(h) A requester may be denied access to a record pertaining to him or her only upon a determination by a system manager that:

(1) The record is subject to an exemption under § 1006.13 or § 1006.14, including an exemption determined by another agency as discussed in § 1006.13(b);

(2) The record is information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding;

(3) The requester has unreasonably failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(i) The system manager shall notify the requester in writing of denial of access to records and this notice shall include the following information:

(1) The system manager's name and title or position;

(2) The date of the denial;

(3) The reasons for the denial including appropriate citations to the Act and/or these regulations;

(4) The procedures for seeking further administrative review of the denial, including the name and identity of the responsible official.

(j) If a request is partially granted and partially denied, the system manager shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and those within the denial.

§ 1006.6 Special procedures: medical records.

(a) Whenever a requester seeks access to his medical records the system manager will ask the requester for:

(1) The name and address of his physician or psychologist;

(2) Specific, written consent for CSA to consult this physician or psychologist if CSA believes such consultation advisable;

(3) Specific, written consent for CSA to provide these records to this physician or psychologist if CSA believes the requester's access thereto should be effected under the guidance of his physician or psychologist.

(b) The system manager will concurrently forward the requester's medical record to a CSA medical officer for review and a determination whether consultation with and/or transmittal of this record to the requester's physician or psychologist is indicated. If the medical officer finds either or both of these procedures to be indicated, he shall proceed accordingly. In any event, the medical officer shall inform the system manager regarding the recommended conditions for the requester's access to his or her medical records.

(c) If the requester refuses to give any or all of the information sought under section (a)(1) or refuses the consents sought under (a)(2) and (a)(3) and the CSA medical officer has found that disclosure without safeguards would be likely to have an adverse effect on him or her, CSA will refuse the requester access to the records, following the procedures of § 1006.5(1).

(d) When asking for the information and consents listed in section (a) the system manager shall inform the requester that response is purely voluntary, that there is no penalty for refusal to respond, that the effects of not responding or of a partial response may be as stated in section (c), and that the information and consents given will be used only to process the request and will be destroyed when it has been answered.

§ 1006.7 Request for correction or amendment to record.

(a) Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(2) any individual has the right to request a correction or amendment of a record or records pertaining to him, including the deletion of material or the inclusion of additional material therein. An individual may not seek amendment of records not pertaining to him under this Act (see § 1006.12 for penalties). CSA will respond to any request for such records maintained by CSA according to the procedures set out in this part, except that requests for amendment of records originating in another agency will be referred to that agency within ten working days and notice of such referral will be sent to the requester.

(b) All requests for correction or amendment of records must:

(1) Be submitted in writing, be signed by the requester, and include his address and (optional) his telephone number;

(2) Specify the record(s) and system(s) of records involved (e.g. description, title, date and portion of record to be corrected or amended);

(3) Specify the exact changes requested indicating specific deletions, substitutions, and additions (submission of an edited copy of the record(s) showing all changes requested is desirable as it would facilitate consideration of the request and prevent misunderstanding of the changes requested).

(4) State that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act—for requests by mail, the letter should be identified prominently both on the envelope and within the text as a "Privacy Act Request."

(5) Be addressed or presented in person to the appropriate system manager as provided for inquiries in § 1006.3(b)(1) (see CSA notice of systems of records published in this issue for appropriate system manager).

(6) Include a statement of the basis for the requested correction or amendment, with all supporting documents and materials the requester believes relevant; this statement should, at a minimum, identify the standard(s) under the Act which the requester wishes to invoke—i.e. whether the information in the record is unnecessary, irrelevant, inaccurate, or incomplete (see 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(5)).

(c) Special identification requirements:

Normally a request for correction or amendment of a record will have been preceded by a request for disclosure of this record under § 1006.4. If the requester has already identified himself, no proof of his identity other than his signature (see § 1006.7(b)(1)) will normally be required. In the event that CSA is not satisfied as to the requester's identity, the requester may be required to comply with the requirements for identification set forth in § 1006.4(b). In such cases, CSA will notify the requester within 10 days of the identification required and will proceed with the processing of his request, but will not comply with or deny the request until requester furnishes the required identification.

§ 1006.8 Agency review of request for correction or amendment of record.

(a) Within 10 working days from the receipt of a request by the appropriate system manager, he shall send the requester a written acknowledgement of the receipt thereof, unless the request has been answered within this period. This acknowledgement shall follow the format indicated in § 1006.5(a).

(b) (1) CSA will attempt whenever possible to review and answer requests within 10 working days of their receipt by the appropriate system manager. Absent unusual circumstances (as described in § 1006.5(b)(2)), CSA will answer a request within 30 days of the receipt thereof by the system manager, or within 20 working days of his receipt of the further information requested.

(2) If owing to unusual circumstances, CSA cannot make a determination within these time limits, the requester will be advised in writing of the reason therefor and the estimated date by which the response will be made.

(c) In its response, CSA will either:

(1) Make the requested correction or amendment and advise the individual in writing of such action, providing either a copy of the corrected or amended record or a statement as to the means whereby the correction or amendment was effected in cases where a copy cannot be provided (for example, erasure of information from a record maintained only in an electronic data bank); or

(2) Inform the individual in writing that his or her request is denied and provide the following information:

(i) The system manager's name and title and position;

(ii) The date of the denial;

(iii) The reasons for the denial including citation to the appropriate sections of the Act and this part; and

(iv) The procedures for appeal of the denial as set forth in § 1006.9 including the name and address of the Privacy Act Officer.

(d) Whenever an individual's record is corrected or amended pursuant to a request by that individual, the system manager shall see to the notification of all persons and agencies to which the corrected or amended position of the record has been disclosed prior to its correction or amendment, if an accounting of such disclosure required by the Act was made. The notification shall require a recipient agency maintaining the record to acknowledge receipt of the notification, to correct or amend the record and to apprise any agency or person to which it had disclosed the record of the substance of the correction or amendment.

(e) The following criteria will be considered by the system manager in reviewing a request for correction or amendment:

(1) The sufficiency of the evidence submitted by the individual;

(2) The factual accuracy of the information;

(3) The relevance and necessity of the information in terms of purpose for which it was collected;

(4) The timeliness and currency of the information in light of the purpose for which it was collected;

(5) The completeness of the information in terms of the purpose for which it was collected;

(6) The degree of possibility that denial of the request could unfairly result in determinations adverse to the individual;

(7) The character of the record sought to be corrected or amended; and

(8) The propriety and feasibility of complying with the specific means of correction or amendment requested by the individual.

(f) CSA will not undertake to gather evidence for the individual; but does reserve the right to verify the evidence which the individual submits.

(g) Correction or amendment of a record requested by an individual will be denied only upon a determination by the system manager that:

(1) The individual has failed to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, the propriety of the correction or amendment in light of the criteria set forth in paragraph (e) of this section;

(2) The record sought to be corrected or amended was compiled in a terminated judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual was a party or participant;

(3) The information in the record sought to be corrected or amended, or the record sought to be amended, is the subject of a pending judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual is a party or participant;

(4) The correction or amendment would violate a duly enacted statute or promulgated regulation; or

(5) The individual unreasonably has failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(h) If a request is partially granted and partially denied, the system manager shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and the records within the denial.

§ 1006.9 Appeal of initial adverse agency determination on correction or amendment or access.

(a) When a request has been denied under §§ 1006.5 or 1006.8, the requester may appeal the denial to the Privacy Act Officer, Office of Administration, Community Services Administration, 1200 19th Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20506. An appeal should be identified both on the envelope and in the text as a Privacy Act Appeal.

(b) An appeal shall include a copy of the original request, the initial denial, and a statement of the reasons why the requester believes the initial denial to be in error. The Privacy Act Officer may seek additional information needed to assure that his final determination is fair and equitable; in such instances, the additional information shall be disclosed to the requester to the greatest extent possible and he shall be allowed an opportunity to comment thereon. No personal appearance or hearing will be allowed.

(c) The Privacy Act Officer shall determine the appeal and mail his determination in writing to the requester within 30 days of his receipt of the appeal, unless the Director of CSA extends this period for an additional 30 working days at the request of the Privacy Act Officer. The Director shall take such an extension only if he deems it necessary for a fair and equitable determination of the appeal and he shall notify the requester of the reasons for any such extension.

(d) If the appeal is determined in favor of the requester, the final determination shall be an order for full or partial release of the documents requested or shall include the specific corrections or amendments to be made and a copy thereof shall be transmitted promptly both to the individual and to the system manager who issued the initial denial. Upon receipt of such final determination, the system manager shall promptly take the actions set forth in § 1006.8(b)(1) and (c).

(e) If the appeal is denied, the final determination shall be transmitted promptly to the individual and shall cite the reasons for the denial. The notice of final determination shall also include the following information:

(1) That the individual has a right to file a concise statement of reasons for disagreeing with the final determination; the statement ordinarily should not exceed one page and CSA reserves the right to reject a statement of excessive length; such a statement shall be filed with the Privacy Act Officer, should identify the date of the final determination, and should be signed by the individual; the Privacy Act Officer shall acknowledge receipt of such statement and inform the individual of the date on which it was received.

(2) That any such disagreement statement filed by the individual will be noted in the disputed record and that a copy of the statement will be provided to persons and agencies to which the record is disclosed subsequent to the date of receipt of such statement.

(3) That CSA may append to any such disagreement statement filed by the individual, a copy of the final determination or summary thereof which also will be provided to persons and agencies to which the disagreement statement is disclosed.

(4) That the requester has a right to judicial review of the final determination under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(A) or (B), as limited by U.S.C. 552a(g)(5).

(f) In making the final determination, the Privacy Act Officer shall employ the criteria set forth in § 1006.8(e) and shall deny an appeal only on the grounds set forth in § 1006.8(g).

(g) If an appeal is partially granted and partially denied, the Privacy Act Officer shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and those within the denial.

(h) Although a copy of the final determination, or a summary thereof, will be treated as part of the individual's record for purposes of disclosure in instances where the individual has filed a disagreement statement, it will not be subject to correction or amendment by the individual.

§ 1006.10 Disclosure of record to person other than the individual to whom it pertains.

(a) CSA may disclose a record pertaining to an individual to a person other than the individual only in the following instances:

(1) Upon written request by the individual, including authorization under §§ 1006.5(g) and 1006.6;

(2) With the prior written consent of the individual;

(3) To a parent or legal guardian under 5 U.S.C. 552a(h);

(4) When required by the Act and not covered explicitly by the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(b); and,

(5) When permitted under 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(1) through (11), which read as follows:

(1) To those officers and employees of the agency which maintains the record who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties;

(2) Required under section 552 of this title;

(3) For a routine use as defined in subsection (a)(7) of this section;

(4) To the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of title 13;

(5) To a recipient who has provided the agency with advance adequate written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable;

(6) To the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value.

(7) To another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law, and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to the agency which maintains the record specifying the particular portion desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought;

(8) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual;

(9) To either House of Congress, or, to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee;

(10) To the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office; or

(11) Pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

(b) The situations referred to in paragraph (a)(4) of this section include the following:

(1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(4) requires dissemination of a corrected or amended record or notation of a disagreement statement by CSA in certain circumstances;

(2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) requires disclosure of records to the individual to whom they pertain, upon request;

(3) 5 U.S.C. 552(g) authorizes civil action by an individual and requires disclosure by CSA to the court;

(4) Section 5(e)(2) of the Act authorizes release of any records or information by CSA to the Privacy Protection Study Commission upon request of the Chairman; and

(5) Section 6 of the Act authorizes the Office of Management and Budget to provide CSA with continuing oversight and assistance in implementation of the Act.

(c) The system manager shall keep an accounting of each disclosure by him of any record contained in a system of records in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (1) and (2). Except for a disclosure made under 5 U.S.C. 552a (b)(7), the system manager shall make such accounting available to any individual, insofar as it pertains to that individual, on request submitted in accordance with § 1006.4 of this part. The system manager shall make reasonable efforts to notify any individual when any record in a system of records is disclosed to any person under compulsory legal process, promptly upon being informed that such process has become a matter of public record. He shall also transmit to the individual's last known address notification of any disclosure pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances under 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(8).

§ 1006.11 Fees.

(a) The only fees charged a requester under the provisions of this part shall be for copying records at his or her request.

(b)(1) The copying fees charged under the Privacy Act shall be:

(i) For duplication of paper documents up to 8" x 14" $.10 per copy page.

(ii) For duplication of microfiche in 4 x 6 inch diazo film copies at 24 x reduction $.10 per fiche.

(iii) For duplication of paper records from microfiche records $.10 per page.

(iv) For computer records. In most instances records maintained in the computer data base are available also in printed form and the standard fee of $.10 per copy page shall apply. However, a record must exist at the time of the request, and it is not required that a record be "created" or compiled from the data base for the purpose of furnishing information not already provided in existing records. A record that is maintained by computer is normally deemed to exist for this purpose only if retrievable in approximately the form desired, without reprogramming.

(2) When no specific fee has been established for a copying service, the Privacy Act Officer is authorized to establish an appropriate fee based on the direct costs of providing the service in question.

(3) Services performed that are not required under the Privacy Act, such as formal certification or authentication of records may be subject to charges under the Federal User Charge Statute (31 U.S.C. 483a) or other applicable statutes, depending on the services performed.

(c)(1) CSA will waive any copying fee totaling less than $5.00 but contemporaneous requests shall be added together to determine the total fee.

(2) The Privacy Act Officer may, at his discretion, waive fees based on a petition for waiver by a requester stating that he or she is indigent and unable to pay said fees.

(3) It is the policy of CSA to provide the requester with one copy of each record corrected or amended pursuant to § 1006.8(c).

(4) As required by the United States Civil Service Commission, CSA will charge no fee for a single copy of a personnel record covered by the Commission's government-wide published notice of systems of records.

(d)(1) If a requester is requesting a copy of a record, the request should state that he will promptly pay all applicable fees. In his request he may either:

(i) Agree to pay all fees up to a specified limit; or

(ii) Indicate that he wishes to be advised of the estimated fees.

(2) If the requester elects alternative (ii) or if the estimated fees exceed the limit he has indicated, the request shall be processed as indicated in § 1006.5, but no copies shall be sent to the requester until he has been informed of the estimated fees and agreed to pay them, except that if their estimated amount is less than $10.00, copies will be sent the requester without such notification unless he has specifically set a limit of less than $10.00. Estimates of fees will be communicated to the requester as soon as possible so as to avoid delay in furnishing copies of records requested. If the requester is unwilling to pay the estimated fees, he may reduce the volume of copies requested so as to reduce the fee to an amount he is willing to pay.

(e) Full or partial payment of fees in advance may be required if the estimated fees are in excess of $50.00, or if the requester is known to have failed to pay any previous fee due to CSA under either 45 CFR or 1005 or 1006.

(f) Remittances shall be in the form of a personal check or bank draft drawn on a bank in the United States or a postal money order. Remittances shall be made payable to the Community Services Administration and mailed to Privacy Act Officer, Community Services Administration, 1200 19th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20506.

§ 1006.12 Penalties.

In 5 U.S.C. 552a(i) the Act established criminal penalties for certain actions in violation thereof. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3) concern the actions of requesters; the section reads thus:

Any person who knowingly and willfully requests or obtains any record concerning an individual from an agency under false pretenses shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5000.

§ 1006.13 General Exemptions.

(a) CSA does not assert any general exemptions under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j).

(b) Individuals may not have access to records maintained by CSA but originating with another agency which has determined by regulation that such information is subject to a general exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j). If such records are within a request for access, CSA will advise the requester of their existence and of the name and address of the source agency which the requester must contact for any further information.

§ 1006.14 Specific Exemptions.

(a) Under the authority granted him by 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2), the Director of CSA hereby exempts the system entitled "Inspection Reports on Grantees, Contractors, and CSA employees" from the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(4)(I) and (f)(4). The reasons for asserting this exemption are to maintain the ability to obtain necessary information, to prevent subjects of investigation from frustrating the progress of the investigation or of subsequent law enforcement activities, to avoid revelation of the identities of persons who have furnished or will furnish information to CSA in confidence, and to ensure the safety of these sources and of personnel engaged in investigations conducted for law enforcement purposes. Any person may still seek access to these records under the Freedom of Information Act; any Privacy Act Request seeking records under this exemption will be processed under the substantive provisions of the Freedom of Information Act.

§ 708.1 Purpose and scope.

(a) This part contains the regulations of ERDA implementing the Privacy Act of 1974, Pub. L. 93-579. The regulations apply to all records maintained by ERDA which are identifiable by individual name or identifier and all systems of such records which are retrieved by name or other identifier. These regulations are also applicable to contractors and their employees to the extent required by 5 U.S.C. 552a(m). The regulations set forth the procedures by which individuals may seek access to records concerning themselves and request correction of those records. The regulations also set forth the requirements, applicable to ERDA employees maintaining, collecting, using or disseminating such records.

§ 708.2 Policy.

In compliance with the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a and in accordance with the requirements and procedures of this part, ERDA has a positive and continuing obligation to:

(a) Identify each system of records which ERDA maintains and review the content of the system to assure that only that information is maintained which is necessary and relevant to a function which ERDA is authorized to perform by law or Executive order, and that no information about the political or religious beliefs and activities of individuals is maintained except as provided in the Act.

(b) Collect information to the greatest extent practicable directly from the subject individual when the information which may result in adverse determinations about that individual's rights, benefits, and privileges under Federal programs; and inform individuals whom ERDA asks to supply information about themselves of the purposes for which the information will be used and their rights, benefits, or obligations with respect to supplying that data.

(c) Establish reasonable administrative, technical, and physical safeguards to assure that records are disclosed only to those who are authorized to have access and otherwise to protect against any anticipated threats or hazards to their security or integrity which could result in substantial harm, embarrassment, inconvenience, or unfairness to any individual on whom information is maintained.

(d) Maintain an accounting of all disclosures of information from systems of records except those to personnel within ERDA who have an official need to know or to the public under the Freedom of Information Act, and make that accounting available as provided in the Act.

(e) When using a record or disclosing it to someone other than an agency, assure that it is as accurate, relevant, timely and complete as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual.

(f) Permit individuals to have access to records pertaining to themselves and to have an opportunity to request that such records be amended.

(g) Inform prior recipients when a record is amended pursuant to the request of an individual or when a statement of disagreement has been filed; advise any subsequent recipient that a record is disputed; and provide a copy of the statement of disagreement to both prior and subsequent recipients of the disputed information.

§ 708.3 Definitions.

As used in this part:

(a) The term "agency" means agency as defined in U.S.C. 552a(a). It includes any executive department, military department, Government corporation, Government-controlled corporation or other establishment in the executive branch of the Government including the Executive Office of the President or any independent regulatory agency.

(b) The term "individual" means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence, but does not include proprietorships, businesses and corporations.

(c) The term "maintain" means maintain, collect, use, or disseminate.

(13) U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, Savannah River Operations Office, P.O. Box A, Aiken, South Carolina 29801.

§ 708.6 Requests for information, access or amendment.

(a) The procedures outlined below apply to the following types of requests under the Privacy Act of 1974 made by individuals concerning records about themselves:

(1) Request to determine if information on the requestor is included in a system of records.

(2) Request for access to a record.

(3) Request for an accounting of disclosures.

(4) Request for amendment of a record.

(b) (1) Request under paragraph (a) of this section must conform to the following:

(i) All requests must be in writing unless waived by the System Manager.

(ii) All requests must be directed to the appropriate Privacy Act Administration Officer or if it is inconvenient or impossible to ascertain the appropriate Privacy Act Administration Officer, requests may be directed to the Privacy Act Administration Officer, ERDA Headquarters, Washington, D.C. 20545.

(iii) The requestor must supply the Privacy Act Administration Officer with information sufficient to process the request.

(2) Minimum information is:

(i) Name and address of individual.

(ii) Identity of the system of records.

(iii) Nature of the request. If a request for amendment, a complete and comprehensive description of the amendment.

(iv) Required identifying information such as location if known, full name, birth date, etc. as specified in the "Notice of System of Records" to assist in identifying the request.

(c) Processing requests:

(1) The Privacy Act Administration Officer will record the date and time of receipt of a request.

(2) Within 10 working days of receipt of a request completed in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section, the Privacy Act Administration Officer will ascertain the responsible System Manager, and will dispatch the request to him.

(3) The Privacy Act Administration Officer will acknowledge the request to the individual within 10 working days of receipt of the request.

(4) If the request is incomplete or incomprehensible, the Privacy Act Administration Officer will request additional information or clarification of the initial request in the acknowledgment, and will offer assistance to the individual as appropriate.

(i) If the request is sufficient for processing, the acknowledgment should identify the System Manager.

(4) Access to ERDA records maintained in National Archives and Record Systems Centers may be obtained in accordance with the regulations issued by the General Services Administration.

§ 708.7 Identification of individuals making requests.

The following minimum standards are applicable to any individual who requests records concerning himself but additional requirements for verification of identity with respect to particularly sensitive records may be required.

(a) An individual seeking access to records about himself in person may establish his identity by the presentation of a single document bearing a photograph (such as a passport or identification badge) or by the presentation of two items of identification which do not bear a photograph but do bear both a name and address (such as a driver's license, or credit card).

(b) An individual seeking access to records about himself by mail shall establish his identity by a signature, address, date of birth, employee identification number, if any, and one other identifier such as a photocopy of a driver's license or other document.

(c) An individual seeking access to records about himself by mail or in person who cannot provide the necessary documentation of identification may provide a notarized statement, swearing or affirming to his identity and to the fact that he understands the penalties for false statements pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 1001.

§ 708.8 Disclosure of requested information to individuals.

(a) The System Manager will record the date and time of his receipt of a request.

(b) Preliminary review of the request should be completed within 10 days and if conditions such as the ones below exist, the individual should be apprised of them as soon as possible. Conditions include:

(1) The system of records exempted in whole or in part from the provision(s) requiring compliance with the request.

(2) Need for further information by the System Manager to process the request, e.g., more data is required to determine the location of the record.

(c) Upon receipt of a request from the Privacy Act Administration Officer, the System Manager shall promptly take the following actions, as appropriate:

(1) Inform the individual whether or not any information on him is included in the system.

(2) Grant or deny access to records.

(3) Grant or deny access to accounting of disclosures.

(4) Amend or decline to amend a record.

(d) If a request is denied, the individual must be informed of the System Manager's determination, including an explanation of the reasons for not granting the request, the procedures for requesting review of the denial, and the name and address of the ERDA official to contact for appeal. Denial of a request may be based in whole or part on an exemption. If material has been deleted from a record furnished to the individual there shall also be furnished a brief explanation of why the material was deleted.

(1) Requests for access to classified information shall be coordinated with a representative of the Division of Classification or the field organization counterpart prior to final action.

(2) Nothing in this part shall allow an individual access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of any civil action or proceeding in either a court or an administrative tribunal.

(e) If the System Manager is unable, for good cause, to complete action on his request within 30 calendar days after his receipt of the request, the individual should be informed in writing within such 30 days as to the reasons for the delay and when completion of the action is anticipated.

(f) When information is sought from a system of records that includes information from another Federal agency, the System Manager receiving the request shall consult with the appropriate agency prior to determining whether the information may be disclosed or not, but the decision as to whether the record shall be disclosed, shall be made by the System Manager maintaining the record.

(g) Granting Access—Special Considerations:

(1) Associates in attendance—When an individual is granted access to his record, he may be accompanied by a person of his choosing. The System Manager may require the individual to furnish a written statement authorizing discussions of the record in the accompanying person's presence.

(2) Copies of the record—Once access is granted, the individual has the right to have a copy made of all or any portion of the record upon payment of fees to the extent provided for in § 708.15.

(3) The parent of a minor or legal guardian, may act on behalf of the individual for purposes under this part. The System Manager shall require the person to provide proper identification establishing guardianship. The parent or guardian of a minor or a person judicially determined to be incompetent shall, in addition to establishing the identity of the minor or other person he represents as required in section 708.7, establish his own parentage or guardianship by furnishing a copy of a birth certificate showing parentage or a court order establishing the guardianship.

§ 708.9 Medical and psychological records.

When an individual requests medical or psychological records concerning himself, the System Manager may advise the individual that these records will be provided only to a physician designated in writing by the individual. Upon receipt of the designation and upon proper verification of identity, the System Manager will permit the physician to review the records or to receive copies of the records for purposes of determining whether any such records should not be disclosed to the individual because of possible harm.

§ 708.10 Disclosure of record to person other than the individual to whom it pertains.

(a) ERDA shall not disclose any record which is contained in a system of records by any means of communication to any person, or to another agency, except pursuant to a written request by, or with the prior written consent of, the individual to whom the record pertains, unless the disclosure of such record falls within one of the disclosure categories enumerated below in section 708.10(a) (1) through 708.10(a) (11) of this part. Disclosure categories:

(1) Disclosure to ERDA officers or employees who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties.

(2) Disclosure required under the Freedom of Information Act.

(3) Disclosure for a routine use as defined in § 708.3(g) of this part and described in the notice of the system of records as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(4) Disclosure to the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of Title 13 of the U.S. Code.

(5) Disclosure to a recipient who has provided the System Manager of the system of records from which he has requested a record with advance adequate written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable. It is the responsibility of the System Manager of the system of records from which it is desired to disclose a record of an identifiable individual to assure that the identity of the individual cannot be determined or deduced by combining various statistical records. Records may be disclosed by ERDA for statistical research or reporting purposes only after ERDA has received and evaluated a written statement which:

(i) states the purpose for requesting the records; and

(ii) certifies that they will only be used as statistical records.

(6) Disclosure to the National Archives of the United States of a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value.

(7) Disclosure to another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law, and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to ERDA specifying the particular portion desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought. Blanket requests for all records pertaining to an individual are not permitted, but a court order may be sought as a basis for disclosure. (See paragraph (a)(11) of this section.) A record may also be disclosed by ERDA to a law enforcement agency at the initiative of ERDA when a violation of law is suspected, provided that such type of disclosure has been established in advance as "routine use."

(8) Disclosure to a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual. The individual to whom the record pertains need not necessarily be the individual whose health or safety is at peril.

(9) Disclosure to either House of Congress, or to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee.

(10) Disclosure to the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office.

(11) Disclosure pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

§ 708.11 Accounting for disclosures.

(a) As soon as possible, but not later than September 27, 1975, each System Manager shall establish a system of accounting for all disclosures of records, either orally or in writing, made to other than ERDA personnel. Accounting procedures may be established in the least expensive and most convenient form that will permit the System Manager to advise individuals, promptly upon request, of the persons or agencies to which records concerning them have been disclosed.

(b) Accounting records, at a minimum, shall include the identification of the particular record disclosed, the name and address of the person or agency to which disclosed, and the date of the disclosure.

(c) Accounting is not required to be kept for disclosure made pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act.

§ 708.12 Appeal of initial adverse ERDA determinations for access or amendment.

(a) If an individual's request, either for access or amendment of records made under procedures set forth in this part, is denied in whole or in part by the System Manager, as provided in section 708.8, the individual shall have the right to appeal such initial determination of denial to the ERDA Privacy Review Official; and the individual shall be notified of the System Manager's determination and the procedure for exercising the right of appeal therefrom.

(b) Appeals shall be filed by the requesting individual within 60 calendar days after receipt of the initial denial by written request mailed to the Privacy Act Administration Officer at ERDA Headquarters. Both the appeal letter and its covering envelope should be marked "Privacy Act Appeal" or otherwise so as to clearly identify that a Privacy Act appeal is being made. The 60 day time limit may be waived by the Privacy Review Official for good cause shown.

(c) Appeals shall be deemed to have been received on the date and time stamped thereon by the Privacy Act Administration Officer, at ERDA Headquarters.

(d) Upon receipt of an appeal, the Privacy Act Administration Officer at ERDA Headquarters, shall promptly so advise the Privacy Review Official and the System Manager responsible for the original denial. The System Manager shall arrange to have the appropriate records, including the initial written denial transmitted to the Privacy Review Official.

(e) Final determination of the Privacy Review Official of an appeal shall be completed within 30 working days from date of receipt of the appeal by the Privacy Act Administration Officer at Headquarters unless the Administrator determines that a fair and equitable review cannot be completed within that time. If additional time is required, the individual will be informed by the Privacy Review Official in writing of the reasons for the delay and of the date on which the review is expected to be completed.

(f) The Privacy Review Official shall consult with counsel prior to making a determination.

(g) If the Privacy Review Official determines that access to or amendment of the record is not warranted on the facts, he shall advise the individual of his refusal to authorize access or amendment, in whole or in part, and he shall advise the individual of his right to provide for the record a "statement of disagreement." The individual shall be advised also of his right to judicial review pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974.

(h) A statement of disagreement may be furnished by the individual within 30 calendar days of the date of his receipt of the notice of refusal of the Privacy Review Official to authorize access or amendment. Such statement of disagreement shall be addressed to Privacy Act Administration Officer, ERDA Headquarters, Washington, D.C. 20545. Upon receipt of a statement of disagreement in accordance with this section the System Manager shall include the statement in the system of records in which the disputed record is maintained, and he shall have the original record marked as to indicate that the record is subject to a statement of disagreement, and where, within the system of records, that statement may be found.

(i) When a record has been corrected or a statement of disagreement has been filed, the System Manager shall, promptly thereafter, advise all prior recipients of the record whose identity can be determined pursuant to the accounting required by the Privacy Act or any other accounting previously made of the correction or of the filing of the statement of disagreement. Any dissemination of a record after the filing of a statement of disagreement shall be accompanied by a copy of that statement and any statement of ERDA giving reasons for refusing to correct included in the file.

(j) Decisions of the Privacy Review Official shall be the final decisions of the Administrator.

§ 708.13 Specific exemptions.

(a) The Administrator may promulgate rules, in accordance with the requirements (including general notice) of sections 553(b) (1), (2), and (3), (c), and (e) of the Administrative Procedure Act to exempt any system of records within ERDA from subsections (c) (3), (d), (e) (1), (e) (4), (G), (H), (I), and (f) of section 3 of the Privacy Act, if the system of records is:

(1) ERDA records that are specifically authorized under criteria established under statute or an Executive Order to be kept secret in the interest of national defense or foreign policy, and are in fact properly classified pursuant to such Executive Order. Restricted Data and Formerly Restricted Data under the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, are included in this exemption.

(2) Investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes. Provided, however, that if any individual is denied any right, privilege, or benefit that he would otherwise be entitled by Federal law, or for which he would otherwise be eligible, as a result of the maintenance of such material, such material shall be provided to such individual, except to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence.

(3) Required by statute to be maintained and used solely as statistical records.

(4) Investigatory material compiled, solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications for Federal civilian employment, military service, Federal contracts, or access to classified information, but only to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence.

(5) Testing or examination material used solely to determine individual qualifications for appointment or promotion in the Federal Service the disclosure of which would compromise the objectivity or fairness of the testing or examination process.

(b) Establishing exemptions:

(1) It will be the responsibility of the System Manager of a system of records, all or a portion of which he feels should be exempted from certain of the provisions of the Privacy Act, to inform the Administrator through the Assistant Administrator for Administration of the need for such an exemption giving a description of the system of records, or portion thereof, which is to be exempt; a statement of the provision or provisions of the Privacy Act from which it is desired to exempt the system of records or portion thereof; and the reasons therefor.

(2) Before seeking any exemption for systems of records under § 708.13(a) (1), the System Manager shall consult with the cognizant representative of the Division of Classification, ERDA Headquarters.

(3) When the Administrator determines that a system of records or portion thereof maintained by ERDA should be exempted from certain of the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a, a notice shall be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER which specifies the name of the system of records involved, and the specific provisions of the Privacy Act from which the system of records or portion thereof is to be exempted and the reasons therefor.

(c) Prior to making a determination to deny access to a record in a system of records having an approved exemption for classified material (See § 708.13(a) (1)), the System Manager shall consult with the Division of Classification, or its field organization counterpart, to verify the current classification status of the information in the requested record.

§ 708.14 Establishment of new or revised systems of records.

(a) In designing or developing a proposed system of records the proposer of such system shall consider if:

(1) The system of records is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required to be accomplished by statute or by an Executive Order of the President.

(2) The information is collected to the greatest extent practicable directly from the subject individual when the information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits and privileges under Federal programs.

(b) The Assistant Administrator for Administration shall report the details of a new or revised system of records to the Office of Management and Budget and Congress to permit an evaluation of the privacy impact of the proposal and the impact on the system before the system can become operational. A copy also must be provided to the Privacy Protection Study Commission.

(c) A system notice shall be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for each new or revised system of records at least 30 calendar days before its effective date.

(d) The System Manager must assure that adequate administrative, technical and physical safeguards have been designed into the system of records to insure the security and confidentiality of the records as required by law.

§ 708.15 Fees.

(a) No charge shall be made for duplication of records when the cost is less than $10.

(b) No fee will be charged when ERDA makes a copy of a record as a necessary part of the process of making the record available for review as distinguished from responding to a request by an individual for a copy of a record.

(c) No charge shall be made to an individual for the time spent searching for requested records, or for time spent in reviewing records to determine if they fall within the requirements of the Act.

(d) When an individual requests copies of his record in cases other than above, the following charges shall apply:

(1) Sizes up to 8½x14 inches made on office copying machines—10 cents per page copy. Larger sizes—10 cents for each 8½x14 inch unit or fraction thereof per page copy.

(2) For copies made on other than office copying machines, the fee charged will be ERDA's direct cost of making the copy (printing, typing, or photocopying and related personnel and equipment costs).

(e) No records shall be made available to a requestor until the charges provided herein are paid in full. Checks, drafts, or other negotiable instruments shall be made payable to the Energy Research and Development Administration.

§ 708.16 Requests under false pretenses.

Title 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3) provides that any person who knowingly and willfully requests or obtains any record concerning an individual from an agency under false pretenses shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000.

§ 708.17 Employee standards of conduct with regard to privacy.

(a) Heads of Divisions and Offices, Headquarters, Directors of Energy Research Centers and Managers of Operations Offices shall assure that ERDA personnel subject to their supervision are advised of the provisions of the Privacy Act, including the criminal penalties and civil liabilities provided therein, and that such ERDA personnel are made aware of their responsibilities to protect the security of personal information, to assure its accuracy, relevance, timeliness and completeness, to avoid unauthorized disclosure either orally or in writing, and to insure that no system of records concerning individuals, no matter how small or specialized, is maintained without public notice.

(b) ERDA personnel shall:

(1) Collect no information of a personal nature from individuals unless authorized to collect it to achieve a function or carry out a responsibility of ERDA;

(2) Collect or maintain only that information about individuals which is necessary to ERDA functions or responsibilities;

(3) Collect information, wherever possible, directly from the individual to whom it relates;

(4) Inform individuals from whom information is collected of the authority for collection, the purposes thereof, the uses that will be made of the information, and the effects, both legal and practical, of not furnishing the information;

(5) Neither collect, maintain, use nor disseminate information concerning an individual's religious or political beliefs or activities or his membership in associations or organizations, unless (i) the individual has volunteered such information for his own benefit; (ii) the information is expressly authorized by statute to be collected, maintained, used or disseminated; or (iii) the activities involved are pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized investigation or adjudication activity;

(6) Advise their supervisors of the existence or contemplated development of any system of records which retrieves information about individuals by individual identifier;

(7) Maintain an accounting, in the prescribed form, of all disclosures of information to other than ERDA personnel, whether made orally or in writing;

(8) Disclose no information concerning individuals to other than ERDA personnel except when authorized by 5 U.S.C. 552a or pursuant to a routine use published in the FEDERAL REGISTER;

(9) Maintain and process information concerning individuals with care in order to insure that no inadvertent disclosure of the information is made to other than ERDA personnel; and

(10) Call to the attention of the proper ERDA authorities any information in a system maintained by ERDA which is not authorized to be maintained under the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, including information on First Amendment activities, information that is inaccurate, irrelevant or so incomplete as to risk unfairness to the individual concerned.

(c) Heads of Divisions and Offices, Headquarters, Directors of Energy Research Centers and Managers of Operations Offices shall, at least annually, review the system of records subject to their supervision to insure compliance with the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974.

§ 708.18 Publication of annual notices.

(a) A system notice of the existence and character of an ERDA system of records shall be published annually in the FEDERAL REGISTER in accordance with the format and rules prescribed by the General Services Administration, which notice shall include:

(1) The name and location(s) of the system;

(2) The categories of individuals on whom records are maintained in the system;

(3) The categories of records maintained in the system;

(4) Each routine use of the records contained in the system, including the categories of users and the purpose of such use;

(5) The policies and practices of ERDA regarding storage, retrievability, access controls, retention, and disposal of the records;

(6) The official title and business address of the official who is the System Manager responsible for the system of records; and

(7) The categories of sources of records in the system.

(b) At least 30 calendar days prior to the formal annual publication of information under paragraph (a) (4) (routine use or intended routine use of the information in the system, and shall provide an opportunity for interested persons to submit written data, views, or arguments to ERDA.

(c) In accordance with reporting requirements issued by the Office of Management and Budget, and following the publication of the initial notices of ERDA system of records existing on September 27, 1975, ERDA shall provide to Congress, the Office of Management and Budget, and the Privacy Protection Study Commission advance notice of any proposal to establish or alter any ERDA system of records.

§ 708.19 Requirements for annual report.

Each year, ERDA shall submit a report covering the preceding calendar year to the Office of Management and Budget for referral by the President to the Congress. The report shall include the information requested in instructions of and at the time specified by the Office of Management and Budget.

§ 708.20 Litigation.

In any instance in which ERDA or an ERDA employee is sued in connection with any requirement or responsibility under this part, the matter shall promptly be referred to the General Counsel together with a report on the details.

§ 708.21 Effect of Freedom of Information Act.

ERDA shall not rely on any exemption contained in the Freedom of Information

Act (5 U.S.C. 552(b)) to withhold from the individual to which it pertains, any record which is otherwise accessible to such individual under this part.

§ 708.22 Use and collection of social security numbers.

(a) The System Manager of each system of records which utilizes social security numbers as a method of identification without statutory authorization or authorization by regulation adopted prior to January 1, 1975, shall take steps to revise the system to avoid future collection and use of the social security numbers.

(b) Heads of Divisions and Offices, Directors of Energy Research Centers and Managers of Operations Offices shall take such measures as are necessary to insure that employees authorized to collect information from individuals are advised that individuals may not be required to furnish social security numbers without statutory or regulatory authorization, and that individuals who are requested to provide social security numbers voluntarily must be advised that furnishing the number is not required and that no penalty or denial of benefits will flow from the refusal to provide it.

§ 708.23 Exempted systems of records.

(a) The following ERDA systems of records are exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552a, (c) (3), (d), (e) (1), (e) (4) (G), (H), (I), and (f). These exemptions apply only to information in these systems which is exempt pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k) (1), (2) and (5):

(1) Alien Visits and Participation—ERDA (ERDA 1).

(2) Clearance Board Cases Administrative Review and Personnel—ERDA (ERDA 5).

(3) Security Correspondence File—ERDA (ERDA 8).

(4) Foreign Travel—ERDA (ERDA 19).
(5) Investigative Files—ERDA (ERDA 21).
(6) Legal Office—Claims, Litigations, Criminal Violation, Patents, and other Legal Files—ERDA (ERDA 23).
(7) Personnel Security Clearance Files—ERDA (ERDA 32).
(8) Personnel Security Clearance Files Index (Automated)—ERDA (ERDA 33).
(9) Special Access Authorization for Categories of Classified Information—ERDA (ERDA 36).

(b) The following systems of records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a, (c) (3), (d), (e) (1), (e) (4) (G), (H), (I), and (f). These exemptions apply only to information in these systems which is exempt pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k) (5) and (6):

(1) ERDA Personnel Applicant Records—ERDA (ERDA 12).

(2) ERDA Personnel-Supervisor Records—ERDA (ERDA 11).

(3) ERDA Personnel/General Employment Records—ERDA (ERDA 15).

§ 206.1 Purpose and scope.

(a) This part establishes the methods and procedures by which the Federal Energy Administration is implementing the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-579, 5 U.S.C. 552a). This part applies to all records maintained by FEA that contain personal information about an individual, identify that individual by name or identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular and are contained in a system of records from which such information is retrieved by the individual's name or identifying number, symbol or other identifying particular.

(b) Subject to the general and specific exemptions claimed by FEA in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or any exemptions provided by the Privacy Act of 1974 that are claimed by another agency, or unless otherwise provided by such Act and this part, this part prohibits FEA from disclosing any record that is contained in a system of records by any means of communication to any person or to another agency, except pursuant to a written request by or with the prior written consent of the individual to whom the record pertains.

§ 206.2 Definitions.

"Agency" means "agency" as defined in 5 U.S.C. 551(1) and includes any executive department, military department, Government corporation, Government controlled corporation, or other establishment in the executive branch of the Government (including the Executive Office of the President), or any independent regulatory agency. "Act" means the "Privacy Act of 1974," Pub. L. 93-579, 5 U.S.C. 552a.

"FEA" means the Federal Energy Administration, including the Administrator of FEA or his delegate, and when appropriate, includes persons under contract with FEA for the operation by or on behalf of FEA of a system of records to accomplish an FEA function, and employees of such person.

"Individual" means a living person who is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence. For purposes of this part, the parent of any minor, or the legal guardian of any individual who has been declared to be incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, may act on behalf of the individual.

"Legal public holiday" means New Year's Day, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, and any other day appointed as a national holiday by the President or the Congress of the United States.

"Maintain" includes maintain, collect, use or disseminate.

"Records" means any item, collection, or grouping of information about an individual that is maintained by the FEA in a system of records, or, if appropriate, another agency including, but not limited to, his education, financial transactions, medical history, and criminal or employment history and that contains his name, or the identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual, such as a finger or voice print or a photograph.

"Routine use" means, with respect to the disclosure of a record, the use of such record for a purpose that is compatible with the purpose for which it was collected.

"System of records" means a group of any records under the control of the FEA or, if appropriate, another agency from which information is retrieved by the name of the individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual.

"Statistical record" means a record in a system of records maintained for statistical research or reporting purposes only and not used in whole or in part in making any determination about an identifiable individual except as provided by section 8 of title 13, United States Code.

Throughout this part, the use of a word or term in the singular shall include the plural and the use of the male gender shall include the female gender.

§ 206.3 Procedures for requesting information about or for access to an individual's records in a system of records.

(a) Any individual may request information regarding whether a system of records maintained by the FEA contains any information pertaining to him, and may request access to his record or to any information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records, unless such access has been restricted by a general or specific exemption claimed by FEA, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or by another agency. All such requests shall be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, Washington, D.C. 20461, or to the Privacy Act Officer at the FEA Regional Offices, at the addresses listed in § 206.18. The consideration by FEA of requests submitted by mail will be facilitated if the envelope in which the request is mailed has the words "PRIVACY ACT REQUEST" in capital letters on the front of it.

(b) (1) A request for information about a record or for access to a record or to information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records may be made by mail or in person during FEA's regular business hours.

(2) The regular business hours of the FEA National Office are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Requests made in person should be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C., or to the Privacy Act Officer at the FEA Regional Offices, at the addresses listed in § 206.18.

(c) (1) The request, whether by mail or in person, shall be in writing and signed by the individual making the request and include (i) the full name (including the middle name) of the individual seeking the information or record, his home address and telephone number, his business address and telephone number; (ii) a certified or authenticated copy of documents establishing parentage or legal guardianship, if appropriate, and (iii) if the waiver of an exemption, as provided in § 206.15 (a) and (c), is sought in accordance with the procedures stated in such section, a statement of the grounds on which such waiver is sought.

(2) In addition, the request should (i) specify the title and identifying number of the system of records, which appears in the notice of systems published in the FEDERAL REGISTER by the FEA; (ii) provide such additional identifying information, if any, as may be required by the description of the system contained in the notice or as will assist FEA in responding to the request, e.g., location of the record as stated in the FEDERAL REGISTER; and (iii) describe the information sought or the time, place, or form of access, as appropriate.

(d) Any request not addressed and marked as specified in paragraph (a) of this section shall be forwarded immediately to the Privacy Act Officer. A request that is improperly addressed by an individual shall not have been "received" for purposes of measuring time periods in this section until actual receipt by the Privacy Act Officer. In each instance when a request so forwarded is received by the Privacy Act Officer, the individual making the request shall be notified that the request was improperly addressed and the date when the request was received by the Privacy Act Officer.

(e) When access to a record or information pertaining to the individual that is contained in a system of records is requested, the individual either will be notified in writing where and when he may obtain access to the records requested or, if further arrangements are required, will be given the name, address and telephone number of the person at FEA responsible for such arrangements.

(f) Assistance in preparing a request for information about a record or for access to a record or to information pertaining to the individual that is contained in a system of records may be obtained from the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C., 20461.

§ 206.4 Procedures for identifying the individual making the request.

(a) When a request for information about or for access to a record or to information pertaining to an individual that is contained in a system of records has been made pursuant to § 206.3, the FEA shall require reasonable identification of the individual making the request before information will be given or access will be granted, to insure that information is given or records are disclosed only to the proper person.

(b) Subject to paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section, an individual making a request may establish his identity by:

(1) Including with his request if submitted by mail, a photocopy of two identifying documents bearing his name and signature, one of which shall bear his current home or business address; or

(2) Appearing at the FEA National Office or appropriate Regional Office during the regular business hours and presenting either of the following:

(i) One identifying document bearing his photograph and signature, such as a driver's license or passport; or

(ii) Two identifying documents bearing his name and signature, one of which shall bear his current home or business address; or

(3) Providing such other proof of identity as the FEA deems satisfactory in the circumstances of a particular request.

(c) If the Privacy Act Officer or other designated FEA official determines that the information in the record is so sensitive that unauthorized access could cause harm or embarrassment to the individual whose record is involved, or if the individual making the request is unable to produce satisfactory evidence of identity under paragraph (b) of this section, the individual making the request may be required to submit a notarized statement attesting to his identity and that he is familiar with and understands the criminal penalties provided under section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code for making false statements to a Government agency and under section 552a(1)(3) of the Act for obtaining records under false pretenses. Copies of these statutory provisions and forms of such notarized statements may be obtained upon request from the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20461.

(d) Parents of minors and legal guardians. (1) An individual acting as the parent of a minor or the legal guardian of the individual to whom a record pertains shall establish his personal identity in the same manner prescribed in either paragraphs (b) or (c) of this section. (A parent or legal guardian may act only for a living individual, not for a decedent.)

(2) In addition to such identification, such person shall establish his identity in the representative capacity of parent or legal guardian. In the case of the parent of a minor, the proof of identity shall be a certified or authenticated copy of the minor's birth certificate. In the case of a legal guardian of an individual who has been declared incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, the proof of identity shall be a certified or authenticated copy of the order from a court of competent jurisdiction.

(e) An individual shall not be required to state a reason or otherwise justify his request for information about or for access to a record or to information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records.

§ 206.5 Disclosure of requested information to individuals.

(a) Each request for information about or for access to a record or to information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records shall be acted upon promptly. Every effort will be made to respond within ten days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) of the date of receipt. If a response cannot be made within ten days due to unusual circumstances, FEA shall send an acknowledgment during that period providing information on the status of the request and asking for such further information as may be necessary to respond to the request. The term "unusual circumstances" as used in this section shall include circumstances where a search for and collection of requested records from inactive storage, field facilities or other establishments are required, cases where a voluminous amount of data is involved, instances where information on other individuals must be separated or expunged from the particular record, and cases where consultations with other agencies having a substantial interest in the determination of the request is necessary.

(b) (1) Any individual who has requested access to a record or to information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records, other than medical records, in the manner prescribed in § 206.3, and has identified himself as prescribed in § 206.4, shall be permitted to review the record or information and have a copy made of all or any portion thereof in a form comprehensible to him upon payment of the fee, if applicable, for copying services set forth in § 206.17, unless such information or access is denied on the grounds stated in paragraph (e) of this section. Upon the request of an individual, a person of the individual's own choosing may accompany him to review the record at FEA, but the individual shall first furnish to the Privacy Act Officer a written statement authorizing discussion of that individual's record in the accompanying person's presence.

(2) The special procedures pertaining to requests for information about or access to the individual's medical records are stated in paragraph (f) of this section.

(c) Where record of a document containing information about an individual also contains information not pertaining to him, the portion not pertaining to the individual shall not be disclosed, except to the extent the information is available to any person under the Freedom of Information Act. If the record sought cannot be provided for review and copying in a meaningful form, the FEA shall provide to the individual a report of the information pertaining to the individual that is contained in the record which report shall be complete and accurate in all material aspects.

(d) Grant of access—(1) Notification. An individual shall be provided information about or granted access to a record or information pertaining to him that is contained in the system of records, unless the request has been denied in accordance with paragraph (e) of this section. The Privacy Act Officer shall notify the individual of such determination and provide the following information:

(i) Whether there is a record or information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records;

(ii) The methods of access, as set forth in paragraph (d)(2) of this section;

(iii) The place at which the record or information may be inspected;

(iv) The earliest date on which the record or information may be inspected and the period of time that the record or information will remain available for inspection (In no event shall the "earliest date" be later than thirty days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) from the date of notification.);

(v) The estimated date by which a copy of the record could be mailed and the estimate of fees that would be charged to provide other than the first copy of the record, pursuant to § 206.17 (In no event shall the "estimated date" be later than thirty days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) from the date of notification.);

(vi) The fact that the individual, if he wishes, may be accompanied by another person during the in-person review of the record or information, subject to the procedures set forth in paragraph (b) of this section; and

(vii) Any additional requirements that must be satisfied in order to provide information about or to grant access to the requested record or information.

(2) Methods of access. The following methods of access to records or information pertaining to an individual that is contained in a system of records may be available to that individual depending on the circumstances of a particular request:

(i) Inspection in person may be had in the office specified by FEA during the regular business hours;

(ii) Transfer of records to a Federal facility more convenient to the individual may be arranged, but only if FEA determines that a suitable facility is available, that the individual's access can be properly supervised at that facility, and that transmittal of the records or information to that facility will not unduly interfere with operations of the FEA or involve unreasonable costs, in terms of both money and manpower; and

(iii) The requested number of copies may be mailed at the request of the individual, subject to payment of the fees prescribed in § 206.17.

(e) Initial denial of access. (This section does not apply to the denial of a request for waiver of an exemption made in accordance with § 206.15(a) and (c).)

(1) Grounds. A request by an individual for information about or access to a record or information pertaining to that individual that is contained in a system of records may be denied only upon a determination by the Privacy Act Officer that:

(i) The Record is subject to an exemption under §§ 206.14 or 206.15, or to an exemption claimed by another agency; or

(ii) The record is information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding; or

(iii) The individual unreasonably has failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(2) Notification. The Privacy Act Officer shall give written notice of the denial of a request for information about or access to records or information pertaining to the individual that is contained in a system of records, which notice shall include the following information:

(i) The Privacy Act Officer's name, and title or position;

(ii) The date of the denial;

(iii) The reasons for the denial, including citation to the appropriate section of the Act and this part; and

(iv) The individual's right to judicial review under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(B), as limited by § 552a(g)(5).

(f) Special procedures for medical records—(1) Statement of physician or mental health professional. When an individual requests access to records or information pertaining to him that include medical and/or psychological information, the FEA, if it deems it necessary under the particular circumstances, may require the individual to submit with the request a signed statement by his physician or a mental health professional indicating that, in his view, disclosure of the requested records or information directly to the individual will not have an adverse effect on the individual.

(2) Designation of physician or mental health professional to receive records. If the FEA believes, in good faith, that disclosure of medical and/or psychological information directly to an individual could have an adverse effect on that individual, the individual may be asked to designate in writing a physician or mental health professional to whom he would like the records to be disclosed, and disclosure that otherwise would be made to the individual will instead be made to the designated physician or mental health professional.

(g) The FEA shall supply such other information and assistance at the time of an individual's review of his record as is necessary to make the record intelligible to the individual.

(h) The FEA reserves the right to limit access to copies and abstracts of original records instead of the original records. This election would be appropriate, for example, when the record is in an automated data media such as tape or disc, when the record contains information on or about individuals, and when deletion of information is permissible under exemptions provided by the Act. In no event shall original records of the FEA be made available to the individual except under the immediate supervision of the Privacy Act Officer or his designee. Title 18, United States Code, section 2701(a) makes it a crime to conceal, mutilate, obliterate, or destroy any record filed in a public office, or to attempt to do any of the foregoing.

(i) Nothing in this section shall:

(1) Require the disclosure of records in systems of records subject to an exemption under §§ 206.14 or 206.15 or to an exemption claimed by another agency;

(2) Allow an individual access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding or a criminal proceeding; or

(3) Require the furnishing of information or records that cannot be retrieved by the name or by some other identifying number, symbol or identifying particular of the individual making the request.

§ 206.6 Disclosure to other agencies, or persons other than the individual to whom the record pertains.

(a) The FEA shall not disclose to any agency or to any person other than the individual who is the subject of the record, by any means of communication, a record pertaining to that individual that is contained in a system of records, except under the following circumstances:

(1) The individual to whom the record pertains has given his written consent to the disclosure or has made a written request for such disclosure;

(2) The disclosure is to officers and employees of the FEA who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties;

(3) The disclosure is required under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552);

(4) The disclosure is for a routine use as defined in § 206.2 and described in the FEDERAL REGISTER notice for that system of records;

(5) The disclosure is made to the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of Title 13 of the United States Code;

(6) The disclosure is made to a recipient who has provided the agency with advance adequate written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable;

(7) The disclosure is made to the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value;

(8) The disclosure is made to another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to the FEA specifying the particular portion desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought;

(9) The disclosure is made to a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual;

(10) The disclosure is made to either House of Congress, or, to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee;

(11) The disclosure is made to the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office;

(12) The disclosure is made pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction; or

(13) The disclosure is required by the Act and not covered explicitly by 5 U.S.C. 552a(b).

(b) The situations referred to in paragraph (a)(13) of this section include the following:

(1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(4) requires dissemination of a corrected or amended record or notation of a disagreement statement by the FEA in certain circumstances;

(2) Section 5(e)(2) of the Act authorizes release of any records or information by the FEA to the Privacy Protection Study Commission upon request of the Chairman; and

(3) Section 6 of the Act authorizes the Office of Management and Budget to provide the FEA with continuing oversight and assistance in implementation of the Act, which may necessitate the release of records or information to that office.

(c) (1) For each system of records under its control, except disclosures made with the consent of the individual to whom the record pertains, disclosures to authorized officers and employees of FEA and disclosures required by the Freedom of Information Act, FEA shall keep an accurate accounting of:

(i) The date, nature, and purposes of each disclosure of a record made to any person or to another agency; and

(ii) The name and address of the person or agency to which the disclosure was made.

(2) The accounting shall be retained for at least five years or the life of the record, whichever is longer, after the disclosure for which the accounting is made.

(d) The accounting described in paragraph (c) of this section shall be made available to the individual named in the record upon written request to the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20461, except that the accounting shall not be revealed with respect to disclosures made under paragraph (a)(8) of this section, pertaining to law enforcement activity, and to disclosures involving systems of records for which FEA has claimed an exemption from certain requirements of the Act, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or with respect to which another agency has claimed an exemption.

(e) Whenever an amendment or correction of a record or a notation of dispute concerning the accuracy of records is made by the FEA in accordance with §§ 206.8 and 206.9, FEA shall inform any person or other agency to whom the record was previously disclosed if an accounting of the disclosure was made pursuant to the requirements of paragraph (c) of this section, unless the disclosure was made pursuant to paragraph (a)(8) of this section or the disclosure involved a system of records for which FEA has claimed an exemption from certain requirements of the Act, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or with respect to which another agency has claimed an exemption.

(f) The FEA shall make reasonable efforts to serve notice on an individual when any record containing information about such individual in a FEA system of records is made available to any person under compulsory legal process when such process becomes a matter of public record.

(g) Prior to disclosing any record about an individual to any person other than an agency, unless the disclosure is pursuant to paragraph (a)(3) of this section, FEA shall make reasonable efforts to assure that such records are accurate, complete, timely, and relevant for FEA's purposes.

§ 206.7 Request for correction or amendment of a record.

(a)(1) Any individual may request the correction or amendment of information pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records maintained by the FEA (i) if he believes such information is not relevant or not necessary to accomplish a purpose that FEA is required to accomplish by statute or by executive order of the President, or (ii) if the information is to be used by FEA in making any determination about the individual if he believes such information is not as accurate, relevant, timely or complete as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness in any determination about the individual.

(2) A request for amendment or correction may be made by mail or in person and shall be directed to the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20461, or to the Privacy Act Officer at the FEA Regional Offices, at the addresses listed in § 206.18. Requests made in person must be submitted during the regular business hours of the FEA National Office or Regional Office, which for the National Office are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. If the request is submitted by mail the envelope in which the request is mailed should have the words "PRIVACY ACT REQUEST AMENDMENT" in capital letters on the front of it.

(b) (1) A request for correction or amendment shall (i) be in writing and signed by the person making the request; (ii) describe the particular record to be corrected or amended with sufficient specificity to permit the record to be located among those maintained by FEA, including, if possible, the title, identifying number, and location of the system of records, as stated in the Notice of Systems of Records published in the FEDERAL REGISTER; and (iii) specify the nature of the correction or amendment sought, including the specific words to be deleted from the record or added to it, as appropriate, and the justification for the requested change, including all available supporting documents and materials that substantiate the statement. The statement of justification for the change should identify the basis for the request, that is, whether the information in the record is unnecessary, inaccurate, irrelevant, untimely or incomplete.

(2) The individual making the request may be required to provide the information specified in § 206.3 and § 206.4 to simplify identification of the record and permit verification of the identity of the person making the request.

(c) (1) Receipt of a request for correction or amendment shall be acknowledged in writing within ten days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays), except that if the individual is, given notice within the ten-day period that his request will or will not be complied with, no acknowledgement is required.

(2) The acknowledgement shall contain an estimate of the time within which action will be taken on the request and, if necessary, shall request such additional information as may be necessary to act on the request. The estimate of time may take into account unusual circumstances that will delay the response. "Unusual circumstances" as used in this section shall include circumstances where a search for and collection of requested records from inactive storage, field facilities or other establishments are required, cases where a voluminous amount of data is involved, instances where information on other individuals must be separated or expunged from the particular record, and cases where consultations with other agencies having a substantial interest in the determination of the request are necessary.

(3) Any request not addressed and mailed as specified in paragraph (a) of this section shall be forwarded immediately to the Privacy Act Officer. A request that is improperly addressed by an individual shall not have been "received" for purposes of measuring time periods in this section until actual receipt by the Privacy Act Officer.

In each instance when a request so forwarded is received by the Privacy Act Officer, the individual making the request shall be notified that the request was improperly addressed and the date when the request was received by the Privacy Act Officer.

(d) Assistance in preparing a request to correct or amend a record may be obtained from the Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, D.C. 20461.

§ 206.8 FEA review of request for correction or amendment of record.

(a) Within 30 days after acknowledging receipt of a request (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays), or after receiving such further information as may have been requested by FEA, or after arriving at a decision within the ten days, the Privacy Act Officer shall either:

(1) Make the requested correction or amendment and advise the individual in writing of such action, providing either a copy of the corrected or amended record, or a statement as to the means whereby the correction or amendment was accomplished in cases where a copy cannot be provided (for example, erasure of information from a record maintained only in an electronic data bank); or,

(2) Inform the individual in writing that his request is denied and provide the following information:

(i) The Privacy Act Officer's name and title and position;

(ii) The date of the denial;

(iii) The reasons for the denial, including citation to the appropriate sections of the Act and this part; and

(iv) The procedures for appeal of the denial of a request for correction or amendment as set forth in § 206.9, including the name and address of the FEA Office or official with the responsibility for considering appeals.

(3) If the Privacy Act Officer cannot make the determination within thirty days, the individual will be advised in writing of the reason therefor and of the estimated date by which the determination will be made.

(b) Whenever an individual's record is corrected or amended pursuant to a request by that individual, the Privacy Act Officer shall notify all persons and agencies to which the corrected or amended portion of the record had been disclosed prior to its correction or amendment, if an accounting of such disclosure required by the Act was made. The notification shall require a recipient agency maintaining the record to acknowledge receipt of the notification, to correct or amend the record and to apprise any agency or person to which it had disclosed the record of the substance of the correction or amendment.

(c) The following criteria will be considered by the Privacy Act Officer in running a request for correction or amendment.

(1) The sufficiency of the evidence submitted by the individual;

(2) The factual accuracy of the information;

(3) The relevance and necessity of the information in relation to the purpose for which it was collected;

(4) If such information is used in making any determination about the individual, whether the information is as accurate relevant, timely, and complete as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in such determination;

(5) The degree of possibility that denial of the request could unfairly result in determinations adverse to the individual;

(6) The nature of the record sought to be corrected or amended; and,

(7) The propriety and feasibility of complying with the specific means of correction or amendment requested by the individual.

(d) The FEA will not undertake to gather evidence for the individual but does reserve the right to verify the evidence that the individual submits.

(e) Correction or amendment of a record requested by an individual shall be denied only upon a determination by the Privacy Act Officer that:

(1) The individual has failed to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, the propriety of the correction or amendment in relation to the criteria stated in paragraph (c) of this section;

(2) The record sought to be corrected or amended was compiled in a terminated judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual was a party or participant;

(3) The record sought to be corrected or amended is the subject of a pending judicial, quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative proceeding to which the individual is a party or participant.

(4) The correction or amendment would violate a duly enacted statute or promulgated regulation; or,

(5) The individual unreasonably has failed to comply with the procedural requirements of this part.

(f) If a request is partially granted and partially denied, the Privacy Act officer shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and the records within the denial.

§ 206.9 Appeals of denial of requests for correction or amendment of a record.

(a)(1) Any individual may appeal the denial of a request made by him for correction or amendment of a record issued pursuant to § 206.8.

(2) An appeal shall be filed within 30 days after the service of the denial.

When an appeal is filed by mail, the postmark is conclusive as to timeliness. (Service by FEA of the denial of a request may be by personal service or by registered, certified or regular United States Mail. Service upon an individual's duly authorized representative shall constitute service upon the individual.)

(b)(1) The appeal shall be in writing and shall be filed with the Office of Exceptions and Appeals, Federal Energy Administration, Washington, D.C. 20461. The consideration by FEA of appeals submitted by mail will be facilitated if the envelope in which the appeal is mailed has the words "PRIVACY ACT APPEAL" in capital letters on the front of it.

(2) An appeal not addressed and marked as specified in paragraph (b)(1) of this section shall be forwarded immediately to the Office of Exceptions and Appeals, an appeal that is not properly addressed by an individual shall not have been "received" for purposes of measuring the time periods in this section until actual receipt of the appeal by the Office of Exceptions and Appeals. In each instance when an appeal so forwarded is received, the individual filing the appeal shall be notified that the appeal was improperly addressed and the date when the appeal was received by the Office of Exceptions and Appeals.

(c) Content of appeal. (1) The appeal shall include the following: (i) A copy of the original request for correction or amendment; (ii) a copy of the initial denial; and (iii) a statement of the reasons why the initial denial is believed to be in error. The appeal shall be in writing and shall be signed by the individual.

(2) The record requested to be corrected or amended will be supplied to the Office of Exceptions and Appeals by the Privacy Act Officer who issued the initial denial. While such record normally will comprise the entire record on appeal, the Office of Exceptions and Appeals may seek such additional information as is necessary to assure that the final determination is fair and equitable and, in those such instances, the additional information will be disclosed to the individual making the appeal and, consistent with the time periods provided in paragraph (e) of this section, an opportunity will be provided for comment thereon.

(3) If an appeal is partially granted and partially denied, the Office of Exceptions and Appeals shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and the records within the denial.

(4) Although a copy of the final determination or a summary thereof will be treated as part of the individual's record for purposes of disclosure in instances where the individual has filed a disagreement statement, it will not be subject to correction or amendment by the individual.

(5) The FEA shall maintain in its records only such information about an individual as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose FEA is required to accomplish by statute or by the reason for the extension. the notice of extension shall include the estimated day by which a final determination will be issued, which shall not be later than the sixtieth day (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays) after receipt of the appeal unless unusual circumstances, as defined in § 206.7(c)(2), are present.

(f) If the appeal is granted, that determination shall include the specific corrections or amendments to be made and a copy thereof shall be transmitted promptly both to the individual and to the Privacy Act Officer who issued the initial denial. Upon receipt of that determination, the Privacy Act Officer promptly shall take the actions set forth in §§ 206.6(e) and 206.8(b).

(g) If the appeal is denied, the final determination shall be transmitted promptly to the individual and shall state the reasons for the denial. The notice of that determination also shall include the following information:

(1) The right of the individual to file with the Office of Exceptions and Appeals a concise signed statement of reasons for disagreeing with the final determination, receipt of which statement shall be acknowledged by the Office of Exceptions and Appeals;

(2) The fact that any such disagreement statement filed by the individual shall be noted in the disputed record and that a copy of the statement shall be provided by the Privacy Act Officer to persons and agencies to which the record is disclosed subsequent to the date of receipt of such statement;

(3) The fact that the FEA shall append to any such disagreement statement filed by the individual a copy of the final determination or summary thereof that also will be provided to persons and agencies to which the disagreement statement is disclosed; and,

(4) The right of the individual to judicial review of the final determination under 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(A), as limited by 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(5).

(h) In deciding the appeal, the Office of Exceptions and Appeals shall determine whether the denial of the request was erroneous in fact or in law.

(i) If an appeal is partially granted and partially denied, the Office of Exceptions and Appeals shall follow the appropriate procedures of this section as to the records within the grant and the records within the denial.

(j) Although a copy of the final determination or a summary thereof will be treated as part of the individual's record for purposes of disclosure in instances where the individual has filed a disagreement statement, it will not be subject to correction or amendment by the individual.

executive order of the President, unless an exemption to this requirement has been claimed by FEA, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or by another agency.

(b) The FEA shall maintain no record describing how any individual exercises rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless expressly authorized by statute or by the individual about whom the record is maintained or unless pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity.

(c) The FEA shall maintain all records that are used by it in making any determination about any individual with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in such determination.

§ 206.11 Collection of information by FEA about an individual for a system of records.

(a) The FEA shall collect information, to the greatest extent practicable, directly from the subject individual when the information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits and privileges under Federal programs, unless an exemption from the Act to this requirement has been claimed by FEA as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or by another agency.

(b) Unless an exemption from the Act has been claimed by FEA, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or by another agency, FEA shall inform each individual whom it asks to supply information by a statement on the form or other means by which it uses to collect the information, or on a separate form that can be retained by the individual, of the following:

(1) The authority (whether granted by statute or by executive order of the President) that authorizes the solicitation of the information and whether disclosure of such information is mandatory or voluntary;

(2) The principal purpose or purposes for which the information is intended to be used;

(3) The routine uses that may be made of the information, as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER pursuant to the requirements of the Act; and

(4) The effect on him, if any, of not providing all or any part of the requested information.

§ 206.12 Public notice of systems of records.

(a)(1) The FEA shall publish in the FEDERAL REGISTER at least annually a notice of the existence and character of each of its system of records, which notice shall include:

(i) The name and location of the system;

(ii) The categories of individuals on whom records are maintained in the system;

(iii) The categories of records maintained in the system;

(iv) Each routine use of the records contained in the system, including the categories of users and the purpose of such use, subject to paragraph (c) of this section:

(v) The policies and practices of the FEA regarding storage, retrievability, access controls, retention, and disposal of the records;

(vi) The title and business address of the FEA official who is responsible for the system of records;

(vii) The procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request if the system of records contains a record pertaining to him;

(viii) The procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request how he can gain access to any record pertaining to him contained in the system of records, and how he can contest its content; and

(ix) The categories of sources of records in the system.

(2) Notwithstanding the requirements of paragraph (a)(1) of this section, the notice of such systems of records shall not include the information in paragraphs (a)(1)(vii)-(ix) of this section if FEA has claimed a general or specific exemption from the requirements of the Act, as provided in §§ 206.14 and 206.15, or such exemptions have been claimed by another agency.

(b) Copies of the notices as printed in the FEDERAL REGISTER shall be available in the FEA National Office and in each Regional Office. Locations of the Regional offices are listed in § 206.18. Requests by mail should be sent to Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, Washington, D.C. 20461. The first copy will be furnished free of charge. A charge reflecting the costs of printing and handling may be made for each additional copy.

(c) At least 30 days (including Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) prior to the implementation of any new routine use of a record in a system of records, or at least 30 days prior to publication of the annual notice of such routine uses, as provided in paragraph (a)(1) of this section, FEA shall publish in the FEDERAL REGISTER notice of any new routine use or intended routine use of a record in the system of records, and shall provide an opportunity for interested persons to submit written comments consisting of data, views, or arguments regarding such use to FEA.

§ 206.13 Criminal penalties.

(a) The Act provides, in pertinent part, that: Any person who knowingly and willfully requests or obtains any record concerning an individual from an agency under false pretenses shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000. (5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3))

(b) A person who falsely or fraudulently attempts to obtain records under the Act also may be subject to prosecution under such other criminal statutes as 18 U.S.C. 494, 495, and 1001.

§ 206.14 General exemptions. [Reserved]

§ 206.15 Specific exemptions.

The specific exemptions determined to be necessary and proper with respect to systems of records maintained by the FEA, including the parts of each system to be exempted, the provisions of the Act from which they are exempted, and the justification for the exemption are as follows:

(a)(1) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2). The systems of records exempt are:

(i) FEA-1: FEA Personnel Records and Management Information System (only personnel investigative records concerning current and former FEA employees and applicants for employment by FEA);

(ii) FEA-6: Personnel Security Records (only the memoranda specifically identified as OS forms DPA 24 and 24A); and

(iii) FEA-7: Investigative Report Records (only investigative report records concerning current and former FEA employees and applicants for employment by FEA).

(2) The foregoing are exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) (accounting of disclosures), (d) (access to records), and (e)(1) (type of information maintained). The reasons for asserting the exemption are to prevent subjects of investigation from frustrating the investigatory process, to insure the proper functioning and integrity of law enforcement activities, to prevent disclosure of investigative techniques and to maintain the ability to obtain necessary information.

(3)(i) Notwithstanding the exemption from the Act's requirement that FEA upon request, provide an individual with information about or access to his record or to any information pertaining to him that is contained in the systems of records identified in paragraphs (a)(1) (i), (ii) and (iii) of this section, access to investigatory materials compiled for law enforcement purposes shall be provided to an individual upon his request, made in accordance with § 206.3, if such individual is denied any right, privilege, or benefit that he would otherwise be entitled to by Federal law, or for which he would otherwise be eligible, as a result of the maintenance of such material by the FEA, except to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence.

(ii) Waiver of exemption. (A) FEA may, upon request filed in accordance with § 206.3, waive the exemption from the requirement to grant access with respect to any record in the systems of records identified in paragraphs (a)(1)(i), (ii) and (iii) of this section, subject to the limitation as to records that would reveal the identity of certain sources as stated in paragraph

(a)(3)(iii)(B) of this section, for good cause shown. The exercise of FEA's discretion with respect to waiver of the exemption shall be final.

(B) FEA may, upon request made in accordance with § 206.3, waive the exemption from the requirement to grant access with respect to records identified in paragraphs (a)(1)(i), (ii) and (iii) of this section containing material or information that would reveal the identity of a source who was given an assurance of confidentiality if such source consents to the release of such material or information to the individual, or if FEA determines that such material or information is not adverse or detrimental to the individual, or for good cause shown. The exercise of FEA's discretion with respect to waiver of the exemption shall be final.

(b)(1) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(4). The system of records exempt is the FEA-10 Minority Group Data File.

(2) The foregoing is exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) (accounting of disclosures), (d) (access to records), and (f) (procedures for access). The system of records is used for statistical research or reporting purposes only and is not used in whole or in part in making any determination about the rights, benefits or entitlements identifiable with the individual, except as provided by section 8 of title 18 of the United States Code.

(c)(1) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5). The systems of records exempt are:

(i) FEA-1: FEA Personnel Records and Management Information System (only personnel investigative records concerning current and former FEA employees and applicants for employment by FEA);

(ii) FEA-6: Personnel Security Records (only the memoranda identified as OS forms DPS 24 and 24A); and

(iii) FEA-7: Investigative Report Record (only investigative report records concerning current and former FEA employees and applicants for employment by FEA).

(2) The foregoing are exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552(c)(3) (accounting of disclosures), (d) (access to records), and (e)(1) (type of information maintained); but only to the extent that the disclosure of the investigatory materials would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence. The reasons for asserting the exemption are to maintain the ability to obtain candid and necessary information, to fulfill commitments made to sources to protect the confidentiality of information, to avoid endangering these sources and, ultimately to facilitate proper selection or continuance of the best applicants or persons for a given position or contract.

(3) Waiver of exemption. FEA, may, upon request made in accordance with § 206.3, waive the exemption from the requirement to grant access to records identified in paragraphs (c)(1)(i), (ii) and (iii) of this section containing material or information that would reveal the identity of a source who was given an assurance of confidentiality if such source consents to the release of such material or information to the individual, or if FEA determines that such material or information is not adverse or detrimental to the individual, or for good cause shown. The exercise of FEA's discretion with respect to the waiver of the exemption shall be final.

§ 206.16 Fees.

(a) The only fees to be charged to or collected from an individual under the provisions of this part are for copying records at the request of the individual. The fee charged may not exceed the direct cost of making the copy (i.e., printing, typing, or photocopy and related personnel and equipment costs).

(1) No fees shall be charged or collected for the following: search for and retrieval of the records review of the records, copying by the FEA incident to granting access, copying at the initiative of the FEA without a request from the individual, transportation of records and personnel, and first class postage.

(2) It is the policy of the FEA to provide an individual with one copy of each record corrected or amended pursuant to request without charge.

(3) As required by the United States Civil Service Commission in its published regulations implementing the Act, the FEA will charge no fee for a single copy of a personnel record covered by that Commission's Government-wide published notice of systems of records.

(b) The schedule of fees is as follows:

(1) $0.10 per each copy of each page, when the aggregate of fees for copying is more than $3.00.

(2) For other forms of copying and other forms of materials (e.g., cassettes, computer materials), the direct cost of the materials, personnel, and equipment, shall be charged, but only with prior specific approval of the person making the request.

(c) The FEA may, upon application by an individual, furnish any records without charge or at a reduced rate, if it determines that such waiver or reduction of fee is in the public interest.

(d) Requests for copies of documents should be addressed to Privacy Act Officer, Federal Energy Administration, Washington, D.C., 20461, or to the Privacy Act Officer at the FEA Regional Offices, at the addresses listed in § 206.18.

(e) Payment should be made by check or money order payable to the Treasury of the United States.

(f) Advance payment of all or part of the fee may be required at the discretion of the FEA. Unless the individual requesting the copies specifically states that he is willing to pay whatever fees are assessed by FEA for meeting the request or alternatively specifies an amount in excess of $25 that he is willing to pay and which in fact covers the anticipated fees for meeting the request, a request that is expected to involve assessed fees in excess of $25 shall not be deemed to have been received, for purposes of the time periods specified in §§ 206.5(a), 206.7(c)(1) and 206.9(e), until the individual making the request is advised of the anticipated cost, agrees to bear it, and makes any advance deposit required. Such notification shall be made by the Privacy Act Officer promptly upon receipt of the request.

§ 206.17 Exceptions, exemptions and interpretations, rulings and rulemaking.

(a) Applications for exceptions, exemptions or requests for interpretations relating to this part shall be filed in accordance with the procedures provided in Subparts D, E and F, respectively, of Part 205 of this chapter. Rulings shall be issued in accordance with the procedures of Subpart K of Part 205 of this chapter. Rulemakings shall be undertaken in accordance with the procedures provided in Subpart L of Part 205 of this chapter.

(b) As used in this section, the term—

"Exception" means the waiver or modification of the requirements of a regulation, ruling or generally applicable requirement under a specific set of facts.

"Exemption" means the release from the obligation to comply with an entire part, or subpart thereof, of Part 206 of this chapter.

"Interpretation" means a written statement issued by the FEA General Counsel, in response to a written request, that applies the regulations, rulings, and other precedents previously issued by the FEA to the particular facts of a prospective or completed act or transaction.

"Ruling" means an official interpretative statement of general applicability issued by the FEA General Counsel and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER that applies the FEA regulations to a specific set of circumstances.

Title 39—Postal Service

CHAPTER I—UNITED STATES POSTAL SERVICE

PART 261—RECORDS AND INFORMATION MANAGEMENT

Sec.
261.1 Purposes and scope.
261.2 Authority.
261.3 Policy.
261.4 Responsibility.

AUTHORITY: 39 U.S.C. 401.

§ 261.1 Purpose and scope.

As a result of the Postal Reorganization Act, 39 U.S.C. 410, the United States Postal Service is no longer subject to the provisions of the Federal Records Act of 1950, or any of its supporting regulations which provide for the conduct of records management in Federal agencies. The objective of Parts 261 through 268 is to provide the basis for a Postal Service-wide records and information management program affecting all organizational components having the custody of any form of information and records.

§ 261.2 Authority.

(a) 39 U.S.C. 401(5) states that the Postal Service has the power to acquire property it deems necessary or convenient in the transaction of its business and to hold, maintain, sell, lease or otherwise dispose of such property.

(b) 39 CFR 224.3(b)(3) assigns to the Management Information Systems Department responsibility for the management of records and to the Postal Service Records Officer located within that Department responsibility for retention, security and privacy of Postal Service records and the power to authorize the disclosure of such records and their disposal by destruction or transfer, included is the authority to issue records management policy and to delegate to take appropriate action if the policy is not adhered to or if questions of interpretation of procedure arise.

§ 261.3 Policy.

It is the policy of the Postal Service:

(a) To, as appropriate, create, preserve, protect, and disclose records which contain adequate and proper documentation of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, operations, procedures, activities and transactions of the Postal Service.

(b) To reduce to an absolute minimum the records holdings of the Postal Service by strict adherence to established records retention schedules.

(c) To transfer records to appropriate storage areas as soon as they become inactive or are no longer of value to the Postal Service.

§ 261.4 Responsibility.

(a) The Records Officer administers the Postal Service Records and Information Management program through a headquarters organizational component and through contacts in each headquarters department, Postal Service Region, district, data processing center and other major Postal Service installations.

(b) Postal Service managers are responsible for administering records and information management policies and for complying with all handbooks, directives, and instructions in support of this policy.

PART 262—RECORDS AND INFORMATION MANAGEMENT DEFINITIONS

Sec.
262.1 Custodian.
262.2 Records.
262.3 Non record material.
262.4 Information.
262.5 Information system (System of records).
262.6 Information system executive.

— AUTHORITY 39 U.S.C. 401, Pub. L. 93-579, 88 Stat 1896

§ 262.1 (Custodian).

The Postmaster or other head of a facility such as a Postal Data Center, mailbag depository, management sectional center, district office or Regional Headquarters, or a group or department of Headquarters, who maintains USPS records.

§ 262.2 Records.

Any medium, regardless of form or characteristics (paper, film, magnetic surfaces, etc.), that contains information developed or received by the United States Postal Service in connection with the transaction of its business and retained in its custody.

(a) Types of Records.—(1) Official Record—primary copy of any record created or the original received by any Postal Service organizations component in the line of its duties or function.

(2) Duplicate Records—additional copies of the official record.

(3) Historical Records—Postal Service records which may have value beyond their scheduled destruction date or which are required to be permanently retained.

(4) Vital Records—Records which are necessary for the effective operation of the Postal Service or the protection of its interests, its employees, its contractors or the general public.

(b) Categories of Records. (1) Records (Active)—records for which the retention period has not yet expired and which are in regular use.

(2) Records (Inactive)—records for which the retention period has not yet expired and which are not in regular use.

§ 262.3 Non-record material.

Includes blank forms and surplus publications, handbooks, circulars, bulletins, announcements, and other directives, as well as any material not directly associated with the transactions of Postal Service business.

§ 262.4 Information.

A combination of data which has the potential to service a useful purpose.

(a) Types of Information. (1) General Information, that information which is available to the public without restriction.

(2) Restricted Information—that information which because of federal statute or USPS regulation, cannot be released to the public. (Includes, but is not limited to, personal and national defense information.)

(3) Discretionary Information—that information which is available to the public only on a selective basis.

(4) Critical Information—that information for which integrity must be assured in order for the Postal Service to effectively perform its mission, or to prevent significant financial loss. (This information is contained within Vital Records.)

(5) Sensitive Information—that information which is either restricted, discretionary or critical in nature.

§ 262.5 Information system (system of records).

A methodology which receives, accesses and processes groups of records in an efficient manner for the purpose of producing useable output records.

§ 262.6 Information system executive.

The Postal Service Manager who prescribes the existence of and the policies for an information system.

PART 263—RECORDS RETENTION AND DISPOSITION

Sec.
263.1 Purpose and scope.
263.2 Policy.
263.3 Responsibility.
263.4 Records retention schedules.
263.5 Records disposal.

AUTHORITY: 39 U.S.C. 401

§ 263.1 Purpose and scope.

This part contains the policy and general regulations pertaining to the retention and disposition of records and information throughout all organizational levels and components.

§ 263.2 Policy.

It is the policy of the United States Postal Service to establish and maintain schedules specifying the retention periods required for all official and duplicate record copies. Furthermore, it is the policy that all duplicate record copies and non record material will be disposed of as soon as they have served their purpose.

§ 263.3 Responsibility.

(a) Records Officer. The Records Officer has the responsibility for providing for the establishment of retention schedules and has the authority to approve them. Furthermore, he has the authority to dispose of Postal Service records by transfer or destruction.

(b) Custodians. Custodians are responsible for the retention and prompt disposal of records in their custody and for delegating in writing, persons to perform these duties.

§ 263.4 Records retention schedules.

The following retention schedules will be maintained within the Postal Service

(a) General schedule.
(b) Headquarters schedule.
(c) Regional schedule.
(d) District schedule.
(e) Inspection service schedule.
(f) Postal data centers schedule.
(g) Automatic data processing centers schedule.
(h) Post Office schedule.
(i) Other facility schedules.

§ 263.5 Records disposal.

All disposals of records containing sensitive information, i.e. transfers to records storage centers, destruction, transfers external to the USPS, and maintenance of accounting records regarding such disposal, must be accomplished in accordance with procedures issued by the Records Officer.

PART 264—VITAL RECORDS

Sec.
264.1 Purpose and scope.
264.2 Policy.
264.3 Responsibility.
264.4 Protection of vital records.

AUTHORITY: 39 U.S.C. 401

§ 264.1 Purpose and scope.

The reconstruction costs of certain necessary information would be financially prohibitive and certain records are so critical to the continuity of operations of the Postal Service that their loss could paralyze operations. Therefore, to protect this information from loss, specific controls are required which affect all organizational components having the custody of information and records defined as being "vital".

§ 264.2 Policy.

It is the policy of the United States Postal Service to maintain duplicate record copies of all records and information considered vital to the continuity of its operations and the protection of its interests and those of its employees, contractors, and the general public. Vital record copies will be maintained at protected locations accessible to management and operating personnel in times of emergency.

§ 264.3 Responsibility.

(a) Records Officer. The Records Officer, in cooperation with the Chief Inspector, is responsible for the establishment of the vital records program, has the authority to categorize records as vital, and to ensure Postal Service-wide compliance with supportive procedures.

(b) Custodians. Custodians have the responsibility to ensure that vital records procedures are followed and that vital record copies are deposited at the designated emergency relocation centers.

§ 264.4 Protection of vital records.

Complete procedures concerning the identification, processing, protection, and transfer of vital records are provided by the Records Officer.

PART 266—PRIVACY OF INFORMATION

Sec.
266.1 Purpose and scope.
266.2 Policy.
266.3 Responsibility.
266.4 Collection and disclosure of personal information.
266.5 Notification.
266.6 Procedures for requesting inspection and copying.
266.7 Procedures for requesting amendment.
266.8 Schedule of fees.
266.9 Exemptions.

AUTHORITY 39 U.S.C. 401 Pub L. 93-579, 88 Stat. 1896

§ 266.1 Purpose and scope.

This part is intended to protect individual privacy and affects all personal information collection and usage activities of the entire U.S. Postal Service. This includes the information interface of Postal Service employees to other employees, to individuals from the public at large, and to any private organization or governmental agency.

§ 266.2 Policy.

It is the policy of the U.S. Postal Service to insure that any record within its custody that identifies or describes any characteristic or provides historical information about an individual or that affords a basis for inferring personal characteristics, or things done by or to such individual; and the record of any affiliation with an organization or activity, or admission to an institution, is accurate, pertinent, complete, timely, relevant, and reasonably secure from unauthorized access. Additionally, it is the policy to provide the means for individuals to know: (a) Of the existence of all Postal Service personal information systems, (b) the recipients and usage made of such information, (c) what personal information is optional or mandatory to provide to the Postal Service, (d) the procedures for individual review and update of all relevant personal information, (e) the reproduction fees for personal records, and (f) the procedures for individual legal appeal in cases of dissatisfaction.

§ 266.3 Responsibility.

(a) Records Officer. The Records Officer will insure Postal Service-wide compliance to this policy.

(b) Custodian. Custodians are responsible for adherence to this part within their respective units and in particular for affording individuals their rights to inspect and obtain copies of records concerning them.

(c) Information System Executive. These managers are responsible for reporting the existence of personal records systems, changes to the contents of those systems, and changes of routine use to the Records Officer and also for establishing the relevancy of information within those systems.

§ 266.4 Collection and disclosure of personal information.

(a) The following rules govern the collection of personal information throughout Postal Service operations:

(1) The Postal Service will:

(i) Collect, solicit and maintain only such personal information as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose required by statute or Executive Order.

(ii) Collect information, to the greatest extent practicable, directly from the subject individual when such information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits or privileges.

(iii) Inform any individual requested to disclose personal information whether that disclosure is mandatory or voluntary, by what authority it is solicited, the principal purposes for which it is intended to be used, the routine uses which may be made of it, and any penalties and specific consequences for the individual, which are known to the Postal Service, which will result from nondisclosure.

(2) The Postal Service will not discriminate against any individual who fails to provide personal information unless that information is required or necessary for the conduct of the system or program in which the individual desires to participate.

(3) No information will be collected (or maintained) describing how individuals exercise rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless the Postmaster General specifically determines that such information is relevant and necessary to carry out a statutory purpose of the Postal Service.

(4) The Postal Service will not require disclosure of any individual's Social Security account number or deny a right, privilege or benefit because of the individual's refusal to disclose the number unless disclosure is required by Federal law.

(b) Disclosures. (1) Disclosure: Limitations On. The Postal Service will not disseminate personal information unless reasonable efforts have been made to assure that the information is accurate, complete, timely and relevant and unless:

(i) The individual to whom the record pertains has requested in writing that the information be disseminated, or

(ii) It has obtained the prior written consent of the individual to whom the record pertains, or

(iii) The dissemination is in accordance with subsection (2) hereof.

(2) Dissemination of personal information may be made:

(i) To a person pursuant to a requirement of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552);

(ii) To those officers and employees of the Postal Service who have a need for such information in the performance of their duties;

(iii) For a routine use as contained in the system notices published in the FEDERAL REGISTER;

(iv) To a recipient who has provided advance adequate written assurance that the information will be used solely as a statistical reporting or research record, and to whom the information is transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable;

(v) To the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of Title 13, U.S. Code;

(vi) To the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value;

(vii) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual, if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual.

(viii) To a Federal agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity, if such activity is authorized by law and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to the Postal Service specifying the particular portion of the record desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought.

(ix) To either House of Congress or its committees or subcommittees to the extent of matter within their jurisdiction.

(x) To the Comptroller General or any of his authorized representatives in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office.

(xi) Pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

(3) Names and Addresses of Postal Customers. The disclosure of lists of names or addresses of Postal customers or other persons to the public is prohibited (39 U.S.C. 412) Names or addresses will be disclosed only in those cases permitted by 39 CFR 266.6(d) relating to the Release of Information.

(4) Employee Job References. A credit bureau or commercial firm from which an employee is seeking credit may be given the following information upon request: length of service, job title, and salary.

(5) Employee Job References. Prospective employers of a Postal employee or a former Postal employee may be furnished with the information in § 266.4(b)(4) above, in addition to the date and reason for separation if applicable.

(c) Correction Disclosure. Any person or other agency to which a personal record has been or is to be disclosed shall be informed of any corrections or notations of dispute relating thereto affecting the accuracy, timeliness or relevance of that personal record.

(d) Recording of Disclosure. (1) An accurate accounting of each disclosure will be kept in all instances except those in which disclosure is made to Postal Service employees in the performance of their duties or is required by the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552).

(2) The accounting will be maintained for at least five (5) years or the life of the record, whichever is longer.

(3) The accounting will be made available to the individual named in the record upon inquiry except for disclosures made pursuant to provision 4(b)(2)(viii) above relating to law enforcement activities.

§ 266.5 Notification.

(a) Notification of Systems. The following procedures permit individuals to determine the types of personnel records systems maintained by the Postal Service.

(1) Upon written request, the Postal Service will notify any individual whether a specific system named by him contains a record pertaining to him. See § 266.6 for suggested form of request.

(2) The Postal Service shall publish annually in the FEDERAL REGISTER a notice of existence and character of all personal systems of records. This notice will contain the following information:

(i) Name and location of the system.

(ii) Nature and purposes of the system.

(iii) Categories of individuals on whom personal information is maintained and categories of personal information generally maintained in the system.

(iv) Confidentiality requirements and the extent to which access controls apply to such information.

(v) Postal Service policies and standards regarding the safeguarding and disclosure of information, information storage, duration of retention of information, and elimination of such information from the system.

(vi) Routine uses made by the Postal Service of the personal information contained in the system, including the categories of users and the purpose of the use.

(vii) Title and official address of the custodian.

(viii) Procedures by which an individual can be informed if a system contains personal information pertaining to him gain access to such information, and contest the accuracy, completeness, timeliness, relevance and necessity for retention of the information.

(ix) Categories of sources of such personal information.

(x) System status—either developmental or operational.

(b) Notification of Disclosure. The Postal Service shall make reasonable efforts to serve notice on an individual before any personal information on such individual is made available to any person under compulsory legal process when such process becomes a matter of public record. (Also see § 266.4(b)(1)(ii) and (2)(vii).)

(c) Notification of Amendment. (See § 266.7 (b)(3) relating to amendment of records upon request.)

(d) Notification of New Use. Any newly intended use of personal information maintained by the Postal Service will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER thirty (30) days before such use become operational. Public views may then be submitted to the Records Officer.

(e) Notification of Exemptions. The Postal Service will publish within the FEDERAL REGISTER its intent to exempt any system of records and shall specify the nature and purpose of that system.

§ 266.6 Procedures for requesting inspection and copying.

The purpose of this section is to provide procedures by which an individual may have access to personal information within a comprehensible format.

(a) Submission of Requests for Access. (1) Manner of Submission. Inquiries regarding the contents of records systems or access to personal information should be in writing and directed to the custodian of the official record, if known, or to the Records Officer, United States Postal Service, Washington, DC 20260. Inquiries should be clearly marked "Privacy Act Request". Any inquiry concerning a specific system of records should provide the Postal Service with the information contained under "Notification" for that system as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. If the information supplied is insufficient to locate or identify the record, the requester will be notified promptly and, if possible, informed of additional information required. If the requester is not a Postal Service employee, he should designate the post office at which he wishes to review or obtain copies of records.

(2) Third Party Inquiries. Anyone desiring to review or copy records pertaining to another person must have the written consent of that person.

(3) Period for Response by Custodian. Upon receipt of an inquiry, the custodian will respond with an acknowledgement of receipt within ten (10) days. If the inquiry requires the custodian to determine whether a particular record exists, the inquirer shall be informed of this determination as a part of the acknowledgement letter.

(b) Compliance with Request for Access. (1) Notification of Time and Place for Inspection. When a requested record has been identified and is to be disclosed, the custodian shall ensure that the record is made available promptly and shall immediately notify the requester where and when the record will be available for inspection or copying. Postal Service records will normally be available for inspection and copying during regular business hours at the postal facilities at which they are maintained. The custodian may, however, designate other reasonable locations and times for inspection and copying of some or all of the records within his custody.

(2) Identification of Requester. The requester must present personal identification sufficient to satisfy the custodian as to his identity prior to record review. Examples of sufficient identification are a valid driver's license, medicare card, and employee identification cards.

(3) Responsibilities of Requester. The requester shall assume the following responsibilities regarding the review of official personal records.

(i) Requester must agree not to leave Postal Service premises with official records unless specifically given a copy for that purpose by the custodian or his representative.

(ii) Requester must sign a statement indicating he has reviewed a specific record(s) or category of record.

(iii) Requester may be accompanied by a person he so chooses to aid in the inspection of information; however, requester must furnish the Postal Service with written authorization for such review in that person's presence.

(4) Special Rules for Medical Records. A medical record shall be disclosed to the requester to whom it pertains unless, in the judgment of the custodian, access to such record could have an adverse effect upon such individual. When the custodian, in consultation with a medical doctor, determines that the disclosure of medical information could have an adverse effect upon the individual to whom it pertains, the custodian will transmit such information to a medical doctor named by the requesting individual.

(5) Limitations on Access. Nothing in this section shall allow an individual access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding. Other limitations on access are those specifically addressed in §§ 266.6(b)(4) above and 266.9 below.

(c) Response When Compliance Is Not Possible. A reply denying a written request to review a record shall be in writing signed by the custodian or other appropriate official and shall be made only if such a record does not exist or does not contain personal information relating to the requester, or is exempt from disclosure. This reply shall include a statement regarding the determining factors of denial, and the right to obtain judicial review in a district court.

§ 266.7 Procedures for requesting amendment.

(a) Submission of Requests for Amendment. Upon review of a personal record pertaining to an individual, that individual may submit a request to amend the record. This request will be submitted in writing to the custodian and will include a statement of the amendment requested and the reasons therefor which normally will relate to such characteristics as relevance, accuracy, timeliness or completeness.

(b) Action to be Taken by the Custodian. Upon receiving an amendment request, the custodian shall promptly:

(1) Acknowledge in writing receipt of the request within ten (10) working days.

(2) Make such inquiry as is necessary to determine whether the amendment is appropriate, and

(3) Correct or eliminate any information that is found to be incomplete, inaccurate, not relevant to a statutory purpose of the Postal Service, or not timely, and notify the requester when this action is complete, or

(4) Not later than thirty (30) working days after receipt of a request to amend, notify the requester of a determination not to amend and of the individual's right to appeal.

(c) Appeal Procedure. (1) If a request to inspect, copy, or amend a record is denied, in whole or in part, or if no determination is made within the period prescribed by this part, the requester may appeal to the U.S. Postal Service Privacy Appeals Officer, U.S. Postal Service, Washington, D.C. 20260.

(2) The requester should submit his appeal in writing within thirty (30) days of the date of denial, or within ninety (90) days of such request if the appeal is from a failure of the custodian to make a determination. The letter of appeal should include, as applicable:

(i) Reasonable identification of the record access to which or the amendment of which was requested.

(ii) A statement of the Postal Service action or failure to act and of the relief sought.

(iii) A copy of the request, of the notification of denial and of any other related correspondence.

(3) Any record found on appeal to be incomplete, inaccurate, not relevant, or not timely, shall within thirty (30) working days of the date of such findings be appropriately amended.

(4) The decision of the U.S. Postal Service Privacy Appeals Officer, constitutes the final decision of the Postal Service on the right of the requester to inspect, copy, change, or update a record. The decision on the appeal shall be in writing and in the event of a denial shall set forth the reasons for such denial and state the individual's right to obtain judicial review in a district court. An indexed file of decisions on appeals shall be maintained by the Records Officer.

(d) Submission of Statement of Disagreement. If the final decision does not satisfy the requester, any statement of reasonable length provided by that individual setting forth a position regarding the disputed information, will be accepted and included in the relevant personal record.

(e) Availability of Assistance in Exercising Rights. The USPS Records Officer is available to provide an individual with assistance in exercising rights pursuant to this part.

§ 266.8 Schedule of fees.

(a) Policy. The purpose of this section is to establish fair and equitable fees to permit reproduction of records to concerned individuals while substantially covering the direct costs incurred by the Postal Service.

(b) Reproduction. (1) For reproducing any paper or micrographic record or publication, the fee is $.10 per page. Computer reports will be provided at $.015 per page. No charge will be made if the total fees authorized by this Part in compliance with a request or series of related requests is less than $1.00.

(2) The Postal Service may at its discretion make coin-operated copy machines available at any location. In that event, the requester will be given the opportunity to make copies at his own expense.

(3) The Postal Service will not normally furnish more than one copy of any record.

(c) Limitations. No fee will be charged to any individual for the process of retrieving, or amending records.

§ 266.9 Exemptions.

(a) Subsections 552a (j) and (k) of Title 5, U.S. Code, empower the Postmaster General to exempt systems of records meeting certain criteria from various other subsections of section 552a. With respect to systems of records so exempted, nothing in this part shall require compliance with provisions hereof implementing any subsections of section 552a from which those systems have been exempted.

(b) Pursuant to, and to the extent permitted by, subsection 552a (j) and (k) of title 5, United States Code, the following systems of records maintained by the Postal Service are exempted from the designated subsections of section 552a of title 5, United States Code:

(1) Postal Inspection Service Investigative Files System from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3) and (4), (d)(1)-(4), (e)(1)-(3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g), and (m).

(2) Postal Inspection Service Mail Cover Program Records from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c) (3) and (4), (d)(1)-(4), (e)(1)-(3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(5), (e)(8), (f), (g) and (m).

(3) Postal Service Personnel Investigative Records from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1)-(4) and (e)(1) to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5) as relating to the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government in confidence as a part of an investigation conducted solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications of an individual for employment.

(4) Postal Service Recruiting, Examining and Placement Records from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1)-(4), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f) to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5) as relating to testing or examination material as to the identity of a source who has furnished information to the Government in confidence as a part of an investigation conducted solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility or qualifications of an individual for employment.

(5) Postal Service Research and Test Validating Records from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1)-(4), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f) to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(6) as relating to testing and examination material.

PRIVACY ACT ISSUANCES

(6) Postal Service Equal Employment Opportunity Discrimination Complaint Investigations and Counselings from 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(1)-(4), (e)(4) (G) and (H) and f to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5) as material compiled for law enforcement purposes.

(7) Postal Service Postmaster Selection Program Records from 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(1)-(4) and (e)(1) to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5) as relating to the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government in confidence as a part of an investigation conducted solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility or qualifications of an individual for employment.

PART 267—PROTECTION OF INFORMATION

Sec.

267.1 Purpose and scope.

267.2 Policy.

267.3 Responsibility.

267.4 Information security standards.

AUTHORITY: 39 USC 401, Pub. L. 93-579, 88 Stat. 1896.

§ 267.1 Purpose and scope.

This Part addresses the protection of information and records in the custody of the Postal Service throughout all phases of information flow and within all organization components, and includes micromated, manual and data processing information.

§ 267.2 Policy.

Consistent with the responsibility of the Postal Service to make its official records available to the public to the maximum extent required by the public interest, and to insure the security, confidentiality and integrity of official records containing personal information, it is the policy of the Postal Service to maintain definitive and uniform information security safeguards. These safeguards will have as their purpose:

(a) Insuring the effective operation of the Postal Service through appropriate controls over critical information, and

(b) Protecting personal privacy and the public interest by limiting unauthorized access to restricted and discretionary information.

§ 267.3 Responsibility.

(a) Chief Postal Inspector and USPS Records Officer. The Chief Inspector and the Records Officer will insure within their respective areas of jurisdiction:

(1) Postal Service wide compliance with this policy and related standards and procedures, and

(2) that remedial action is taken when violations or attempted violations of these standards and procedures occur.

(b) Custodians. All custodians are responsible for insuring that information security standards and procedures are followed and that all relevant employees participate in the information security awareness programs.

§ 267.4 Information security standards.

(a) The Postal Service will operate under a uniform set of information security standards which address the following functional aspects of information flow and management:

(1) Information system development,

(2) Information collection,

(3) Information handling and processing,

(4) Information dissemination and disclosure,

(5) Information storage and destruction.

(b) Supplementing this list are information security standards pertaining to the following administrative areas:

(1) Personnel selection and training,

(2) Physical environment protection,

(3) Contingency planning,

(4) Information processing or storage system procurement,

(5) Contractual relationships.

PART 268—PRIVACY OF INFORMATION—EMPLOYEE RULES OF CONDUCT

Sec.

268.1 General Principles.

268.2 Consequences of Non-Compliance.

AUTHORITY: 39 USC 401, Pub. L. 93-579, 88 Stat. 1896.

§ 268.1 General Principles.

In order to conduct its business, the Postal Service has the need to collect various types of personal information pertaining to its customers and employees. Information of this nature has been entrusted to the Postal Service, and employees handling it have an ethical obligation to hold it in confidence and to actively protect it from uses other than those compatible with the purpose for which the information was collected. This obligation is legally imposed by the Privacy Act of 1974, which places specific requirements upon all Federal agencies, including the Postal Service, and their employees. In implementation of these requirements, the following rules of conduct apply:

(a) Except as specifically authorized in § 266.4(b)(2) of this chapter, no employee shall disclose, directly or indirectly, any personal record to any person or organization. Managers are to provide guidance in this regard to all employees who must handle personal information.

(b) No employee will maintain a secret system of personal records. All personal records systems must be reported to the Records Officer.

(c) All employees shall adhere strictly to the procedures established by the United States Postal Service to ensure the confidentiality and integrity of personal information collected, maintained and used for official Postal Service business. Employees shall be held responsible for any infractions and/or violation of these procedures.

§ 268.2 Consequences of Non-Compliance.

(a) The Privacy Act authorizes any individual, whether or not an employee, to bring a civil action in United States District Court to obtain judicial review of the failure of the Postal Service to comply with the requirements of the Act or its implementing regulations. In certain instances of willful or intentional non-compliance, the plaintiff may recover damages from the Postal Service in the minimum amount of $1,000 together with costs of the action and attorney fees.

(b) The Act provides criminal sanctions for individuals, including employees, who violate certain of its provisions.

(1) Any officer or employee who by virtue of his employment or position has possession of, or access to official records which contain individually identifiable information and who knowing that disclosure of the specific material is prohibited by Postal Service regulations, willfully discloses the material to a person or agency not entitled to receive it, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000.

(2) Any officer or employee who willfully maintains a system of records without meeting the notice requirements set forth in Postal Service regulations shall be guilty of a misdemeanor or and fined not more than $5,000.

(3) Any person who knowingly and willfully requests or obtains any record concerning another individual from the Postal Service under false pretense shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000.

(c) In addition to the criminal sanctions, any employee violating any provisions of these rules of conduct is subject to disciplinary action which may result in dismissal from the Postal Service.

would you like to know

if any changes have been made in certain titles of the CODE OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS without reading the Federal Register every day? If so, you may wish to subscribe to the "Cumulative List of CFR Sections Affected," the "Federal Register Index," or both.

Cumulative List of CFR Sections Affected
$10.00
per year

The "Cumulative List of CFR Sections Affected" is designed to lead users of the Code of Federal Regulations to amendatory actions published in the Federal Register, and is issued monthly in cumulative form. Entries indicate the nature of the changes.

Federal Register Index $8.00 per year

Indexes covering the contents of the daily Federal Register are issued monthly, quarterly, and annually. Entries are carried primarily under the names of the issuing agencies. Significant subjects are carried as cross-references.

A finding aid is included in each publication which lists Federal Register page numbers with the date of publication in the Federal Register.

Note to FR Subscribers: FR Indexes and the "Cumulative List of CFR Sections Affected" will continue to be mailed free of charge to regular FR subscribers.

RESOLUTION CHART

100 MILLIMETERS

INSTRUCTIONS Resolution is expressed in terms of the lines per millimeter recorded by a particular film under specified conditions. Numerals in chart indicate the number of lines per millimeter in adjacent "T-shaped" groupings.

In microfilming, it is necessary to determine the reduction ratio and multiply the number of lines in the chart by this value to find the number of lines recorded by the film. As an aid in determining the reduction ratio, the line above is 100 millimeters in length. Measuring this line in the film image and dividing the length into 100 gives the reduction ratio. Example: the line is 20 mm. long in the film image, and  $100 \div 20 = 5$ .

Examine "T-shaped" line groupings in the film with microscope, and note the number adjacent to finest lines recorded sharply and distinctly. Multiply this number by the reduction factor to obtain resolving power in lines per millimeter. Example: 7.9 group of lines is clearly recorded while lines in the 10.0 group are not distinctly separated. Reduction ratio is 5, and  $7.9 \times 5 = 39.5$  lines per millimeter recorded satisfactorily.  $10.0 \times 5 = 50$  lines per millimeter which are not recorded satisfactorily. Under the particular conditions, maximum resolution is between 39.5 and 50 lines per millimeter.

Resolution, as measured on the film, is a test of the entire photographic system, including lens, exposure, processing, and other factors. These rarely utilize maximum resolution of the film. Vibrations during exposure, lack of critical focus, and exposures yielding very dense negatives are to be avoided.
